HOME MISSIONS.

The One Hundred Tenth Annual Report.

The Board of Home Missions herewith respectfully presents to the General Assembly its one hundred tenth Annual Report. The Board records with sorrow the death of one of its oldest members at the very beginning of the new fiscal year. On April seventh General A. Noel Blakeman was suddenly called to his reward. He served the Board for fifteen years, was a member of various committees, and always faithful to the cause he had so deeply at heart.

We have to record also the names of the following ministers who died during the year 1911-1912:—

Mr. Harvey E. Baker.....	Myra, Texas.
Rev. C. C. Bullock.....	Avoca, Texas.
Rev. E. P. Butler.....	Crescent City, Florida.
Rev. J. A. Cahill.....	Magdalena, New Mexico.
Rev. Robert Ennis	Jacksonville, Oregon.
Rev. George Frank	Emery, South Dakota.
Rev. Harold James Frothingham, D. D. .	Elsinore, California.
Rev. C. B. Ludwig.....	Whitewood, South Dakota.
Rev. Samuel B. Moyer.....	Pueblo, Colorado.
Rev. George H. Perry.....	Salmon, Idaho.
Rev. David B. Simpson.....	Dexter, New Mexico.

Faithful in labors they have entered upon labor's final and glorious reward.

The review of the year presents reasons for gratitude and inspiration for service. The report of the Treasurer indicates very much the largest receipts that have ever come to this Board in a single year, the gross receipts for current work being $1,491,182.85. This includes the receipts of the Woman's Board. In addition we have received $360,000.00 further payment from the Kennedy Estate. Receipts for legacies aside from the Kennedy fund have been unprecedentedly large. The receipts from live sources—churches, societies and individuals—however, show a slight decline consequent upon the strong pull which immigration has made in many centers in the self-supporting synods for local support.

The expansion of the work has kept full pace with the increase of receipts. The calls from missionary presbyteries for both old work and new have been exceptionally large. The old work has demanded more than ever before, partly because there have been hard times over wider sections of the country, impoverishing churches, than have ever been known in this administration, and partly because of the increased cost of living and the inevitable necessity, therefore, for some increase in the salaries of missionaries.

A year ago we made provision by which the Board would cooperate with churches in securing for the missionaries a minimum salary of eight hundred dollars. This in most cases has been reached and is still found to be inadequate. In many parts of the country it is impossible to secure a fair living for a family on that sum. The Board has, therefore, taken another advance step. It proposes now to make nine hundred dollars the minimum for the missionary's salary. This will be done, however, only on two conditions: First, that the congregation that is being served shall cooperate with the Board in this advance; and, secondly, that the missionary shall become an installed pastor: this in order to secure that great essential for permanent progress in the more permanent relation of the missionary to the people.

Within nine years four new and very important departments have been formed. All of them began in small ways, but under the most insistent demands. All of them have now grown to be very considerable factors in the development of the broadening and deepening work of home missions. Intensive missionary farming now covers the country in its imperative demands.

The Church and Labor Department, organized nine years ago, has by the order of the last General Assembly been enlarged into a Bureau of Social Service, which is to include not only the relations of working men to the Church, but a consideration of all moral and social problems. It is just at the beginning of this enlarged service.

The Church and Country Life Department finds its fruitful field in the awakening interest in rural regions which too long neglected have become sources of moral peril to the nation. This department has not only made surveys in many parts of the country to ascertain conditions, but is devising follow-up work by which those conditions shall be met in the interest of a wide reconstruction of country life.

The Immigration Department, at first a branch of the Church and Labor Department, sprang to such importance that about one and a half years ago it was created a separate arm of the mission work. The immigration problem has grown to such stature as to challenge the attention of statesmen and of all denominations. The Board of Home Missions is striving to do its part to meet the challenge.

The Indian work has increased from small beginnings a few years ago to this present time, when it is related to twenty-seven presbyteries and finds its field of operations in fifty-seven tribes and parts of tribes.

READJUSTMENTS IN ORGANIZATION.

Among the self-supporting synods of the extreme East the pressure of local immigration work is keenly felt. This and other contributing causes have led to certain readjustments in home mission administration. The progress of the budget plan in presbyteries and churches has made it desirable more nearly to unify the home mission budget of three items in one,—local presbyterial work, synodical work, and that conducted under the auspices of the national Board. Experiments in these lines have gone forward during the past year in two or three presbyteries, and others are now adopting the plan.

The Board is actively cooperating in this movement and in this way and otherwise has availed itself of the aid of the Rev. Moses Breeze as special representative for such emergency work. His services in New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana and elsewhere have called forth tributes to his efficiency in financial and inspirational work. As the present fiscal year closes he is enroute for Southern California where the Board cooperates through him with the Presbytery of Los Angeles in the inauguration of a comprehensive forward movement in the interests of local church extension.

CONFERENCES WITH HOME MISSION COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN.

During the latter part of January and the first day of February the secretaries of the Board met in protracted conference the chairmen of the home mission committees of all the presbyteries regularly receiving aid through the treasury of the Board. Those for the territory east of the Rockies assembled in Kansas City on January twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth, where the secretary and two associate secretaries were present; and those for the Pacific Coast region met at San Francisco, January thirty-first and February first, where one of the associate secretaries and the superintendent of the Immigration Department represented the Board.

No full report of the exceedingly valuable discussion at these conferences can be given in the space here available. A program was carefully arranged in advance, after correspondence with the field, and the printed topic sheet was followed. At Kansas City a practically unanimous agreement was reached as to the wisdom of the present forward plans for synodical organization among the aid-receiving presbyteries,—a movement of recent years only. It was formerly supposed that synodical organization for home missions had practical value only in the case of self-supporting synods. Organization is now being recognized as an important step towards and aid in the effort for self-support. The same unanimity at this point did not appear at San Francisco, where some of the presbyteries think synodical organization not wise, believing that a loss of presbyterial prerogative will result.

The office of pastor-evangelist was also discussed at both conferences. The necessity of the office for wide sections of the field has been conclusively demonstrated, but everywhere the presbyteries are concerned that the office and the men in the office shall work to the highest possible efficiency. The demands of field work vary greatly throughout the territory, and the duties of the office in one section or at one period of development are very different from those of another. It is recognized that efficiency often requires the grouping of two or more presbyteries under the supervision of the same pastor-evangelist. This and other considerations have prompted the synodical instead of the presbyterial direction of these field officers in some sections. Some of the functions calling for increasing specialization in this office are: the holding of special meetings for the ingathering of members, pioneering in newly settled regions, reorganization of decadent churches, financial organization in the interests of both local support and benevolences. The pastor-evangelist labors under the direction of the appropriate committee, either the presbyterial or the synodical, and becomes the executive officer of the committee in the conduct of their field work.

In some synods where the pastor-evangelists are under the direction of the synodical committee the question of appointing a synodical superintendent has arisen, and the Board has signified its willingness to cooperate in such a move with synods properly organized. It is not contemplated, however, that there shall be a return to the "Synodical Missionary" plan, which, by direction of the Assembly, upon the request of the Board, was abandoned several years ago. The synodical missionary did not have the backing or direction of an organized synodical committee. In no case does the Board wish to commission a synodical officer without a thoroughly organized synodical committee in the field.

The pressure of the immigration problem was specially recognized at the San Francisco gathering, and a formal request was made by the assembled chairmen in the name and with the authority of their presbyteries that the Board shape up and submit to the presbyteries and synods of the Pacific Coast a comprehensive plan for the prosecution of the work among foreigners on the Coast. The move is of special importance at this time since the opening of the Panama Canal is expected to cause an altogether unprecedented movement of European immigration in that direction.

It was agreed that these conferences were of the greatest value. They cemented the ties of sympathy and cooperation between the Board and the presbyteries, and also between the presbyteries themselves. In several presbyteries they have already resulted in the inauguration of improved methods of work.

Last year a conference of all the pastor-evangelists with the secretaries of the Board was held during February. This year's conference with the chairmen of the committees was a logical sequence. No policy of such annual conference has been determined upon, but the need of keeping the forces of home mission administration in close touch is keenly appreciated. Only by linking the various units into one corps can the great common responsibility of the Church be met.

HOME MISSIONS COUNCIL.

Each year marks a notable advance in the cooperative activities of the Protestant denominations. The Home Missions Council is the joint agency of the Boards of the Churches. All of the large Protestant denominations except the Southern Baptist are included in the membership, and many of the smaller. Under the auspices of its constituent Boards five-sixths of the money expended for home missions and church extension in the region west of the Mississippi are administered.

The most noteworthy enterprise of the Council last year was the inauguration of a general survey of religious conditions in this region where is expended so large a proportion of home mission funds. The need of closer cooperation is felt by all, but the first step in the inauguration of advanced policies is a knowledge of the actual facts. The survey now in progress is intended to secure them.

During November and December and, in the case of two states, during February those concerned with the administration of home missions among all the denominations were called together upon the invitation of the Council. Fifteen states were thus covered, the field administrators and members of state and district Boards and committees assembling at seventeen different points, reached in succession by a deputation of secretaries from national Board headquarters. A full day's program was followed at each point. The morning was occupied with a general sketch of the conditions as they were known by the field agents of the denominations. Papers or informal addresses presented the salient facts, and discussion of each topic followed, bringing out the conditions as regards rural regions, small towns, city centers, foreign colonies, lumber and mining camps, and general social conditions. The aim was to discover the unmet needs.

- In the afternoon the proposal was made for the organization of a survey committee representing each of the denominations who should take in hand the careful gathering of facts for the state. This proposal was in each case accepted unanimously, the committees were organized and are now in the process of performing this task. The unit of investigation was made the school district, as furnishing a universally acceptable basis. Uniform schedules are furnished by the Council, and by July first it is anticipated that the returns from all of these states will be available for the agencies of all the denominations in the several states to use in the shaping of their policies.

The remainder of the afternoon was given to reviewing the specific fields where there is pronounced neglect on the part of the Churches, and where there has been an unwise duplication of forces in the same community. Already the frank and face-to-face discussion of these facts has led in several states to definite effort to correct wasteful distribution of home mission forces. The Council has announced its intention of presenting a comprehensive policy under this head as soon as the returns from the present survey have furnished a basis for intelligent action.

The evening of the day set apart for the consultation was usually devoted to a popular meeting when members of the deputation of Board secretaries made addresses.

Progress has been made with other enterprises inaugurated by the Council. The activities of the committee on Indian missions have been specially pointed. An eminent attorney, to represent through the Council united Protestantism in Washington, has been retained. The effort to insure the non-sectarian character of government schools has resulted in the wide publicity of conditions in the public press. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs issued an order debarring sectarian garb among the teachers of the schools, a practice which American principles should require no specific "order" to prohibit. The President, however, considered it wise officially to revoke the Commissioner's order, and at least for the time nuns of the Roman communion are permitted to continue to teach in the government schools dressed in their distinctive religious garb. Under a recent policy of the Department certain schools formerly maintained under religious auspices have been "covered in" under the Department's administration, the teachers and plants being carried over directly without the usual civil service requirements. This has resulted in the un-American practices which the Commissioner has sought to correct.

A commission of the Council is at work upon the problem of the lumbering camps. Distinctive denominational ministry is not practicable among the hundreds of thousands of men in the logging camps. For this reason they are largely neglected religiously. The evangelization of these men, it is hoped, will be undertaken through an interdenominational program whereby the responsibility shall be equitably divided and definitely fixed.

Almost every phase of the home mission task is being taken up on an inter-church basis by committees or commissions of the Council. Joint literature is being issued, especially in cooperation with the Missionary Education Movement, which is the joint publishing agency of the home and foreign mission Boards. Already the Council is daring to face and to undertake problems which only three or four years ago were considered far too delicate for the administrative agencies of the Churches to handle in view of prevailing sentiments among the Churches. Under the Council's leadership cooperative programs are being inaugurated in almost every field.

Continuing the policy of last year the Council is cooperating in the presentation of missionary expositions. These are conducted under a corporation authorized and affiliated with the Missionary Education Movement. Possible profits from them will accrue to the Movement which is absolutely controlled by a board of managers composed of Board secretaries and others nominated or approved by the missionary Boards. The exposition last year was known as the "World in Boston." That of the present spring is the "World in Cincinnati." Two or three smaller expositions have been held in other cities in the meantime. As in Boston, so in Cincinnati, the Indian exhibit is under the direction of the Indian Department of our Board, representing the Home Missions Council. It is recognized as a particularly notable feature of the exposition. Several other of these large missionary exhibits are projected under the same auspices in other cities in the country.

The "Home Mission Week" campaign will signalize the new administrative year. Plans are already under way and much of the preliminary work has been done by the joint committee of the Home Missions Council and the Council of Women for Home Missions. The Rev. Charles Stelzle of our Board's Bureau of Social Service has been chosen the executive secretary. By every means of voice and pen and print through all the Protestant churches of the land it is arranged to present simultaneously the nation-wide home mission appeal. The week between the Sabbaths of November 17th and 24th, 1912, has been chosen for the culminating services. The campaign is not to involve the travel of experts, but rather the cooperation of pastors and local church organizations, through whose help an eight-day special program may be arranged for each community, calling attention to the great spiritual problems of our modern national life, and the Christian's relation to them.

ADVISORY COUNCIL ON CHURCH EXTENSION.

The last annual meeting of this body was in November, 1910. The meeting naturally held in November, 1911, is to be held in Louisville immediately before the General Assembly. Decision as to date and place of meeting was left to the officers of the Council, and in view of several considerations this change was deemed wise.

The Council is made up of one representative from each synod, two from the Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work, two from the Board of Church Erection, and three from the Board of Home Missions. The Council, as the name indicates, is advisory, and has been fruitful in drawing together the forces responsible for various lines of church extension. Recent readjustments in administration have raised the question in the minds of many whether the Council may not wisely be discontinued, and it is on the docket of the next meeting for thorough discussion, out of which some recommendation may come to the General Assembly.

A full report of the action taken by the Council will be directly presented to the General Assembly as heretofore through the president, the Rev. W. T. Jaquess, D. D., of Michigan.

BUREAU OF SOCIAL SERVICE.

On April first, 1903, the Board established a "Workingmen's Department" which, later, became known as the "Department of Church and Labor." This work was continued with increasing success and with rapidly developing features until the General Assembly of 1911 instructed the Board of Home Missions to establish a Bureau of Social Service which should include the Department of Church and Labor and whose function it should be to "study social conditions as they are related to the progress of the Kingdom of God and to suggest to the Church practical ways of realizing the social ideals of the gospel."

MEN AND RELIGION FORWARD MOVEMENT.

During eight months of the year the Rev. Charles Stelzle, superintendent of the bureau, has been Dean of the Social Service Department of the Men and Religion Forward Movement. In this capacity he prepared the survey blanks, designed the charts, and systematized the statistical material for the Men and Religion campaigns in seventy-five of the principal cities. The bureau prepared the exhibits to be displayed in connection with the Christian Conservation Congress of the movement held in New York during April. Mr. Stelzle also was the leader of one of the teams of experts which conducted eight-day campaigns in Minneapolis, Minnesota; South Bend, Indiana; Grand Rapids, Michigan; Sioux Falls, South Dakota; Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston, Texas; Little Rock, Arkansas; Nashville, Tennessee; Paterson, New Jersey; Portland, Maine; Boston, Massachusetts; Baltimore, Maryland; Birmingham, Alabama; Charleston, South Carolina; Jacksonville, Florida; Atlanta, Georgia; Chattanooga and Memphis, Tennessee; Brooklyn and New York. The program of the Southern Sociological Congress to be held in Nashville the early part of May covers, in substance, the subjects presented by Mr. Stelzle in his southern campaign. This Congress has been called by Governor Hooper of Tennessee and the splendid response of the sixteen southern states which have been invited to send a hundred delegates each, is indicative of the social consciousness of the South.

The deplorable social conditions discovered in many of these cities indicate the great need of interest and knowledge on the part of the Church concerning such matters. Many municipalities are suffering on account of an inefficient conservatism on the one hand and a criminal radicalism on the other. In some of the cities gambling is wide open; the social evil is flaunted in one's face; the saloon laws are flagrantly violated; housing conditions are most deplorable; and the treatment of criminals is almost beyond belief. For example, in one of the county work-houses, which was built originally to accommodate twenty persons, there are now eighty-five. The prisoners wear the same suits continuously for two weeks, while at work on the roads and in muddy streets, also sleeping in them at night. Once a week they are compelled to take a bath. On Saturday night an ordinary bathtub is hauled into a room occupied by twenty-two prisoners and every man bathes in the same water, the quantity being about sufficient for an ordinary bath for one man. Probably one-quarter of these men are infected with horrible diseases. The prisoners are shackled from the moment they enter the work-house and it was stated that the shackles were never taken off. One prisoner had been confined to the work-house for thirty months. The Church cannot evade its responsibility for such situations.

Almost every Thursday noon since October first Mr. Stelzle has spoken in some city to a group of from one hundred fifty to three hundred fifty of the most prominent citizens, including the mayor, the city commissioners, and sometimes the governor of the state. The manifest interest of the Church in social problems made these more sympathetic toward the aims of the Church. In every case practical suggestions were made which were immediately applicable. The recommendations were usually made under the heads of the municipality; the county; the state; the social workers, and the churches.

Aside from the services rendered to what is unquestionably the greatest religious movement of the year—if not of this generation—the bureau has profited in the larger experience that has come to its workers and in the accumulation of information with regard to conditions in the churches,—and social conditions in general—in most of our larger cities.

SURVEYS.

Surveys were made by the bureau during the year in Cleveland, Chicago, Redstone Presbytery (for the Immigration Department) and Buffalo. An interesting feature of the bureau's activities in this direction was the work of our field investigator, Mr. G. B. St. John, in McCormick Seminary where, for a period of two months, he lectured to the students on how to make surveys, assigning to them definite districts in Chicago. As a result a large map of the city was prepared, together with charts and diagrams, and a complete study was made of a typical city block. Lectures on the general subject of surveys were given by Mr. St. John in several other theological seminaries and summer schools. In making surveys for different centers, it is the aim of the bureau to have the community investigated defray local expenses, especially where the work is done on an interdenominational basis.

While the bureau serves as an inspirational agency in the matter of social service, its principal object is to make original investigations and to suggest to the churches practical methods of fulfilling their social service obligations. Thus, during the past year, the bureau has been specializing upon efficiency in the Church, particularly in the matter of records of members, organizations, and of work accomplished. It has carried on investigations in nearly one hundred cities and in thousands of churches. As a result certain definite conclusions have been reached as to how the Church may become more effective. These will shortly be published in leaflet form and in such other ways as to make this material available for the churches. Social service programs for municipalities and organizations of various kinds have been presented at the request of mayors, commissioners and other officials, and definite programs of work for the men in the churches have been outlined.

THE LABOR TEMPLE.

Continuing its experiment in downtown city work, the bureau has conducted the Labor Temple. March thirty-first closed the two years' period for which the bureau became responsible for this work and during which time it was to make the demonstration. In a field which is acknowledged to be one of the most difficult in America and from which many Protestant churches have removed in recent years, in spite of the fact that each year thousands of people are steadily moving in, the Board of Home Missions has shown that by an adaptation of its work, and without sacrificing any of the fundamental principles of Christianity, the Church may win the masses. The Church Extension Committee of New York Presbytery continues to hold the Labor

Temple property at the corner of Fourteenth Street and Second Avenue, in New York City, thus placing the work upon a permanent basis. The Rev. Jonathan C. Day, of Tyrone, Pennsylvania, has been called to the superintendency of the enterprise. The work at this point is to be continued upon practically the same lines upon which it was inaugurated.

OTHER FEATURES.

The older features of the Department of Church and Labor have been maintained during the entire year, such as the Correspondence Course in Applied Christianity, the representation of ministers at meetings of Central Labor Unions, the holding of mass meetings of workingmen on Sunday afternoons, the writing of weekly and monthly articles for the labor press of the United States, the observance of Labor Sunday, and the agitation in behalf of the Labor Temperance Movement among the organized workingmen of the United States. The bureau has done considerable work throughout the churches in the setting up of local campaigns in advertising, social service, survey work and shop campaigns.

A thoroughly equipped library and exhibit room showing the work of the bureau has been opened in the offices of the Bureau of Social Service, and is widely used by visiting ministers and social workers.

DEPARTMENT OF CHURCH AND COUNTRY LIFE.

The work of the Department of Church and Country Life during the past year, under the superintendence of the Rev. Warren H. Wilson, Ph. D., has been carried on along the same general lines that marked the first four months of its existence. Of special significance in point of time came the graduate schools of Religious Sociology, four of which were held during the summer at the suggestion and with the cooperation of the department. These were at Knoxville, Tennessee, in connection with the Summer School of the South; at Auburn Theological Seminary, Auburn, New York; at the Summer School of Grove City College, Grove City, Pennsylvania; and in cooperation with the University Pastors' Association Summer School at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin.

These schools differed from the usual summer conference in that they offered definite curriculum work covering a period of from ten days to three weeks for the study of the country community and its problems. Over one hundred picked men were aided in attending by the Home Board. During the year these men were available for extension work through the department.

The department was also represented by Dr. Wilson and his assistant, Miss Anna B. Taft, at various other summer conferences for lecture courses or inspirational addresses.

Following the recommendation of the Country Life Commission, sociological surveys have been made by the department using trained men, and making a careful study of country conditions in various localities in order wisely to recommend a program of service for the country church. Such studies include the economic, social, educational and religious conditions of the locality. During the year these surveys have been made in Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee and Maryland.

The findings of the survey are published in two forms; first in graphic exhibit, by which a large number of people are reached who would not otherwise study statistical matter. This exhibit has during the year travelled very widely throughout the country. It has been used, not only at the General Assembly, the summer schools, meetings of synod and presbytery, but it was shown at the National Conservation Congress in Kansas City, the International Dry Farming Congress in Denver and at other important educational enterprises that are just beginning to recognize the Church as a factor in country life.

Four reports of the surveys made have been published. These are having a wide circulation. Requests for them are received from Canada to Texas and from Maine to Idaho, and from a large variety of individuals and institutions desiring these pamphlets for study, including pastors of many denominations, teachers, professors, librarians and rural workers. Although the reports were not published until late in the winter, over five thousand have already been put in circulation.

The department's task of agitation and the creation of new ideals has been carried on throughout the year in country church conferences. They are growing more important in their value and in the past year several have been held, two days in length, that were particularly successful.

Another part of the year's work has been the holding of country church conferences and institutes of from one to three days, gathering an attendance from a radius of about one hundred miles. These conferences have used speakers who were authorities on every important phase of country life, and a valuable part has been the hearty discussion from the floor following each address.

Aside from these conferences, the superintendent of the department, the assistant, and also the field investigators, the Rev. E. F. Eastman, the Rev. A. T. Boisen and Mr. Ralph A. Felton, have all made a large number of addresses. The superintendent of the department has spoken at many national and state educational gatherings.

The field men have largely presented the results of survey work at various church and presbytery meetings. Miss Taft's appointments, aside from the country church conferences, have included several addresses before religious organizations in the women's colleges.

1. Bank, over ten miles from Railroad, with Assets of more than $2,000,000.00. 2. A Country Pastor in his Cornfield. 3. A Typical Country Church. 4. A Country Life Scene.

Salt River Presbytery in Missouri has been made a demonstration center for this department. A careful survey of the church conditions has been made. A group of new ministers will be brought into the presbytery, because among forty-four churches there are now only eight ministers in service. This presbytery has a personnel far above the average. It has a farming population of intelligent, progressive farmers, with many leading laymen, of whose bearing any presbytery would be proud, yet in spite of the cordial religious spirit of the people, the churches are weak. It should be the business of the department to introduce efficient policies.

An increasingly large demand for literature has come to the department during the year. Aside from the reports of the survey about thirty-five thousand small leaflets and folders have been sent out.

The work before the department for the coming year will be an extension of the lines of work of the past centering in a "Follow-up Program" covering the territories in which social surveys have been made. To do this we are advocating the policy of thoroughness in the country. We insist on the economic and social as well as the religious reconstruction of the country community, believing that the church can not live except in a prosperous community. If the country church is to survive and to be efficient, it must be an expression of the actual welfare of country people.

DEPARTMENT OF IMMIGRATION.

The work of the Home Board among the recent immigrant populations in this country is carried on through its Department of Immigration, the Rev. William Payne Shriver, superintendent. It was organized in the spring of 1908. It does not include the Home Board's extensive work among the German-speaking churches, nor the Spanish-speaking people of the Southwest, Cuba and Porto Rico. In its fourth year, ending March thirty-first, 1912, the Department of Immigration has cooperated in sixty-four immigrant communities in twenty-one presbyteries, an increase of twenty-four over the year previous.

These sixty-four communities grouped according to their dominant populations are as follows:—Bohemian, twenty-four; other Slavic, ten; Italian, twenty; Magyar, seven; Syrian, two; Jewish, two; Armenian, one; Scandinavian, one. Eighteen are farming communities among the Bohemians in the West and Southwest. For this service, the Home Board has commissioned seventy workers:—thirty-six ordained ministers, eleven women visitors, five lay workers, and eighteen students, almost all the latter being engaged throughout the year. Thirty organized churches are included, eighteen drawing their membership entirely from foreign constituencies. The Department of Immigration is cooperating with local home mission committees in developing the plan and scope of the ministry of our Presbyterian Church and in maintaining work in no less than twelve important city immigrant and industrial centers throughout the country: New York, Brooklyn, Newark, Baltimore, Buffalo, Cleveland, Indianapolis and Gary, Indiana, St. Louis, Kansas City, San Francisco and Oakland.

SURVEYS AND INVESTIGATIONS.

The department is extending its interest upon the basis of thorough-going study and survey of the communities in which work is projected. During this past year, such studies have been made of seven wards in east Baltimore, including a Polish community of twenty thousand; the polyglot neighborhood of Kingan's Hill, Indianapolis; and of the south side of Gary, Indiana. A study of the ten thousand Syrians of New York and Brooklyn has also been completed, and preliminary surveys made of the immigrant communities of Milwaukee, Oakland and San Francisco. An exhaustive study and survey of the great coke region in southwestern Pennsylvania is being made for the Presbytery of Redstone, the department availing itself of the specialized service of the Board's Bureau of Social Service and Department of Church and Country Life. The department is securing for its files information concerning the important immigrant and industrial centers throughout the country.

THE METROPOLITAN DISTRICT.

The major part of the department's work at this time is in the metropolitan district, in the Presbyteries of New York, Brooklyn, Westchester, Nassau and Newark. A force of forty pastors, visitors and students have been engaged during the year in this district and all have been brought in close touch with the department through regular monthly conferences. This cooperation with the presbyteries of the metropolitan district is in line with the policy contemplated in the report of the Executive Commission to the General Assembly in 1910, by which the Home Board as a national agency is called upon to "make accurate survey of the great cities and strategic points in our country, and so to throw itself into cooperation with the local home mission forces as securely to establish great centers of evangelizing and assimilative agencies that will dominate the vast and varied populations of these great centers."

This metropolitan district, within a radius of thirty miles from Times Square, has a population approaching seven millions, a thirteenth of all the people in continental United States. It is greater than that of any state in the Union except Pennsylvania. It is more than one million greater than the whole State of Illinois, the third state of the Union, including Chicago, the second city of the country. It is greater than eleven Pacific slope states. Forty of every hundred persons in New York City are foreign born. In 1910, 14.4 per cent. of all the foreign born in the United States lived in New York City. With its three hundred and forty thousand foreign born Italians, New York has over a fourth of the Italian population in this country. This whole region with its invasion of immigrant life is a challenge to the resources of the Presbyterian Church.

In the Presbytery of New York, including three of the five boroughs of the greater city, the Department of Immigration is co-operating in eleven strategic centers among Italians, Hungarians, Bohemians, Ruthenians and Jews. The department furnishes the superintendence and has invested the past year approximately $29,500.00 in this work, now simply in its initial stages. This, however, is but one item in the home mission interests of the presbytery, which is annually expending over $180,000.00 in home mission work in the city for maintenance alone, not including new buildings. During the past five years in this period of active cooperation, the churches of the presbytery have contributed to the Home Board for evangelization over $160,000.00, being approximately $70,000.00 in excess of the Board's grants for work in immigrant communities in the presbytery. This last year the Presbytery of New York has appropriated $108,000.00 for two new church buildings for Italian communities. The department is furthermore cooperating with presbytery in a realignment of all the home mission and church extension forces of the presbytery for a strong and thoroughly unified program of advance in this vast metropolitan center.

THE AMERICAN PARISH.

Of special interest in its significance and suggestion to other city centers, attention is directed to the American Parish this year set up in New York under the auspices of the Department of Immigration. This parish includes four organized churches and a neighborhood house, the entire ministry of the Presbyterian Church on the upper East Side. With a staff of five pastors and a group of visitors and student assistants, this parish stands for a well organized and carefully directed ministry to a community of over two hundred thousand, its outstanding feature being two Italian communities, one of ninety thousand, a second of thirty thousand. This entire work is under the direction of the Rev. Norman M. Thomas, pastor of one of the churches, and chairman of the Board of Pastors and Workers.

BOHEMIAN WORK.

Following the survey made of the religious conditions among the hundred thousand Bohemians of Texas, the department developed for the home mission committee of the Synod of Texas a program for the extension of our Presbyterian work among these thrifty people. November third, 1911, the Synod of Texas erected the Bohemian Presbytery of the Southwest. This presbytery has a force of nine ordained ministers, six of whom are commissioned by the Home Board, and two women visitors maintained by the women of Texas through the Woman's Board. The ministry of this presbytery is now actively extended to thirteen farming communities in Texas. The department is also heartily cooperating with the Bohemian Presbytery of the Central West, organized in 1910. Through these two presbyteries and the sympathetic relation of the Bohemian work in New York, Baltimore, Chicago, and Pittsburgh, it now seems possible for our Church to develop a strong and unified ministry to the Bohemians in this country.

RUTHENIAN WORK.

The work among the Ruthenians in Newark, New Jersey, and at Hope Chapel, New York, has been maintained in the face of persistent criticism on the part of the Roman Catholic Church and others. This criticism has not taken account of the fact that both of these congregations in the first instance came out bodily from their connection with the Greek Catholic Church. Realizing the impossibility of changing these people abruptly from their traditional habits of worship to the accustomed forms of the Presbyterian Church, the method was adopted of allowing the older forms of worship to be used in so far as they were not un-Christian and then, step by step, to lead the people into a simpler worship. This method has been consistently followed and at the present time few features remain unusual in our Presbyterian order. There is a wide-spread unrest among the Ruthenians in this country, but the difficulty of giving this movement the wider extent originally planned is in the lack of trained and competent ministers speaking the Ruthenian language.

GARY, INDIANA.

One of the most hopeful and significant enterprises in which the department has been brought into cooperation during the year is the work projected by the Synod of Indiana in the great polyglot community at Gary, at this important center of the steel industry. Following upon a careful study of the needs of this community, the Department of Immigration prepared a program for the enlarged work and submitted sketches for a group of buildings including a neighborhood house, chapel, and residence house. The Home Board also cooperated with the synod in raising the fifteen thousand dollars required for the building of the neighborhood house and will further aid in maintaining this center. The superintendent of the department is directly associated with the joint committee in the development of this enterprise.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOLS.

The Department of Immigration advocates the daily vacation Bible school as one of the most effective approaches to the child life of our immigrant communities. It believes these schools should be made a permanent part of the work of home mission committees in our city centers. Seven schools were conducted under the auspices of the department in New York last summer, enrolling over two thousand immigrant children.

The Rev. Arthur H. Limouze, director of the schools in New York, has prepared a pamphlet, "How to Conduct a Daily Vacation Bible School", which may be obtained from the department for fifteen cents.

IMMIGRATION FELLOWSHIPS.

A new leadership is insistently demanded for the Church's work among our recent immigrant population. It is natural and normal to expect that this leadership will largely come from among young men and women of foreign birth or origin. The work of our Board of Education and seminaries at Dubuque and Bloomfield in developing this leadership calls for larger support. But the conditions in our great city immigrant communities and at the tense centers of the coal, iron, glass and steel industries, create a field for the same type of young American that is volunteering for mission work in foreign lands,—men of heroic consecration, with a splendid grasp upon the significance of American democracy and American institutions, scientifically trained and with sympathetic acquaintance with the life, history and religious traditions of the immigrant peoples.

To enlist the interest of this type of young American and to facilitate his training, the Home Board through its Department of Immigration is announcing a series of Immigration Fellowships bearing one thousand dollars each, open to recent graduates of theological seminaries duly licensed by a presbytery. The Fellowship contemplates residence and study abroad in Austria-Hungary, Italy, and at other sources of the new immigration. Upon his appointment to a Fellowship, the holder contracts to serve the Home Board for a period of not less than three years.

The Rev. Spencer L. Towle, honor graduate of the San Francisco Theological Seminary, the first fellow appointed, will prepare himself for work among the Italian communities of California. Rev. Gabriel Dokus, graduate of the theological seminary at Bloomfield, will perfect his Magyar language and study the social and religious conditions of the Magyar people in Hungary; he will return to engage in work in New York.

A CENTRAL BUREAU.

In connection with its racial, topical and locality files, the department is collating the statistics of all Presbyterian churches and missions using a language other than English. This information is annually tabulated on permanent cards, and will be the basis of a careful study of the progress of this work. A reference catalogue of all Presbyterian ministers competent in languages other than English is also kept in the department.

DEPARTMENT OF INDIAN MISSIONS.

The present status of the Indian race in the United States makes the work of this department particularly important and promising. The Rev. Thomas Clinton Moffett, D. D., continues as its superintendent.

The Indians are not a decadent or vanishing people, but are in a transitional period and a stage of readaptation to changed conditions which create serious problems involving their preservation and welfare. The best evidence indicates that for several decades the American red men have been slightly increasing in numbers, and to-day the race is more than holding its own. Admixture with the white race, wide scattering of the population, and the rapid breaking up of tribal and reservation life disguise this fact of an increase.

But the governmental policies of abolishing Indian agencies, allotting land in severalty, removing restrictions on allotted lands to a considerable extent, and breaking up tribal relations and heathen customs, are making a new epoch for this race, and requiring readjustments which call for renewed efforts and changed methods in mission service.

In our Presbyterian work there are now one hundred six organized churches and one hundred one additional mission stations where services are conducted. These are supplied by eighty-five ordained ministers, of whom forty-two are natives and sixty-eight assistants, under commission of the Board or paid by the local congregations. The total number of communicants is 6,879, and in one hundred two Sabbath schools there is an enrolment of 5,768. The estimated adherents of the Presbyterian Church are 15,695, to which fifteen hundred must be added of native Alaskans, for the total Indian constituency of our Church in the United States.

PROGRESS AND PROMISE.

The continued advance from year to year is encouraging, and the testimony has recently been borne by a government agent located among our Presbyterian Nez Perce of Idaho, that there is probably not to be found a more religious people in the world, more devout and attentive to the obligations of their faith than these Christian Indians. The transformation of the largest tribe of Indians in America is graphically described by the Rev. John P. Williamson, D. D., in a recent report regarding these people among whom he has spent his whole life. The effect of the whole Indian mission undertaking is revealed in these lines:

"The first generation of converts was sorely tempted to return to ancestral idolatry, and a considerable per cent. of baptized children bred back to paganism. Fifty years ago, when I received my appointment as missionary to the Dakota Indians, there were only about a score of Christian families in the whole nation. Notwithstanding the inherited impress of paganism on their hearts, God has shown His power and mercy in calling eight of their descendants into the ministry, out of twenty-one Dakotas who have been ordained in the Presbyterian Church. And looking at the church members we find that about fifty per cent. of the communicants in our churches are Christians of the third and fourth generation. So the power of paganism is fast waning. If the twenty-five thousand Dakotas were all questioned as to whether they were Christians or pagans, in my opinion four-fifths would reply that they were Christians, although not that proportion have been baptized."

The number of chapels and manses erected during the year and the putting of the old mission buildings in more creditable and attractive condition, have been a great gain to the work.

Two new chapels are being completed in the Papago Indian country of Arizona, each of these being made possible by gifts from single donors in the East.

During the past year the Rev. John N. Steele has served with signal blessing and acceptance as a special evangelist-at-large for the Indian work under the Board. Sane in his methods, winning and kindly in his personality and his presentation of the truth to the Indian congregations, he has won a place in the work for the Indians which it is hoped will become permanent. It is his privilege to bring to many who hear from his lips for the first time, the glad tidings of salvation for those who are in heathen darkness.

DEPARTMENTAL SERVICE AND THE FIELDS.

The year has been occupied by the superintendent of the department with public addresses, executive plans and conferences, and the correspondence and literary work which increase as multiplying requests come from all sections of the country. Three months of the year, including the entire summer, were spent visiting the fields in many states. By this field service the missionaries on the field are put in touch with the Board and their trials and needs more fully understood. There are now provided as special gifts for the salaries of Indian missionaries and native helpers about ten thousand dollars annually contributed by individual friends and churches.

In each district it is the plan to provide a systematic course of instruction for the training of Indian ministers and lay workers. Circumstances have determined the diverse arrangements in the several tribes.

In Arizona "The Charles H. Cook Bible Training School" has been inaugurated. A class of young men, with representatives of three tribes of the far Southwest, is organized in the buildings at the Papago Mission at Tucson, and a permanent institution will soon be located and properly equipped. In Oklahoma the synod has established Bible institutes, lasting from a week to three weeks, in the group of churches and missions of each tribe.

Institutes and district conventions are proving a valuable feature. Conferences were held by the workers at Fort Gibson, Oklahoma; Prescott, Arizona, and Rosebud, South Dakota. Our Presbyterians unite in the annual Zayante Conference held at Mount Hermon, California, by the Northern California Indian Association. Reports have been received also from the Umatilla Conference in Oregon, the Nez Perce encampment in Idaho, and the Pima camp meeting in Arizona.

At the meeting of the General Assembly each year a conference of missionaries and Presbyterian workers in the interests of the Indian fields is now established as a regular appointment.

INDIAN EXHIBITS.

The great missionary exposition, "The World in Boston", the first of the kind seen in America, was held from April twenty-second to May twentieth last year in Mechanics Hall, and proved most successful. The American Indian Exhibit was provided by this department. A fine collection of basketry, pottery, Navajo blankets, and other products of native arts and industry were shown.

General Assembly Exhibit, 1911

A similar exposition at Cincinnati has been equally successful, and the Board has provided the Indian exhibit which attracted large attention.

An open door of opportunity is afforded to twenty-four thousand Indian youth and children in government schools. The work of our Board of Home Missions among the Indians has created a deeper interest among government employees and among other denominations than ever before, thus resulting in increased co-operation and generous appreciation. It is a time of encouragement, and of larger promise in the evangelical church work for the Indians throughout the United States.

Statistics gathered two years ago showed forty-one tribes or tribal divisions of the Indians in the United States needing Christian missionaries. Over fifty thousand souls were estimated to be destitute of religious instruction or the ordinances of the Church. The supplying of these neglected Indians with the opportunity to hear and accept the gospel of Christ is the most insistent need at this time. There is urgent call for the strengthening of the evangelical forces now at work, and enlarging of the educational provisions made by missionary agencies.

THE DISTRICT OF THE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST.

For this section the field secretary, the Rev. B. P. Fullerton, D. D., LL. D., presents the following statement:—

The synod of Alabama (which embraces the state of Florida), Arkansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee (which embraces our work in Georgia and North Carolina), and Texas (which includes our work in Louisiana) make up the District of the South and Southwest.

In this district there are 700,000 square miles, not including that part of Georgia, Louisiana and North Carolina embraced in it. There are 20,000,000 of people within the boundaries of these synods, the increase in population from 1900 to 1910 being 3,000,000. Here are a large part of all the Negroes in the United States, whose evangelization is an ever present problem which becomes more and more complex as immigration into this territory increases.

In the State of Texas especially the Mexican problem is becoming acute. Because of the unsettled political condition in the Republic of Mexico, the people of that disturbed country are crossing the line in increasingly great numbers. They are practically unevangelized. While they are members of the Roman Church, they are not loyal even to that Church. In the Presbyteries of El Paso and Austin especially their numbers have become such as to excite at once our interest and solicitude. So far, very little has been done by any Protestant Church for them and the appeal which their condition makes to us is pathetic.

The immigration problem is not a serious one in the district, although in Texas there are not less than a hundred thousand Bohemians. They are buying farms and becoming most expert farmers and, if given the gospel of Jesus Christ, will become good and useful citizens. At the last meeting of the Synod of Texas a Bohemian presbytery was erected with nine ministers and fifteen centers for Christian work. At least fifty thousand of these Bohemians are now approachable by the Protestant Church. Having abandoned their fealty to the Roman Church, they are now known among themselves as Free Thinkers, which term by no means describes to them what it does when used by us. In northern Alabama, where the iron and steel mills and coal deposits are, Italians, Poles and other foreigners are coming in and are being employed in increasing numbers, and their condition makes a strong appeal to our Protestant Churches.

The rapid development of the South on account of the immigration from the North makes this a strategic opportunity for the Church. If we mean to build up the cause of Christianity without a large outlay of men and means, it must be done in connection with this rapid development. During the past year commercial conditions in the district have been adverse. At the beginning of the year farmers traded upon cotton at a specific price, but when the season came for its delivery it was far below what was anticipated. While this is for the present an embarrassment, it is believed that in the end it will become a great blessing. Farmers are discovering that it is a mistake to depend entirely upon a single crop and are varying their crops in such a way that whatever may be the returns from one, it will make little difference upon the whole. In the western and northern part of Texas and a large part of Oklahoma this past year we have had the third year of the most damaging drought the country has seen in many decades.

The relation between our Church and the other Churches is growing more cordial. This is especially true between us and the Presbyterian Church of the U. S., or what is known as the Southern Presbyterian Church. In the same territory in Texas covered by two presbyteries of these two Churches, the home mission committees of these presbyteries have definitely divided the territory, assigning to each presbytery its part and as a result, in only five places in the whole panhandle country are the two Churches at work; but these are communities large enough to maintain two or more Presbyterian churches. In other presbyteries in Texas, home mission committees have agreed to settle a good many of their difficulties by the exchange of churches. Where there are two churches in one town or community not large enough for two Presbyterian churches, the smaller of the two goes into the larger and by this exchange not only is Presbyterianism strengthened but home mission money is saved and Presbyterian ministers are freed for work elsewhere. The two synods in Mississippi have each appointed a Committee on Fraternity and Cooperation. The chairmen of these committees met recently and discussed policies and agreed upon what was best for the cause and for both Churches concerned. The same spirit of fraternity and cooperation prevails in Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky. Frequent exchanges of churches have been made where there has been a saving of men and money and at the same time no loss to Presbyterianism.

ALABAMA.

The Rev. W. B. Witherspoon, D. D., has continued as pastor-evangelist for the three presbyteries in Alabama. Some mission churches have been brought to self-support, improved methods of finance have been introduced into all the presbyteries and on the whole the work has grown in a gratifying way. More new work has been opened, especially in northern Alabama, this year than in any single year and that, too, in most promising places. Good evangelistic meetings have been held in a few places with encouraging results.

The Rev. R. W. Edwards became pastor-evangelist during the year for the Presbytery of Florida. He has organized the whole field in such a way as to give promise of large success in that rapidly developing territory and has opened a number of new fields in needy places.

ARKANSAS.

The Rev. C. E. Hayes, D. D., has continued during the year as the superintendent of our work in the four presbyteries of this synod. Under his careful supervision the whole work has been more economically grouped; pastors have been secured for vacant fields; the home mission committees have been inspired to do better work than ever during the past year, evangelistic meetings with fine results having been held in several places; eight new churches have been organized and, on the whole, the work in this synod is in a satisfactory condition.

In Little Rock, the capital of the state, our church that has been for years dependent not only came to self-support under the leadership of the Rev. J. S. Edenburn, D. D., but now proposes to open new fields in this growing and important center of the state.

KENTUCKY.

The Rev. F. E. Moore, who has been pastor-evangelist for the Presbyteries of Ebenezer, Louisville and Transylvania, retires from the work to take a pastorate. The Rev. F. J. Cheek, D. D., synodical superintendent, and the Rev. James F. Price, his assistant, continue the work.

The law of Kentucky, requiring that a high school be erected in each county town and the consequent removal of our school work from some of these county towns, has put on our home mission agencies added responsibility. However, the whole work has been better organized and more economically grouped and a number of new fields have been opened.

The past year was the first year of the new arrangement between the Board and the Synod of Kentucky by which that synod passes all of its home missionary work through the Board, as all other dependent synods have done. Some confusion has naturally been created by the fact that the synod's committee, that conducted the work heretofore, closed its year with the meeting of synod and its treasurer's books were kept accordingly, while the books of the Home Board close with the fiscal year. That, however, has been adjusted, and the work will go on without any further confusion. At the last meeting of the home mission committee a high standard of efficiency for next year was erected.

MISSISSIPPI.

The Rev. R. L. Phelps has continued his work as pastor-evangelist for the three weak presbyteries of this, the weakest of all of our synods. Largely through his effort has the spirit of cooperation and fraternity been developed between the Mississippi Synod of the Presbyterian Church of the U. S. and our own, by which it is hoped that exchange of churches may be made, so as to conserve the highest interest of the cause of Christ under the direction of the Presbyterian Church. The cotton situation in this state, upon which it is so dependent, has brought a severe commercial depression. At the same time, when it is remembered that at least fifty-seven per cent. of the population is colored, it is not difficult to understand what a depressing effect this situation has upon the faithful members of our Church in that synod. Notwithstanding all the embarrassment under which they have worked, they have organized their work better and have made commendable progress, some few churches have come to self-support and new fields have been opened.

MISSOURI.

The Rev. T. B. Rice and the Rev. W. H. Wilson, who were pastor-evangelists respectively of Iron Mountain and Salt River Presbyteries, retire and will take up pastoral work. The Rev. J. B. Hill, D. D., has continued as superintendent, with the Rev. J. W. Mitchell as pastor-evangelist for the Presbytery of Sedalia and the Rev. R. Whitehead as pastor-evangelist for half-time for the Presbytery of Kirksville. By action of the synod and its committee, these pastor-evangelists are available for work in any part of the synod under the direction of the superintendent and the synod's home mission committee.

The cities of St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph during the past year have undertaken new work and introduced new plans that promise rather large development in these strategic centers.

In this synod a number of fields have come to self-support, new groupings have been made and new fields opened.

OKLAHOMA.

There has been no change in the pastor-evangelists for the Synod of Oklahoma during the year. The Rev. Duncan McRuer has been pastor-evangelist for the Presbyteries of Ardmore and McAlester; the Rev. George P. Howard and the Rev. E. B. Teis have had divided between them the Presbyteries of Cimarron, El Reno and Hobart; the Rev. J. A. McDonald, D. D., has been pastor-evangelist for the Presbytery of Muskogee; and the Rev. R. J. Lamb for the Presbyteries of Oklahoma and Tulsa. The drought, which has been the occasion of a shifting population and really a change in the location of towns, has interfered materially with our work in the Synod of Oklahoma during the past year. But even with this hindrance a reasonable growth has been made, the work has been better organized, new churches have been planted especially in and about Oklahoma City, and there is promise of large development in the years to come.

TENNESSEE.

The Rev. C. A. Duncan, D. D., has continued as synodical superintendent for the state, the Rev. J. H. Miller, D. D., pastor-evangelist for the presbyteries of West Tennessee and the Rev. John T. Price has given half of his time as pastor-evangelist to the Presbytery of Cookeville. All of these field men have done faithful work. In West Tennessee Dr. Miller through institutes and conferences has introduced improved financial methods and has laid plans for an evangelistic campaign. In many of the presbyteries a regrouping of country fields has been necessary and presbyteries have exercised their episcopal authority in some cases and the local churches have submitted gracefully to it, which in the end will result in the development of the work in that synod. Litigation on account of the union in this state, continues to distract the minds of our people somewhat.

TEXAS.

The Rev. W. B. Preston, on account of ill health, was forced to give up his office as pastor-evangelist for the Presbytery of Waco. The Rev. H. H. Burkes retired from the office of pastor-evangelist the first of March for the Presbytery of Amarillo. Except these two, the field force continues as last year: —the Rev. W. E. Green for the Presbytery of Abilene; the Rev. R. H. Rogers for the Presbytery of Austin; the Rev. H. F. Olmstead, D. D., for the Presbytery of Houston; the Rev. L. C. Collier for the Presbyteries of Fort Worth and Paris; and the Rev. J. A. Hornbeak for the Presbyteries of Jefferson and Dallas. By action of the synod last fall the Presbyteries of Fort Worth and Denton were united under the name of Fort Worth Presbytery and the Bohemian Presbytery, to which reference has been made, was erected. Drought conditions have been such as to greatly cripple our work in this synod.

Upon the whole, the work in the district is promising. The years past have been years of adjustment. It has taken the people time to find themselves in their relations to one another as a united body from two, and their relations to the larger Church. The development has been such as to call for a good many changes in presbyterial boundaries and pastoral relations, and these have not always been most favorable to the work of the Church. We have come to a better understanding and it looks as if the years immediately before us will be years of large development of the work in the entire district.

DISTRICT OF THE NORTHWEST.

For this section the Rev. Robert N. Adams, D. D., had held the position of field secretary since the creation of that office in 1907. After many years of service for his Church as well as for his country he felt compelled to present his resignation to the Board of Home Missions. In accepting it Dr. Adams was made field secretary emeritus and with cooperation and counsel has aided his successor, the Rev. William H. Kearns, D. D.

For the year's work in the District of the Northwest, which comprises the States of Minnesota, Nebraska, and North and South Dakota, Dr. Kearns presents the following statement:—

We have nearly eight hundred fifty organized churches in this district. In many of these the membership is small, due mainly to the fact that in the newer parts of the district there is a constant change in the population. The membership of to-day is in some other part of the country to-morrow, but the influence of the people whose hearts God has touched will be felt in other places. Then in the western part of this territory, the communities are sparsely settled and the number of people reached by the Church is not large, and yet in a great many places ours is the only organized church where the gospel is preached in the English language. In many cases these are only the centers of the minister's operations. He will sometimes have five or six preaching stations from four to fifteen miles from the church.

The conference of the secretaries of the Board with the home mission chairmen held in Kansas City in January was a real school of methods. Its influence will be far-reaching, and the value of the inspiration which many chairmen received cannot be measured. Already many of the chairmen in this district are taking more interest and are putting plans in operation which will mean much for our home mission work.

Recognizing the importance of thorough organization in both presbytery and synod, some progress has been made in securing committees which will assume responsibility for more careful supervision. In three of the synods there are now compact synodical organizations. The committees are charged with responsibility for the work of the entire state, with the review of the presbyterial estimates, and with the duty of making recommendations to the Board. In this way we hope for greater unity and more effective work.

There is some overlapping, but not nearly as much as some people imagine. There are a few towns which gave promise of large growth where the denominations, thinking only of the future needs, organized churches. The towns did not meet the expectations in growth, but the Church is there and in many instances has justified its existence by the good it has done. There is a growing sentiment in favor of federation which, if the movement is sanely directed, will tend to correct former mistakes. In North and South Dakota there has been more or less friction between the denominations, but there are now federation councils in each state, and their aim will be to bring about a better spirit of cooperation. Under the direction of representatives of the Home Missions Council, a conference of home mission workers was held in each state, and while the main object was to study the needs, yet the question of overlapping was not ignored, and much good will result.

Are there unmet needs? Are there foreigners who have not been touched with the gospel? Are there whole communities which have not the privileges of the organized church? Go into the cities of Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul, visit the lumber camps of northern Minnesota, drive over the western third of Nebraska, North and South Dakota. Under the inspiration of the conferences above referred to a careful study will be made, the exact conditions will be known and the Church will discover that there is yet much land to be possessed.

In this district twenty-one pastor-evangelists have been at work under the direction of the home mission committees of the presbyteries. Seven of these are combination men, serving under commission of both the Home Mission and Sabbath-school Boards. In three cases, one man has served two presbyteries. These men seek out destitute communities and open preaching stations which frequently develop into churches, supply the small vacant churches and get them ready for settled ministers, introduce modern financial methods, hold evangelistic meetings, and so forth. Most of these men have rendered very efficient service. They have been faithful, earnest and self-sacrificing. The weather has greatly interfered with evangelistic work. The past winter was the most severe in years. In the northern part of the district the cold was intense, the thermometer often reaching forty degrees below and rarely going above zero. In Nebraska heavy snow storms were very frequent and severe.

Conferences on modern methods of Church finance have been held. Many churches have adopted better plans. The single and duplex budget systems are being successfully operated in many places. In some presbyteries members of the home mission committee have visited the small churches, explained the method and secured every member canvasses for both local support and benevolences. Had conditions been at all favorable large increase in gifts would have been the result. As it is we have barely held our own. The drought of the past two years has been very severe, especially in the Dakotas and western Nebraska. Churches which had become self-supporting are compelled to go back to the Board for help, and others will have need of more help than formerly; and yet a goodly number of churches are asking less and a few have decided to support themselves. There have been many examples of devotion and self-sacrifice, both on the part of the missionaries and the church members. In view of the poverty of many of the people the gifts to the Board are not as large as we had hoped for.

MINNESOTA.

At the meeting of this synod last October, it was voted to more carefully supervise the mission work and a plan which consolidates the home mission and Sabbath-school committees was adopted. The Rev. George E. Davies, D. D., of St. Paul, was chosen chairman. The goal of this synod is self-support, and it is hoped to reach it in two years. It will require an average of about eighty cents per member and the committee, through the Executive Commission, is asking the churches for this amount. The Presbyteries of Minneapolis and St. Paul now give more than they receive, but only about one-half as much as the apportionment now calls for.

There is a vast missionary territory in the northern and western parts of this state. In both Adams and Duluth Presbyteries, the cutting of the lumber opens many new places for the organized church. The great iron ore mines in Duluth Presbytery necessitate the expenditure of considerable money for mission work. The Rev. S. A. Jamieson resigned as pastor-evangelist, and the Rev. F. J. Barackman has been commissioned by the Board.

In the northern part of the state, most earnest and faithful work has been done among the lumber jacks. Of this ministry, under the supervision of the Rev. Frank E. Higgins, fuller account may be found on page forty.

NEBRASKA.

At the last meeting of this synod the plan of consolidated home mission and Sabbath-school committees, under which the mission work is carried on, was unanimously endorsed and the field secretary was asked to continue as superintendent and give such attention as his larger duties may permit. Splendid progress has been made in this state. The work is thoroughly organized. The committee, the Rev. Nathaniel McGiffin, D. D., of Omaha, chairman, gives it much time and thought. There is real synodical supervision without encroaching upon the duties of the presbyteries.

In five years the gifts to the Home Board have increased from a little more than three thousand dollars to nearly fourteen thousand dollars and it is now proposed to entirely support its own work without in any way interfering with its present relations to the Board. This will be self-support under the Board. Hereafter the appropriation will be made direct to synod's committee.

In the western half of the state the drought of the past two years has been seriously felt. The Rev. D. W. Montgomery has been commissioned as pastor-evangelist and Sabbath-school missionary for the Presbytery of Box Butte.

NORTH DAKOTA.

There are great agricultural possibilities in this state, and the Church must be prepared to assume larger responsibility. The past two years have not been favorable for growth. The drought has been very hard on the new settlers and many of them were unable to give for church support. However, the people are dominated by hope, and with good crops splendid progress will be made.

At the last meeting of synod a plan of compact synodical organization was adopted. The Rev. G. W. Simon, D. D., of Jamestown, was elected chairman of synod's committee which will review presbyterial estimates and make recommendations to the Board. Already the results of closer supervision are being seen in some of the presbyteries. The Rev. H. S. Morrison has been commissioned pastor-evangelist of Minnewaukon and Mouse River Presbyteries.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Dakota (Indian) Presbytery is a part of this synod and comprises more than thirty churches under the supervision of that veteran missionary, the Rev. J. P. Williamson, D. D.

Financially the work in this synod has not been encouraging. The drought has been more severely felt in South Dakota than in any other part of the district. There has been much real suffering. Hundreds of families of settlers have been compelled temporarily to leave their claims. Stock had to be sold at a sacrifice, and some died from lack of feed and the intense cold. Most of the settlers will return this spring and there will be thousands of them scattered over the Presbyteries of Black Hills and Reserve to whom the Church must give the living Bread. "To the poor the gospel is preached."

This synod took a step forward in organization and the committee now meets to study the needs, review the presbyterial estimates and refer them back to the presbyteries with suggestions and recommendations. Synod's committee elects its own chairman from one of its own members. At present he is the Rev. A. C. McCauley, of Bridgewater.

The Presbyteries of Central Dakota and Sioux Falls have felt the need of a field worker and have united in asking the Board to commission the Rev. W. E. Shirey of St. Paul, Minnesota, as pastor-evangelist.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN DISTRICT.

For this section, which comprises the States of Arizona, Colorado, Montana, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming and Southern Idaho, the field secretary, the Rev. Robert M. Donaldson, D. D., presents the following statement:—

The present field force in this district includes four synodical and eight presbyterial evangelists. One of the latter bears double commission from the Boards of Home Missions and Sabbath-school Work.

The year has been marked with church building, surveys of the unmet needs of the field, a study of our comity relations with other denominations, and a campaign for the adoption of the budget system in each local church. In all these lines we can report experience and progress. The almost universal testimony is that where the duplex envelope is adopted and an every-member canvass made, the advance is encouraging and the results are satisfactory to the people.

There has been some crowding into our fields by other denominations. This is generally undertaken when the field is temporarily without supply. If suitable men could be secured promptly and the field occupied constantly, we would reduce this source of trouble to the minimum. It is unfortunately true that dozens of communities in the mountain states are spiritually destitute because one inefficient minister has been "holding the field" through a period of years. It is imperative that this fault should not be laid at our door, if we insist on the smallest possible number of organizations in a given town. It is inevitable that in the near future the Protestant denominations will provide a council before whom all cases of interdenominational conflict will be brought for fraternal adjustment. This will tend to eliminate many of the vexing problems of to-day, though some bona fide efforts in this direction have met with little response from other workers on the field.

We have experienced difficulty in finding a sufficient number of men who have a real missionary spirit and will cheerfully meet the varied conditions of our fields. It is unfortunate that men will accept work, announce the date of their arrival, then fail to appear, without notifying the expectant church or the presbytery by whose courtesy a door of service was opened to them.

Several fields were without a pastor part of the year because it was impossible to secure a residence for the pastor's family. On practically every field a manse is demanded if we are to treat our missionaries humanely, or secure the favorable consideration of cultured and experienced men when vacancies are to be supplied.

Successive dry seasons have impoverished some of our most promising rural churches. The outlook is favorable for a good year, but the present necessities are great. To withdraw our services and support from people destitute, through no fault of their own, would brand us as unworthy of their confidence and support when prosperity returns.

In three instances where presbyteries were divided within the last three or four years, the smaller presbyteries now number about as many churches each as were enrolled in the original presbytery. This is a token of the new aggressive life in the frontier states.

ARIZONA.

During the year Arizona was admitted as the forty-eighth state of the Union. No part of its citizenship was more in evidence or more intensely interested in the admission ceremonies than were the Indian students who marched in the procession. They are part of the fifty thousand of their people who make up a portion of the human asset of this infant state. What shall they do for us? What can we do for them? A goodly number of these are members of our local church at Phoenix, or of our mission churches in the valleys or on the desert.

Some of our missionaries, assisted by representatives of other denominations who fraternize together in the Indian Association of the Southwest, have completed translations of several books of the Bible into the Navajo and Papago tongues. A new mission has been opened on the desert some sixty miles from Tucson.

One church was organized during the year and its building was destroyed by a storm. Four American and three Mexican organizations are without houses of worship. Twenty churches are without manses. The Arizona Church Federation Council is the only one in the district that is organized for business and is attempting to fraternize all Christian work in the new state. The training school for Indian evangelists, recently opened at Tucson, gives a more hopeful outlook for permanent and fruitful work among these people of the desert.

COLORADO.

More than eight thousand aliens each year are added to the population of Colorado. While there are many Germans, Austrians and Jews, the largest number are Italians. At least half a dozen centers in the state have enough of these people to command the full time of a missionary. It seems impossible to secure suitable men trained for a sane and helpful service among them.

Financially, Colorado churches are looking up. Most of them have been induced to adopt some systematic development of their resources. One presbytery reports more churches contributing to the Boards, and larger sums contributed, than ever before. For a year of severe straits in some sections of the state this is an unexpected showing. Few new churches have been organized and probably none will come to self-support because of the financial stringency.

Gunnison Presbytery, heretofore without a pastor-evangelist, is to be supplied during the present year. No change occurs in the field force in the other presbyteries. A dozen rural church conferences have been held with encouraging results. Three large centers have been opened from which, in each case, the greater part of a county is to be provided with religious services. Thirteen new houses of worship and half as many manses have been erected during the year. Other churches have repaired or enlarged their buildings. Several organizations are still without buildings, either church or manse.

IDAHO.

It is said that Idaho is the last region in the Union to be trodden by the foot of the white man. But the tides of population in recent years have arisen so high as to exceed the history of most states. Up to 1900 this population was almost wholly rural. It is still largely so. The proportion of American born is unusually large. Some of the greatest reclamation prospects of the age are in this region. Irrigation involves fundamental change in human conditions and relations. Every such change discovers a new angle for applied Christianity.

A pastor-evangelist has recently been commissioned for the Presbytery of Twin Falls. This is the only case in the entire district in which a presbyterial and synodical representative cover the same territory.

One young church increased its membership fourfold under a few months' ministry from a man of wide experience and large attainment. Another mission church, under the leadership of a consecrated young man, increased its benevolent budget more than one hundred per cent. These incidents show the value of capable men on new fields, supported by a salary sufficient to command their services. Several new buildings were completed. Two organizations grew out of last summer's student work. Testimony touching the work of the four students who spent the summer of 1911 in this state is that "they all did good, faithful work, and we are pleased with the results." Men on the field estimate that our new churches in the newer parts of the state have kept pace with the material development of Idaho.

MONTANA.

The new Presbytery of Kalispell will be represented for the first time in the Assembly of 1912. Two new churches and two manses were built during the year. Two organizations are without houses of worship and two others are not adequately equipped.

Yellowstone is the other new presbytery in Montana. Five organizations are without sanctuaries and eight manses are needed to enable this presbytery to properly further the work of the Kingdom committed to it. Not less than thirty manses are needed for the equipment of our work in the state. More than a dozen sanctuaries are needed before our present organizations have a church home or proper equipment. It would be hard to find a similar area in the United States that gives larger promise of growth for our Church than is found in eastern Montana.

A careful observer attending the Synod of Montana, noted that every pastor was interested in home missions. The fact that Montana products won four out of nine first prizes granted at the New York Land Show last winter indicates something of the importance of holding this region for Christ. In the main a good fraternal spirit exists among the denominations; but no state organization has been undertaken for a number of years.

NEW MEXICO.

New Mexico is now the forty-seventh star in the federal firmament. Only three states are larger in area. With a Spanish-American population of one hundred thirty-five thousand, being rapidly increased because of the unrest in Mexico, there is call for largely extended service from our missions and schools.

Mexicans cannot always remain such Mexicans as they are to-day. Like other populations, they will become better or worse. What they shall become depends upon the Church of Christ. With meager equipment and a scarcity of men trained for leadership the outlook is not hopeful. It is the task of the Church to provide trained evangelists for this service to their own people.

This state is called "The heart of the well country." The Presbyterian Sanitorium of the Southwest, at Albuquerque, has increased its buildings and equipment, thereby extending its usefulness. Several missionaries from the foreign and home fields have availed themselves of the opportunity thus offered to seek restoration to health. It has demonstrated its ability to cope with the dread "white plague." Few institutions of the Church have surpassed it in the rapidity of its material development.

This is a land of marvelous history, whether one scans the records of God in the rocks and mountains, or spades up the records of men in the ruins. There is no reason why Christian civilization shall not add its glory and helpfulness, making this state a source of spiritual as well as physical sanitation.

UTAH.

The financial outlook in Utah gives promise of better things.

In common with the other states our ministers have sought to inaugurate an every-member canvass in each of the churches. It has strengthened the work in the fields where it has been received sympathetically. Several young men are now giving the flower of their life to advance the cause of the Master in this synod. Many items of encouragement come to them, sometimes from unexpected sources. Near one of our old and discouraging fields a new work has developed, resulting quickly in a new organization and a new building, with generous response to the spiritual appeal as well. That the community appreciated the service of such men is proven by the fact that one was invited to deliver a series of addresses on the Bible in the chapel of a largely attended state college. His service was so acceptable as to receive most favorable commendation. It has resulted in increasing local interest in the work he is doing. This man is the only missionary in a large and fruitful county. He needs the comradeship of a man of like spirit who will become fellow laborer with him in this exacting field with its several out-stations. A population of twenty-three thousand is to be reached. It is too much for one man.

About two-thirds of the population engage in agriculture. Pioneering is not out of date in Uintah county, where the missionary must drive nearly one hundred miles before he enters his field, then must drive over an area of one hundred miles square to compass it. Nor is this an isolated case in Utah. Young women who go into settlement work at their own expense for the joy of the service and for the improvement of humanity, by going into Utah in the same spirit, for nine or ten months each year, could render an incomparable work for their Master. They could combine educational, social and religious service.

Two features of present day work—country life and federation—have no more fruitful field on which to spend their energies than is offered in Utah.

WYOMING.

The flockmaster has been king in Wyoming. A winter of unusual severity has decimated the flocks and many of her people are impoverished thereby. It will hinder our work the coming year. Several new houses were built last year. Four more are needed in Cheyenne Presbytery and an equal number in Sheridan Presbytery. Few of these fields are supplied with manses.

Cheyenne Presbytery has more than doubled its churches and ministers since Wyoming was divided three years ago. To her belongs the honor, as well, of having persuaded to self-support a church organized by the Rev. Sheldon Jackson, D. D., nearly forty years ago. All the churches in Sheridan Presbytery and most of those in Cheyenne have adopted the budget system. During the year Sheridan Presbytery has increased the enrolment of its Sunday schools about thirty-five per cent., and of its churches over twenty per cent. The trials of the people seem to drive them nearer to God.

John Qunicy Adams said that Rhode Island was to be measured not by the smallness of her stature but by the loftiness of her principles. By that same token these new states are not to be judged by the sparse populations, or the apparent insignificance of their attainment. One day they will bulk large in human history, and will be counted among the mighty forces that make for righteousness in the nation and in the world.

PACIFIC COAST DISTRICT.

For this section the field secretary, the Rev. William Sylvester Holt, D. D., presents the following statement:—

This district covers Washington and northern Idaho, Oregon, California, and Nevada,—one-third the entire area of the United States on this Continent. There are 3,616,484 square miles in the United States. There are 1,025,154 square miles in the Pacific Coast District. When the population is considered the Pacific Coast District is of less importance, having less than one-twentieth of the population of the country,—according to the census for 1910, a total of 4,338,535.

Of the nineteen cities in the United States which contain more than a quarter of a million people the Pacific Coast has two; and of the cities which number more than one hundred thousand, it has six.

By far the largest share of the gold and silver of the country is mined in this district. There are no forests in the world to-day to be compared, either in extent or in the size of the trees, with the forests of the Pacific slope.

MATERIAL DEVELOPMENT.

New projects are continually in process of completion. The plans of the Government in irrigation extend over years, while private plans often have the long look ahead. One special thing deserving of mention this year, is on foot in eastern Oregon. For many years a vast portion of eastern Oregon has been held by a road company which has been unwilling to sell to settlers. Now they have closed out their holdings to men who are promising to put the land on the market on such easy terms as to induce settlers to purchase it.

New movements on the part of railroads are also occupying our attention. One road is steadily moving northward along the Coast from San Francisco, and will reach a district that to-day has no transportation facilities. Another line is moving toward the Coast from south central Oregon; another line is building directly across the State of Oregon from east to west; another line has continued its trackage from Reno, Nevada, to Lakeview, Oregon, thus opening another new section of country; another transcontinental line is said to have bought up a large tract of water frontage on Puget Sound, and secured control of a branch road running from the Sound into the Cascade Mountains to tap a belt of cement rock and coal. Oil has been discovered on the west coast of Washington and a recent paper has devoted large space to making known this new resource. Already Oil City has been founded on the Hoh River, which runs out of the Olympic range into the ocean. These are a few illustrations of new development within the year.

SYNODICAL ORGANIZATION.

Last October the home mission committees of the Coast synods presented to the synods carefully wrought-out plans for synodical organization in home missions, following the Board's definition of such an organization. They also recommended that the synods proceed to organization and the adoption of the plans. No one synod had any opportunity of knowing what any other synod intended to do. But the unanimity of action is remarkable. Each synod approved of synodical organization as a principle but hesitated to take any definite action until the presbyteries have considered the subject. Therefore each synod referred the whole matter of organization back to the presbyteries to be discussed at the spring meetings, and also asked the presbyteries to prepare such plans for organization as would meet their views and send the plans to the home mission committees to assemble them and report to the synods next October.

PASTOR-EVANGELISM.

Thirteen pastor-evangelists have been at work in the district during the year. A multitude of duties have fallen upon them aside from evangelism. But in every case they have performed the duties assigned, and they have been under the immediate direction of the home mission committees. From their reports the following figures are tabulated:—

Number of churches visited	285
Sermons preached	941
Pastoral visits made	4,006
Evangelistic services held	261
Professed conversions	147
Added to churches	351
Ministers located	7
Raised for ministers' salaries	$7,445.00
Sent the Board of Home Missions	1,825.33
Raised for miscellaneous purposes including church buildings and manses	5,256.00

Three of the men have given half-time to the work of Sunday-school missions. One man has served two presbyteries and one has served three. One serves but one presbytery but it covers an entire state and part of another. All have done fine work for the Church and have magnified their office. The position of pastor-evangelist has commended itself to the presbyteries of this district. Only one presbytery, aside from those which are self-supporting, has been without the office and that one desires it next year.

Important work has been done in the Coast District among the lumber camps. Fuller account of it is given on page forty.

HOME MISSION CONFERENCES.

Probably the greatest movement ever inaugurated on the Coast is that planned by the Home Missions Council. Under the auspices of the Home Missions Council conferences were held in Spokane, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Reno. They called together representative men of the various evangelical Churches doing home mission work in this district, and resulted in the Neglected Fields Survey now being made.

The later conferences of representatives of the Board with the chairmen of the home mission committees were of great value. They have given a new view of the home mission problems and a better understanding of the way to meet them. It is believed that both sorts of conferences mentioned above have given a new impetus to cooperation in home mission work and that the results of them will come in increasing value for many years.

The whole Pacific Coast is alive with interest in the opening of the Panama Canal in 1915. The great Exposition to be held in San Francisco that year is calling world-wide attention to this Coast.

Already some of the great steamship companies have visited the Coast and have either purchased or are arranging for docking privileges in our ports. The commercial advantages that are to accrue and the coming of large numbers of people to fill up our unoccupied territory are among the well recognized attendants upon the opening of the Canal. The commercial bodies have begun to take steps to prepare for the immigrant and, it is well to note, not to see him exploited but properly cared for. A congress looking toward this end has been held in Tacoma since the first of the year, and the obligation toward the possible immigrant from a commercial standpoint was thoroughly discussed.

What the relation of the Church must be toward those whom we expect to come is another home mission question. It is upon the heart and conscience of the Church and must receive greater attention as we approach the new era. One thing is certain. There will be increased call for home mission work throughout this entire territory. It is well to say so much this year that the Church may not be taken unawares when larger calls are made for men and means to meet the new problems which inevitably we must face.

LUMBER CAMP WORK.

The year just closing has been in many respects very encouraging for the missionary work in the logging camps. The first three months were spent in Washington, Oregon and northern California, by the Rev. Frank E. Higgins, for three and one-half years the Board's lumber camp missionary.

In Washington the Rev. J. W. Beard, at work in Olympia Presbytery, won the hearts of the men in the camps as well as the ears of the lumber firms. Later in the year he felt it his duty to accept a call to the First Presbyterian Church at Hoquiam. Since assuming this pastorate he has continued his work in the camps, where the men showed their appreciation of his ministry among them by presenting him with a check of over one hundred fifty dollars for a Christmas present. Mr. Beard will do much as pastor in Hoquiam towards drawing the men of the camps to the church. Hoquiam is one of the important points in the lumber industry of Washington. Two other workers are urgently needed, one in connection with Mr. Beard in this part of Washington, and the other in the logging region out from Everett, Washington.

For the lumber camp work in Portland, Oregon, the Rev. Fred W. Davis was secured and, through him, the financial support of Mr. C. A. Smith, one of our largest lumbermen. A committee of lumbermen is organized in Portland and has this work in charge under the direction of the Rev. William S. Holt, D. D. Mr. Davis has been employed in the camps in Coos County and along both sides of the Columbia River. A man is greatly needed to work with him in these camps.

In northern California in many camps in Humboldt County a missionary is greatly needed.

The great obstacles to the work on the Coast are the great distances, the expense and time in traveling from one place to another.

In September Mr. Higgins visited the Virginia woods, holding services in the camps and also in one of the small towns. Last summer one of the students at Princeton spent his vacation in the camps out from Winterburne, holding meetings at Winterburne, where there is a small church, and in other outlying districts. The conditions in West Virginia are similar to those in Minnesota. The camps are large and the bunk houses furnish good places to hold the services, while on the Pacific Coast the men are scattered in small shacks and it is difficult for the missionary to get the men together.

In Minnesota we have six men and one woman in the work; four of these men are converts from the camps and are doing splendid work, to the satisfaction of the men in the camps and to the companies who own the camps. The successful work of these men argues that we need more converted lumber-jacks to enter the field. Mr. Jack McCall is working in the Cloquet camps; Mr. Martin Johnson is in the camps in what is known as the Big Fork country in Itasca County; he also takes care of a little church at Big Fork which has grown out of camp work in the past. Mr. John Sornberger is working in the camps north of Virginia. Mr. Matt Daly is north and east of Duluth in Lake County. The Rev. W. J. Lowrie and the Rev. A. L. Richardson, pastors, are giving part of their time to this work, and are doing splendid service in Aitkin County. Besides these, we now have Mrs. McCall, the wife of one of the missionaries, who is visiting the hospitals in Virginia, Cloquet, Superior, Wisconsin, and Duluth. For a time the Roman Catholic Sisters objected to our having a woman visit their hospitals, but these objections have been withdrawn and Mrs.

McCall now finds a welcome. The men in the various hospitals are always glad to see her, and we look for valuable results from her ministering.

During the year over five tons of reading matter have been distributed in Minnesota and several tons in other states.

Another feature of our work is the visiting among the homesteaders. The missionaries find many families away in the forest while on the trail from camp to camp. When it is possible to gather a few of them together they hold religious services. This is the only opportunity these people have of listening to the story of Christ. Seven barrels and four boxes of second-hand clothing have been distributed among these poor people of the forest.

The winter has been extremely cold—the most severe Mr. Higgins has known in his sixteen winters in this work. It has been very hard on the missionaries but they have been faithful to their trust and in spite of deep snow and cold weather have been continually on the trail. The companies where this work has been carried on have expressed their appreciation and are making the missionaries more welcome every year.

We are not able to tell the exact number of conversions. Many have expressed their desire to lead different lives; hundreds have asked to be prayed for, and everywhere the men have given respectful attention to the missionaries. The number of meetings held have not been counted, nor the miles traveled, though they have been many and the journeys often made in darkness and danger for the sake of the men of the woods who could be reached only by the itinerant camp missionary. The one sad feature in the whole work is to see so much to be done and realize there are so few workers in this great harvest field.

ALASKA.

It is fitting that the review of the work in Alaska should begin at the northernmost station. It is in the Presbytery of the Yukon. Five years before the Presbytery of Yukon was organized, however, in 1896, the station at Point Barrow was occupied by the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. H. Richmond Marsh. With the exception of four years, during which time the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel R. Spriggs were on the field, being transferred as missionaries to our Board by the Bureau of Education, by whom they were sent to the school work of that northernmost station, Dr. and Mrs. Marsh have continued as the Board's missionaries at Barrow.

A year ago they sent word that, with the annual return this summer of the boat which once a year carries supplies to that isolated station, they must come out permanently.

The result of the unique ministry which such a field demands is suggested in the following statement from a letter received from

Dr. Marsh in October but written early in August. The annual trading ship had just arrived:

"I want to give you a sign of the change that has come to these people since we came here fourteen years ago. Then if a single ship were in sight I might ring the bell for church all day and not a soul would appear. They were all on the ship trading, dancing and drinking diluted alcohol. Yesterday there were three ships at anchor here, and the morning service was so crowded that many had to sit on the floor in the aisles, and there was an attendance of seventy-nine at Sabbath school including twenty-four in one class of the young women of the age of those who used to always be on the ships; and the evening meeting was well attended as usual.

"The reason for the overflow was that many of the Nuwuk people were down to help work freight, and twenty people came up from Point Hope this summer on the 'Bear' to work here. Point Hope 'went broke' last winter, but one whale and but one bear having been caught."

Alas, that the trip of the ship from the States should have been the occasion of an epidemic of grip which swept through the Arctic village resulting sometimes in pneumonia and death!

The report of the Barrow work which we present must necessarily be a year behind the doing of it. The outline is given as follows from Dr. Marsh's letter:

"We have had a very busy year and we feel a year of much accomplished. The lumber came in the summer for the house and church, so during the remaining days of August and until the snow stopped, we were all busy with the building work. We first put up the frame of the house and finished two rooms so we could move in and give up the house that we were using of Tak-puk's, and then we divided the force and some worked on the church and the first service was held September eighteenth in the church, but all the finishing touches were not in. We paid for all the work done on the house but the people wanted nothing for the work done on the church, saying that it was their building. It seats two hundred fifty, which is not enough when all the people are here at Christmas and in the spring for whaling, but is ample for the most of the year. One thing that you probably do not see at home is a prayer-meeting with the same attendance as a Sunday service. Our Wednesday evening meetings average two hundred, the same as the Sunday evening meetings.

"We have but one communion service each year—on Easter Sunday. This year eighteen united with the Utkiavik church and nine infants were baptized, and five united with the church at Nuwuk, the village at the real Point Barrow, and six infants were baptized.

"The Christian Endeavor society has helped me in their meetings to make real translations of the Bible the way that they talk colloquially, so that I feel that it can be understood by the older people, who will never learn any English. There are about six or seven people who are 'shut-ins' and all this winter the Christian Endeavor young people have taken turns visiting each one of these people on Friday night and singing hymns, reading the translations and praying with them. The whole society was divided up into sections and these sections alternate at the different houses. It has been a great joy to those shut in and a big help to those who have helped. A stereopticon was sent in last summer and we have been translating passages to tell of the pictures shown, for seeing the pictures fastens the passage better than simply hearing."

The foregoing hints at the versatility necessary for a physician and minister who is a missionary at Point Barrow. As a further suggestion of what the missionary has done I quote again from Dr. Marsh:

"We have thirty-five gospel hymns, a short catechism which every one must learn for admission to the church, Morning Service from the Presbyterian Common Prayer by Van Dyke's Committee, Communion Service, Baptism of infants and adults, forty-five pages of translations. So you see it would make quite a nice book."

A later letter indicates that Dr. Marsh was working on Old Testament translations for use in the stereopticon lectures, and that he was being relieved of the janitor work by the young men of the Christian Endeavor society who were sharing the work,—two of the Christian Endeavorers being responsible for the work a week at a time. In this they have set an example which may well be followed by Endeavorers in the States. Their spirit of loyalty is still further indicated by the fact that last summer, when nearly all of them were "down the coast sealing, many of them walked up as far as twelve miles to attend the consecration meeting."

Another suggestive incident occurred on the evening of the big celebration of the year, their "Nelukatak" which Dr. Marsh says is a combination of the Fourth of July and Thanksgiving, and which consists of "a feast of whale meat all day with blanket tossing and at night a dance." Last summer this "Nelukatak" came on the night of the Christian Endeavor meeting, and Dr. Marsh supposed the young people would all be in attendance upon it. Notwithstanding the festivities were at the hour of the service "the president marched down with all the society following and had a fine meeting."

A new feature of the missionary's work last summer was the celebration of Children's Day. After the years of preparation and training, the special services met with hearty response and were much enjoyed. Who will say that such work is not worth while?

The Board is at present seeking for the successors of Dr. and

Interior Alaska in Summer—On the Yukon

Mrs. Marsh to carry on the work which should not be unshepherded when, for the sake of their children, they return to the States.

Coming south through the interior of Alaska we find a familiar stopping place at Fairbanks. This field was opened in connection with the gold find of 1904. As a result of patient, persevering enthusiasm, in spite of discouragements and handicaps that sometimes seemed insurmountable, the Presbyterian congregation with its excellent property of church and manse has met all indebtedness, and with the beginning of the new fiscal year is asking the Board for one hundred fifty dollars less for the salary of the pastor, the congregation themselves guaranteeing the payment of that amount and promising to increase it year by year.

The pastor, the Rev. James H. Condit, is to represent the Presbytery of Yukon at the General Assembly at Louisville, after a journey paralleled by no other commissioner from a church in the United States. Starting by the twentieth of March, the journey began with three hundred miles of travel by horse and sled, thence by the Alaska railway to Cordova, of copper fame, to the meeting of the Yukon Presbytery, and from thence by ship and railway to Louisville.

A hint of the spiritual growth at Fairbanks is found in the cottage prayer-meetings held during the Week of Prayer with good attendance and interest, and in the admission into the church at the following communion service of nine adults—five heads of families—on profession of faith. Practically all the members of the church were present and it was an inspiring occasion.

Another fact reveals the hold which the work has upon the hearts of the people. With the Arctic temperature very many months of the year, sometimes as much as fifty degrees below zero, there are thirty scholars of the Sabbath school who have not failed in attendance a single Sabbath for a year. Of these six have not missed a Sabbath for a period of two years or more, while nine have a record of perfect attendance for three years or more.

Mr. Condit's unique vacation is given the following brief mention:

"I was away during October for a vacation trip. I secured a fine lot of game, grouse, ducks and rabbits which come in in good place to feed the hungry Condit children. We gathered cranberries and blueberries enough to last us all winter and raised on our own and adjoining lot vegetables enough to supply us until spring. So we are thankful for an abundant food supply."

For this far away field with its present importance as well as its promise, it is well to be able to look through the eyes of one who, having known the Alaskan conditions for years, is speaking with the level judgment of a man as well as with the enthusiasm of a missionary.

"Never since I have been in Alaska has there been so much attention, and more, so much intelligent effort to assist in the development of the country as now. We are much nearer to a solution of the transportation problem than ever before. With a railroad or even with a summer stage and mail road from the coast to the Tanana, there would follow such a development of the interior as would speedily provide fields for many more missionaries. The impression is prevalent that our present wagon road to Chitina will be granted appropriations for a period of years sufficient to make of it an automobile road with a possible 'eight days to Seattle' as a goal. There is at present a strong agitation toward making the present road a summer mail route to take the place of the present very unsatisfactory river route. More recently, the attitude of the navy authorities toward making the Matanuska coal field a naval coal supply with a government railroad to these fields makes the possibility of a railroad to the interior much brighter.

"The conditions here in the Tanana are much more favorable in a business way than I had anticipated for this year.

"One of our business men, Mr. Johnson, a trustee of our church, whom you may remember as having called at the New York office two years ago, told me that this last October had been the best business month for his house since their establishment in Fairbanks, with one exception. The various quartz enterprises are all promising, there have been some excellent new placer discoveries of moderate extent but quite important in the aggregate, and we seem to be on the eve of a very important addition to our productive capacity in the advent of the dredger and development of low grade propositions which heretofore have been unprofitable. I am firmly of the opinion that Fairbanks is a permanent camp."

The third church in the Alaskan field in the Yukon Presbytery is at Cordova, the coast entrance to the copper section. The current literature of the year has made general readers familiar with the conditions of commercial and governmental interests in this section of our great new Alaskan country. This church, now two years old, has been showing signs of growth during the past year.

Word came last summer that "although this community has been passing through the most trying times of its history, our church and its interests have been able to hold the ground already gained and make a reasonable advance in things both material and spiritual. The different organizations of the church have all kept up well in membership and interest." The finances of the year bear strong testimony to the firm foundation upon which our church life is being built.

The pastor, the Rev. M. E. Koonce, Ph. D., says in the last report received: "The finances of the congregation have been kept up to our expectations; we agreed to furnish three hundred dollars on the salary, and that amount is now provided for. We also will be able to pay to the Church Erection Board the installment of one hundred sixty dollars on the manse loan, before April first. These amounts, together with the money raised for completing and painting our buildings, will total almost one thousand dollars raised by the congregation since the beginning of the fiscal year."

A year ago when the veteran Alaskan worker, the Rev. S. Hall Young, D. D., was visiting among the churches of the East, he secured from churches in Albany, the Second Presbyterian Church of Washington, Pennsylvania, and the Bedford Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn, contributions for the purchase of a bell for the Cordova church. Early in the summer the bell arrived at Cordova, and was hung in the tower of the church. The gift from the eastern churches is deeply appreciated by the Cordova people and their pastor who writes: "It is a very beautifully toned bell and adds very much to our equipment."

The measure of the work as well as of the future of the field is given by Dr. Koonce as follows:

"The whole situation in this place, so far as population and prosperity go, hangs very much on what Congress may do, or fail to do, at this session. If any legislation is enacted by which the coal fields are to be opened up, then we may expect a new prosperity here, and a great addition to our population. If this should be done, the effects of it would be felt here immediately, and the coming year should be a prosperous one for the church. If such measures are not carried through Congress, we shall probably not gain in population, especially not for a year or more. There are other mineral developments, in copper and gold, which are slowly proving up, in the regions lying back along the railroad, and eventually these will contribute to the strength and prosperity of our town, but it will require years of development. At the present time, the whole territory, especially this part of it along the south coast, is pinning its hope for the future on some action by Congress that will be favorable to its development.

"We have frequent assurances, among our people, of a deep spiritual interest in the work of the Master, but we feel also that the great majority of the people of the community are not being reached by the ordinary activities of the church. On special occasions like Christmas, for example, nearly every one will come to church, and especially to the children's entertainment, but the greater number of people in such places as this have no constant or regular interest in things spiritual. I am expecting soon to have a season of special services, which we hope and pray may be real revival services. We endeavor to keep the church and its work before the people as much as possible by means of frequent social gatherings and personal pastoral visitations. We have not missed holding services on every Sunday since we came here, fifteen months ago."

Of the unorganized work in the Yukon Presbytery much that is interesting could be written. Dr. Young's work of the year has been what any young missionary might covet. Returning to the unshepherded and unsettled interior of Alaska, he has made his headquarters at Iditarod, reaching out into the regions round about and ministering as only a man can to the men who are seeking for the hidden wealth which has lured so many in search of fortunes. After the summer was ended Dr. Young said that region had yielded three millions of gold. He felt, however, that after two or three more years, unless "new strikes" were made in that section, the wealth would be largely exhausted and the population much diminished. He earnestly urges, however, that for the present our Church, the only one ministering in that field, have a missionary on that field. Dr. Young was preaching every other Sunday in Iditarod and every alternate Sunday at Flat City, seven and one-half miles away.

From the friends in the States who know Dr. Young and have heard his appeal he has received more than two tons of magazines and books for his free reading room, making it possible to establish also a circulating library. For hundreds of miles in all directions he has supplied with reading material the road houses, villages and camps. Dr. Young's letter written at Christmas time gives a vivid picture of the work in that far-away field:—

"I wish you could see me as I write in my log cabin, with the books and periodicals—sent me by my Presbyterian friends in the East—covering the shelves, racks and tables of the room, and a crowd of men occupying my box chairs, reading. The thermometer registers forty-five degrees below zero outside, but we are warm and cozy, with a big stove crackling and glowing in our midst. For a week past the weather has never been warmer than twenty-five degrees below, but the air is still and dry and the weather really pleasant. I run out to the store or post-office in felt slippers and without an overcoat, and do not suffer. I start on my seven and one-half mile tramp to Flat City when it is twenty to forty degrees below zero wrapped in my coon-skin overcoat, but before I have walked a mile my overcoat comes off and is carried on my arm the rest of the way. I make the seven and one-half miles in two hours or less. Sometimes I travel twenty-five or thirty miles in a day, walking up and down the creeks and the river to the various camps.

"My services are well attended, and increasing in interest. Alternate Sundays I hold services at a private house at two p. m. on Flat Creek, three miles from Flat City, and at eight p. m. at Flat City in a clubhouse rented by the Masons, Odd Fellows and myself. I have an organ at each place, having bought the one here, and having the free use of the other two, and have good chairs.

"I never spent a winter when I felt my labors were more blessed and fruitful. The people tell me that my coming has wrought a great moral change upon this whole region. I am the only minister in a radius of one hundred fifty or two hundred miles. I have married nine couples since coming here, officiated at four funerals, and have made between two and three hundred sick calls. The people depend upon me, and I enjoy the work."

The services outlined in the foregoing were continued up to the middle of February, the day of our last word from Dr. Young. A letter at that time presents forcefully to the Board the claim of that section upon the Church, indicating that there will be new camps the present summer and that the minister will have more work to do than ever before. Several students in the seminaries have been apparently interested in the opportunities afforded by this unique Alaskan field, but when the matter of accepting it was pressed home, each in turn felt it necessary to reply "I pray thee have me excused."

The call continues as before for a young unmarried man, capable, consecrated, enthusiastic, to meet in that northwest camping country the men of training and culture and experience who constitute no small part of the multitudes who are seeking there for the gold that perisheth. Where can the worker be found?

Continuing our journey to southeastern Alaska, we come upon the long-established work, which has continued as hitherto at the various stations whose names are already familiar to the readers of the Reports of our Board. There has been little that is striking in the year's work. It has been maintained with the same earnest, painstaking care that has characterized the years before. The list of stations and missionary pastors is the same.

Some building has been done on the various fields, as for instance on the Northern Light Church at Juneau where the Rev. John B. Stevens with splendid comradeship won the enthusiastic cooperation of the young men and boys in excavating under the church for a basement room, now completed, which has afforded opportunity for social gatherings that are one of the strongholds of the church and safeguards of the young people.

A similar enterprise was carried through at the isolated station at Hoonah, under the leadership of the Rev. George E. Good. Architecturally plain, but substantial in structure, resting largely on piles driven in the water, a new building stands ready to welcome the natives who have formerly had no place of general meeting other than the church itself.

When one recalls the temptations arising from the old-time customs, one gives thanks for such a haven of refuge. The earnest effort of the people themselves to withstand the customs of their old-time superstitious days, not beyond the remembrance of many, is illustrated by the fact that one day when some heathen celebration was planned, one of our members and his wife went away early in the morning in a canoe and returned only in the evening when they knew the festivities were over. Such is their practical way of answering the prayer, "Lead us not into temptation."

At Petersburg the building of the manse and church has been under the supervision of the Rev. James S. Clark, of Wrangell, the missionary forty miles distant who has had the oversight of the work at Petersburg ever since we entered that village some years ago. The latter part of the winter Mr. and Mrs. Clark left the Wrangell work in charge of an elder, and went to Petersburg for an extended stay. Although a lantern served as a light for the pulpit—which was a box—and candles served to illumine the darkness elsewhere in the newly erected church building, delightful services were held which met with enthusiastic response on the part of those who had long watched for the completion of the work and the coming of a pastor.

A social hall at Wrangell is asked for earnestly, the request strongly reinforced by the presentation of its need.

At Sitka though no actual building was in process, yet electric lights were installed in the church, the people raising over one hundred dollars to pay for them. Of the improvement the pastor, the Rev. E. E. Bromley, writes as follows:

"A change in the lighting system from whale oil to electricity is a mark of progress worth noting, and we have people in our church that can trace the development from the one to the other. One of our native men, who is now superintendent of the Sunday school, had occasion to refer to this not long ago in reviewing the lesson. He said he could remember when their home was lighted with whale oil, and he had carried this primitive light around in a frying pan. Then there was the period when the home was lighted with tallow candles. One day the missionary said the white men had a kind of water that would burn and in time his father was induced to try coal-oil in a small lamp. The lamp has done service for a long while and is still the principal source of light, but in a few places they have gas and electricity.

"But the progress is not all in material things. We see that some are approaching the age of electricity in spiritual things. The light of the gospel is not a pot of whale oil or a tallow candle, but a flaming arc light that shines out in the hour of darkness and sorrow and sheds light on life's unsolved problems."

A suggestive change has occurred on the field of the Rev. David F. Waggoner at Klawock with its out-stations of Klinquan, Shakan and Howkan. The Bureau of Education is removing to a new location the natives of these villages—Hydahs—who have lived long in the old towns with poorly built houses where proper sanitary conditions have been impossible. Many of the people have longed to get away from sights associated in their minds with much of evil and pain. The establishing of a new home center—Hydaburg—has aroused much interest, though naturally all are not wholly in favor of it. The government school is maintained at the new town and our missionary work must center there strongly. The method of preparing the town for residents reminds one of some of the Bible incidents with reference to the establishing of the Israelites in the land of Canaan. All have worked together for the good of all,—the men at the end of the working day caring for what was necessary for the affairs of their own families, and the women taking turns in preparing the mid-day meal close to the center of the day's operation, so that the work might go forward with as little delay as possible. The outcome of the experiment will be watched with large interest by all who know of it.

During the summer following the meeting of the General Assembly, to which he was a commissioner, Mr. Waggoner was in the States in the effort to secure funds for equipping his field with a launch. By the generous gift of Mr. Samuel Childs, a fine marine engine was secured. Although all the funds were not forthcoming, the Board authorized the completion of the boat which in October was christened The Lois, and started from Seattle upon her northward journey to her missionary field. With the itinerant methods of native life, owing to the fishing and canning industry, some such equipment as the fine launch The Lois is needed to enable the missionary to reach his field and keep in touch with the people.

A similar marine engine has been secured for Mr. Marsden for the new and larger boat which succeeds his Marietta, so long his companion in his missionary journeys centering about his field at Saxman. Mr. Marsden himself planned a year ago to build the new hull for the boat with the assistance of Indian helpers. A small-pox quarantine soon after the work had started compelled him to continue alone, thus delaying the completion of the boat until late in the season. The purchase of the engine in March will put the boat in readiness for services with the opening of Alaskan waterways this spring.

Another feature distinguishes this year on the Klawock field, and that is the transfer of the work at Kake by the American Friends Board of Foreign Missions to our Board. This is in the interest of unity and should result in increased efficiency on the field.

A similar transfer is under way at Juneau, the Friends passing over to our Board their native work at Douglas three miles distant.

At Klukwan the Rev. and Mrs. Fred R. Falconer continue their work. The new departure this year has been of an agricultural sort. The Government last year furnished about six hundred bushels of potatoes which were distributed among the natives by the missionary who helped to prepare the ground and plant them. Enthusiasm in this direction was the greater because of the failure of the ooligan work in the recent years. As a result of the potato planting, between four and five tons of potatoes were dug at the end of the season. As this was all done by hand it meant an immense amount of work. This is the beginning of a permanent industry that should mean very much for the self-support of the natives, both in their home and church life.

The usual services have been maintained on the Klukwan field with increasing results. The health of the natives has been better than usual, and Mr. Falconer attributes this fact to the help of the mission hospital at Haines some miles distant, where the Rev. Allen F. McLean continues his work. The missionary family from Klukwan spent a month at Haines, Mr. Falconer helping Mr. McLean for two months in making improvements upon the hospital. The second month of that time, the work at Klukwan was maintained by Mrs. Falconer who returned with the children to look after the natives during the necessarily extended absence of the pastor. The hospital at Haines and the school at Sitka, both important phases of service in southeastern Alaska, are under the care of the Woman's Board, and of these full report will be made by them.

From Sitka as elsewhere on the Alaskan field comes oft repeated and discouraging statement of the ills—moral and physical—befalling the natives from the increasing numbers of whites who, because of commercial interests, find their way into that country. The Government and the Church are spending thousands of dollars every year to educate the natives away from their old heathen customs and to fit them for citizenship, while the unprincipled white man encourages them to hold to their old ways and tempts them to various forms of evil.

PORTO RICO.

Our Church is familiar with the introduction of Protestant missionary work into Porto Rico, following almost immediately the occupation of the island at the request of its people by the United States Government. The careful planning by the leading denominations as to the section of Porto Rico which each was to claim as its own territory for missionary work was not only practical and appropriate, but also prophetic of the movement which is being conducted under the auspices of the Home Missions Council in connection with the Neglected Fields Survey in the States. In Porto Rico such a movement was especially necessary, as the people had been accustomed to only one Church, and for Protestantism to go to them with many Churches would have been to confuse and weaken its cause.

Of course, at San Juan and Ponce, ports of entrance and large cities, there was abundant room for the efforts of all. The chain of work maintained by our Church, as is well known, from San Juan follows the coast line to the western end of the island, with fringing stations here and there reaching toward the interior. Briefly surveyed, the record of the year is as follows:—

At San Juan the supervision of the entire work has been with the Rev. Edward A. Odell, our efficient missionary there, who has hitherto been in charge of the Second church (Spanish-speaking), with a membership of one hundred thirty-eight, and the Hugh O'Neill Memorial, in the city of San Juan.

Santurce, a suburb with out-stations, has a Spanish-speaking church of two hundred seventy members, which was for several years under the pastorate of the Rev. W. Frank Gloeckner. Continued residence in the tropics resulted in illness which compelled him early in the year to return to the States.

With the assistance of two Bible readers and other native workers Mr. Odell has shepherded the entire field centering at the capital, with its three organized churches and its five out-stations, maintaining nineteen regular services each week. Added membership, increased contributions toward the support of the local work, as well as to the pastor's salary, clearing off of indebtedness, and enlarged contributions to missions,—these are unmistakable tokens of definite advance.

Reaching toward the interior a little to the southwest, we find the two stations of Corozal and Naranjito, eight miles apart, which form one field under the continued pastorate of the Rev. Howard T. Jason. Both are organized as churches and there are beside four out-stations. The year has been marked by the erection at Naranjito of the Geisinger Chapel, given by Mrs. A. A. Geisinger, of Danville, Pennsylvania. The chapel is of concrete and was completed and ready for dedication at the close of the year. Appropriate and attractive services were held, in which the pastor was assisted by Mr. Odell from San Juan, and Dr. E. Raymond Hildreth, the physician in charge of the San Juan Hospital. It was appropriate that these should aid in the celebration of the completion of the work, as in July they had assisted at the laying of the cornerstone. The thanks of the Church are due to the Baldwin Locomotive Company, which, following the beautiful custom of its late president, Mr. John H. Converse, upon presentation of the need, has contributed bells for our Porto Rican chapels. One of these bells was hung in the Geisinger Chapel and rung for the first time on the day of dedication,—a sound never before heard by the Naranjito villagers.

Further westward and on the coast lies the field where the Rev. Edwin A. McDonald continues his ministry. Three organized churches—Isabela, Quebradillas and Jobos—have thirteen out-stations, with a total of twenty-one weekly services. With the aid of one Bible reader and two student helpers from the Mayaguez Training School Mr. McDonald has maintained the work on an encouraging basis.

After several years of service he and Mrs. McDonald came home for a summer furlough, the field being cared for in his absence by the Rev. Arnold Smith, our missionary pastor at Aguadilla. A growing spiritual interest has been manifest, shown especially in the large attendance of the mid-week prayer-meetings in the Isabela church; the addition of members, particularly in the Jobos church; and throughout the field in the fact of fully met financial pledges, notwithstanding unusual failure of crops because of an exceptionally severe drought.

At the northwestern curve of the island coast is Aguadilla, whose pastor, the Rev. Arnold Smith, added to his own field during the summer that of Mr. McDonald's. During those months student helpers from the Mayaguez Training School continued the care of the services throughout his large field. Mr. Smith has also been assisted by two Bible readers. The field includes five organized churches, of which the central and strongest is Aguadilla, with two hundred and forty-three members. These five churches with eleven out-stations maintain regular weekly services to the number of twenty-two.

This year has been marked by both encouraging and discouraging features. A disastrous fire in August destroyed much of the village of Moca, including the place which we rented for services and all the church furniture. Since the disaster the services are held in the home of the elder. Notwithstanding the fact that all who desire to enter can not find room within, some having to stand outside, the interest has not abated. Aguada, one of the out-stations, was swept by similar fire in February. Providentially, a change of the wind checked the course of the flames toward our rented building and, while many of our people lost much, our mission property suffered not at all.

The increased number of applicants for church membership, the increased efficiency of the native helpers and the increase of offerings for the maintenance of the work as well as for missionary purposes, testify to the excellent work of the missionary in charge.

Again our stations reach toward the interior, this time toward the southeast, where are San Sebastian under the continued pastorate of the Rev. Eli S. Lheureux, and Lares with the Rev. A. Roy Thompson in charge of the field. With San Sebastian as the organized church, four out-stations occupy Mr. Lheureux's attention. Mr. Thompson's field includes six out-stations together with the organized church at Lares. Assisted by a student helper and a Bible reader careful pastoral work finds its reward in increasing intelligence and loyalty to the church.

The year on the Lares field has been characterized by the effort, continually opposed by Roman Catholic officials and long unsuccessful, to acquire a site for a church building. It is hoped that the last obstacle has been overcome and that the fuller equipment of this field may speedily be secured.

San Sebastain and Lares are both mountain fields. As is characteristic with mountain peoples throughout the world, these are characterized by a depth of religious feeling and a form of loyalty to old-time customs which have added to the difficulty of the field and delayed rapid numerical growth. Nevertheless the work is reported as being much easier than in previous years, with more adult attendants upon the services and more intelligent appreciation of them.

Lying near the coast between Aguadilla and Mayaguez, the large city of the western end of the island, is Añasco. Left pastorless some years ago when Mr. Smith was transferred to the larger work at Aguadilla, it has been pleading for its own pastor ever since. Earnest search in the States has failed to find the man, and the Añasco work has been cared for, with the aid of a Bible reader and four student helpers, by the Rev. Henry C. Thomson, D. D. The Añasco field includes three organized churches and three out-stations.

In addition to the oversight of the Añasco field and his duties as one of the corps of instructors in the Training School, Dr. Thomson is also the missionary pastor of our large church at Mayaguez, with four hundred sixteen members and five regular weekly services. The out-stations connected with the Mayaguez Central church number nine, with not less than twelve weekly services. This means that Dr. Thomson is not only busy, but overburdened, notwithstanding the fact that two student helpers—and in the summer two Bible readers—have been co-workers under his direction. For a large part of the year Dr. Thomson was responsible also for the Marina church, with seventy-eight members, located as the name implies in a seacoast ward, and second in point of time as well as in size to the Central church. The latter part of the year, however, the Marina field has been cared for by the Rev. James A. McAllister, the president of the Training School. He also has had charge of the work at Cabo Rojo, nine miles toward the interior. The Cabo Rojo out-stations number six, with as many weekly services; while the added four at Cabo Rojo make ten for which Mr. McAllister is responsible each week in addition to the Marina church at Mayaguez and the charge of the Training School affairs. The only assistant in this work is a licentiate under the care of the Presbytery of Porto Rico.

The one Porto Rican pastor, the Rev. Federico Garcia Davila, is in charge of the field centering at Maricao, where there are held three weekly services. The six out-stations have each one service each week. The development of this work, while in the hands of Mr. Garcia, is supervised by the home mission committee of the Presbytery of Porto Rico and contains promise in its ministry to the dwellers in the scattered villages which without his presence would be as sheep without a shepherd.

For the last central station under our Church we follow the curve of the island toward the southwest and stop at San German, long the field of the Rev. J. Will Harris, with twenty-two out-stations, including with San German itself, six organized churches and thirty-nine weekly services. Mr. Harris has abundant need of the five native helpers, only one of whom has reached the point of entrance to the Training School.

In addition to Mr. Harris' care of this large field, he has been also active this year in securing the property planned for use by our Church, through the Presbytery of Porto Rico, for the establishment of what is proposed as the "Polytechnic Institute of Porto Rico." This project has the approval of the presbytery not only, but also of business men in Porto Rico and the United States who believe that such training as it would give to the Porto Rican young men and women will fit them better both for intelligent citizenship and for efficient Christian service.

With reference to the Training School at Mayaguez, we are glad to give the following statement presented by the Rev. James A. McAllister, who is the head of the Training School faculty:

"The sixth year of the Training School began August first, 1911, with twenty-two students. Of these, four are Cubans, two belong to the sixth year theological class—the graduating class; four to the fourth year class; three to the third year and six to the first year theological classes; and seven in the preparatory class. Later in the year three more students entered the latter class, one of whom is a Cuban. Those of classes six and three spent the six months from August to December in the mission work under the direction of different missionaries. During the second half of the year the fourth year class is out at work in the same way. Four are now in the employ of the Board receiving a salary, and for this reason do not receive scholarships from the Board of Education.

"There have been no 'quitters' this year, and very little occasion for discipline. Nearly all are doing very good steady work. There has been a full corps of five teachers,—the new addition this year being Miss Aura May Chessington, who has charge of the English and music. We are pleased to speak of the progress made with the vocal music. The students have learned to read music and sing parts,—something almost entirely new among our native members. And what is of most importance, they are learning how the hymns ought to be sung and how to lead the singing in the churches. Besides, no less than eleven of the students are learning to play the organ, and some of them are already playing regularly in the services.

"The course of lectures given this year to the students is worthy of special note. The first was by Juan B. Soto, Ph.D., one of the most prominent of the young lawyers of the island and an elder in our church in Aguadilla, on 'The Philosophy of History' from the Christian point of view. The second was by Dr. Manuel Guzman Rodriguez, an elder of the Central church of this city, on 'Eugenio M. Hostos and the Philosophy of History',—Hostos being one of the great writers and patriots of Porto Rico. Another was by the Rev. Julio M. Ramu, formerly of the United Brethren Mission, now assistant secretary of the Bible Society for the surrounding islands, especially those in which the French is spoken, telling of the need of consecrated men for these islands, and arousing great interest among the students. An interesting address was given by Miss Sallie Dickey, who for seven years was missionary of the United Presbyterian Church in India.

"The students have been the leading factor in the organization and carrying on of a young men's society, which was finally organized as a Young Men's Christian Association. In their meetings, which are truly Christian in spirit, as many as sixty to seventy young men attend."

The medical work in Mayaguez, under the care of Dr. Willis W. Creswell, has been larger than ever because of the completion of the Rye Hospital, which was mentioned in the Report of last year. The formal opening and dedication occurred on the twentieth of June with about twenty present, including the mayor and the ex-mayor of the city. The day following the hospital was opened to patients and an operation was performed. A brief service preceding the clinic has been the daily custom. The pressure of medical ministry quickly became so severe that the Presbytery of Porto Rico made request of the Board for an interne to assist Dr. Creswell and for an additional nurse. In the autumn when the work was light they had an average of forty-four patients a day at the clinics, the number running sometimes to nearly twice that. With the hospital patients in addition, both Dr. Creswell and the nurse were not infrequently up all night and all day. Earnest effort to secure an interne to relieve Dr. Creswell proved unavailing to the close of the fiscal year, but in February an additional nurse, Miss Margaret Isabel McLarty, was added to the corps of helpers. Grateful mention is due to Dr. Gimenez, a Porto Rican surgeon, who in operative cases has assisted Dr. Creswell.

In addition to the work on the field as conducted by the missionaries and their student helpers is the school work—throughout the years an important factor—conducted by the Woman's

Board, report of which will be made by them. They will also report upon their special feature at San Juan, the Presbyterian hospital located in the ward of Santurce. Its efficient administration has contributed largely to the prestige of Protestantism, not only in Presbyterian missionary circles but throughout the island.

Following this resumé of our work in Porto Rico it needs no words from the Board's officers to assure the people of the Presbyterian Church that large results have followed the earnest and untiring efforts of the missionaries. Nor need we say that with such fields and such responsibilities in a tropical climate the workers are far too few. For more than a year the call has been repeated for added helpers in this rapidly ripening part of the great harvest field. The need is still there; the workers are not yet found. Meanwhile the work goes on.

After less than a dozen years of Protestant effort in Porto Rico our Presbyterian Church shows the following results:—

Ten ordained missionaries—one a Porto Rican; one licentiate, seventeen student helpers, the product of our Training School during the few years of its operation; other helpers not included in the list of students, and thirteen Bible readers. So much for the force. The field includes thirteen central stations, with fifty-three regular services weekly; and one hundred out-stations, with one hundred twenty-three services weekly. The total membership in the twenty-nine organized churches, according to the last figures received, lacked only eight of being twenty-five hundred.

CUBA

The Rev. J. Milton Greene, D. D., superintendent of our work in Cuba, presents the following statement regarding the past year in that field:—

As we repeat the annual survey of our churches and out-stations let it be borne in mind where we are, what is our equipment and what are the influences which oppose our work. In no country of the civilized world is indifference to religion more general among the male population than in Cuba, and the worse thing about this indifference is that it claims to be justified by the state of the Church and the character of the priesthood. Our ministerial equipment consists of two Americans, two Englishmen, five Spaniards, four of whom are ex-priests, six Cubans and six helpers, three of whom are Cubans and three Spaniards. Our chapels are hired apartments with only three exceptions, and the impression made upon the people is that of weakness and meagerness in contrast with the vastness and elegance of the Romish churches. Thus far we have been able to educate and ordain only one student and have no theological training school. Our ministry, while the very best that could be gath-

Aramburu School, Havana, in a ward of 25,000 inhabitants with no Church. At our Missionary Services there is increasing attendance, parents and older brothers and sisters of these pupils being attracted more and more ered, is not what it would have been could they have been educated from the first under distinctively evangelical spiritual influences.

Against us are arrayed the social prestige, the financial strength, the traditional precedents and the fanatical zeal of the Romish Church which, while nominally separate from the State, manipulates many features of governmental policy for its own ends and the perpetration of its prestige. In addition to this we have to contend with a most corrupt and corrupting government, under which gambling, cock-fights and immorality have flourished to an extent unknown even under Spanish sway, and have tended directly and most powerfully to demoralize, de-Christianize, and in many cases to de-humanize our Cuban husbands, fathers and sons. Even the Sabbath, which in the United States is supposed to restrain somewhat the spirit of worldliness, is here in its profanation far more debasing than all the other days of the week combined. Such is our field, and in our work the evangelical missions stand alone. Rome is counted with the majority.

At our Central Church in Havana the year has been one of well sustained attendance and interest at all six of our weekly services, but it has been a year rather of character-building, of growth from within, than of accessions from without. Interest in Bible study among the young and the development of their gifts in our devotional meetings and various forms of Christian activity have been very marked during the year. The preaching and Sabbath-school services with those at Cerro, San Francisco and Vedado under the Rev. Francisco Castro, and those of Puentes Grandes and Aramburu, represent about one thousand souls who are receiving week by week the message of life and salvation. The first of these latter points is under the care of Mr. Andres Rodriguez, a most promising student for the ministry. The last is ministered to by the Rev. Francisco Castro and the Rev. Antonio Mazzorana alternately, and a Sabbath school of one hundred and twenty is maintained by the three teachers of the day school which is held there. These are the out-stations of Havana.

Crossing the bay toward the east we come first to Regla where we have a devoted, steadfast and enthusiastic church, in which are a group of some twenty most hopeful youths. At Guanabacoa, five miles beyond, we have another church which has steadily grown during the year both in numbers, spirituality and activity. These two churches are under the pastoral care of the Rev. Antonio Mazzorana. Passing on sixty miles east we come to Matanzas where one of the wards of that beautiful city is left for us to cultivate and where the Rev. E. P. Herrick, D. D., and his devoted family have a very strong hold upon the affection and confidence of the people. Both church and Sabbath school as well as Christian Endeavor society are in a most flourishing condition.

Winging our flight one hundred and fifty miles still farther east we reach Sancti Spiritus where under the Rev. H. G. Smith, aided most efficiently by his wife, by elder Luis Gomez and by the Misses Rogers and Pyland of our day school, a most healthy and prosperous work is carried on in the Central Church and two out-stations, each having its weekly preaching service and its Sabbath school. Not less than four hundred souls are thus being reached with the gospel, week by week, and fully one-half of these are youths.

At a distance of fifteen miles northwest of Sancti Spiritus is Cabaiguan, and three miles east of there is Guayos. These constitute the field of the Rev. Antonio A. Senti who has recently assumed charge with very bright promise of success as both these towns are growing rapidly and are contiguous stations on the Cuba railroad. At Cabaiguan we have a faithful group of Christians and a small church edifice.

Returning to Santa Clara, seventy-five miles, and passing south fifty miles we come to Cienfuegos on the southern coast. Here we have a city of thirty thousand inhabitants, directly north of Colon and Panama, only seven hundred and eight miles distant, with a harbor six miles long and an outlying country famous for the number of its great sugar mills. For more than ten years an excellent school has been maintained from which scores of young people have gone forth to hold responsible positions, many being now pillars in the Church of God. The Board has recently purchased a very valuable site on which to erect a church and other buildings. Seventy pupils are enrolled at present and are being well cared for under the principalship of Dr. Salvador Cornejo and two devoted teachers. The pastor of the church is the Rev. H. B. Someillan, who in addition to the Central church carries on work at an out-station in a destitute portion of the city.

At Rodas twenty miles north, and Limones fifteen miles in the same direction, Mr. Narciso Lafuerza, a student, is doing an excellent work with three Sabbath schools and a weekly attendance of about one hundred fifty at his services. Passing westward one hundred miles we come to the circuit of Nueva Paz, Palos and San Nicolas, of which the pastor is the Rev. José Ripoll, aided by Moises A. Gonzalez, a student, who is also in charge of our day school of eighty pupils at Nueva Paz. At Palos also we have a flourishing school which is nearly self-supporting.

Proceeding fifteen miles northward we reach Guines, and another fifteen miles brings us to San José de las Lajas. This work is under the care of Dr. Canon Vega. In Guines we have a school of fifty pupils and at San José another of thirty-five. This latter is to a good degree self-supporting, and is full of promise. At both places the work is healthy and prosperous. At Guines a beautiful school building is nearing completion in which the Woman's Board hopes to establish a center of normal instruction for the higher education of our girls and especially to provide teachers for our schools. Between Guines and Havana and about fifteen miles from the capital is Bejucal, a city of seven thousand, where we have a small but faithful and hopeful church, which has been ministered to alternately by Messrs. Mazzorana and Castro, but which will now be under the special care of our student, Andres Rodriguez.

Leaving Havana and proceeding westward we come at a distance of forty miles to Guira where the Rev. E. P. Collazo is pastor of a strong church with its auxiliary chapel and two Sabbath schools. He also holds services at La Salud, ten miles toward the east. Both points are on the Western Railroad. North of Guira, ten miles on the United Railroad is San Antonio, which with Guanajay, ten miles westward on the same road, forms the parish of Rev. José Fortuny who preaches weekly and holds a Sabbath school in both places. These are two very important centers and represent a population of over twenty thousand at Guira and at La Salud of fifteen thousand.

Proceeding westward from Guira thirty miles we reach Candelaria, and ten miles farther on San Cristobal, in both of which places we have organized churches and Sabbath schools, and an excellent work is being done among a population of ten thousand. At Paso Real, fifteen miles farther west, the Rev. José Lopez is doing the best kind of work in a small but very hopeful community. His greatest hindrance, as well as that of many other brethren, is found in the nomadic character of the people,—no less than forty of his most faithful attendants having removed during the year.

This whole province of Pinar del Rio is well known to all our missions as the most difficult part of the Cuban field, owing to the ignorance, indifference and moral degradation of so large a proportion of its inhabitants. At Artemisa for example, a city of some four thousand inhabitants, there are one hundred and fifty men who live by some form of gambling; and this fact with the almost feudal control exercised by the parish priest, who is also a member of Congress, has led us to withdraw our work at least temporarily from that point. It has proved a modern Nazareth for its unbelief.

At Puerto Esperanza Mr. Antonio Hernandez is ready for the organization of a church of twenty-five members. His influence there and at the out-station of Rosario has been greatly blessed of God. These points are on the northern coast fifteen miles west of Bahia Honda.

This completes a hurried glance at the points occupied by us. For the reasons above indicated the last year has been one of fierce struggle with the combined forces of ignorance, indifference, fanaticism and licentiousness, and only by God's blessings have we been able not only to hold our ground but to advance. Among the young in our eight day schools (four self-supporting wholly or in part) four hundred children are being educated for Christian usefulness and in our twenty-seven Sabbath schools three times this number are being taught the way of life. That the educational feature of our work is the burning question is made manifest by the alarm which it occasions in Jesuitical circles. On all sides they are on our track to impede our progress, establishing gratuitous day schools near our own and even imitating us in holding Sabbath schools,—a feature wholly new for them. At Cerro, for example, they have recently opened a Sabbath school near us, giving confectionery, clothing and medals to the children as bribes and holding masked balls on Sabbath evening. At Vedado they have recently purchased half a block and are spending one hundred thousand dollars in the construction of a magnificent school building. Here in Havana the Ursulinas are doubling the capacity of their educational plant and the Jesuits are about to place a second college only half a dozen blocks from our church. Let us learn from them.

The numerical results of our more than ten years' work in Cuba are briefly summarized as follows:—Seventeen organized churches with nineteen out-stations, cared for by fourteen ministers, of whom only three are English-speaking, and having a total membership of 1,247.

WOMAN'S BOARD.

With profound gratitude to the Head of the Church for His manifest guidance the Woman's Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, herewith presents to the Board of Home Missions its thirty-third annual report.

The Board sorrowfully records the death during the year of three of its members: Mrs. John C. Martin, long on the Mexican Committee; Mrs. C. H. Jones, of the Committee for Porto Rico, Mrs. Charles L. Bailey, for fifteen years president of the Pennsylvania Synodical Society. They were faithful and devoted members, and the Woman's Board expresses grateful appreciation of their services lovingly rendered.

Mrs. Delos E. Finks, for twenty-five years the editor of the HOME MISSION MONTHLY, died November 4th, 1911. Mrs. Finks' keen intellect and gifted pen make her loss seemingly irreparable.

A memorial service at headquarters, similar meetings throughout our great constituency, a memorial number of the HOME MISSION MONTHLY and countless letters but faintly express the deep sorrow in the hearts of Presbyterian women occasioned by her death. While we bow humbly because of our grief, we are thankful for the life and example of such an associate and praise God that she was allowed to complete the twenty-fifth anniversary number of the HOME MISSION MONTHLY, her final message to our great constituency.

On the last day of the fiscal year, March thirty-first, 1912, the beloved honorary president of the Woman's Board, Mrs. Darwin R. James, was called to service in the immediate presence of her King. Four years after the formation of the Woman's Executive Committee of Home Missions, Mrs. James became one of its vice-presidents, and began making public addresses everywhere in the interest of a work then weak and with few friends. In 1885 on the death of Mrs. Ashbel Green, Mrs. James was elected president and from then until three years ago, when because of impaired health she became honorary president, she freely gave her time, her influence, her very self for woman's work for the redemption of our own country.

Her husband, the late Mr. Darwin R. James, was a prominent elder, a man of affairs, a congressman. Together they made many hard journeys to unfamiliar corners of our great country and twice went around the world. Mrs. James was a born leader, a many sided woman, identified with countless organizations for the uplift of humanity; but neither her official associations nor her social obligations were ever allowed to interfere with her family life, for she was an ideal home-maker, a devoted mother, and her seven children rise up to call her blessed.

In thinking of Mrs. James one instinctively remembers her strong mind, her keen vision, marvelous personality and dominant strength; but greater than all of these was her deep spiritual insight, her simple child-like faith in Jesus as her Saviour and her abounding confidence in His sufficiency for every time of need.

The foremost woman of our Church for a quarter of a century has entered into life eternal. Under her masterful leadership a little of her clear vision was caught by each and every one, whether associated with her closely as an active co-laborer or engaged far afield on the line of picket duty. We have the joyous privilege of carrying forward plans she formulated,—work she inaugurated.

Twelve meetings of the Board and sixteen of the Executive Committee have been held; ten popular "Third Tuesdays" have proved rallying days when attractive speakers forcibly presented the varied field work supported by the Woman's Board, while three "Fifth Tuesdays" have been seasons of sweet experience in waiting before the Lord in prayer—days when no business was to be transacted, no pre-arranged program to be followed, but when through prayer and meditation, wisdom and strength came from communion with the Lord.

Official Changes. Miss V. May White, treasurer of the Woman's Board since 1909, because of illness in her home, was obliged to resign during the year. Miss White's long and varied association in the work of the Woman's Board as active member, assistant secretary and recording secretary, gave her rich experience which was of valuable aid in meeting new and perplexing treasury problems, and her withdrawal from this service was keenly regretted.

In October, 1911, Miss Dora M. Fish was elected acting treasurer. The Board has in Miss Fish an officer who is the rare combination of a trained business woman with experience in a professional office, and also a missionary whose successful work on three difficult fields gives her unusual qualifications for dealing with questions connected with the treasurer's office.

Miss Theodora Finks, long her mother's loving helper and good comrade in all missionary work, was elected acting editor of the HOME MISSION MONTHLY. Miss Finks brings to this important office a familiarity with details of publication, a wide acquaintance both among the missionaries and the constituency, and the loving cooperation of her mother's friends, all assets whose value cannot be measured or counted.

Mrs. Dwight E. Potter was elected assistant secretary of the Woman's Board, an office created several years ago but which has never been filled. Her duties are to develop intelligent interest in young women in home missions through the Westminster Guild and young women's missionary societies, and among the young women students in colleges. As a student Young Women's Christian Association secretary and successful leader of study classes, Mrs. Potter was peculiarly adapted for this position. Shortly after Mrs. Potter's acceptance of this office the Women's Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church overtured the Woman's Board of Home Missions for joint work along general student lines and a happy arrangement has been thus effected which promises rich things for the future.

Dr. David R. Boyd, superintendent of the School Department since 1909, only accepted this position for a limited time, as his other interests did not permit a permanent engagement. Dr. Boyd retires in the early summer, when Professor Marshall C. Allaben, the assistant superintendent, will assume responsibility for the office. Professor Allaben as president of Davis and Elkins College, West Virginia, brings to this important position perfect familiarity with educational and pedagogical questions, which will be valuable in the varied responsibility of his office.

Organization. Throughout the thirty-two synodical societies made up of two hundred and fifty-eight presbyterial organizations, intelligent, constructive work has been going steadily forward. The synodical and presbyterial officers have most keenly appreciated the efficient cooperation of the field secretaries who have labored in season and out of season in strengthening the stakes and lengthening the cords of missionary zeal. Members of the Board have been most generous in visiting societies and helping to enthuse our constituency.

The receipts for the Woman's Board for the year ending March 31st, 1912, are as follows:

From organizations and individuals....	$394,873	26
From legacies	18,148	15
Interest on permanent funds	6,773	72
		$419,795	13
Tuition and receipts from the field	57,715	62
Rent and sales	34,422	28
		$511,933	03
Less Y. P. and S. S. transfer to the Board of Home Missions		15,237	27
Total income for the year ending March 31st, 1912, for the current work of the Woman's Board...	$496,695	76

In addition to the foregoing the Woman's Board received for

Permanent Funds	$21,675	05
Annuity gifts	2,000	00
Freedmen	83,563	99

The latter amount was transferred to the Freedmen's Board in Pittsburgh. Of the total income reported above $23,647.45 was specified for local work among foreigners, so that only as there is increased support of the national work can its efficiency be maintained.

From Finance and Organization, including all the different kinds of societies comprising the one vast whole, with various lines of publicity work maintained, one turns naturally to the object of all this planning and striving; namely, the field outlook.

The Field. What of the year's story in our schools, hospitals, and community centers among the Alaskans, Indians, Mexicans, Mormons, Mountaineers, Porto Ricans, Cubans and foreign-speaking peoples? The first impression is amazement that one organization should dare attempt work so vast, so varied and so widely distributed. The Woman's Board of Home Missions is a national organization doing a national work comparable to none other in the country, and it is limited only by financial restrictions, for imperative appeals for enlargement come from every field and nearly every station. But this in itself is an evidence of growth and the interests of the Kingdom demand that increased funds be provided so that natural growth may not be stunted. The characteristic feature of the year has been the building activity, every field excepting the Mexican having one or more buildings erected, or in process of construction.

Alaskans. The notable event has been the opening at Sitka of the Sheldon Jackson School in the new plant, comprising six new buildings, which is proving adequate and is realizing highest expectations. The attendance is far in excess of the number for whom provision was made and, therefore, a policy of selected registration will soon be possible because of a large waiting list. The school is now completely organized and includes courses in domestic science, domestic art, manual training and machine work. This is a training school indeed which will fulfill demands and realize aims of the Woman's Board. It is a God-given opportunity, inspiring problems challenging our worthiest efforts.

Indians. In the transitional stage the Indians are presenting a more serious problem to the Church than ever before. Keenest judgment is required fairly to meet perplexing questions, and wisdom to plan a policy for the best development of this field. Better equipment is needed, particularly in all of our Indian schools; enlargements must take the form of betterment and development of present plans to highest possible point of efficiency. The Kirkwood Memorial at Jewett, New Mexico, greatly enlarged and newly equipped because of the beautiful generosity of the Colorado Synodical society, has suffered the vicissitudes of flood, an epidemic of scarlet fever and then a tornado. Much damage was done to the property and the teachers and pupils narrowly escaped with their lives. Our missionaries by their heroism and pluck won warmest commendation from those living in the vicinity who know whereof they speak. At Ganado, our other station among the Navajos, the long expected new building is completed and promises are good for efficient work. The year at Tucson has been unusually successful, while Good Will, South Dakota, scores its highest registration. Continued success at Wolf Point and Elm Spring requires enlargement for both stations. Miss McBeth's training class and the work of the Bible readers among other Indian tribes is most encouraging.

Mexicans. Albuquerque shows a fine registration. The graduating class was composed of unusually promising young men and the possibility here for training leaders is inspiring. Recently a former student, now a commissioned evangelist, held services at Albuquerque and forty-nine of the young men and boys made public profession of their faith in Jesus Christ.

The Mary E. James and Allison schools at Santa Fe closed a most satisfactory year under the leadership of the Rev. Frederick L. Schaub, whose successful work at Dwight was recognized by transferring him to this important station among the Mexicans. The plaza school work was never more encouraging and now the great aim is to so relate these scattered units to the boarding schools as to make for increased efficiency. The imperative need is for hospital work among the Mexicans in far off and isolated plazas.

Mormonism is still being met in the way it can least effectively resist, namely, the influence of Christian boarding schools where the young people in the distinctively formative period of life are constantly under the influence of strong Christian men and women. Keenest interest centers at Mt. Pleasant and there is an enthusiastic effort being made to properly house and equip the Wasatch Academy as a memorial to the beloved editor, Mrs. Delos E. Finks. Three separate purchases during the year now give the Woman's Board possession of the entire block of land on one corner of which is located the old academy building. A large addition practically doubles the capacity of this building and new equipment has greatly increased the efficiency of the work. One hundred and forty pupils are now enrolled and the imperative need is dormitory room, which it is expected will be provided through contributions for the Finks Memorial.

The Mountain People continue to express confidence in our work, sending their children in increasing numbers to our schools. The boarding schools have been crowded as never before. Facilities are taxed to the utmost and the record of the Normal and Collegiate Institute is particularly gratifying. Students are chosen with greatest care and are representative of best material for development of leaders. The Asheville Farm school is again indebted to the Rev. D. Stuart Dodge, D. D., whose most generous gift of a hydro-electric plant and an adjoining farm increase the effectiveness of the work. Dorland and Bell Institutes record unusually successful years while the enlargement at Mount Vernon and Lawson practically doubles the capacity of each of these schools. The work of the Bible readers on the Laurel field has borne rich results, while enlargement of community work at Marshall and the opening of a Home at Manchester are new ventures of great promise.

Cuban growth is signalized by the completion of the long promised new building at Güines, the Kate Plummer Bryan Memorial, erected in loving memory of their first president by the Synodical Society of Pennsylvania.

Porto Rico's new building is at Pueblo Nuevo, while the capacity of the Marina Mission will be practically doubled, entirely because of the success of the devoted missionary, Miss Clara E. Hazen, in raising the necessary funds when she was home on vacation. Because of the good public school system of Porto Rico, the necessity of mission day schools is passing and a readjustment of work on that field will demand increasing support of community work rather than of day schools.

Foreigners in our great cities and in congested centers, are increasingly receiving the attention worthy so important a part of our body politic. Citizenship and all that it means is becoming a vital study among the missionaries of the Woman's Board; in no field is this more necessary or fruitful than in the work among the foreigners.

In general the year has been signalized by serious illness on all our fields; epidemics of measles, smallpox, scarlet fever and diphtheria have taxed the patience and endurance of our missionaries, and several deaths have resulted among our students; while some of our missionaries have been critically ill, the Lord has been most gracious in that He has spared the lives of all commissioned workers.

The seed has been generously sown in well prepared ground, due nurture and care have been bestowed, but the full harvest of the year's sowing only eternity can reveal.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT.

The nineteenth annual report of the Young People's Department is commended to your thoughtful consideration.

In reviewing any year of effort in this department of the Board's work, recognition must always be made of the frequent changes in our constituency, both in the general membership and in the official force. In young people's societies officers are elected annually or semi-annually, and a continuous campaign of education for new chairmen of missionary committees is necessary.

The extensive correspondence of this department may therefore be grouped under four general heads. (1) Instructing synodical and presbyterial secretaries with the aim of keeping them informed of the progress of the work on the field and in their presbyterial territory, and of indicating points of contact with local opportunities. Letters of this character are sent out at least once each quarter. (2) Directing committees in local organizations and Sabbath schools to specific methods for presenting the work of home missions through study. (3) Assigning missionaries, stations or fields for specific gifts to groups of societies. (4) Providing information periodically to contributors. The correspondence thus indicated may be through the means of duplicated letters, and does not include the letters to individuals along these conventional lines nor from the chairmen of missionary committees in young people's societies and Sunday schools, the leaders of study classes, pastors, teachers, superintendents, treasurers, and many others interested in the work of the young people. In fact the records show that nearly eight hundred letters and postals were dictated during the one quarter ending December thirty-first.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SECRETARIES.

Reference has been made to the variations in this list and the fact that notification is not sent of the changes until too late to allow of aid being given the new appointee before the year has closed. Of the seventy-two new secretaries this year fully one-third of the number reported themselves during January and February.

Another weak point in the chain is the manner, or failure, of keeping records which should be the consecutive history of the work, and transferred along the line. Many new secretaries are expected to begin their work without so much as a list of the societies under their care. In two synods every presbyterial secretary is new to the work this year, and in several large synods only one or two have continued in office.

The chain of secretaries has been greatly strengthened through the formation of synodical prayer circles. The first link was formed by Pennsylvania's secretary, the object being to unite our prayer at a specific date for the various workers among our young people and for those who are representing us definitely on the field. This assurance of united prayer has been a power in the year 1911-1912. To all these praying, painstaking, patient co-laborers we owe much of the success so briefly reported.

If the aim of the department has been to provide information, develop leaders for local and presbyterial service and for work on the field, and to stimulate gifts, the end fully justified the means. Although the results can not be known in full, there are on the field at home and abroad at least five missionaries who served their apprenticeship as young people's secretaries. A number hold synodical and presbyterial offices in the women's organizations and there are many others in prominent positions who testify to the inspiration which came while they endeavored to lead the young people in home mission work. The president and secretary of the Woman's Board served a similar apprenticeship for a number of years.

STUDY CLASSES.

One of the special phases of the work of the Young People's Department is to stimulate interest in study classes.

We have been somewhat hindered in our mission study work owing to the fact that the "new book" was not ready until December. But as there are several thousand young people's organizations and Sunday schools where no home mission text-book has ever been studied, we have not hesitated to again recommend the books which have been popular in other years. About one hundred and sixty classes in young people's societies and Sunday schools have reported as studying the following text-books: "The Church of the Open Country", "Advance in the Antilles", "The Frontier", "Aliens or Americans?" "The Winning of the Oregon Country", "Best Things in America." The total this year does not include the classes in young women's societies, bands, and Westminster Guild Chapters and Circles, which were included in the Report for 1911, these organizations being cared for by other officers.

There is no appreciable gain over last year, but we feel sure the records are very incomplete, many leaders failing to report to us their classes—and therefore missing the "helps" we are able to furnish.

Probably the most enthusiastic class is one studying "The Winning of the Oregon Country"—a class of Nez Percés Indians, reviewing this history of their own people under the leadership of their missionary teacher. Other interested classes are those in the mission schools. Two societies report weekly meetings for a systematic study of the Board's monthly topics. One group uses as a background "The Frontier", the other "Presbyterian Home Missions." There are also young people's societies, Sunday schools and Sunday-school classes where our home mission text-books are used for supplemental lessons, the time limit of the sessions prohibiting a complete study.

The Junior books are not used extensively in the ideal study class fashion, but are most valuable for leaders of children's organizations, and for intermediate and primary Sunday-school teachers. "Best Things in America" has been pronounced by leaders to be the "best of all" and will continue in popularity this coming year. The little booklet, "Growing up in America", is greatly in favor among the children.

Special attention is called to the splendid increase in study classes in the Synods of Idaho, Washington and Oregon, where Miss Goss, as study class secretary of the North Pacific Board, is the enthusiastic leader.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

In tabulating our financial statistics there are variations from year to year for which it is not always possible to make satisfactory explanations. To the young people there come many and varied appeals for money. Their unguided enthusiasm gives natural response, and their treasury—the accumulation of small gifts—goes to the one making the strongest plea. For instance, a Junior society was recently reported to us as having given twenty-five dollars "to the father of one of the members to give anywhere he wished." A Senior Christian Endeavor society reports giving one hundred dollars as an "extra" to work of another denomination. And the number would be hard to count of those who are distributing their hard-earned funds in all sorts of channels, regardless of the needs of their own denomination. If denominational work is not placed first, it will suffer the consequences.

The contributions from young people's organizations (this includes the Christian Endeavor, Intermediate and Junior societies and all other young people's societies) are as follows:

CONTRIBUTORS.

The "power of the littles" is demonstrated most forcefully in these gifts from young people's societies, but the illustrations given are from societies in two of the mission schools under the Woman's Board. The boys of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Menaul School (Albuquerque, New Mexico) pledged thirty dollars for the work of our Presbyterian hospital at San Juan, Porto Rico. The full pledge was met and ten dollars extra sent for the general fund. The girls of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Laura Sunderland School, Concord, North Carolina, assumed a half scholarship (fifty dollars) in the school at Sitka, Alaska. They also asked to go without supper on Sunday for nearly three months that the money thus saved should be sent for the China Famine Fund.

The report of the Woman's Board gives a membership of 2,755 in young people's organizations and 7,803 in the Sunday schools under their care.

According to reports furnished by Mr. Gelston there are about four thousand five hundred young people's societies in our denomination. The entries on our treasurers' books show contributions from about two thousand last year. Out of the 9,905 Sabbath schools two thousand five hundred sent contributions for the work of home missions through our treasury. This does not mean that young people's societies and Sunday schools omitted from this list have not shared in home mission endeavors, but our reports can only include contributors from whom we have heard. Have we not reason to believe there is still need for an enlarged vision of what should be and can be done for our country by our Presbyterian young people?

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

If the Church of the future is in the Sunday school of to-day, and, as religious statistics state, three-fourths of the membership of the Church comes from the Sunday schools, surely there is a vast field in this department of our church life for the presentation of home mission opportunities and responsibilities.

Many church sessions include the contributions from Sunday schools and young people's societies in the church budget, therefore the results of the year's work in Sunday schools can not be measured accurately by the treasurer's report, although we wish to take these figures as an indication of a growing missionary enthusiasm.

Contributions from Sunday schools are as follows:

1911.	1912.
$48,964.27	$49,512.58

SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAMS.

Two special programs were again provided for the occasions designated by General Assembly, the one for Thanksgiving being prepared by Miss Crowell. In each case sixty thousand were sent to five hundred Sunday schools. In advertising the program for Washington's Birthday an effort was made to reduce expenses by issuing a small reproduction of the cover page with a strong appeal to pastors from the Rev. Charles L. Thompson, D. D. This appeal was sent under letter postage to all ministers in active pastorates, and a sample of the coin receptacle and an order blank were enclosed. They were asked to do three things: (1) Show a personal interest. (2) Hand the announcement to the superintendent. (3) Ask that the name of the superintendent be sent us on the card even though programs were not ordered.

The experiment was not successful, as correspondence from superintendents revealed. No orders were received from sixty-seven presbyteries, although we had offered the programs to the self-supporting synods for the cost of transportation.

It is difficult to avoid an overlapping in the sending of the announcements and samples of the various special programs from the several Boards, but we have endeavored to observe carefully the dates suggested by the Assembly's Committee when such material should be mailed.

A leaflet for free distribution in Sunday schools and new envelopes for home mission gifts have been prepared and are in circulation.

Mention should be made of the cooperation of Sunday-school secretaries in twelve presbyteries. Their work has been chiefly that of urging the use of the special programs.

OTHER PUBLICATIONS.

Our programs for Christian Endeavor home mission meetings are in demand, and we have distributed seventy-five hundred copies of each of those published this year. The topics were as follows: "Missions in the United States (West)", "Missions in the West Indies", "The Home Missionary Whose Life has most Inspired Me." Suggestions were also made and leaflets provided for the topic, "Ways of Serving our Nation."

The commendations received for these programs have made the effort to prepare them seem worth while, and the small expense involved has been repaid many times as an educational investment.

The publication of KINGDOM COMMENTS was discontinued at the beginning of this year, the demand of these Sunday-school illustrations not being sufficient to warrant the expense and labor involved. Any inquirers for such illustrations are directed to the Westminster Teacher, for which we provide such helps, and suitable letters or leaflets are suggested.

Correspondence shows also that our pages each month in the HOME MISSION MONTHLY and ASSEMBLY HERALD are profitable as an educational means.

The missionary field letters are appreciated by those fortunate enough to have them. It is intended that all contributors shall hear at least three times a year of their work. This is possible if missionary chairmen are reported to the presbyterial secretary who furnishes this department with the necessary addresses. With few exceptions (where the presbyterial secretary wishes to distribute them) the letters are mailed from this office to the local addresses. This method serves the purpose of keeping societies in more intimate relation with their Board headquarters. It is interesting to note that a synodical president asks for a file of each edition of these field letters for each member of her executive force. A minister recently sent for a letter of one particular date, stating that he has kept a file for himself for a number of years and only lacked this one copy. A full set is also sent his young people. These are but two of many expressions of appreciation for this part of the work. Over forty-one thousand of these letters were distributed, and five thousand of the duplicated letter from individual missionaries.

SPECIAL OBJECTS.

The "Special object" demand has not diminished and probably no day passes without some request from a superintendent for a definite interest which he may present to the general school, or to the various departments, or even to the separate classes. In a few Sabbath schools the classes are organized as "Mission Bands", each with its special work.

But this appeal for the "specific" is not confined to the Sabbath school. Although young people's societies are grouped for shares in the salaries of missionaries, or the support of stations, and such "objects" are assigned to presbyteries or synods, there is frequent demand for further assignments. Sometimes the demand is only met by allowing the gifts to go toward some needed equipment, but this form of giving is not encouraged unless pledged as an "extra." The original appropriations of the budget for the Board and Woman's Board are given first consideration in all our training, and the importance of keeping "General Fund" fully equipped for action always has primary emphasis.

SUMMER CONFERENCES.

Hardly has one conference season ended before plans for the next year are under way. Our share has been to provide teachers and speakers for the home mission part of the conferences under Mr. Gelston's supervision at Winona Lake, Indiana; Pocono Pines, Pennsylvania; and Hollister, Missouri. To promote these gatherings and those under the auspices of the Missionary Education Movement hundreds of circulars and personal letters are sent from this department. We have also endeavored to be faithful in the "follow-up" work.

The spirit of cooperation in all of this conference and institute work has been delightful, and there is nothing more worth while for the young people.

The Missionary Education Movement, formerly the Young People's Missionary Movement, is an interdenominational organization, the directors being chosen from the various home and foreign Boards. Mr. J. E. McAfee represents Presbyterian home missions on the Executive Committee. The movement serves the missionary Boards by providing text-books for study courses in Sunday schools and all other departments of our church life, booklets of instruction to accompany the text-books and missionary helps of every description. The latest home mission text-book for young people's societies published by them is "The Church of the Open Country", by the Rev. Warren H. Wilson, Ph.D. Their newest book is for platform use in the Sunday schools, with the title "Five Missionary Minutes" for fifty-two Sabbaths.

With this we bring to a close the review of the past year, and the fourteenth report of your present secretary. As it passes before us, we find cause for gratitude in the repeated evidence that the foundations we are aiming to build are actually assuming form. We earnestly hope that in some way a similar vision may direct its readers to the great opportunities in this work among our young people.

At the Christian Endeavor Convention last July an "Efficiency Campaign" was inaugurated which, if adopted, in our Presbyterian Christian Endeavor societies, should make missionary work stronger than it has ever been. With this stimulus, with the adoption of "Standards of Excellence" in unions, districts and presbyteries, and with the uplift from the Men and Religion Movement, the Publicity Campaign for Home Missions, the great missionary exhibits in the larger cities, the summer conferences, and other agencies for developing leaders, we have reason to look into the coming year with confidence that the cause of home missions will flourish abundantly and the young people will have a still larger share in redeeming our land for Christ.

LITERATURE DEPARTMENT.

If the practical suggestions sent out in our leaflet publications during the past year shall be transmuted into service we can safely predict that results will continue to show in our annual reports for several years to come.

Issues that have called forth particular commendation and have required the printing of several editions to meet demands are "Modern Methods in the Country Church", "Some Business-like Methods for City Churches" and "A Great Church." Because these are by-products of actual experiences the plans suggested in them have been adapted to conditions in many churches from which our Board expects increasing gifts and efficiency in methods of procuring them.

The "Home Mission Paragraphs" have been so appreciated that monthly editions of 25,000 copies have been entirely exhausted. After sending single samples to each of the active ministers on our General Assembly's list, requests have come for additional numbers exceeding our anticipations.

Four new issues under the titles "Wyoming", "Tennessee", "Idaho" and "Iowa" have been added to our "Stories of the States" during the year. This series now includes nine leaflets that are filling a definite need.

For the many churches continuing the custom of making "annual collections" we have printed and distributed 200,000 copies of a six-page folder entitled "Some Things Your Money Does", and a corresponding number of collection envelopes which were sent out mostly upon requisitions that came through the Committee on the Distribution of Literature. These represented only 1127, or 577 churches less than last year,—a proof, we infer, of the growth of more systematic methods of collecting and giving money for the work.

Twenty-seven new leaflets and eight reprints to the extent of 1,012,277 copies and 10,350,508 pages have been issued during the year.

There has been a decided increase in the use of text books for home mission study, but the receipts do not indicate an advance in their sales for our Board because of an unavoidable delay in publishing the book intended especially for use in young people's societies, "The Church of the Open Country", by the Rev. Warren H. Wilson, Ph. D. It will be recommended for next year when large returns from it are expected. The text books of former years and those put out by the Woman's Board have been sold to the number of 15,192 volumes, an advance of 1,425 over the figures given a year ago.

The receipts from the actual sales of literature in this department amount to $8,456.24 an increase of $249.79. In addition $474.44, which has been deducted from the expense account, was returned to meet postage and express on parcels sent out. Of the total $2,254.92 was paid into the Board's treasury and $6,201.32 into the treasury of the Woman's Board.

It is interesting to note an advance in sales of leaflet publications, but we deplore a decrease of $71.23 in receipts for the Prayer Calendar, which has been recommended to the use of all Presbyterians. It is our hope that this shrinkage in no way indicates a lessening of interest in our missions and missionaries at the Throne of Grace.

Because an increasing number of churches are being provided with stereopticon equipment it has been possible to increase the use of our slides. One new lecture and five new sets of slides on "Cuba and Porto Rico" have been added to our equipment.

The "Home Mission Year Book" first issued in 1911 is this year succeeded by the "Presbyterian Home Mission Manual" which is a comprehensive record of conditions in the presbyteries and a real Presbyterian geography. It is heartily recommended to the use of all workers.

Every Presbyterian by his covenant with the Church is responsible for the mission work directed and supported by its authority and the printed information put out by this department is intended to charge his mind with the latest and most definite information about it so he may speak and give intelligently. Pastors and active members are urged to cooperate in helping us to do more efficient service in the work of distribution so as to win inactive members to intelligent activity.

CONCLUSION.

The reading of the Report thus far has made it manifest that the new year fronts us with a challenge of most unusual opportunities. The appeals from presbyteries were never so urgent. Still it is true that new populations are pouring into the West and new centers are forming in all the western states. Disaster on many fields occasioned by floods, drought and irrigation disappointments has brought unexpected and unexampled hardship on wide areas of the mission field. They must be met by more generous help. The new departments open a well-nigh limitless field for occupation. We have scaled their demands, but the responsibility we have accepted is large. And, finally, the necessary rise in the salaries of missionaries will call for a heavy drain upon our treasury. These reasons illustrate and justify the large advance of over a hundred thousand dollars which we have been called upon to make.

We urge, therefore, large advance from the churches over last year's receipts. We appeal to individual givers for generous gifts to enable us especially to meet the calls of the new departments; to do something adequate for our immigration population; to take our share in the religious conservation of our country populations; with other religious bodies to lift social questions into a Christian atmosphere; and to help us with some adequacy to bring the gospel message to old populations and new of our country's hundred millions of people.

SELF-SUPPORTING SYNODS.

SYNOD OF BALTIMORE.

Owing to the peculiar geographical conditions no synodical organization for home missions is maintained, each presbytery being a self-supporting unit and conducting its home mission work independently.

PRESBYTERY OF BALTIMORE.

The Presbytery of Baltimore extends from the Chesapeake Bay to the heart of the Alleghanies, a distance of over two hundred miles. Within its bounds are found very different communities which require a wide variety of mission work.

In the the George's Creek Valley an important work is carried on among the miners. Churches have been established at five mining centers. Preaching services have been commenced at two additional points—Gilmore and Barrellville—during the year.

There are two railroad towns in the presbytery—South Cumberland and Brunswick, where earnest work is being prosecuted. The church at Sparrow's Point, which is Maryland's steel town, and where several thousand men are employed, has made most encouraging progress during the year, and is now self-supporting.

The rapidly growing suburbs of Baltimore make increasing demands upon the home mission funds of the presbytery. At present plans are under way to provide church buildings for six of these fields.

Work for the foreigners in Baltimore has received much attention during the year. The immigrants who come to this port are met by a Presbyterian deaconess, and those who remain in the city are welcomed at the Austrian Immigrant Home. An effort is also being made to follow up those who go west in order to bring them into touch with helpful influences in their new home. The work for Bohemians, Italians and Poles has been carried on in cooperation with the Home Board. The fine building set apart for Polish work has been put in splendid condition for aggressive work at a cost of $2,000.00. The work is progressing most encouragingly under the leadership of the Rev. Paul Fox.

An effort is being made at the present time to help those churches in the down-town section of the city to overtake the needs of their communities. The plan is to organize an Extension Department in each church which will be maintained by home mission funds and be directed by a joint committee of the church and the Church Extension Committee of the presbytery.

The rapid development of home mission work has made necessary a corresponding increase in the contributions of the churches. The plan of the presbytery is to apportion the sum needed for the year among the churches. The past year $8,000 was required. On the last Sunday of October "Home Mission Day" is observed, and a general exchange of pulpits is arranged, when the work of the presbytery is presented in every congregation. The students of the Presbyterian Training School render great assistance in many needy fields. A deaconess is supported by the presbytery in helping to establish new work. "The Home Mission Messenger" is published twice a year, and is circulated in every church to furnish information concerning the progress of the work and its needs.

J. S. CONNING,
Presbyterial Superintendent.

PRESBYTERY OF NEW CASTLE.

The home mission work in this presbytery is under the supervision and direction of a committee of six ministers and four elders with a treasurer. Each church has a committee on sustentation and home missions whose chairman reports to the chairman of presbytery's committee. The church committee looks after the collection of funds for the cause in the local church, and these funds are forwarded to the treasurer of the presbytery's committee quarterly. The ministers employed in the churches as pastors or stated supplies make quarterly reports to the chairman of presbytery's committee of the work of the church during the quarter, on receipt of which the chairman issues an order on the treasurer for the amount due the minister and a check for the same is mailed to him.

Three churches that had been closed for several years have been opened and regular services established and continued during the year.

One Sunday school has been organized with over fifty scholars.

One church was organized with forty-five members, with a good prospect of growth. The church for colored people in Wilmington lost their pastor, the Rev. Charles L. Jefferson, D. D., who was called to a larger work in Chicago. Dr. Jefferson had done a good work for the church in Wilmington in creating and sustaining a higher state of ethics among his people. Soon after his departure the Rev. Eugene Johnston, D. D., was called to the church and entered upon his work with much encouragement. A movement has been started to secure a manse,—a needed addition to their church plant.

A most interesting and encouraging work is carried on in Wilmington among the Italians. This work is under the immediate supervision of the West Church. During the year a substantial and convenient church building has been dedicated virtually free of debt, the unpaid balance having been arranged for by pledges. The minister, the Rev. Thomas de Pamphilis, is much encouraged with the hopeful outlook.

Much attention has been given to the budget and duplex envelope system, and many of the churches of the presbytery have adopted the system with gratifying results.

JOEL S. GILFILLAN,
Chairman of Home Mission Committee.

SYNOD OF ILLINOIS.

The home mission work of the Synod of Illinois consists primarily in assisting churches in supporting pastors; maintaining missions and other activities among the foreigners; organizing new churches; directing evangelistic and other aggressive efforts among the weaker churches; and stimulating all the churches in their home mission giving.

Chicago Presbytery, with its large area of suburban and rural territory as well as the congestion of a great city, faces crying need and appalling conditions. Its problems are apparent, but not more so than the efficiency of the Church Extension Committee and the effectiveness of its efforts. Under its direction a survey of the city has been made with amazing results. Facts have been tabulated and charts prepared revealing conditions seemingly impossible. With the accumulated facts before it the committee is setting itself the task of meeting the condition and solving the problems.

In the state at large aggressive work is being done under the direction of the synodical as well as the presbyterial committees. Special conditions appear in every presbytery and diligence is being exercised to meet the demands in a way that will everywhere best advance the interests of the Kingdom.

Outside of Chicago Presbytery all work among foreigners is done under the direction of the synod's committee and is supervised by the synodical superintendent. An evangelist has also been under his direction during the year.

The calls for assistance have been so persistent from the south end of the state that Cairo Presbytery has been voted aid in the support of a pastor-evangelist for the coming year.

A building has been erected at Granite City for the Bulgarian work. On the first floor adequate room is provided for the various enterprises of the mission, while on the second apartments are rented and the proceeds assist in the support of the mission.

Last fall at the call of the moderator of synod, a joint meeting was held with synod's foreign missionary committee for the purpose of formulating a plan for the elimination of seeming competition in appeals for benevolences and the broadening of the Every Member Campaign. Out of that meeting plans developed whereby synod created its Executive Committee on Benevolences and elected the Rev. W. S. Marquis, D. D., synodical superintendent of benevolences.

The passing of Mr. Charles T. Yeomans, treasurer of synod's home mission funds since 1908, removed from the committee a valued member. His good judgment and clear-sighted business ability were highly appreciated and his sudden death while in attendance on a meeting of the committee was a shock to all.

Having served as chairman for a period of twelve years the Rev. T. D. Logan, D. D., declined re-election last fall and retired from the committee. He has proved a capable and discreet director of the home mission interests of the synod, seeking constantly the upbuilding of the churches and the strengthening of the work regardless of the personal sacrifice involved in order to such accomplishment—a sacrifice the extent of which only those nearest to him realize. The continued faithfulness he has shown through all the years is deserving of the highest recognition.

M. S. AXTELL,

Chairman of Committee on Home Missions.

SYNOD OF INDIANA.

The fiscal year for the home mission work in Indiana has been changed at the suggestion of the General Assembly, so that it now closes at the end of March instead of at the fall meeting of synod. Between the last annual report made in October, 1910, and the present report, a half year intervened. The home mission contributions of the churches during that interval amounted to $5,719.62. Omitting that period, and comparing the annual statement of this year with those preceding, we note a steady increase in the gifts of our churches. They gave $11,497.64 during the year ending October, 1907, $13,184.35 in 1908, $15,127.61 in 1909, $16,153.66 in 1910, and for the year just closed $18,414.84. The average per member has also risen in this period from 27.5 to 36.7 cents.

Of these contributions made by the churches, seventy-five per cent. is retained in each presbytery for its own mission work, administered by its own home mission committee; fifteen per cent. is sent to the synod's committee for the state work, and ten per cent. goes to the Board in New York for the national cause. Two presbyteries, Crawfordsville and Muncie, not requiring the whole amount of their proportion for their own fields, made special contributions to the synodical committee for the state work.

Besides the contributions of the churches, home missions in Indiana received an income from the Yandes' Funds, contributed by the late Daniel Yandes and his son Simon Yandes, yielding this year $2,863.98 for the general work and $553.70 for Sunday-school uses. The salary and expenses of our efficient superintendent, the Rev. George Knox, D. D., have been entirely met from this Fund, so that the church contributions are not drawn upon for any administrative expense of the synod's committee. The figures given above do not include the amounts raised for home missions by the women, the Sunday school and Endeavor societies, nor for local missions supported by the churches.

In their regular home mission work, six of the eight presbyteries of Indiana are self-supporting. New Albany and Indiana Presbyteries receive $1,000.00 and $1,400.00 respectively from the synodical committee; the district in the southern part of the state where those presbyteries are located being as distinctly home mission territory as any in the country.

It is only of late years that the tide of immigration has seriously affected Indiana. There were foreigners, of course, for years past living in Indianapolis and in some of our larger cities, and some engaged in the mines about the eastern border of the state near Terre Haute, and some laboring in the northwest corner of the state. These have increased in numbers and some attention has been paid to them in Indianapolis of late years by our Presbyterian churches. Special attention has been given by the presbytery this last year to this Indianapolis mission. The Crawfordsville Presbytery also organized a mission among the foreigners in Clinton two years ago; and this year, with the help of the Board of Church Erection, it has built a beautiful little chapel costing some three thousand dollars with the lot on which it stands. Here a Sunday school is flourishing, a little industrial school has been organized, and the Rev. C. B. Papa has been preaching to the Italians and fostering their interests for over a year. All this has been maintained thus far by the home mission committee of Crawfordsville Presbytery, with the substantial support of the women of the presbytery and synod. In Fort Wayne also, a mission school has been organized and a new building erected for its use, in which some classes are taught in foreign tongues. In South Bend a Hungarian church, composed mostly of workmen in the factories there and their families, has been received by presbytery, and cared for by the synod as part of its foreign-speaking work.

It is, however, the Steel Corporation that has given a new character to the immigrant problem in our synod. The creation of Gary as a great center of the iron and steel industry, the arrival of thousands upon thousands of immigrants who do the unskilled work in the mills, and the assurance that the whole northwestern corner of the state is destined to become one immense industrial bee-hive, crowded with foreign-speaking peoples,—all this has set a new problem before the churches of Indiana. The mission organized in Gary by the Logansport Presbytery in 1909 was turned over by them the following year to the care of the synod, together with all their foreign-speaking work. The mission has been maintained and managed since then, by a joint committee from the synod's committee and the women's society. Mr. B. M. Baligrodzki and Mrs. Burton, the workers in the mission, have been simply overwhelmed by the work that has opened before them, and the little mission building was soon found altogether inadequate.

Synod's committee recognized that a new and important field had opened here in Indiana, such as the Home Board was struggling with in various other synods through its Immigration Department. The Home Board was accordingly invited to cooperate with the synod in its foreign-speaking work. The Rev. William P. Shriver of the Immigration Department of the Board, on examination reported that the field was of national importance. The Home Board agreed that if the synod would erect buildings suitable for so great an enterprise, to cost perhaps thirty or forty thousand dollars all told, the Board would cooperate with the synod in the maintenance. The committee is now engaged in securing funds for the first section of the building and hope to have it ready for occupancy in the fall.

In this cooperation with the Home Board, it is understood that the old relation between the synod and the Board remains undisturbed. The regular home mission work of the state is carried on by the synod according to the Indiana Plan, and the synod turns ten per cent. of its church contributions to the Board for the national work. And in addition, the synod has taken up this foreign-speaking work, in which the Board cooperates, and which is every year assuming larger proportions and making upon the Church more insistent demands.

JOHN P. HALE,

Chairman of Home Mission Committee.

SYNOD OF IOWA.

Conditions and plans have not changed materially since the report of last year. There was a slight diminution of receipts and a considerable increase of expenditures. The latter grew out of the employment of an additional assistant superintendent, the field force consisting, for a part of the year, of the superintendent, the Rev. C. H. Purmort, D. D., and two assistant superintendents, the Rev. J. P. Linn and the Rev. Scott W. Smith. About the middle of the year Mr. Linn resigned to accept the presidency of Buena Vista College, and no successor has yet been appointed or will be until additional financial resources make such a course advisable.

The maintenance of the Collegiate Church at Ames lays an unusual burden on the Board, at least temporarily. It was necessary that the Board take exceptional action here and assume a large part of the support of the work in its initial stages, and it has pledged the sum of one thousand dollars per year for three years, toward the salary of the pastor. It is hoped that by this action the local assistance can be largely directed to the securing of an adequate building. The position of the church in its connection with the college makes it necessary to construct an edifice different from the usual, architecturally fitted to its environment and special use.

The needs of the capital city, Des Moines, have also called the Board to special assistance. Presbyterianism in Des Moines has not kept pace with the growth of Iowa's most important city, nor with the relative advance of some other Churches. Appeal has been made to the Board for an exceptional grant of aid, and this has been answered by an appropriation of one thousand dollars to be expended within two years, in the development of at least one new field and church in the city. More than this could be wisely used, and is needed. But this is the extent of the Board's present ability, in view of other claims on its funds.

The relation of the German and Bohemian presbyteries remains without change. They are related, by Assembly action, to the national Board in their home mission matters, and to the Synod of Iowa ecclesiastically. This has given rise to considerable difficulty and some misunderstanding. An appeal was taken to the last Assembly from synod's action in limiting membership in the Iowa Board to representatives of presbyteries which carried on their home mission work under the Iowa plan and Board. This appeal was not perfected, the Board expressing a desire to make any possible arrangement which would be satisfactory to all interests concerned. The matters in question will be presented to the foreign-speaking presbyteries at the spring meeting. If they can agree on some amendment of the present methods which will properly relate their work to the synod and the Board, the latter will be glad to do all possible for the encouragement of these presbyteries and to secure full presentation of the work and needs to the synod and to be of any possible assistance.

The problem of the country church is acute in Iowa, which is one of the most typically agricultural states of the Union. Changes in the character of farm life, the increased proportion of tenant farmers, the removal of owners to the towns and cities, the increase of Romanists and foreign-speaking people in the country—all these make additional difficulties for the life of the rural church.

There is no doubt that, with all these changes, the necessity or wisdom of maintaining some churches hitherto worth while becomes a pressing problem. Within the near future, there must be the relinquishment of some of these fields, their consolidation with other churches, and a readjustment of home mission assistance to more promising fields, however much local churches or presbyteries may dislike the process.

In this connection, with a view to a better adjustment of the home mission situation as all churches are concerned in it, the Board and the synod have taken action looking toward a federation of Iowa churches. The synod of 1910 and again in 1911, constituted a committee, of which the president of the Board is chairman, to enter into correspondence with other Churches. No Church other than our own has appointed such a committee. A recent convention of Iowa Methodists appointed delegates to attend the conference asked for by the chairman of synod's committee. Official representatives of the United Presbyterian, Disciples, Baptist and Congregational Churches have expressed personal interest in the matter and a desire to attend any conference which might be called. Such a conference will be held in the near future. It is hoped that it may be the beginning of a movement which will operate to the general good of the home mission conditions of the state. It will be of great advantage if by some federation plan—or even a conference plan—the overchurching and the underchurching of individual localities can be corrected, and the whole state be viewed comprehensively and cooperatively by the different Churches, working for the general good and as far as possible avoiding denominational rivalries. The home mission organization of Iowa by a chartered Board, instead of a committee, gives some decided advantages in administration, and will make it more easily possible for our Church to cooperate in any such movement for a united and general survey and superintendence of the state in home mission affairs.

The method of securing funds is an apportionment of "half as many dollars as members" on each church, to be raised from the congregation without the assistance of the societies within the church—the Sunday school, Young People's Society, Christian Endeavor, Women's Society or otherwise. One-tenth of the offerings of the congregations under this apportionment is sent to the national Board in New York for use in its wider work.

The financial statement for the past two years is as follows:

	1909-10.	1910-11.
Through Iowa Board (including interest) for Iowa work	$17,215 96	$16,287 18
Through Iowa Board for National work.....	1,821 37	1,752 31
From Foreign Speaking Presbyteries, related to the National Board, and sending their offering thus	2,216 50	3,539 05
Through Women's Synodical Society.....	13,419 12	13,375 89
Totals	$34,672 99	$34,954 43
Deducting Freedmen	2,833 37	3,367 37
Net total for Home Missions.....	$31,839 62	$31,587 06
Net decrease	752 56

The totals for last year do not agree with those heretofore published, inasmuch as the contributions of the foreign-speaking presbyteries have not heretofore been included in the total of the Iowa Synod's contributions.

According to the Assembly's Minutes the total of home mission gifts from all sources in Iowa was in the year 1909-10, $37,662.00; and in 1910-11, $41,077.00; an increase of $3,415.00. This includes the value of boxes and all miscellaneous home mission contributions.

E. B. NEWCOMB,

President of the Board of Iowa Home Missions.

SYNOD OF KANSAS.

We are now closing our fourth year as a self-supporting synod. These have been years of real constructive progress. Our method of organization has not been materially altered. The Synodical Committee has been changed into a Commission. It directs the home mission work throughout the synod, especially the plans relative to the apportionment of the synodical funds to the several presbyteries. Its basis of income has been sixty dollars per one hundred members. A great many churches have now reached this standard.

The Commission holds two regular meetings. At the spring meeting held before the presbyteries meet, the budget for the coming year is determined upon and an apportionment for income to the several presbyteries is made.

There is but one treasury for the synodical funds, and Mr. H. C. Olin has served the synod as its treasurer. Each presbytery determines the grants that are to be made for churches within its bounds, but all payments are to be made from the one treasury. Almost one-half of the year's income is received during March. Although we had a balance of $4,771.00 on April first, 1911, the late receipts necessitated a loan of $1,500.00 which was not paid off until in March. The Commission is urging earlier remittances and more systematic benevolence methods.

The Rev. Walter M. Irwin has been the secretary since the synod became self-supporting. The secretary issues the commissions, signs the vouchers, prepares monthly financial reports for the presbyteries' chairmen and receives the annual reports from the missionaries.

Five pastor-evangelists were appointed by the Commission. They were given specified territory, yet the synod was divided into five sections for their services. They have not conducted many evangelistic meetings, but their care of small and otherwise unsupplied churches, their efforts to place pastors over vacant churches, their assistance given to raise local and benevolence money and the performance of general duties have made this office a valuable part of the home mission enterprise.

Our denomination is handicapped through frequent vacancies, short pastorates, constant removals of substantial and spiritual families, especially from the rural and village churches, the necessity for many groupings and inadequate salaries. The poor crops have worked a real hardship upon many of our churches and they are now discouraged. The long severe winter broke into the plans for many evangelistic meetings, and even the regular work of the churches suffered.

Aid from the synodical fund was given to ninety-nine churches. The eighty ministers who received synodical commissions also served many churches that entirely met their share of the salary obligation. These men also preached in many school houses. Some other work was carried on that would come in the home mission class, but the support was given directly by the churches interested.

The synodical balance April 1, 1911, was $4,771.34. The receipts for the year have been $18,157.32. The expenditures amounted to $16,131.96. The balance April 1, 1912, is $6,796.70.

The synod takes up the home mission responsibility of the next year with great hope and faith.

WALTER M. IRWIN,
Secretary of Synodical Home Mission Commission.

SYNOD OF MICHIGAN.

In the fall of 1910 the Synod of Michigan made some changes in its plan of work with a view to closer contact with the churches aided and to more efficient administration. The essential features of the plan are: First,—the employment of three general missionaries to devote their whole time to assisting aid-receiving churches in the development of their resources, both financial and spiritual. Second,—the financing of our home mission work by the synodical and presbyterial committees with the co-operation of the ministers and elders of the churches. Third,—the object of the plan is to help churches to help themselves.

It is probably too soon to pass final judgment upon the wisdom of this plan, but a year's work under it shows the following results:

1. That more churches were supplied with ministers than during any previous year. The stated clerk of synod reported ninety vacant churches at the beginning of the year. At the end of the year there were sixty-one vacant churches, constituting forty fields, eighteen of which were self-supporting. Some of the churches reported vacant were supplied for the whole year and some for a part of the year. A number of the vacant churches have only a name to live; they are dead and should be interred.

2. That many of the aid-receiving churches had raised more money for their own support, and contributed more money to missions.

3. That five churches came to self-support; that others are approaching this goal and asked for a reduced amount of aid for the current year.

4. That in several churches the salaries of the ministers were increased.

5. That a notable advance was made in two presbyteries. During the year ending September thirtieth, 1909, Flint Presbytery contributed to synodical home missions $802.14 and drew back $1191.66; for the year ending September thirtieth, 1910, it contributed $1093.55 and drew $406.26; a gain to the home mission fund of $1076.81. During the year ending September thirtieth, 1911, it contributed $1491.13, and received $615.63; a gain over 1909 of $1265.02. The amount contributed per capita increased from twenty-one cents to thirty-nine cents. During the year ending September thirtieth, 1910, Saginaw Presbytery contributed $1031.70 and drew back $2053.30. During the year ending September thirtieth, 1911, it contributed $1565.73, and drew back $1877.05, a gain of $710.28. Flint Presbytery is already self-supporting. Saginaw Presbytery will probably reach self-support this year. Two of the largest home mission presbyteries in the state will be independent of outside aid.

6. That more money was raised by the churches for home missions than during any previous year. The gain over the preceding year was $2196.87, an increase of five cents per capita; the total amount was $13,602.63.

7. That during the year thirty-nine missionaries, ministering to sixty different churches, were assisted. Three general missionaries were employed and a student pastor for the important work among the more than eight hundred Presbyterian young men and women at Ann Arbor.

8. But this does not tell the whole story, nor the most important facts. These cannot be tabulated. Churches were not only helped financially, they were helped morally, better organized and better equipped for the work of evangelization in their own communities.

The new plan did not provide for a financial agent. The money was raised by the committees and churches. The entire cost of this work, including literature, stationery, postage and clerical assistance, amounted to $570.73. The work of the general missionaries cannot be charged to the cost of administration. They were not engaged in financing the work. They were employed in actual missionary work, doing the same kind of work that any pastor does, only over a wider field. Their reports show that they preached as many sermons, made as many addresses, and as many calls as the most diligent pastor. In addition to regular pastoral work, they secured pastors for vacant churches, conducted financial campaigns in local churches for the support of the local church, and organized them for better work.

The work of administration was done by members of committees no one of whom received any compensation.

The Rev. James F. Record, Ph. D., was engaged in June, 1911, to superintend the Sabbath-school work of the synod. He is devoting his energies to more efficient Sabbath-school organization and administration.

C. A. LIPPINCOTT,

Chairman of Home Mission and Sabbath-school Work.

SYNOD OF NEW JERSEY.

In 1910 the Synod of New Jersey authorized the appointment of a superintendent to devote his whole time to the promotion of the mission work of the state. To this position was appointed the Rev. Samuel McLanahan, for six years the efficient chairman of the Permanent Committee on Synodical Home Missions. Within three months following his entrance upon the work last September his health broke. This report is prepared by the chairman who succeeds him, the Rev. John T. Kerr, of Elizabeth, New Jersey.

The receipts for our work during what was the twenty-fifth year of its history have been more liberal than ever before. The seven presbyteries that send their gifts to synod's treasury contributed $23,406.00,—a gain over the largest previous year of $2,260.00. When the contributions of Newark Presbytery are added the total contributions from the whole synod become $31,242.00, and the gain $5,564.00. Besides these gifts to the general work of synod and presbytery some of our stronger churches support or aid in the support of missions or new church enterprises in their own localities. The money thus expended is not sent to our treasury, nor does our committee come into the possession of any detailed account of the nature and the results of this work for the most part. The amount laid out in this way is reported to our committee as totals, and by our committee reported to synod. The amount of such expenditures so far as reported for the year ending October first, 1911, was $53,063.00. Home mission gifts in the Synod of New Jersey are, therefore, of three classes, as follows: To the Board of Home Missions, $68,382.00; to local missionary work, $53,063.00; to synodical home missions, $35,074.00. The total is $156,509.00 for the past year.

Some results appear of the effort of our committee to secure an increase of salary for our pastors, especially in the Presbytery of Newton. These results are most apparent in the Presbytery of Newton, where the inadequate salaries of two aided fields were increased by the joint action of this committee and the congregations interested. A special committee of presbytery secured an increase of one hundred dollars each in two unaided fields where the salary was below the minimum set by synod. Two other churches, although the salaries were above the minimum, increased them, in one instance by one hundred, in the other by two hundred dollars.

One noteworthy feature of the work as a whole for the past year has been the growth and activity of our Italian missions. Reports show that ten of these received a total of one hundred and eighteen persons, almost all men, upon confession of faith. There has been a marked development too in Sunday schools and other organizations connected with these missions.

Our work for the past year, so far as numbers can represent it, may be summarized as follows:

Number of fields aided.....	106
Ministers and other workers employed.....	100
Additions to church membership.....	973
Membership of churches aided.....	5674
Sunday-school membership of churches aided.....	7757
Contributions for expenses and beneficence from churches aided..	$85,308

JOHN T. KERR,

Chairman of the Permanent Committee on Synodical Home Missions.

SYNOD OF NEW YORK.

The committee to whose charge the state work has been committed have in many ways been cheered by the progress of the work and the good degree of success attained.

The various lines of advance projected a year ago have been steadily pursued and with encouraging and gratifying results. Besides the conservation of our rural churches in communities materially affected by the lure of the cities and the indrift of alien peoples, the immigration problem in all its complexities and unsolved difficulties has been increasingly to the fore. Our vacant churches have been supplied with a reasonable degree of promptness with acceptable ministers, and fewer vacancies have been reported each ensuing quarter, indicating a more healthy and hopeful outlook for our aid-receiving churches in outlying districts.

Our department supervising the foreign-tongued people's work, while in its infancy, has attacked its stupendous task with vigor and in heroic faith. Our associate secretary, the Rev. Arthur Huntington Allen, is devoting his whole time and strength to the work of shepherding the unevangelized foreign colonies in many of our larger cities, and in the vicinity of large public works. Missions at different points have been established and equipped with efficient workers, the policy adopted being that of making some local Christian body responsible for their maintenance and oversight.

A new associate secretary has been engaged as specialist in church finance. The Rev. U. L. Mackey has been employed in some presbyteries in this capacity with marked success in bringing aid-receiving churches to self-support and greatly increasing the benevolent offerings of our stronger churches where his services have been accepted. His services are available both as specialist and as pastor-evangelist.

The outlook of the work as a whole is full of encouragement and hope.

G. P. CONARD,

Chairman Permanent Committee on Home Missions.

SYNOD OF OHIO.

The past year, judging by the figures, was the most prosperous in the history of Ohio Presbyterianism. The year witnessed the largest number of accessions to the churches, the largest net increase in membership, the largest contributions to synodical home missions and the largest contributions for all missionary causes coming directly from the churches in the history of the synod.

The effect of thorough organization upon our home mission work has been apparent in the results attained. The synodical committee held two meetings during the year, when the work of each presbytery was canvassed and plans for larger work formulated. Joint conferences have been held with representatives of the Boards of Foreign Missions and Sabbath-school Work, in the effort to more perfectly unify the work of these agencies and present a united appeal to every member of all of our churches in behalf of our great missionary causes. It is proposed to enlarge and extend these efforts during the coming year.

A number of institutes were held in different parts of the state in the interest of the church and country life, better financial methods, the work of the Sabbath school, and so forth. These institutes were largely attended by pastors and leaders in the work of the local churches.

Efforts have been made to extend more efficient aid to our rapidly increasing foreign population. This work is slow and most difficult—owing largely to the lack of competent available workers, yet quite good results are reported among the Italians in the Presbytery of Cincinnati; in Steubenville among the Slavic population; in St. Clairsville among the Slavic and French people, and in Mahoning and Columbus Presbyteries among the Magyars. We are glad to report that Cleveland Presbytery is planning to take up this work among her large foreign population, with energy and determination.

Constant efforts have been made by our whole synodical force to introduce a practical financial system into our churches. Rapid progress has been made along this line. Results are apparent in the increased amounts given for current expenses, but chiefly in the increase of gifts to the missionary agencies. Church debts have been paid, obligations have been met more promptly and the missionary work of our Church has been remembered with a liberality not exceeded in our history.

Our superintendent, the Rev. Walter H. Houston, has directed the work throughout the year, using our four synodical workers—particularly in the interest of the smaller churches. The efforts of these four men are primarily directed to the churches having less than two hundred members each, the preference being given to the vacant fields and to the points where there is greatest need as well as promise for the future.

Last year the synodical workers visited in all one hundred thirty-one different churches, conducting campaigns on about eighty of these fields. In these campaigns some six hundred persons confessed Christ, many of the smaller fields were reorganized and most of them adopted the duplex system of church finance. The superintendent carried on a correspondence aggregating nearly five thousand letters for the year and personally visited seventy-two different churches.

The number of vacant churches within the bounds of our synod has been greatly reduced during the year. The minimum of eight hundred dollars for pastoral support has practically been established throughout the synod.

The synodical committee has been able to give financial encouragement to some of the presbyteries where advance work should be undertaken but where the local resources were not sufficient to meet the demand. The spirit of doubt and fear has given place to faith and courage, and loyal and hearty support.

J. A. DONAHEY,
Synodical Chairman.

SYNOD OF PENNSYLVANIA.

At the meeting of the synod in October, 1911, the Permanent Committee on Synodical Home Missions presented its twenty-fifth annual report. The quarter centennial of self-support was suitably celebrated, a review of the synod's mission work during this period being presented by the secretary, and an address was delivered by Dr. W. L. McEwan. Great interest was manifested in the measure of success that had attended the synod's mission work. It was shown that four hundred and sixty-three churches had been aided from the fund of the synod, of which more than one hundred fifty had become self-supporting. A large majority of these aided churches were in the rural districts, where, owing to shifting of population, membership is lost about as rapidly as it is gained, going largely to build up the churches of the cities and towns. That these rural fields are fruitful was shown by the fact that almost thirty-three thousand members had been added to these weak churches in twenty-five years, of which twenty-two thousand five hundred were added on confession of faith. When it is remembered that these additions to the weak churches would constitute a body larger than the Synod of Baltimore, it will be seen how very important is the work of supporting these churches which so largely furnish young men for our cities, students for our colleges, and candidates for the ministry.

In this large synod, numbering over twelve hundred ministers, only forty-two were set down as stated supplies last year. In the twenty-five years, the synod disbursed in its work of self-support $618,740.00, of which sum $577,778.00 were paid to pastors, and $30,662.00 were expended in administration. The benevolent offerings of the aided churches aggregated almost $300,000.00; that is, they paid back into the treasury of the church fifty-eight per cent. as much as they received in help. Another important item in the review was the fact that during its period of self-support this synod contributed to national home missions, as carried on by the Home Board, a net gift of $2,684,918.00, an average of $107,396.00 annually, as compared with an average of about $68,000.00 annually previous to 1886. The work of self-support, so far from diminishing interest in the great work of home missions as carried on by the Board, has increased it, not only in the Synod of Pennsylvania, but in all the self-supporting synods.

Death of Dr. Chambers.

Scarcely more than a week after the celebration of the quarter century of self-support, in which the chairman took a prominent part, the synod was shocked to hear of the sudden death of the Rev. George S. Chambers, D. D., for fifteen years the representative of the Carlisle Presbytery on synod's Permanent Committee and for nine years its able and beloved chairman. The thought and energy of his ripest years were devoted to the care of the weak churches. As was said by one closely associated with him, "No one can ever quite fill the place made vacant by the death of the Rev. Dr. George S. Chambers."

A Higher Standard of Ministerial Support.

In 1910 the synod recommended that "presbyteries and churches endeavor to attain to a ministerial salary of at least one thousand dollars a year with manse in the country, and twelve hundred dollars and a manse in the towns and cities." It is not expected that this standard would be reached at once, and the minimum salary for aid-receiving churches was left at nine hundred dollars. The Permanent Committee has labored earnestly to stimulate the weak churches to a larger pastoral support by sharing in the increase by larger appropriations. In this way, without a very heavy increase of aid on the part of the synod, the average of salaries was raised from $877.00 in 1911 to $964.00 for the current year,—an increase of $87.00 in the average salary. The sympathy of the stronger churches in this movement is shown by larger gifts to the synod's sustentation fund.

The Home Mission Budget.

Two years ago the Presbytery of Pittsburgh adopted a home mission budget plan by which all contributions of its churches for the Assembly's Board, synodical and presbyterial home missions were to be paid into the presbyterial treasury, and to be distributed to these objects according to a fixed rate. A little later, the Presbytery of Lackawanna, after conference with the Board, adopted a somewhat similar plan. Each of these presbyteries carries on a large work among foreigners. In both presbyteries the results have been very gratifying. The synod last October recommended to all its presbyteries the adoption of such a budget system for home missions.

The Evangelization of Foreigners.

The work begun in this synod twenty-five years ago has been growing steadily both in extent and efficiency. Within the past year eleven churches were organized, of which number five were foreign speaking, four Magyar, and one Italian.

Owing to the migratory habits of these people, it is difficult to build up large churches; but many new missions have been started by those who have been brought under Christian influence and have united with a Protestant church in one place, removing to another quarter and beginning a new work.

The pastor of the First Italian Presbyterian Church of Hazelton, Pennsylvania, has this to say of his work: "Our church was organized June 24, 1895, and since its organization 204 members have been received on confession of faith, of whom only 65 are now members; about 75 have returned to Italy, and the others are scattered over the United States. Among our converts we have two ministers, two students for the ministry, and three colporteurs. Our members have started four missions in this country and five in Italy.

This pastor visited Italy two years ago as a fraternal delegate from our Assembly to the Waldensian Synod. He found many churches and missions which had been started by converted Italians who had returned to their native land. In one province he found fifteen of the former members of his Hazelton church and about twenty former adherents. A public reception was arranged at which the mayor gave him welcome in an address in which he said: "You have done in America what no one could have done here. You have created a new conscience and a new liberty. Men who were drunkards and immoral have returned models of soberness and morality." It was a new vision which the Rev. Joseph Brunn received that day. He says, "Many times I have been discouraged because our members were leaving us; but now I am almost glad when they go."

Testimony regarding the reflex influence of immigrant evangelization upon the homelands comes from every quarter of the synod where work of this kind is being carried on, and it forms one of its most hopeful features.

W. P. WHITE, Acting Chairman,
J. M. McJUNKIN, Secretary,
Synodical Home Missions in Pennsylvania.

SYNOD OF WEST VIRGINIA.

Almost any state would consider itself fortunate if it possessed any one of the three principal resources of West Virginia—coal, oil and gas. We rank first in the production of natural gas and second in the output of coal, Pennsylvania ranking first. The Chief of the Department of Mines estimates that we have 60,800,000,000 tons of available coal, or ninety-nine and four tenths per cent. of the original supply. The market price of this coal is $57,760,000,000. At the present rate of development it will require one thousand years to exhaust the supply. At the present rate of consumption West Virginia can supply the United States with coal for two hundred and fifty years. California, Oklahoma and Illinois alone surpass us in the production of petroleum. The development of these resources will necessarily cause a rapid increase in our population, and thereby make our mission problems more urgent and intricate. The Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., is numerically weak in the state, ranking eighth in point of numbers.

The religious forces are as follows: Methodist Episcopal, 68,830 members; Baptist, 54,214; Methodist Episcopal South, 41,459; Methodist Protestant, 23,275; United Brethren, 20,195; Christian, 20,000; Presbyterian U. S., 10,144; Presbyterian U. S. A., 8,842; Protestant Episcopal, 6,000; Lutheran, 4,000; United Presbyterian, 889; Reformed Church in U. S., 856; Seventh-Day Baptist, 650; Congregational, 250; Colored Baptist, 15,000; Colored M. E., 2,515; A. M. E., 2,000.

One person out of every $4\frac{1}{3}$ in the state is a member of some Protestant church, and one out of every 138 is a member of the Presbyterian Church U. S. A. Our influence, however, is out of all proportion to our numbers.

The second year of synodical self-support closed with a hopeful outlook for the future. As the churches become instructed and begin to realize the responsibility of the work, the contributions increase. Information and system are the secrets of getting the necessary money. Most of the churches have adopted the duplex budget and envelope system, and wherever this plan has been carefully introduced and fostered, the results have been most gratifying. During the year one church has attained self-support, and others will soon follow.

With the increased cost of living it is necessary to augment the salaries of some of our missionaries. Each year our problems are becoming more grave and difficult. The Negro population increased 47.5 per cent. in the last decade, while the white population increased 26.4 per cent. in the same period. The foreign population increased 155 per cent. in the decade. The development of the coal, oil and gas industries is bringing a large influx of Negroes and foreigners into the state. This means added responsibility for the Church. During the year a start has been made in work among the foreigners.

GEORGE W. POLLOCK,
Secretary of Synodical Committee on Home Missions.

SYNOD OF WISCONSIN.

The ninth year of Wisconsin home mission self-support has closed with a small balance in the treasury. We began the year with a balance of two thousand dollars, due to the inability to fill a number of our smaller fields; but during the year we have succeeded in filling most of these fields and our balance is not so large as it was a year ago.

One source of income which has been of great benefit to us this year, and one which should yield larger results as the years go by, is bequests from the estates of those who have been interested and helped to support Wisconsin home missions during their lives. The first bequest ever received for Wisconsin home missions was in September, 1911, two hundred fifty dollars, from the estate of Miss Mary Jane Scott of Cambria, Wisconsin. The other was three hundred dollars received in January from the estate of Mr. William Gow of De Pere, Wisconsin.

While Wisconsin has been a self-supporting synod for nine years, it has only been possible by the most self-sacrificing work of the pastors and the liberal giving of the members of the synod. With only about eighteen thousand communicants our mark is a dollar a year per member for home missions; and while we have never quite attained that standard, we are reaching after it and making progress.

It would be impossible for the Synod of Wisconsin to maintain its plan of self-support were it not for the aid rendered by the Woman's Synodical Society, who assist most generously in maintaining one of our district superintendents and supporting a number of mission centers in Chippewa Presbytery, as well as paying the salary and expense of Miss Austin who works largely in the northern district. They gave last year twenty-four hundred dollars to the work of these mission centers alone, and while they fear that they will be unable to give so much for the work of the coming year due to the decreased returns from an estate, yet this reduction will in all probability only be temporary and we are assured of their continued cooperation and hearty support.

The work has been somewhat disorganized by the retirement of the Rev. L. C. Smith, D. D., from the synodical superintendency after years of faithful and unselfish toil in that capacity. In the absence of a suitable man to take his place, the work has been reorganized under a synodical chairman who is at the same time a pastor, to serve without remuneration. The active work on the field is divided between three district superintendents: the Rev. C. J. McConnell of Superior, for the northwestern district, composed of Chippewa Presbytery; the Rev. C. A. Adams of Merrill, of the northwestern district, composed of the Winnebago Presbytery; the Rev. R. A. Carnahan of Mauston of the southern district, composed of Milwaukee, Madison, and La Crosse Presbyteries. The measure of success which has been attained the last half of the year since the retirement of Dr. Smith is due entirely to the faithful work of these three men, who are constantly in the fields supplying smaller vacant churches, assisting finances of the parishes, holding evangelistic meetings, and in fact doing everything a minister can do to further the interest of the churches in their respective districts.

The new plan was undertaken with considerable hesitation on the part of the synod, but the pastors have cooperated loyally. The chairmen of the various presbyterial committees have done most efficient service, and so far as one can tell after a six months' trial, it seems safe to say that the plan will succeed.

As an agent in furthering the interest of home missions in the synod and at the same time uniting all of the interest of our churches in the synod, a publication called "The Wisconsin Presbyterian" was launched January first, with the Rev. H. A. Talbot of De Pere as editor-in-chief, assisted by the district superintendents, secretary of our ladies' synodical society, and the pastors and Sunday-school workers of the synod. This magazine is meeting with a hearty reception and is filling a great need for news of churches and various forms of church work of a purely local nature.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The total income of the Board for the current work of evangelization during the year which closed March 31st, 1912, is the largest in its history, exceeding by the sum of $251,491.49 the high record of the previous year. This splendid advance, however, is due entirely to interest received on the John S. Kennedy Fund, amounting to $99,435.98, and to the extraordinary increase of $151,603.71 in general legacies.

The Board hoped to realize a fair increase in offerings from Churches, Sabbath schools and Young People's Societies, in view of the recommendation of the Budget Committee of the Executive Commission that for the year just ended the Churches should raise, for evangelization, an advance of five per cent. over the previous year. The splendid increase in total receipts, however, is somewhat shadowed by the fact that the income from living sources not only failed to meet expectations, but show an actual decrease of $2,523.84, reaching the lowest sum received from such sources in the last five years, with but one exception.

An unusual and gratifying feature has been the comparatively even distribution of receipts for evangelization throughout the year, which, by keeping pace with the expenditures, enabled the Board, for the first time in its history, to meet its regular obligations promptly without the aid of a single loan. In the statement of "Expenditures for Evangelization" therefore, the familiar item of "Interest on Money Borrowed" will be gladly missed.

For the first time in its history, the Board omits from its Annual Report the detailed statement of contributions from Churches and their auxiliary organizations. Instead of each Board publishing a separate list of Churches with several columns of contributions in detail, as heretofore, all the Boards will hereafter join in publishing their annual statement of receipts in one volume, opposite one list of Churches. This change, which was decided upon by the Joint Executive Committee of the Boards and the Executive Commission, in the interest of economy and practicability, will meet with general approval and result in considerable saving of both money and labor to all the Boards.

In this connection let it be understood that should any church or presbytery desire a statement more in detail than is given in the combined statistical report, it will be promptly and cheerfully furnished upon request.

The large amount of interest received on invested funds enables the Board to realize the long cherished desire to have an income from permanent and reserve funds sufficiently large to provide for the cost of administration, communicating information, and other regular and special expenses. It is therefore literally true that during the year just ended, the entire income of the Board from the living, and from general legacies, has been spent directly on the field without the deduction of a dollar. In the light of this fact, the entire membership of the church should find much satisfaction and cause for cheerfully increased giving.

John S. Kennedy Estate. In addition to the amount received last year, $360,000 was received from the Executors of this estate. Of this amount the Board appropriated the sum of $45,000 toward the cost of erecting the new buildings for the Sheldon Jackson School at Sitka, Alaska, the balance being added to the special reserve. In conformity with the plan outlined by the Secretary in last year's report, it is proposed to use so much of the principal of the Kennedy Fund as may be necessary to provide for the increased budget adopted by the Board for next year.

Presbyterian Building. The record of rentals received during the past year do not quite measure up to the gross amount received last year, but leases that are about to be closed, will bring the total to approximately the high water mark.

Permanent Funds. In addition to receipts for the current work of the Board, the following amounts were received during the year:

Board of Home Missions.....	$1,328.83
Woman's Board	39,251.81

Of this second amount $35,151.10 represents the Frances E. Curtiss Fund, the income from one-half of which fund is to be devoted for the work carried on by the Freedmen's Board.

Annuity Gifts. The following amounts have been received on which the Board agrees to pay a certain rate of interest during the lifetime of the donor or some designated beneficiary.

Woman's Board	2,000.00

Woman's Board. The receipts of the Woman's Board show a generous increase of $46,831.77, the women's societies alone marking an advance of about $16,000 over the high record of last year. In this connection it is especially worthy of note that the receipts of the Woman's Board from women's societies,—their main source of income,—have steadily increased with one exception during the past fourteen years, a fact which indicates how thorough and effective is the working plan adopted and carried on so ably through the faithful and consecrated work of its Synodical and Presbyterial organizations.

Cable Address,
"Hullallen," New York.

WALTER M. AIKMAN, ESQ.,
Chairman of Finance Committee,
Board of Home Missions, New York.

DEAR SIR:—I have examined the accounts, with the vouchers, of the Treasurer of your Board for the twelve months which ended March 31st, 1912, have verified both the cash and the securities and find the same in full accord with the records as herein set forth.

I have also verified the balance sheet shown herewith with the books and accounts, and it correctly presents the financial status of the Board.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN H. ALLEN,
Public Auditor.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

The detailed statement of contributions from churches, etc., will hereafter be omitted from the Report of the Board in conformity to the resolutions adopted at a joint conference of the Executive Commission and representatives of the Boards and Permanent Agencies of the Church, held in the City of New York on March 14th, 1912, as follows:—

Resolved, 1. That the Combined Reports of the Boards be issued in two volumes instead of one.

Resolved, 2. That volume one shall contain simply the text of the reports and general exhibit of the financial work of each.

Resolved, 3. That volume two shall contain the contributions of the churches to the Boards arranged in one exhibit, with an appropriate introduction.

Copies of the two volumes above referred to will be distributed under the same plan which was followed when the reports of the Boards were combined in one volume.

Chairmen and members of Home Mission Committees may obtain additional copies of the statement covering the contributions made by the churches within the bounds of their respective Presbyteries upon application to the Treasurer of the Board.

Should a detailed statement of contributions showing the amounts contributed by Congregations, Sabbath Schools, Young People's Societies and Woman's Societies be desired, it will be cheerfully and promptly furnished upon application.

CONTRIBUTIONS FROM INDIVIDUALS, ETC.

The figures contained in the following report of the Treasurer of the Woman's Board are in full accord with, and a slight re-arrangement of the financial report of the Treasurer as contained on pages 112 to 117.

THE THIRTY-THIRD ANNUAL FINANCIAL REPORT OF THE WOMAN'S BOARD OF HOME MISSIONS.

The privilege of sitting "over against the treasury" during the past year has been an occasion for rejoicing when the increase in gifts has been noted from month to month, but a time of serious thoughtfulness when, as March drew near, the increase proved largely to be on the side of special objects outside of the regular current work for which the Woman's Board is responsible. In order to present for your consideration the amount of money received during the year 1911-12, your attention is called to the following report:—

RECEIPTS.

Churches	$4,492 09
Women's Miss. Soc.....	281,626 24
Y. L. Soc. and Bands.....	29,716 11

Interest on borrowed money.....	3,041 48
Insurance	5,740 56
Exchange on checks.....	187 04
Collection refunded	10 00
Total	$524,896 63
Total income for current work.....	496,695 76
Deficit for current year.....	$28,200 87

In addition to the foregoing receipts for current work, the Woman's Board received for:—

Emergency Fund	$2,337 32
Permanent Funds	21,676 26
Annuity gifts	2,000 00
Freedmen	83,563 99
Legacy for Freedmen's work to be made part of Permanent Fund for Freedmen.....	17,575 55

The Emergency Fund has come to the assistance of a number of disabled workers during the year, enabling the Board to grant them leave of absence for various periods of time.

The Permanent Fund was increased by the amount of $21,-676.26, making a total of $158,990.93. This Fund represents gifts or legacies, the principal of which is to be kept invested, and only the interest thereon used for the current work.

Annuity Gifts are not available for current work, as the principal of the gift is at once invested in order to meet the interest paid to the donor, or to some designated annuitant. These annuity gifts are kept invested until all the obligations in connection therewith have been met, when the principal is available for such use as may be determined by the Woman's Board.

The amount of $83,563.99 above mentioned was transferred to the Freedmen's Board in Pittsburgh. This shows a loss of $927.93 for the year.

Sales of Literature amounting to $6,201.32 were applied toward the cost of the printing and distribution of books and leaflets for information concerning the work of the Board.

The following statement is presented in order to show the need for equal payments during each quarter of the year so that the Board shall be saved the necessity of borrowing money and paying interest thereon.

QUARTERLY RECEIPTS AND PAYMENTS FOR CURRENT WORK.

Receipts.		Payments.
$61,619 63.....	1st Quarter.....	$103,906 09
73,695 75.....	2nd Quarter.....	106,351 63
135,473 48.....	3rd Quarter.....	140,710 53
225,906 90.....	4th Quarter.....	173,928 38

It will be observed from this statement that there is still room for improvement along the line of quarterly payments.

BUILDINGS.

During the year the following building projects have drawn largely on the receipts for building purposes:—

Alaska—Haines. Hospital building remodelled.

Alaska—Sitka, Sheldon Jackson School. Six buildings completed with equipment and new furniture.

Indian—Ganado, Arizona. Dormitory completed.

Indian—North Fork, California. School Building.

Indian—Jewett, New Mexico. (Kirkwood Memorial) Hospital and Dormitory remodelled.

Mexican—Embudo, New Mexico. School building and Lockwood Home completed with cement finish.

Mountaineer—Mt. Vernon, Kentucky (Brown Memorial). Addition to building.

Mountaineer—Lawson, West Virginia (Pattie C. Stockdale Memorial). Capacity of building doubled.

Mormon—Mt. Pleasant, Utah (Wasatch Academy). Doubled size of Academy Building. New Equipment and furniture.

Cuba—Guines (Kate Plummer Bryan Memorial). School building in course of construction.

Porto Rico—Pueblo Nuevo. School building.

Porto Rico—Mayaguez, Marina Mission. School building and teachers' apartments under course of construction.

In addition to the above new buildings, the following purchases have been made:—

Panguitch, Utah. Purchase of brick cottage for teachers' home.

Mt. Pleasant, Utah (Wasatch Academy). Purchase of half block with three brick buildings.

The only destruction by fire during the year was the school building at "Old Dwight", Oklahoma.

The call for gifts to be applied toward the erection of a permanent memorial to Mrs. Delos E. Finks, for twenty-five years the beloved editor of the Home Mission Monthly, went forth in January of this year, and societies and friends have responded to the extent of $11,697.87. This amount is included in the total receipts for current work, and will be held in the Trust Company until such time as the full amount of $50,000 required is in hand, at which time a dormitory will be erected in connection with Wasatch Academy, Mt. Pleasant, Utah, said dormitory to be known as "Finks Memorial Hall".

HONORARY AND LIFE MEMBERS.

One hundred and fifty (150) Life Members have been constituted during the year, the largest number coming from Pennsylvania, with Minnesota and New York following closely after. Twenty-five ($25.00) dollars over and above regular contributions paid in at one time for the General Fund, entitle a society or an individual to name a Life Member, and a beautifully engraved certificate of membership is forwarded.

The plan for Honorary Memberships was inaugurated during the year, and as a result six members have been enrolled. No more helpful means can be used by societies toward assisting the work of the Woman's Board, than the securing of Honorary Members. One hundred ($100) dollars over and above regular contributions paid in at one time for the General Fund entitle a society or an individual to name an Honorary Member. An artistically engraved certificate of membership and a gold catch pin containing the seal of the Woman's Board are presented.

INCREASED GIFTS.

It might be of interest to note at this time that the gain in receipts from organizations over last year amounts to $18,947.75, women's societies alone showing an increase of $15,947.19. There is also a gain of $9,144.16 in receipts from the field, and $22,997.75 in rents and sales. However the fact that $66,047.34 was received for buildings, and $31,861.49 for work among Foreigners,—$23,672.11 of the latter amount simply being received and transmitted to treasurers of organizations having such work in hand,—clearly shows what a small percentage of the increased receipts was actually available for current expenses of mission schools. No new work has been undertaken during the year, but the high cost of living and the large registrations in our boarding schools have increased expenses to a far greater extent than receipts for regular current work have been increased. With this state of affairs the Woman's Board faces a serious situation. Loyalty to the established work must be our plea for the new year.

LIABILITIES.

In closing our books for the year we are compelled to meet the following obligations:—

Debt accumulated as of April 1, 1911.....	$11,839 07
Debt for current year.....	28,200 87
		$40,039 94
Advance for purchase of lot in Mt. Pleasant, Utah.....	2,300 00
Balance due on Sitka buildings.....	14,466 00
Total liabilities

This statement is presented in order that our constituency may be familiar with the exact financial standing of the Woman's Board, and so be prepared to help meet the problem confronting us for the new year. Larger gifts must be secured for the work already established, otherwise retrenchment must be made, attendance restricted at our boarding schools, or possibly schools closed. This need not be so. The work may be continued on the present basis, the debt be paid, if only "all the tithes" are brought "into the storehouse". The promise is sure. Let us labor to secure the blessing of which it is said, "there shall not be room enough to receive it."

Respectfully submitted,

MISS DORA M. FISH,
Acting Treasurer.

APPENDIX.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE ON HOME MISSIONS.

In presenting this Report for the consideration of the General Assembly your Committee desires to express gratitude to God for the good way in which He has led the affairs of the Church in the proclamation of the gospel of Jesus Christ, and to congratulate the Church on the wise and statesmanlike policies of the Board, and the consecration with which the secretaries carry on their work.

In a careful study of the Report of the Board as well as that of the Treasurer, we have been impressed with the magnitude of the task before the Church to Christianize America. It calls forth larger things than we have before attempted. The problem of immigration, and the tremendous territory of the South and Southwest, the great West and Northwest, and the large cities demand expenditure of men and money commensurate with the new opportunities.

What a wide district is embraced within the Synods of Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Texas; nine Synods, ten States! In this wide territory with 722,000 square miles there live over twenty million inhabitants. Throughout this vast region we are confronted with the larger part of the Negro problem; it is here, too, that the Mexican question has become acute; and a still growing influx of people enlarges the vision.

Alaska is prominently before the public to-day. Her political and commercial interests are widely discussed. Her citizens are demanding territorial organization and self government.

Congressional interest—so long withheld—is now manifesting itself along the two very important lines of conservation and transportation.

Inasmuch as political and commercial interests are alert to future possibilities, in this as yet undiscovered country, it is incumbent upon the Presbyterian Church, which has always stood at the forefront in Alaskan missionary enterprise, to quicken its interest and renew its activities, that religion and morality may keep pace with commerce and government in the development of this great northern empire.

Your Committee rejoices to know that in the Northwest, in the lumber camps, on the frontier, in Cuba, Porto Rico, and in all this broad domain, the Church should catch the vision respecting the concentration of all its energies, in its supreme mission to carry out the program of Jesus Christ when He said, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world"—to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ to America and to make America Immanuel's Land.

In carrying out this program the Board realizes that it is not organized for its own sake. The visions and struggles and sacrifices of the missionary in the difficult places of our country justify the Board's existence which is made possible only by a constituency demanding such services and cooperation.

From the Report of the Board we gather the summary of work accomplished during the past year:

RECEIPTS.

Receipts for current work under immediate direction of the Board of Home Missions, $1,009,112.84. Additional receipts for current work under the direction of the Woman's Board, $482,070.01. Additional receipts transmitted through the Board for special current enterprises not under its direction, $12,449.09. Which make a total for current work through the Board's treasury of $1,503,631.94. Receipts for current work administered directly through the treasuries of self-supporting synods and presbyteries, $454,787.88. A total for current home mission work for last year of $1,958,419.82.

In addition to this amount the Board received substantial sums for investment in the interests of the home mission work and not for use in current work. Not including $52,000. of annuities unavailable for any purpose until the death of the annuitants, these amounts increase the total of money which reached home mission treasuries during the year to $2,298,762.23.

In this, no reckoning is made of hundreds of thousands of dollars administered by other Boards of the Presbyterian General Assembly doing work in the United States, of numerous down-town missions and parish institutions financed by the budgets of local churches or of millions of money contributed by individual Presbyterians in the support of religious, general, social and philanthropic enterprises not directly organized under Presbyterian auspices.

WHENCE THE MONEY COMES.

Churches, as such, contributed to the Board's treasury $298,276.64. Besides this our churches probably contributed fifty or sixty per cent. of the total directly administered by the self-supporting synods and presbyteries.

Women's missionary societies contributed for work administered by the Woman's Board $281,626.24; for other work of the Board $1,466.15, or a total of $283,092.39.

Young people's societies and Sunday schools contributed for the work administered by the Board, including that of the Woman's Board, $108,446.29. The records do not show how much these organizations contributed to the work administered directly by the self-supporting synods and presbyteries. From individuals and miscellaneous sources there was contributed to the work of the Board, including the Woman's Board, $66,541.12.

From legacies the amount contributed to the work of the Board, including the Woman's Board, is $797,214.87, of which sum $315,000.00 was carried to the Special Reserve Account.

WHAT THE MONEY DOES.

Almost thirty-five hundred churches, missions and out-stations were assisted in maintaining their work in as many needy communities, throughout continental United States, east and west, north and south, in the islands and in Alaska.

About three thousand ministers and other workers were supported wholly or in part, in preaching, teaching and varied lines of the gospel ministry. About fourteen thousand persons were brought into membership of the Church by profession of faith and about eight thousand by certificate; thousands of children and others received instruction in gospel truth and unnumbered communities were led to higher standards of daily living. New churches were organized to the number of one hundred and thirty.

Inspirational influences emanated from home mission agencies which quickened every phase of the Church's life and ministry; immigrant masses were brought into sympathetic relations with the Church and other institutions of the Republic; rural churches were led to see their mission of leadership in community life and discouraged country ministers gained a sense of dignity and worthfulness in their calling; direct and definite leadership was assumed in the stressful social movements of the nation and of local communities; every group of exceptional people, Indians, Spanish-Americans, aliens and the coming citizens of every race and color, was leavened with Christian truth; numerous phases of all the great problems of modern spiritual ministry were studied anew and modern scientific methods were brought under bondage of the forces establishing the Kingdom of Heaven upon earth.

We learn also with mingled sorrow and joy, that the Master has given rest to the following faithful servants who have entered upon their glorious reward, believing that it may be said of them: "That the spirit of the Lord was upon them and that they were sent to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives and the recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bound, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord." They were faithful unto the end. Let us reverently listen to the roll call of those who are no longer on the firing lines:

Mr. Harvey E. Baker.....Myra, Texas.
 Rev. C. C. Bullock.....Avoca, Texas.
 Rev. E. P. Butler.....Crescent City, Florida.

Rev. J. A. Cahill.....	Magdalena, New Mexico.
Rev. Robert Ennis.....	Jacksonville, Oregon.
Rev. George Frank.....	Emery, South Dakota.
Rev. Harold James Frothingham, D.D..	Elsinore, California.
Rev. C. B. Ludwig.....	Whitewood, South Dakota.
Rev. Samuel B. Moyer.....	Pueblo, Colorado.
Rev. George H. Perry.....	Salmon, Idaho.
Rev. David B. Simpson.....	Dexter, New Mexico.

We also note the home-going of the oldest member of the Board, who served for fifteen years, General A. Noel Blakeman. On the Woman's Board two noble women, Mrs. Darwin R. James, who served from 1881 to 1912, and Mrs. Delos E. Finks, 1886 to 1911, after many years of gracious service are now resting from their labors. Having lost these faithful servants may our hearts and prayers go out in sympathy to the bereaved homes. May the God of all comfort sustain the noble women of the manse who so loyally and lovingly upheld and inspired the courage and faithfulness of the missionary pastors.

We note with increasing interest and enthusiasm the statesmanship with which the Board approaches the task of Christianizing America, beginning in a small way nine years ago with the establishment of four departments, Social Service, Church and Country Life, Immigration and Indian Work. These have developed into immeasurable factors in expanding and deepening home missions. The future evolution of these departments, through experience, meets in an intensive way the imperative modern demands. The correlation of our duty to God and to men will in this manner receive the correct emphasis and approach perfection.

SOCIAL SERVICE.

This development grew out of the original plan of the Board, called "Church and Labor Department." It now embraces all moral and social problems. Its object is to enlarge the power of the Church in an intelligent way, to apply the principles of Christianity to the broad sphere of modern social life and to create a spiritual influence by means of which to make society clean, pure and Christlike, and to incarnate the golden rule in man's words and deeds. A study of such problems as charities, corrections, child welfare, woman's work, labor and capital, public health and housing, public parks and recreations and the economic and moral welfare of the community, will secure to the Church enlarged influence. In order that any appreciable good may result, we must have open eyes and clear judgments, we must undertake accurate investigation and intelligently appreciate life in all its relations so that we may restrain or eliminate evil from society, and thus enable the Church to become the true evangel for the salvation of all mankind.

A survey made during the past year in such cities as Cleveland and Chicago enabled these communities to understand more clearly the task before the Christian Church. We hope these exhibits may show the Church more fully the importance of the regeneration of the individual through the Spirit and may cause it to realize what a vital part American citizenship has in the reformation of society and government.

CHURCH AND COUNTRY LIFE.

It is a subject for congratulation that this department has already accomplished work of a high value through its surveys, which have created profound interest among sociological students and experts all over the land, and have influenced other denominations to take up similar work. We express the hope that, through "a follow up system", this may lead to still greater results and, under the blessing of God, may prepare the way for a revival of true Christian life in lapsed and now destitute country regions.

IMMIGRATION.

Another feature of our modern American life has called forth a new adjustment of the Board's work. The settlement in our great cities of immense numbers of foreign speaking peoples who live by themselves is a challenge to the Church of Christ. The burden is felt in some of the self-supporting presbyteries and synods. Here it is where the national Board must come to assist the weaker organizations. Christian leadership above everything else is the great need of the hour. The harvest truly is great and the laborers are few. Yet there is the promise of Christ: "Pray ye the Lord of the harvest that He send forth laborers into the harvest." May the Church be humbled to become the interceding and praying people of God in this gigantic mission.

INDIAN DEPARTMENT.

The Presbyterian Church is not theorizing about the "Indian Problem." It is busy with a God-appointed task. It is trying to deal in a practical, earnest, sympathetic way with the conversion to Christianity and the nurture in the faith of A RACE, a race which is not vanishing, but steadily increasing in numbers, and whose destiny and place in our civilization is to be early determined. Its purpose is:

To speedily evangelize the fifty thousand Indians of our Christian land who have no missionaries or churches.

To enlarge the number and capacity of Christian schools where the Bible is taught daily and the atmosphere of the school is that of the Christian home.

To establish an industrial and institutional work for the neediest tribes and field missionaries.

To encourage the Indians everywhere in America to adjust themselves to the new conditions and strange relations into which they have been forced, and to help them, under God, to work out their own salvation and destiny in American life.

A year ago provision was made by which the Board would cooperate with churches in securing for the missionaries a minimum salary of eight hundred dollars. This in most cases has been reached, and is still found to be inadequate. In many parts of the country it is impossible to secure for a family a fair living on that sum. The Board has, therefore, taken another forward step. It proposes now to make nine hundred dollars the minimum for the missionary's salary. This will be done, however, only on two conditions: First, that the congregation that is being assisted shall cooperate with the Board in this advance; and secondly, that the missionary shall become an installed pastor. This is done in order to secure that great essential for permanent progress in the more permanent relation of the missionary to the people.

It is gratifying to note the renewed and general study of home mission administrative problems. The resulting tendencies would appear to be making in the right direction. American ideals of administration should prevail in the articulation of part with part in its home mission work. The complete independency of any part must work disastrously to that part and to the whole. Each synod and presbytery discovers its dependence upon each other, if not for financial aid, certainly for inspiration and fellowship in the administration of its work. This essential American principle is accentuated by to-day's intricate social problems. Wide sections of the country share new and common tasks, and the proposed federation of synods by groups for the common approach to common problems is a wise recognition of to-day's needs.

In similar manner the knitting of the whole into a common fabric through the offices of the national Board of Home Missions is recognized to be important. This involves no sacrifice, but rather the exaltation of the Presbyterian and American principle of the rights of each part in the whole. It must be injurious for any synod or presbytery to lose vital relation with the Board as the federal center of home mission administration.

The Board and all of its resources should be back of every synod and presbytery of the Church. Some synods require especially the financial help of the Board, others assistance in the development of their own resources, still others some other ministry, but each has a right to require and to gain from the Board help at that point where the need is real. Under present complicated conditions throughout the Church the Board should be equipped to render a varied service. Each synod should be able to look with confidence to it for such guidance and assistance as the peculiar developments of its field shall prompt the synod to seek. Leadership in the approach to any and all phases of the many-sided home mission task should be definitely expected of the Board.

The cramping effects of extreme independency in synods or presbyteries is apparent from experience. Sections of the church whose natural resources are the largest have sometimes least developed their powers of giving and doing. Larger plans, conceived in a more liberal statesmanship, will alone develop these resources. No synod should rob the national enterprise of its cooperation; no synod should rob itself of the tonic of a large task.

The time is past when the fear of centralized power can properly deter intimate cooperation. Every agency should be given all the power it can use in discharging the common responsibility of all parts of the Church. There is never peril in responsible power. The Church should call its administrative agencies to account for their stewardship, but no artificial check can safely be put upon any sincere and wise attempt to meet the common obligation.

Consideration of need should be the guide in shaping all plans. There is no virtue in machinery which is not designed to produce results. Where two agencies would only be in one another's way by attempting to work together, they should, of course, work separately. On the other hand no need should be permitted to suffer neglect. If any part of the Church is unable to cope with its problems, no pride of self-dependence should permit a neglect which must in the end put the health of the whole Church in jeopardy. Your Committee feels that there never was a time when the need was so patent for all home mission agencies to join in intimate cooperation; and it is gratifying to note the general desire to mold all agencies into a common force, employed upon a common task.

Your Committee has had referred to it by the Advisory Council the following plan of federation of the work of home missions in relation to the Board which we offer for adoption in this amended form:

1. In regard to work among foreign speaking peoples, it is the judgment of the Council that such work should be administered by the presbytery or synod in which it is located, as far as this is feasible; that, owing to the peculiar nature of this work and the problems arising under it, it is especially desirable that synods and presbyteries engaged in it keep in close touch with one another and with a central agency having interest in, and expert knowledge of, the whole field. This may be best done through the Immigration Department of the Home Board. The Council therefore advises that those engaged in this work keep in touch with this department as tending to the unification and increased efficiency of the work as a whole, and in all its parts.

2. To secure closer and more efficient advisory relations between home mission agencies, the Council asks the Assembly to adopt a plan, of which the following shall be the outstanding features, adjustment of details being left to the agencies concerned.

PROPOSED PLAN FOR FEDERATING THE SELF-SUPPORTING SYNODS AND THE BOARD OF HOME MISSIONS.

Preamble. Valuable as self-administration and support have been to synodical missions, resulting not alone in more careful supervision because of the nearness of the authority to the need, but also in a larger and more comprehensive giving, the conviction is growing that there should be a closer relation established between all the agencies of home mission work within the denomination. Not only does this age of cooperation suggest this, but changing social conditions and the incoming millions of foreign-born citizens demand it.

Believing that a plan of cooperation can be established between the Home Board and the self-supporting synods, without in the least disturbing present organization and independence, the Advisory Council would respectfully suggest the following plan of federation to the Assembly, requesting that if it meets with the Assembly's approval it be sent down to the Home Board and the synods named for their consideration and action, it being understood that the Board's approval and that of two-thirds of the synods concerned shall provide for the inauguration of the plan.

1. That the self-supporting synods be organized into groups, of which the following may be taken as a suggestive arrangement:

The Eastern Group consisting of the Synods of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and West Virginia:

The Group of the Middle West: Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin:

The Western Group: Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

2. That each synod and its constituent presbyteries shall continue their present form of organization, except as changes may be deemed desirable by the synod or presbytery concerned.

3. That each synod shall appoint not more than two members, either ministerial or lay, to constitute, in company with similar representatives from other synods of the same group, a Federation Council, meeting once or twice each year as the group may desire, representatives of the Home Board being corresponding members of each group.

4. That each of the synods shall appoint one representative as a corresponding member of the Home Board, who shall attend annually a meeting of the Board at the Board's expense, being also welcomed at any meeting of the Board.

5. That it shall be the duty of the Home Board to appoint one of its officers, or a representative, to assist the synods in matters of synodical finance, budgets, work among peoples of foreign speech, and so forth, at the request of the synod's home mission officials.

6. That each synod, if desiring, shall have the privilege of availing itself of the treasury facilities of the Home Board, providing that if such synod's account is overdrawn the Board shall send a representative into that synod for the purpose of assisting it to get back to a position of self-support.

The Council asks that the developments of the future be permitted to determine the continuance of the Council as now constituted, it being the conviction that if the plan proposed above shall be put into operation, it and other methods of bringing home mission agencies into harmonious and effective relationships will produce better results and at less cost than the present Advisory Council.

Your Committee had referred to it Overture 271, from the Presbytery of Southern Oregon, in reference to the relations between labor and capital, asking the Assembly to take steps looking to the organization of an Industrial Commission, which shall have representatives from different denominations; and we offer the following answer:

1. That we greatly deplore the contentions between labor and capital and are willing to lend our influence for their elimination.

2. That the Presbyterian Church as a whole is not devoted to the interests of one class as opposed to those of another.

3. That the establishment of an Industrial Peace Commission by the Assembly does not seem practicable and wise in addition to the Department of Social Service already established.

Replying to the Overture 358 from Presbytery of Minneapolis, 356 from the Presbytery of Spokane, and 269 from the Presbytery of Buffalo, with regard to the suspension by the President of the United States, of the Order of Robert G. Valentine, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, concerning the use of sectarian insignia and garb in government Indian schools and sectarian instruction, a representative of the Board of Home Missions, with others interested, has already appeared before the Administration and made request for the revoking of the President's order, and that the President has this request now under consideration. We recommend that the General Assembly take advantage of this opportunity to declare its position on this important matter in the following action:

To express its judgment, that the Constitution of the United States, and the traditions of our national life, demand that there shall be no attempt at proselyting in any government institution, even in an indirect manner; that the use of ecclesiastical insignia and garb in government schools constitutes a subtle and powerful propaganda; that the fact that this has been permitted in time past, as it never should have been permitted, does not justify its continuance; that one Church should not seek nor desire special privileges which other Churches do not possess nor ask; and that complete obedience, on the part of everybody concerned, to the principle of freedom from all trace of sectarianism in government institutions, is the only just and fair basis on which government schools can be maintained; and that the Assembly respectfully request the President of the United States to see to it that the Order of Commissioner Valentine be revived and put into impartial operation immediately.

Your Committee had referred to it Overture 226 from the Presbytery of Los Angeles referring to the Jewish peoples; and we offer the following answer:

Resolved that we answer the overture in the negative as efforts to evangelize the Jews have already been made as the Reports of the Board will show.

Resolved that we approve of the continued efforts to find the best method of bringing the gospel to the Jewish people.

The Committee makes the following recommendations:

1. We have examined the Minutes of the Board of Home Missions and find them neatly and correctly kept. We recommend that they be approved.

2. We find that the term of service of the following members of the Board expires with this Assembly:

Ministers.

Rev. D. Stuart Dodge, D. D.
Rev. Lyman Whitney Allen, D. D.
Rev. Wilson Phraner, D. D.
Rev. Henry Sloane Coffin, D. D.

Laymen.

Frank L. Babbott.
Theodore W. Morris.
William S. Bennet, LL. D.

We recommend them for re-election and also the election of Rev. John Lyon Caughey, D. D., in place of Rev. John Douglas Adam, D. D., resigned.

Class 1914.

Mr. Francis S. Phraner in place of Gen. A. Noel Blakeman, deceased.

Mr. H. K. Twitchell in place of Mr. C. B. Orcutt, deceased.

Class 1915.

President John H. Finley, LL. D., in place of Mr. Thos. H. Perrin, deceased.

3. We recommend that the Assembly go on record as most heartily commending the faithfulness of the members of the Board of Home Missions and the unswerving and untiring devotion of its consecrated secretaries.

4. We recommend to the presbyteries and the churches a careful study of the budget for Home Missions, prepared by the Executive Commission; for national Home Missions, $746,698.32; for presbyterial and synodical Home Missions in the self-supporting synods, $491,909.63. We recommend the formal adoption of this budget for Home Missions and an earnest and systematic effort to provide for the full quota.

5. We recommend to the Indian Department of the Board the advisability of establishing, wherever practicable, professorships in Indian schools where theological instruction may be offered to Indian men who may have a call to the gospel ministry.

6. We would recommend that the Sunday schools be urged to continue to devote the offerings on the Sunday before Thanksgiving to the work of the Woman's Board and on the Sunday nearest Washington's Birthday to the work of the Board of Home Missions, such offerings to be secured as part of the apportionment made in the budget.

In behalf of Committee.

Respectfully submitted,

CORNELIUS M. STEFFENS,
Chairman.

The Standing Committee on Home Missions presented the following supplementary report which was adopted:—

1. Whereas the Rev. Charles E. Edwards, D. D., has presented clearly to the General Assembly the condition of the churches in Bohemia and Moravia, and

Whereas the immigrant problem is vitally important to the well-being of the United States of America; and

Whereas the weak and struggling churches in Bohemia and Moravia are nevertheless able to provide candidates for the ministry who may be received for work in this Presbyterian Church; and

Whereas the Bohemian Church belongs to the great Presbyterian family; therefore

Resolved, That the effort undertaken in this country to assist the Bohemian and Moravian Churches, through a committee of which the Rev. William L. McEwan, D. D., is chairman, be and hereby is commended to the liberality of the Church at large.

2. Resolved, That we congratulate the Woman's Board of Home Missions upon the splendid work accomplished during the past year in enlarged gifts for the home missionary Board, also upon the great increase of women (fifty thousand) added to the membership of the women's societies of the Presbyterian Church during the past year, and that we heartily endorse the work of women in the evangelization of America.

In behalf of the Committee,

CORNELIUS M. STEFFENS, Chairman.

CHARTER.

CHARTER GRANTED BY THE STATE OF NEW YORK, APRIL 12TH, 1862.
LAWS OF 1862, CHAPTER 187.

AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE PRESBY-TERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

PASSED APRIL 12TH, 1862—CHAPTER 187.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1.—Walter Lowrie, Gardner Spring, William W. Phillips, George Potts, William Barnard, John D. Wells, Nathan L. Rice, Robert L. Stuart, Lebbeus B. Ward, Robert Carter, John C. Lowrie, citizens of the State of New York, and such others as they may associate with themselves, are hereby constituted a body corporate and politic forever, by the name of The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, for the purpose of establishing and conducting Christian Missions among the unevangelized or Pagan nations, and the general diffusion of Christianity; and by that name they and their successors and associates shall be capable of taking by purchase, grant, devise or otherwise, holding, conveying, or otherwise disposing of any real or personal estate for the purposes of the said corporation, but which estate within this State shall not at any time exceed the annual income of twenty thousand dollars.

SECTION 2.—The said corporation shall possess the general powers, rights and privileges, and be subject to liabilities and provisions contained in the eighteenth chapter of the first part of the Revised Statutes, so far as the same is applicable, and also subject to the provisions of chapter three hundred and sixty of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty.

LAWS OF 1894, CHAPTER 326.

AN ACT TO AMEND CHAPTER ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SEVEN OF THE LAWS OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-TWO, ENTITLED "AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA," AND TO REGULATE THE NUMBER OF TRUSTEES.

BECAME A LAW APRIL 19TH, 1894, WITH THE APPROVAL OF THE GOVERNOR; PASSED, THREE-FIFTHS BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1.—Section three of chapter one hundred and eighty-seven of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-two, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America," is hereby amended to read as follows:

SECTION 2.—"The management and disposition of the affairs and property of the said Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America shall be vested in twenty-one Trustees, who shall be appointed from time to time by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America for such terms as the Assembly may determine. But the number of such Trustees may be increased or decreased at any time by the said General Assembly, and in case of an increase the additional Trustees shall be appointed by such General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America; provided, however, that the members of the Board as at present constituted shall continue to hold office until their successors have been appointed by the General Assembly. Not less than eleven members of the Board shall constitute a quorum for the purpose of electing officers, making by-laws, or for holding any special meeting; but for all other purposes, and at stated meetings, five shall be a quorum."

LAWS OF 1900, CHAPTER 136.

AN ACT TO AMEND CHAPTER ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SEVEN OF THE LAWS OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-TWO, ENTITLED "AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA," AS AMENDED BY CHAPTER THREE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SIX OF THE LAWS OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND NINETY-FOUR.

BECAME A LAW MARCH 15TH, 1900, WITH THE APPROVAL OF THE GOVERNOR; PASSED, A MAJORITY BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1.—Section three of chapter one hundred and eighty-seven of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-two, entitled "An act to incorporate the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America," as amended by chapter three hundred and twenty-six of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-four, is further amended so as to read as follows:

SECTION 2.—"The management and disposition of the affairs and property of the said Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America shall be vested in twenty-one Trustees, who shall be appointed from time to time by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America for such terms as the Assembly may determine. But the number of such Trustees may be increased or decreased at any time by said General Assembly, and in case of an increase the additional Trustees shall be appointed by such General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America; provided, however, that the members of the Board, as at present constituted, shall continue to hold office until their successors have been appointed by the General Assembly. Not less than eleven members of the Board shall constitute a quorum for the purpose of electing officers, making by-laws, or for holding any special meeting, but for all other purposes, and at stated meetings, five shall be a quorum. All the business of the said corporation shall be conducted by the Board under and subject to the direction of the said General Assembly, so far as such direction shall be in accordance with the laws of the State of New York and of the United States of America."

SECTION 3.—This Act shall take effect immediately.

NOTE.—The limit fixed by the Board's original Charter as to the amount of property which the Board may take or hold and the income to be derived therefrom was increased under a law passed June 30, 1911, amending the general corporation law in relation to the amount of property non-stock corporations may take or hold. The new law being as follows:

"If any general or special law heretofore passed, or any certificate of incorporation, shall limit the amount of property a corporation other than a stock corporation may take or hold, such corporation may take and hold property of the value of ten million dollars or less, or the yearly income derived from which shall be one million dollars or less, notwithstanding any such limitations. In computing the value of such property, no increase in value arising otherwise than from improvements made thereon shall be taken into account."

BEQUESTS.

The Board is incorporated by an Act of the Legislature of the State of New York. The corporate name to be used is: The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

FORM OF BEQUEST.

I give, devise, and bequeath unto "The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America," incorporated April 12, 1862, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York, the sum of.....Dollars, to be expended for the appropriate objects of said corporation.

FORM OF DEVISE.

(Real Estate.)

RESIDUARY CLAUSE.

All the rest, residue and remainder of my real and personal estate, I devise and bequeath unto "The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America," incorporated April 12, 1862, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York.

ACTION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Seventy-fifth Annual Report of the Board of Foreign Missions and the manuscript volume of its Minutes for the year ending March 31, 1912, were presented to the General Assembly, in session at Louisville, Ky., May, 1912, and were referred to the Standing Committee on Foreign Missions.

The Committee presented to the General Assembly its Report which was adopted. The Report condensed and recommendations submitted is herewith presented:

In presenting this Report, your Committee desires to record its deep appreciation and thanksgiving unto Almighty God for His rare blessing bestowed upon the work of Foreign Missions during the past year. We also bear record to the increased interest manifested in the great opportunity and privilege of evangelizing the world. It has been apparent not only in a more pronounced prayer spirit, but also in the intensity and importunity of that intercession, and the inevitable result has been enlargement of purpose, power and accomplishment. In one word: the year has witnessed a pronounced deepening of the Church's determination unto the proclamation of Jesus Christ in all the world.

To-day the Board of Foreign Missions presents its Seventy-fifth Annual Report to the General Assembly. Its Diamond Jubilee!

The seventy-fifth year! What a glorious starting place for the evangelization of the world in the next twenty-five years—our generation—and we can do it if we will. God give us vision, love and potent desire to arise unto this opportunity and finish the superstructure whose foundation under God has been so masterfully laid!

Financially this has been the greatest year in the history of our foreign work: the full receipts, exclusive of special China famine relief offerings, being $2,877,844,* the wise administration of which is a marked tribute to the Board's efficiency.

Lifting our eyes to fields white unto harvest, we note some blessed facts: the remarkable growth in the last eleven years. In 1901 we had 41,559 communicants on the foreign field; in 1912 there are 116,000. In 1901 the total contributions of the Church at home to this work were $969,180; this year we reached the record sum, from the same sources, of $2,046,187, or an increase of 111%. Somewhat more in detail, touching these eleven years, and considered now only in the percentage increase, behold the situation: a 51% increase in the foreign missionaries themselves; 174% increase in the native forces; 65% increase in organized churches; 179% increase in communicants; schools, 138%; pupils, 116%; Sunday-school scholars, 309%; hospitals, 109%; receipts from all sources at home, 111% increase, while during the past eight years, there has been an increase of 295% in the contributions on the field from native sources.

I suppose it is indeed difficult, if not quite impossible, for us who live in the slow-going Occident to comprehend some of the rapid changes in the swiftly moving Orient, for the East is truly kaleidoscopic. Something has hustled it, our friend Kipling to the contrary notwithstanding. In China the old examination halls are no more, but in their stead there are to-day 35,000 schools and colleges developed by the Imperial Board of Education. In these schools are more than 64,000 instructors and 900,000 pupils. The demand for education in the Flowery Kingdom is widespread, and China is constantly sending her brightest young men in wonderful numbers to America for the best university training. In view of the fact that the young men of the Orient, especially of the Chinese, studying in American universities will occupy positions of great influence on their return home, we recommend to our Presbyterian people residing near institutions where these young men study, that they, as far as possible, befriend them and throw about them Christian influences, so that these men may in turn exert a positive Christian influence when later they occupy the commanding positions in their own homeland. Every consideration to-day calls for more energetic effort along educational lines. No thinking man can read the articles appearing in the daily and weekly press and not be deeply moved thereby.

The educational note has been clearly struck during the past year. I do not say it has been supreme, but it has been significant. The Japanese Government is carrying forward extensive educational plans. In India our Church has a signal honor in the appointment of the Rev. J. C. R. Ewing, President of Forman Christian College, to the Vice-Chancellorship of the University of Punjab, an honor conferred upon him during the recent illustrious visit of the King and Queen of Great Britain, giving him a vastly broadened sphere of Christian influence and power.

Swiftly scanning the field, we see the missionary work in China interrupted by political upheaval, but the interruption is more than compensated by the enlarged opportunities in the new Republic. The Church should not lose sight of the fact that the Republic of China owes its inception to the efforts of men who are the product of missionary enterprise, and the character of the new Republic will be determined largely by the attitude of the Protestant Church.

In one sentence regarding Japan we say: the thoughtful men of the Island Empire are awakening at last to the impossibility of building national morality upon irreligion—hence our opportunity.

For Siam and Laos we find the Government moving toward a higher standard of public schools and even unto compulsory education—doors of opportunity flung wide open, with King and officers promising every encouragement to our work.

From our far Eastern dependency, the Philippines, come encouraging signs, especially noted in the deepening sense of native responsibility in the preaching of the Gospel to their own people.

It seems sacrilege to dismiss the great Indian Peninsula, with its 300,000,000 people, with the single sentence, that to-day there is a better feeling than there has been for years.

In Syria there is national change, unrest and suspicion. For years the workers have been conscious of conditions developing, from a political point of view, which have now become openly manifest. The attitude of the nominally Christian powers of Europe, such as Italy, Great Britain and Russia, toward Turkey and Persia has tended to antagonize and solidify the Moslem forces. Added to this, the rise of the young Turkish party, with its gift of liberty to Turkey, has tempted the opponents of Christianity, and particularly the Moslems, to become more outspoken in their opposition. Your prayers are therefore needed for Syria.

In Persia, in spite of the tragic political, economical and social conditions of the past year, nearly all our schools have been in greater demand than ever before, and we have never had such an opportunity for direct evangelical work. It is the most open of all Moslem lands under Mohammedan rule to-day.

Turning to Africa, that great dark continent for which Livingstone gave his life and where his heart is buried, the year closing has been marked with more confessions of Jesus Christ, more additions to the churches, more itinerant evangelistic work by both missionaries and natives, more village schools conducted, more opportunities beckoning, more wrestling in prayer, more competition and opposition, more new missionaries coming, more tangible and commanding reasons to thank God and move forward than ever before.

Latin America—yesterday's neglected continent: to-day's most wonderful land of opportunities even amidst its civil and religious strife. The General Assembly of Brazil with its two Synods, seven Presbyteries and over 12,000 members celebrated in Rio de Janeiro in January, 1912, the jubilee of the establishment of Protestant Missions in Brazil.

In Colombia there is now a larger missionary force than ever before in its history, and the four stations which the Mission has longed for twenty years to have kept open are all occupied. The land lies open before us, at once a great need and a great opportunity.

In Mexico the work has been greatly impeded by the revolution, but a brighter day is dawning.

Korea, despite many obstacles, is developing an alert, aggressive, evangelical, evangelistic Church whose members set an example to the whole Christian world in Bible study, in generous giving and in evangelistic zeal.

Chinese, Japanese and Koreans in the United States: The uniting of the workers of all denominations among Orientals on the Pacific Coast into one organization, under the name of "The American Workers among Orientals on the Pacific Coast," marks an advanced step in behalf of the spiritual welfare of the Asiatic population.

Your Committee would emphasize three larger elements of missionary policy:

(1) First and fundamentally, we must continue to seek to broaden and solidify the base of missionary support resting on the whole Church.

(2) The second of our larger elements of missionary policy must be provision of the funds required to furnish necessary equipment for activities commensurate with our task. Our missions need at the present time new property amounting to $3,000,000 beyond all that was provided from the Kennedy bequest.

(3) The third need that we should hold in view is the Educational Equipment and Endowment Fund. The Board has an immense educational enterprise; it is far and away the greatest educational enterprise connected with the Presbyterian Church, and your Committee dares to venture the assertion that for an expenditure of $190,000 the Presbyterian Church is doing greater things educationally than are Harvard or Yale or Princeton or Columbia, with their tenfold larger expenditure of money. Whatever other transformations may pass over the missionary enterprise within the next few years, it is certain that our responsibilities for Christian education on the Mission field will only be intensified. The educational fund, which should not stop at $5,000,000, should be another conspicuous element in our policy.

We have spoken of three of the larger elements of our missionary policy, but, after all, these things do not constitute our aim or purpose. They are only devices, projects toward the accomplishment of that which is our real policy, namely, the naturalization, the domestication of Christianity in each of our Mission fields as an indigenous power, a native institution. The growth of native agencies, once they have really begun powerfully to grow, will modify all calculations as to the number of foreign missionaries required. We must feel the burden of world need and responsibility far more heavily than we have ever felt it. We must lay out our projects with a far bolder and more daring faith. At the same time the dominating principle of our mission policy is the creation of native Churches which are to bear the chief burden of evangelization, and we must not allow the slow development of such a Church in lands like India, where Protestant Missions have been at work for more than a century, or the vast masses of the unevangelized population still unreached in lands where independent native Churches have been established as in Japan, with its 85% of untouched village people, to obscure our aim. All our plans for expansion need to be carried through with purposes facile and sensitive to the development of national Churches and the sense of national missionary responsibility on the part of these Churches. They must be baptized with more passionate prayer. The dominating note of the Mission policy must be the consecration of the native Church to bear the chief burden of evangelization.

And what shall we say more? We have seen the world field and its need. Our hearts have been filled and thrilled as we have heard records of heroism and daring, as we have seen signal successes and victories. It remains for us, members of the Assembly, gathered from every portion of our land, to catch afresh the Glory, carry back the Fire, be used of God in our Churches and Homes to forward unto blessed efficiency what we have been here privileged to behold!

RESOLUTIONS.

1. That the Minutes of the Board and the Financial Report, which have been examined and found in perfect order, be approved.

2. That the following members of the Board, whose terms of service expire with this meeting of the Assembly, be re-elected to serve for three years in the Class of 1912-1915, viz.:

Rev. John Fox, D.D., Rev. Cleland B. McAfee, D.D., Rev. Charles B. Erdman, D.D., Rev. J. H. Jowett, D.D., Rev. William P. Merrill, D.D., Mr. W. P. Stevenson, Mr. Scott Foster, Mr. L. H. Severance.

3. That the Assembly recognize with profound gratitude to God the increased response that has been made to the Foreign Mission appeal which has brought into the Board's Treasury this year receipts which, for the first time in its history, amount to more than $2,000,000 and which have enabled it to send to the field in 1911-1912 97 new missionaries, the largest number ever sent in one year.

4. That the Assembly, recognizing the educational crisis throughout the East and especially in China, reiterates its approval of the establishment by the Board of an Educational Equipment and Endowment Fund to meet this need, and endorses the Board's policy, strengthening this fund by applying to it each year all legacy receipts in excess of $100,000 as recorded in the following action of the Board taken April 15, 1912: "That the Treasurer of the Board be instructed, until otherwise ordered by the Board, henceforth to credit to the Educational Endowment Fund, at the close of each fiscal year, all excess of legacy moneys received for the general uses and purposes of the Board over $100,000, with the understanding that any exceptional legacies which may be received, such as the bequest from Mr. John S. Kennedy, will be considered and disposed of by the Board by special action, and with the further understanding that any specific designation by testators with regard to the use of their bequests will, of course, be rigidly observed by the Board."

5. That the Assembly expresses its approval of the Board's endorsement of the "Policy for China" drawn up by the Committee of Reference and Council at the request of all the Foreign Mission Boards working in China and adopted at a meeting held in New York, February 29, 1912. This plan contemplates:

- (a) An increase of missionaries in the next three years.
- (b) The establishment, as far as possible, of union educational enterprises.
- (c) A unified system of primary and secondary schools.
- (d) The circulation of interdenominational literature.
- (e) The setting up of evangelistic campaigns.
- (f) Interdenominational conferences on the field.
- (g) The establishment of interdenominational Federal Councils of Missions working in different fields.
- (h) The fullest measure of co-operation in every phase of Christian enterprise.

6. That the Assembly record its appreciation of the splendid devotion and sacrifice of the women of the Church who have through their Jubilee gifts of $214,942 increased their offerings this year by more than $242,619, and who now with unwearied faith have responded to China's need by issuing a call to the women of the Church to enter upon a campaign of information, prayer and consecration leading to definite financial results.

7. That the Assembly heartily approves the action of the Executive Commission and its Budget Committees in its recognition of the emergency that China's Revolution has created in the work of the Foreign Board and join with it, with the women and with the Foreign Board in making the following appeal to the Church: That in view of the extraordinary emergency now confronting the Church in China, an effort be made to reinforce the China Missions within the next three years by the appointment of 100 new missionaries, irrespective of wives, and the securing of special gifts in excess of the regular budget, which will cover the cost of maintenance, including the new property and the enlargement of the work which this reinforcement will involve. That the Church be urged to so redouble its efforts for Foreign Missions that the above can be accomplished without prejudice to the necessary progress in those Missions where our Church has a complete monopoly of the missionary work.

8. That the Assembly, recognizing the increasing efficiency of the Executive Commission working harmoniously with Boards through the joint committees of the Executive Commission and the Boards, urges pastors and sessions:

(a) To secure a contribution for benevolences from every member of the Church.

(b) To establish as far as possible Mission study classes.

(c) To circulate missionary literature in churches and Sunday-schools, and by use of Prayer Book of Missions to bring the Church to its knees in intelligent, definite and vital prayer for the Kingdom of God.

(d) To use the utmost care in the selection of Chairmen of Foreign Missions Committees in the Presbyteries.

9. That the Assembly, having received a message directly from the Rev. J. Walter Lowrie, D.D., Chairman of the China Council, which represents all our work in China, calling the Church to prayer, the Stated Clerk be directed to reply to the missionaries with the words from Col. 1 : 3-6 and 9-11.

"We give thanks to God the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying always for you, having heard of your faith in Christ Jesus and of the love which ye have towards all the saints because of the hope which is laid up for you in the Heavens whereof ye heard before in the Word of Truth of the Gospel which is come unto you even as it is in all the world, bearing fruit and increasing as it hath done in you also since the day ye heard and knew the Grace of God in Truth.

“For this cause we also since the day we heard it, do not cease to pray and make request for you that ye may be filled with knowledge of His will in all spiritual wisdom and understanding to walk worthily of the Lord unto all pleasing, bearing fruit in every good work and increasing in the knowledge of God, strengthened with all power according to the might of His glory unto all patience and long suffering with joy.”

FRANCIS W. RUSSELL,
Chairman.

INTRODUCTION
TO THE SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE U. S. A.

The Board presents herewith its Seventy-fifth Annual Report to the General Assembly. In commemoration of the work of three-quarters of a century it is fitting that the introduction to this report should survey briefly the growth and development of these years and bear testimony to the goodness and faithfulness of God.

HISTORICAL REVIEW.

The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. was organized by direction of the General Assembly in the city of Baltimore, October 31, 1837. This was not, however, the beginning of the foreign mission work of the Church. Indian tribes surrounded the Church on every side even toward the sea, and the first heathen mission of the Church was to the Indians on Long Island. It was supported by the Church of Scotland through an organization instituted in Edinburgh in 1709, called "The Society in Scotland for Propagating Christian Knowledge." This Society in 1741 established a Board of Correspondents in New York, and this Board established the first formal heathen mission instituted in the Presbyterian Church by appointing the Rev. Azariah Horton, of the Presbytery of New York, at a salary of forty pounds per annum paid from Scotland, to work among the Shinnecock Indians near Southampton. The church established among these Indians and their descendants continues to the present day. The second Presbyterian missionary to the Indians was David Brainerd, who was supported as Horton had been. He was a Congregational licentiate, but ordained in 1744 by the Presbytery of Newark. Brainerd's work was along the Susquehanna, at the forks of the Delaware, and in New Jersey at Crossweeksung, about twenty miles south of New Brunswick. John Brainerd also took up work among the Indians after the example of his brother and was supported not from Scotland, but by funds given by the Presbyterian congregations in America. No more zealous workers than the Brainerds ever worked for Christ, but the immediate results of their labors, though real, were small. Not so the remote results, for David Brainerd's influence is still felt around the world.

In 1796 a missionary society known as "The New York Missionary Society" was organized as a result of missionary zeal excited by accounts of the work of the London Missionary Society. The new Society was composed principally of Presbyterians, and its organization raised at once the issue in some minds as to whether the Church as such should recognize herself to be a missionary organization and carry on missions in her distinctive character as a Church, or whether the Church should concern herself with her ecclesiastical life and leave missionary activity to be cared for by voluntary and independent societies. The new Society was active and established three Missions, among the Chickasaws, Tuscacoras, and Senecas. Its work continued until 1821, when it was merged in "The United Missionary Society," a new organization established by the General Assembly in 1816 and composed of such members of the Presbyterian, Reformed Dutch and Associate Reformed Churches, and all others who might choose to join them, as would pay three dollars annually or thirty dollars at one time. "The object of the Society," its Constitution stated, "shall be to spread the Gospel among the Indians of North America, the inhabitants of Mexico and South America and other portions of the heathen and anti-Christian world." Dr. Ashbel Green tells us in his sketch of our early missionary history that "the United States Government, then under the presidency of Mr. Monroe, gave it countenance and patronage—allotting to its establishments a liberal portion of the fund annually appropriated by Congress to the civilization of the Indians. The Superintendent of Indian Trade, Col. Thomas L.

McKenney, could scarcely have embarked in its favor with more zeal and activity, if the whole concern had been his own. The supreme judicatories of the united denominations made earnest and repeated appeals to the churches under their supervision—urging them to liberal contributions to support the establishments which they were pledged to sustain, and to earnest, united, and constant prayer for their success. Numerous auxiliary societies and associations were formed, to aid the operations of the General Board; and toward the close of its existence, subordinate Boards of Agency were established at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Louisville, in Kentucky, and St. Louis in Missouri.”

Between the founding of the New York Missionary Society and the establishment of the United Missionary Society, and indeed ever since 1789, there had been a number of missionary efforts by Synods and the Assembly, but the United Missionary Society now filled the field and represented for the time being the acceptance by the Church of the principle of missionary effort under a voluntary though recognized society. The Society did its work with much zeal and established and maintained a number of Indian missions and sent a short-lived mission of two negro missionaries to Hayti to preach to the negro immigrants from the United States who had flocked thither. These missionaries returned in three months. The work among the Indians, however, was carried on with unremitting tenacity.

Discussions soon arose over the question of consolidating the United Missionary Society and the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. They had been formed for similar purposes. Both represented the ideas of voluntary association in missionary effort and of interdenominational co-operation. The latter, indeed, cherished at the time the hope of being the national organization for foreign missionary work. After much discussion and with difference of opinion springing from various divergences of view, the consolidation was effected; the General Assembly gave its consent after debate in 1826. As a result, all the heathen missions of the Presbyterian Church were transferred to the American Board, except one among the Chickasaw Indians under the care of the Synods of South Carolina and Georgia.

The situation was not satisfactory to those who believed that the Church herself as such should be a missionary organization and should carry on as a Church, through the General Assembly, her own missionary work. As a result of the feeling of this party and in 1828, an overture was adopted with regard to the Assembly's Board of Missions (i. e., Home Missions), which opened the way for a resumption of foreign missionary work under the direct auspices of the General Assembly. This was the overture:

That the Board of Missions already have the power to establish Missions, not only among the destitute of our own country, or any other country, but also among the heathen in any part of the world; to select, appoint and commission missionaries; to determine their salaries, and to settle and pay their accounts; that they have full authority to correspond with any other body on the subject of Missions; to appoint an Executive Committee, and an efficient agent or agents, to manage their missionary concerns; to take measures to form auxiliary societies, on such terms as they may deem proper; to procure funds, and, in general, to manage the missionary operations of the General Assembly. It is therefore submitted to the discretion of the Board of Missions to consider whether it is expedient for them to carry into effect the full powers which they possess.

Acting under this authority, the Assembly's Board of Missions appointed a man to go to Greece, but he declined. It attempted also to establish a mission among the Chippewa Indians and another in Buenos Aires. But the work of home missions was enormous and the Board, having been primarily organized for home mission work, decided to leave all foreign missions to the American Board or to any separate foreign missionary organization which might later be established by the General Assembly.

The first important step toward the formation of a missionary organization which should be the direct utterance and agency of the Presbyterian Church as such was the formation by the Synod of Pittsburgh in November, 1831, of The Western Foreign Missionary Society. This Synod had been constituted in 1802 and the same year organized The Western Missionary Society to conduct mission work for the Synod. The Synod administered the Society through a Board of Trust composed of six ministers and two elders. This Society transferred its

Indian or foreign missions to the United Foreign Missionary Society in 1825 and its extensive home missionary work to the General Assembly's Board of Missions in 1826. The organization of the Western Foreign Missionary Society in 1831 was therefore only a new expression of this Synod's conviction that missions were not the optional business of individuals, but the necessary duty of the Church. The circular issued by the new Society after its formation declared that the Society "did not originate in any feeling of jealousy or dissatisfaction with the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions—in any desire to diminish its resources or impair that measure of public confidence which it certainly and justly enjoys." The circular then proceeds:

As there is much diversity and fluctuation of opinion in the General Assemblies of our Church, as to the propriety of undertaking Foreign Missions at all, or in union with Domestic, it is conceived that no existing Board does, in fact, fill that place which is here proposed, and which seems requisite to a complete enlistment of the charities and prayers of the whole Presbyterian Church, in the great and glorious work of Missions to the heathen. The practice of designating those who are to watch over her interests, and dispense her charities through her regularly constituted judicatories, has so long existed in the Presbyterian Church, and is so interwoven with her form of government, that its absence from such stated plans of evangelical effort as the missionary cause presents, does, very naturally, produce dissatisfaction and lukewarmness in some, and an almost entire neglect of the great object in others. Such, accordingly, has been the fact, to a great extent, in the Middle and Western States, and nothing but a plan which recognizes the Church, in her very organization, as a society for Missions to the heathen, and which presents such a kind of Presbyterial representation and supervision as gives an ecclesiastical responsibility to her agents, can, it is believed, ever fully bring up her Presbyteries and churches "to the help of the Lord against the mighty." The obvious want of such an arrangement, felt more deeply here than in some other parts of the Presbyterian Church, led the Synod of Pittsburgh at its late sessions to move in this business; partly from the belief that, under existing circumstances, it would be better for some Synod which could be nearly or quite harmonious in its measures, to undertake the plan, than for the General Assembly to attempt it; and partly from the conviction that a central location would better suit distant parts of the country, and that this, near one of the theological seminaries of the Church, and yet unembarked actively in any great public enterprise, would, at least for a time, answer a better purpose, especially for Western Missions, than any other. Aside from such a degree of Synodical supervision as seemed necessary to the very existence of such a society, you will see by examining the accompanying constitution, that it is strictly a Presbyterian arrangement, and gives the management of the whole concern to those from whom the resources are to be drawn. It aims at uniting those portions of the Presbyterian Church which prefer such a plan of operation, in a new, earnest and persevering endeavor, to fulfill the duty which we owe to the heathen of our own and foreign lands; and of imparting to our church judicatories as such, a due sense of responsibility, and such a missionary impulse as these eventful times imperiously require. If the undertaking, owned and blessed of God, meets the friendly consideration of our churches and Presbyteries, it will be subject to their control, and can, if they wish it, be transferred, as to the centre of its operations, to whatever part of the Church they please. In the meantime, dear brother, let us be up and doing. We are anxious to despatch, if possible, this very year, a mission to Central Africa, or some still more eligible unoccupied field on the Eastern continent, and we would be glad at the same time to institute a Western mission, so soon as we may be able to make a judicious selection of the best opening for such an effort.

The first three articles of the Constitution of the Society were as follows:

Article 1. This Society shall be composed of the Ministers, Sessions and Churches of the Synod of Pittsburgh, together with those of any other Synod or Synods, Presbytery or Presbyteries, that may hereafter formally unite with them, and shall be known by the name of the Western Foreign Missionary Society of the United States.

2. The objects of the Society shall be to aid in fulfilling the last great command of the glorified Redeemer, by conveying the Gospel to whatever parts of the heathen and antichristian world the providence of God may enable this Society to extend its evangelical exertions.

3. The centre of its operations shall be the city of Pittsburgh, at least until such times as the Board of Directors shall judge that the interests of the cause require a change of location, which, however, shall never be effected without the consent of the Synod of Pittsburgh; and, in the event of such a change, then the special provisions of a Synodical supervision and representation, mentioned in this constitution, shall be transferred to the General Assembly, or to that particular Synod within whose bounds the operations of the Society shall be centred.

The superintendence of the Society was vested in a Board of Directors appointed by the Synod. It is to be noted that the Constitution repudiated the plan of the United Foreign Missionary Society of a three-dollar basis of membership. Every member of the Church was counted a member. He had no option. He belonged as a member of the Church. And it is to be observed also that the formation of the Society looked directly forward to the adoption of its principle by the Church at large.

The outstanding personality among the strong and earnest men who laid the foundations of the new Society and accordingly of the Board of Foreign Missions, which, as we shall see, was built upon it, was Elisha P. Swift. We regard it as a duty and privilege to recall to the mind of the General Assembly and of the Church this devoted man and his remarkable service. He was born at Williamstown, Massachusetts, in 1792; graduated at Williams College in 1813 and at Princeton Theological Seminary in 1816. He was ordained to go as a missionary under the American Board in 1817, but health prevented. After some missionary work among the churches he filled a rich pastorate in the Second Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh from 1819 to 1833. It was he who conceived the new Society, drafted its Constitution, wrote the circular letter, became its Secretary, guided its policies and filled it with a great and noble breadth of purpose. From 1833 to 1835 he gave it all his time and acted as Secretary until 1836, when the Hon. Walter Lowrie succeeded him. Then for nearly thirty years he filled another great pastorate in Allegheny. Walter Lowrie, who followed him in the Secretaryship, was another of the great characters of our Church. He was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, December 10, 1784. He was brought to America when eight years old, and settled with his parents first in Huntingdon County, then in Butler County, Pennsylvania. Intending to enter the ministry, he was turned aside. In 1811, he was elected to the Senate of Pennsylvania, and then, after seven years' service, to the Senate of the United States. At the expiration of his term, in 1824, he became Secretary of the Senate, and held the office for twelve years, and was urged to remain, but turned from it in 1836, to become Secretary of the Western Foreign Missionary Society, and then of the Board. He held this office until, disabled by the infirmities of old age, he laid it down in 1868. He was a man of calm, judicious mind, trusted absolutely by all men, and beloved. In the Senate, among such men as Webster, Clay, Calhoun, and Randolph, he was regarded as "an authority upon all questions of political history and constitutional law." And later, whenever he rose to speak in any assembly of the Church, there was a silent and confident attention. Everyone knew that Walter Lowrie was absolutely true and genuine. He taught himself Chinese in order to help the press in Shanghai, and he laid the foundations of that great enterprise. No detail was too small for his honest care, and no plans were so great as to appall him. He was a man of missionary heart. He abandoned a lucrative position for one that never supported his family, and he gave three sons to missions; one to India, and two to China, one of them to a martyr's death. He was as simple as he was great, loving Christ as a little child, and pleading everywhere and always, often with tears, for the work to which he had given up everything himself, and for which his Master had given up all before him.

It is difficult at this day to appreciate the courage and wisdom of these founders of the foreign missions of our Church, in the days of the Western Foreign Missionary Society. In comparison with our time the churches were small and poor. The home mission problems were appalling, as this picture of New York City in 1816-17 will illustrate:

There were houses crowded with from four to twelve families each, often two or three families in a room, and "those of all colors," with all the evidences of the immorality which overcrowding tends to produce. Whole neighborhoods were found reduced by intemperance to "beggary, wretchedness and death." There were in the city, which at this time had a population of one hundred and ten thousand, fourteen hundred and eighty-nine licensed retail liquor dealers, and in the Seventh Ward, poor and beggared beyond description, two or three hundred saloons. Not less than six thousand "abandoned females" added to the vice and shame. Men who thrived on their dishonor kept large numbers of them practically slaves, behind grated windows. Dance halls and dives, with "The Way to Hell" inscribed in glaring capitals, were displayed, twenty in a space of thirty or forty rods. The Sabbath had become to the people in this part of the city a day of idleness, recreation, drunkenness. Two or three thousand passed on Sunday over the ferry at Corlaer's Hook to Long Island. So was Coney Island antedated. "The steam and horse boats which cross the waters surrounding the city were literally crowded on the Sabbath,"

The conditions of America, political, educational, religious and moral, were vastly more discouraging than to-day. Abroad the world was barely opened. Many lands like Japan, Korea, China, interior Africa, were not opened at all. Nothing was known of conditions in many places to which pioneers had to be sent. Languages were to be reduced to writing and dictionaries prepared. All was new abroad and there was no base of support at home. What did Swift and Lowrie and their associates do? In these years they planted missions successfully in Africa, India, and among the Western Indians. They sent the father of the late Justice Brewer to Smyrna with a printing establishment, and they boldly told the Church that while China was still closed in some regards it was open in others, open to the printed page and open on its fringes to courageous men.

We shall little understand the spirit of these men or the privilege and noble duty of our own inheritance unless we remind ourselves of their bold faith and comprehensive plans. They sent their first missionaries to West Africa, but they had their eyes on the far interior and planned their coast stations only as points of departure. The missionaries to India went of necessity to Calcutta, but they were under instructions to go inland, and Dr. Swift was thinking not of Allahabad only, nor even of Lahore, but of all interior Asia. Thus he wrote in his third annual report in 1835:

Apart from the fact that the opening of the Indus and its tributaries to an active commerce by steam communication, now in contemplation, and the concentration of a considerable trade from Thibet and Tartary, through the defiles of the mountains, carrying back into these benighted regions the arts and religious light of Christian nations, it is to be observed, that the political ascendancy of the powerful chief of the Sikh nation, already makes the Punjab the most safe and convenient entrance into Kabul, Bokhara and Eastern Persia. In these countries, it is true, the Moslem faith, in a milder form than in Western Asia, has long prevailed; but it is believed that Christianity would even now be tolerated, as Hinduism is; and Burns states that while traveling in these unfrequented countries, he gathered from the conversation of the Mohammedans of Kabul and Persia among themselves, that there existed among them a prediction that Christianity was speedily to overturn the entire structure of their faith. The Scriptures have been translated into the Mongolian language—a language spoken by many tribes, from the shores of the Baikal to the borders of Thibet, and from the Caspian to the gates of Pekin, including millions in the Chinese Empire; and, if our Society should eventually establish a mission at Selinga, Kiatka, or some other spot under the protection of a Christian power, in Asiatic Russia, and another on the borders of China or Tartary, on the great thoroughfare from Pekin to Tobolsk and St. Petersburg, these two remote positions would stand toward each other, and the great plateau of Central Asia, in the most interesting and powerful relation.

When Lodiana was occupied, Walter Lowrie saw in it an open door to Kashmir and Afghanistan.

"At Lodiana," wrote he in his first report, the Fifth Annual Report of the Society, "there are residing at present, under the protection of the British Government, two exiled kings from Afghanistan, who have their followers with them to the number of 2,000, or upwards. There are also more than 3,500 Kashmirians residing at that station, and many at other towns in Upper India, who were driven from their native valley by famine and by the oppression of their rulers. They are employed in manufacturing the fine fabrics for which their country is so celebrated, and they retain the language and the usages of the tribe of the Hindu family to which they belong. Owing to the residence of these people at the principal missionary station, every opportunity is afforded of learning the language of those countries, and among them making known the way of forgiveness of sins through the risen Saviour. The opening of Divine Providence, thus bringing such large portions of two nations who have never heard of Christ to the very door of missionary operations, was too plain to be neglected. One of the brethren of the next reinforcement will be appointed a missionary to Kashmir, and another of them to Afghanistan. Until they have learned the respective languages, these brethren will reside at Lodiana, and in every way endeavor to promote the best interest of those to whom they are sent."

And in this same report Lowrie writes of the opening in China:

"The Committee had previously decided to send a mission to China, as large and efficient as the means placed in their hands would justify. For this mission there have been designated two ordained ministers, one physician and one printer. If the means were afforded, these brethren would in a few weeks be on their way. At present, there are not means to send them forward; but the Committee hope the delay will be short; they trust the time is nearly past when the Presbyterian Church will continue to stand with her hands folded, while the millions of China are perishing in her sight."

The printer could be thought of because the Society, young and weak though it was, had made his work possible by joining with the British Museum and the Royal Establishment of France, in contributing the money necessary to secure the first fonts of movable Chinese type.

In a society like this there was a vitality which could not be checked. No power could restrain or destroy its sure influence. The General Assembly of 1835 met in Pittsburgh and the following was one of its resolutions:

That it is the solemn conviction of this General Assembly that the Presbyterian Church owes it as a sacred duty to her glorified Head, to yield a far more exemplary obedience, and that in her distinctive character as a church, to the command which he gave at His ascension into Heaven, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." It is believed to be among the causes of the frowns of the great Head of the Church, which are now resting on our beloved Zion, in the declension of vital piety, and the disorders and divisions that distract us, that we have done so little—comparatively nothing—in our distinctive character as a Church of Christ, to send the Gospel to the heathen, the Jews and the Mohammedans. It is regarded as of vital importance to the welfare of our Church, that foreign as well as domestic missions should be more zealously prosecuted, and more liberally patronized; and that, as a nucleus of foreign missionary effort and operation, the Western Foreign Missionary Society should receive the countenance, as it appears to us to merit the confidence of those who cherish an attachment to the doctrines and order of the church to which we belong.

A committee was appointed to confer with the Synod of Pittsburgh as to the transfer of the Society to the General Assembly, and at the meeting of the General Assembly in 1836 this committee's report was presented with favorable recommendation. A long debate ensued between the advocates of the transfer and those who wished the General Assembly still to favor the prosecution of the foreign missionary work of the Church through the American Board. After several days' discussion, the resolution in favor of the transfer was lost by a vote of 106 to 110. These were days of deep feeling in the Church and the question of missionary organization became inevitably entangled with the issues of Old School and New School. But Dr. Swift kept his head high above all controversy and contended for the one critical issue, Was the Presbyterian Church a missionary organization or not?

"What if a majority of the last Assembly," asked he, "preferred a voluntary to an ecclesiastical organization, their concurrence in the adoption of the Society involved no sacrifice of opinion, and left them at full liberty formally to decline all co-operation with any but the American Board. Nor is this all. The constitution of the Presbyterian Church manifestly contains the presumption, that operations of this kind are to be carried on church-wise (Form of Gov., chap. 18), and consequently presents the impossibility of securing a general ecclesiastical organization, but through the General Assembly. Now, when almost all the larger denominations of evangelical Christians both in Europe and America, including the Church of Scotland, from which we derive our origin, have adopted the ecclesiastical form of foreign missionary operation, it is hard to see how a conscientious member of a Presbyterian Assembly, bound by his ordination vows to study the prosperity of that church, should feel himself required to prohibit that church from embodying its yet unapplied strength in the most important of Christian efforts."

Great as their disappointment was, Swift and his associates went forward with their work. They decided, in the spring of 1837, to change the name from Western to Presbyterian Foreign Missionary Society, and to move the headquarters to New York, with consequent changes in the personnel of the Executive Committee. But in June, 1837, in the General Assembly in which the division of the Church occurred into the two schools which were to remain separate until 1869, it was voted to establish a Board of Foreign Missions under the care of the Assembly itself. The following was the action of the General Assembly:

Resolved, 1. That the General Assembly will superintend and conduct, by its own proper authority, the work of foreign missions of the Presbyterian Church, by a Board appointed for that purpose, and directly amenable to said Assembly.

2. The General Assembly shall, at its present meeting, choose forty ministers and forty laymen, as members of the Board of Foreign Missions, one-fourth part of whom shall go out annually, in alphabetical order; and thereafter ten ministers and ten laymen shall be annually elected as members of the Board of Foreign Missions, whose term of office shall be four years; and these forty ministers and forty laymen, so appointed, shall constitute a Board to be styled, "The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America," to which, for the time being, shall be intrusted, with such directions and instructions as may, from time to time be given by the General Assembly, the superintendence of the foreign missionary operations of the Presbyterian Church. This Board shall make annually to the General Assembly a report of their proceedings, and submit for its approval, such plans and measures as may be deemed useful and necessary.

3. The Board of Directors shall hold their first meeting at such time and place as may be directed by the present General Assembly, and shall hold a meeting annually, at some convenient time during the sessions of the General Assembly, at which it shall appoint a President, Vice-President, a Corresponding Secretary, a Treasurer and an Executive Committee to serve for the ensuing year. It shall belong to the Board of Directors to review and decide upon all the doings of the Executive Committee; to receive and dispose of their annual report, and to present a statement of their proceedings to the General Assembly. It shall be their duty, also, to meet for the transaction of business as often as may be expedient, due notice of every special meeting being seasonably given to every member of the Board.

4. To the Executive Committee, consisting of not more than nine members besides the Corresponding Secretary and the Treasurer, shall belong the duty of appointing all missionaries and agents; of designating their fields of labor; receiving the reports of the Corresponding Secretary, and giving him needful directions in reference to all matters of business and correspondence intrusted to him; to authorize all appropriations and expenditures of money; and to take the particular direction and management of the foreign missionary work, subject to the revision and control of the Board of Directors. The Executive Committee shall meet at least once a month, and oftener if necessary; five members, meeting at the time and place of adjournment or special call, shall constitute a quorum. The committee shall have power to fill their own vacancies, if any occur during the recess of the Board of Directors.

5. All property, houses, land, tenements and permanent funds, belonging to the said Board of Foreign Missions, shall be taken in the name of the Trustees of the General Assembly, and held in trust by them for the use and benefit of "The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America," for the time being.

6. The seat of operations of the Board of Directors shall be designated by the Board.

7. The Board of Directors shall have power, and they are hereby authorized to receive a transfer of the Foreign Missionary Societies, or either of them, now existing in the Presbyterian Church, with all the missions and funds, under the care of and belonging to such societies.

This was carried by a vote of 108 to 29, and thus the Board came into existence.

The first meeting of the Board was held in Baltimore on October 31, 1837, and it took over all the work of the former Western Foreign Missionary Society. New York was made the office headquarters and executive officers were elected as follows: President, the Rev. Samuel Miller, D.D., Princeton; Vice-President, Gen. William McDonald, Baltimore; Executive Committee, the Rev. William W. Phillips, D.D., the Rev. Joseph McElroy, D.D., the Rev. John M. Krebs, the Rev. George Potts, the Rev. Edward D. Smith, Mr. James Lenox, Mr. Moses Allen, Mr. Henry Rankin, and Mr. Hugh Auchincloss; Corresponding Secretary, the Hon. Walter Lowrie; Treasurer, Mr. James Paton. A little later the Central and Southern Boards of Foreign Missions, supported respectively by the Synods of Virginia and North Carolina and the Synods of South Carolina and Georgia, were also transferred to the General Assembly's Board. When the Civil War broke out, the Southern churches separated from the Northern, and formed their own missionary organization. No changes were made in the Constitution of the Board, either in 1837 or in 1861, but in 1870 the General Assembly reduced its membership to fifteen, the Old and New School churches having reunited at Pittsburg the preceding year. At the reunion the missions of the American Board in Syria, Persia, and on the Gaboon, were transferred with the support of the New School churches to the Presbyterian Board. In 1890 the Board was enlarged to twenty-one members, one-third to be elected annually by the Assembly. It now holds the allegiance of all the Northern Presbyterian churches, the New School congregations having transferred their support to it at the time of the reunion. The Southern Church is still distinct, but its Foreign Mission Executive Committee and our Board work together in the closest harmony and confidence. The American Board, the oldest American missionary organization now in existence, has become the missionary agency of the Congregational churches, and our Board's relations to it are also wholly harmonious and co-operative.

From 1837 to 1852 the Board was simply a benevolent institution, acting under the power conferred by the General Assembly, but without any corporate rights and privileges. An important legacy had been contested in the New York courts, and lost to the Board from want of capacity to take; although the Treasurer, Charles D. Drake, Esq., in an able argument, contended that inasmuch as the Trustees of our General Assembly were incorporated, and the Board was but an agency of the Assembly, the legacy referred to was virtually to a corporation and therefore good in law. But this view was not sustained by the Court, and so a large sum of money intended by the testator for mission purposes, reverted to his estate.

Before this case arose, or pending its litigation, the Board had applied to the Legislature of New York on two different years for a special charter, but failed, the second time by one vote only, which could have been secured if Mr. Lowrie, who had the matter in charge, would change the name of the Board by adding the two letters O. S. (Old School), to the closing word "America," which he would not consent to do.

After these repeated failures, the Board was glad to avail itself of the provisions of the General Law of the State of 1848, respecting charitable and missionary societies, and became incorporated under it by filing a certificate in the proper offices, signed and acknowledged by members of the Executive Committee.

In 1862 another legacy was lost because of the Board's form of incorporation, and in consequence application was made for a special charter which was secured through the services of a young member of the legislature who volunteered to take charge of the matter, the Hon. Chauncey M. Depew. The Board has ever since acted under this charter, though with a subsequent amendment in 1900 to secure to the General Assembly the expressed control of the Board and all its work.

In the seventy-five years of its history the Board has been served by seven chairmen-presidents, regarding the chairmen of the Executive Committee in the early years as representing the same office which the president of the Board has filled since its reduction in size:

The Rev. William W. Phillips, D.D.....	1837-1865
The Rev. John M. Krebs, D.D.....	1867-1869
Mr. James Lenox	1870-1873
The Rev. William Adams, D.D.....	1873-1880
The Rev. William M. Paxton, D.D.....	1880-1885
The Rev. John D. Wells, D.D.....	1886-1903
The Rev. George Alexander, D.D.....	1903-

In the early years the Board had semi-annual meetings, and then for some years only annual meetings, while the Executive Committee met weekly. Since the reorganization in 1870 the Board has had meetings semi-monthly, and the foreign mission day at the General Assembly takes the place of the old annual meeting.

In the early years and for half a century the missions among the Indians constituted a large part of the work of the Board, but this gradually passed over to the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, which took over the last of it in 1893. The following table shows the date of the founding of the Board's missions in each land, and the growth of the work from quarter century to quarter century:

To God be all the praise for what has been wrought in the years past. We pass from this review of the past to a survey of the present world-situation throughout our own mission field.

GENERAL SURVEY OF FIELDS.

CHINA.—In China the year has been characterized by an extraordinary and profoundly significant political upheaval. Christendom has been amazed by the magnitude and also by the swiftness and decisiveness of that revolution. The nation which has the largest population within a compact area of any nation in the world, whose people have hitherto so lacked national spirit that they were not able to act together; a people who have had such insufficient means for intercommunication that it was difficult for one part of the empire even to know the conditions in another part of the empire; a people who have been proverbially conservative and slow moving, have suddenly shown a unity of movement and a solidarity and determination of action which would have been deemed inconceivable a short time ago. There is nothing in history with which this upheaval and reconstruction can be compared, except, possibly, that which followed the Crusades in the Middle Ages; but even that transformation, great as it was, is dwarfed by the vaster transformation upon which we now look. Like the Crusades, the revolution in China has broken up the stagnation of the past, liberated men's minds from iron-bound traditions, given wider knowledge of other peoples, awakened new aspirations, and so changed the conditions which had hitherto repressed truth and liberty that it has made possible a better era.

The most solemn responsibility rests upon the Christian churches. Having been led by an imperative sense of duty to preach the new faith to the world, having declared those truths which always and everywhere awaken the minds of men, they must continue their work. They cannot set in motion such vast reconstructive forces and then abandon their efforts when the old walls begin to crumble and the air is filled with flying debris and clouds of dust. The overshadowing question to-day is whether the people of God will be equal to the emergency, whether they will have the faith and determination undismayed to push their cause. If we think of the answer to this question from the viewpoint of the divine purpose and power, we shall, of course, unhesitatingly answer in the affirmative. But we are to consider that question from the viewpoint of the human as well as the divine. God has chosen to work through His people, and will His people in Europe and America respond to His call? Will they see that the purifying and regenerative influences are so strengthened that they will be adequate to the colossal needs of the new era?

The opposing forces are numerous and strong. We have to contend against men who "set themselves against the Lord and against his anointed," to face all the inherited and formidably entrenched evils of superstition and unrighteousness. It is far easier to change the political institutions of a people than it is to change their characters in such a way, that institutions which are theoretically better will be practically operative. It is already evident that there is to be a new China, but it is not yet determined whether the new China is to be what it ought.

It is lamentable that the effort of Christianity to deal effectively with this situation is seriously embarrassed by anti-Christian elements at home. The extent to which the worst elements of Europe and America are reinforcing the powers of evil in China is one of our gravest problems. The dissolute white man is in every non-Christian land, manifesting a lust and greed and brutality which Asiatics, accustomed to the identification of religion and citizenship, attribute to Christianity. Every white man is a "Christian" to them. Nor is this injurious contact confined to individuals. It is unhappily true that the relations of the governments of the West to the governments of Asia have not always been characterized by the Christian spirit. The irritation developed by the misconduct of individuals and corporations has been intensified by the military and political aggressions of nations in such a way as to create widespread distrust and resentment among the peoples of the non-Christian world. The present war between Italy and Turkey has greatly strengthened this feeling. Whatever may have been the provocation for that war, the fact remains that Asia regards it as a wanton attack dictated by sheer lust of territory, another evidence that the white man's ambitions in Asia and Africa are typified by the machine-gun rather than by the New Testament.

The Christianization of the contact of the West and the East is one of the most solemn and imperative of the necessities of this time of times.

We do not profess to know what the future may have in store, either in China or in the other countries where revolutionary movements are in progress. It is entirely possible and perhaps probable that there may be a long period of disturbance in one or more of these lands. The movement toward better conditions may be attended by mistakes and manifestations of human passion. It may even appear for a time that the new era is more trying than the old. But let us not be deceived by the disturbances incident to a period of transition during which good and evil are struggling together for the mastery, and during which also mixed motives appear among these who are being used, perhaps unconsciously to themselves, for the inauguration of a better day. Whatever may be the blunders and crimes of the changing order, however uncertain progress may be here and there, whatever backward steps may be taken for a time, it is clear that conditions can never revert to their former state. The old order has been broken up once for all. That dam has burst. While the devastating flood is still surging, let us have faith to believe that the day will come when it will subside and when a new and more fruitful earth will appear.

Flood, famine and pestilence have continued to intensify the tragedy of internal strife. Vast areas have been inundated in the Provinces of Ngan-hwei, Kiang-su and Hu-nan, the two former facing desolation and famine for the third time in five years. The Yang-tzse River was 45 miles wide 250 miles from the sea, and thousands of villages have been submerged. Five hundred thousand families needed aid through the winter at an average cost of $15 per family. Every effort was made by the Board, in co-operation with other Boards, to secure relief funds. The National Red Cross Society also made appeals, as did also several other agencies. Large sums were sent, but not nearly enough to meet the awful need. The Relief Committee in China writes:

A large area is without food except weeds, grass, bark, and in some cases potato vines. There is absolutely no grain. All animals and fowls have been already killed and eaten. Furniture has been sold or burned. Houses are being torn down in order to exchange the timbers for food, and children are offered for sale or as gifts. An unprecedented condition of misery and helplessness has been created by looting of cities, robbery of gentry, stopping of trade, the recent disturbances having prevented the annual migration of poverty-stricken people. The depopulation of a large section is immediately threatened and an irremediable calamity is impending. A conservative estimate is that one million people are on the verge of starvation.

The Chinese Christians have shared in full measure the privations and sorrows of their countrymen, and often the despairing reproaches of their non-Christian neighbors who imagine that these multiplied calamities are due to the wrath of the spirits against those who have abandoned the ancestral faith. Hundreds of Chinese pastors, teachers and evangelists, who have been supported wholly or in part by the Christians on the field, cannot now be maintained by their impoverished people. Churches and schools have been swept away by floods, families have been scattered by war, and multitudes of our fellow-believers were without food and shelter for the winter.

The strain upon the missionaries can be readily understood. With myriads of ruined and starving Chinese looking to them for provisions and employment, with throngs of the sick and injured daily brought for treatment, with Chinese and foreigners alike expecting them to perform the herculean task of purchasing and distributing food, they incessantly toiled in circumstances of almost unbearable physical and mental strain. In addition to the special burdens which revolution and famine entailed, there were increased responsibilities for the great and varied missionary work under their care, a work which for all Protestant communions is now represented by 4,299 foreign missionaries, 11,661 Chinese ministers, teachers and evangelists, 3,485 stations and out-stations, 2,029 primary schools, 1,116 academies, colleges, industrial, medical, nurses' and normal schools, 170 hospitals, 14 orphanages, 16 leper asylums, 3 homes for untainted children of lepers, 11 institutions for the blind and for deaf-mutes, 5 rescue homes for fallen women, 100 opium refuges, 2 industrial homes, one asylum for the insane, 2,341 churches with 278,628 members, a Christian community of 750,000, and property valued at millions of dollars—all this not including the missions of the Roman Catholic Church. Our work has been greatly prospered, the growth in a decade having been 175 per cent. This is the day when the faithful missionary of Christ is most needed in China. Let the whole Church of God pray for these overworked and care-burdened men and women.

We do not emphasize the need of the Board, but the churches should remember that the desire of the Board to stand by the missionaries and to provide funds for the extraordinary expenses which they are necessarily incurring requires enlarged contributions, and that unless increased gifts are sent to the Board in addition to the special famine funds, the anxieties of the situation will be intensified.

The first missionaries of the Presbyterian Church reached China in 1844, entering the country as soon as there were any open ports where they were allowed to land. At the end of the first fifty years of work in China we had 159 missionaries, 74 native churches and 6,476 native communicants. Now there are 331 missionaries, 136 native churches and 21,875 native communicants, and the additions to our churches last year alone were 2,263.

The marvelous transformation in China has called attention to the powerful influence of Christianity. The men who have had to take the positions of leadership in the new order have been Christian men. Throughout the Empire the new emergencies have found few competent to deal with them except those who have had some contact with Christianity or training in Christian schools. Increasingly the young men of patriotic devotion are realizing that in Christianity alone is there hope for the future of China. One worker among the Chinese students in Japan writes of their growing sympathy and open-mindedness, and finds one great cause of this changing attitude in the growing perplexity and distress which they feel in regard to the future of China. National humiliation has caused serious searching of heart and most of these men know that the causes of their country's weakness are too deep to be removed by any outward reform. They know that it is regeneration, not a mere acceptance of the outward forms of Western civilization which China needs, and many of them, a great many more than have openly accepted Christianity, feel that it alone has power sufficient to change weak self-seeking men into strong, unselfish, upright citizens. The patriotic and efficient part taken by Christian men in the agitation which has arisen as a result of the recent trouble with Russia has helped to strengthen this feeling. To-day, we are face to face with a greater opportunity than ever before in connection with the Christian work amongst the Chinese students here. They are open-minded, approachable, sympathetic—the fields are white unto harvest, the laborers all too few.

In China itself there is such an opportunity as never before confronted the Church. This opportunity was set forth in the appeal sent out to the Churches of America by a conference of representatives of twenty-eight Mission Boards of the United States and Canada, carrying on work in China, which was held in our Board Rooms on February 29, 1912. The following was the message which the Conference sent out:

The representatives of the Foreign Mission Boards of the United States and Canada which are carrying on missionary work in China, having carefully considered together the situation which China presents at this hour to the Christian Church, desire to address this word to the Christian forces which are at work in the new republic and to the Christian agencies in North America to which China has looked and is looking now for her main sympathy and assistance.

The whole world is agreed in recognizing in the transformation of China one of the greatest movements in human history. Whether we consider the immensity of the population affected, the character of the change that is taking place, the magnitude of the interests which are involved, the comparative peacefulness of the crisis, or the significance of the fact that a great and ancient race is undergoing in the period of a decade a radical intellectual and spiritual readjustment, it is evident that it is given to us to witness and have part in a vast movement whose consequences will affect the whole world and be unending.

This movement, we believe, may become, by God's grace, if the Christian Church is faithful, the regeneration of a nation. For no change of institutions, of political principles, of social order, or of economic conditions can avail to satisfy the deep needs of which China has now become conscious. Political reformation requires a new moral and religious life. All that China has had that is worthy she needs now, and with it she needs also and seems now prepared to receive, the new conceptions of the Gospel, and not these conceptions only but also the power of God in Christ by which alone they may be realized in the life of the nation in this new and wonderful day.

The time, for which we have long worked and prayed, appears to have come at last in a measure and with a momentum beyond our faith, and we rejoice with the Christian agencies at work in China, with the 11,661 leaders of the Chinese Christian Church, with its 278,628 members, and with the 4,299 missionaries from Western lands, in the unique opportunity which they possess of meeting an inquiring people with the light and life which they are seeking, and of offering to them and to their rulers the knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ, the one true Leader and King of men.

We rejoice in the measure of unity already attained by the Christian forces in China and in their ability in this hour, without waste or discord, to present to the Chinese people the one faith which we all hold and the one Lord whom we all follow. We rejoice that so many of the men who have wrought for China in this time of national need have been Christian men who have borne their great responsibilities with Christian fidelity and sought to serve their country with Christian unselfishness. With a Christian Church united in its mission and with Christian men serving the State in patriotic and religious devotion, we believe that the prayers of many hearts will be answered that, on the one hand, a pure and unconfused Gospel may be preached to the nation, and that on the other hand the Christian spirit, unmixed with secular misunderstanding or personal ambition, may control the minds of the men who are to bear rule and authority in the new day.

In the effort to which the Christian forces of the nation will now give themselves with a new zeal, to carry the Gospel far and wide over China and deep into the life of the people, we desire to assure them of the sympathy and support of the Church in the West, and we now make appeal to the Home Church to meet the emergency with unceasing prayer and unwithholding consecration.

We earnestly renew the appeal made by us in January and supported by President Taft, the American Red Cross, and the China Famine Relief Committee for generous contributions to save the lives of the 3,000,000 people in China who face starvation unless help is given at once. (Contributions may be sent to any Foreign Mission Board, to the Red Cross, or to the China Famine Relief Committee, 1 Madison Avenue, New York City.)

Especially we ask the Church to pray:

For the people of China, this great and virile nation which, awakened from the torpor of ages by the quickening forces of the modern world, is now called upon to deal with enormous legislative, economic, educational and moral readjustments.

For the Chinese Christians, who share in full measure the privations and problems that are the common lot of their countrymen.

For the missionaries and their work, the adequate expansion of Christian education and evangelization, and the adaptation of mission methods to the needs of the present situation.

For full religious liberty in China.

For perfect union among the Christians of every name.

For a spirit of true independence on the part of the Church in China and of perfect co-operation with the Missions of the Churches of the West.

For guidance of the new leaders of China, that they may be Christian men and may lead their land forward in wisdom and peace.

For the purity of the Gospel in China, that it may not be misconceived, but that it may be known and experienced as the power of God unto salvation.

For a right attitude on the part of all governments toward the government of China.

For the Manchus and the Chinese alike, that they may find Christ.

So great an opportunity as God now offers in China is a sovereign summons. It demands of us the enlargement of our horizons, the expansion of our faith, the acceptance of our duty, and the eager and joyful exercise of our fellowship with Christ in ministering to the need of an awakened nation, and in hastening the coming of His world-wide kingdom by an unprecedented advancement. May the Church in China and in the West be found equal to this opportunity.

We request pastors to read this message to their people, and we appeal to the men and women of the churches by their prayers, their counsels and their enlarged gifts, to aid in meeting the call which is now coming from our Lord in China.

JAPAN.—The thoughtful men of Japan are awaking at last to the impossibility of building national morality upon irreligion. In the earlier years of the Meiji era, the statesmen who were guiding Japan while providing for religious liberty were themselves, as they deemed it, superior to all superstition. Twenty years ago Marquis Ito said in an interview in the London Daily News:

I think most of the educated Japanese prefer to live by reason, science and the evidence of their senses. I have secured absolute toleration for all religions, and, to a certain extent, I would encourage a spirit of religion, but I regard religion itself as quite unnecessary for a nation's life. Science is far above superstition, and what is any religion, Buddhism or Christianity, but superstition, and therefore a possible source of weakness to a nation.

Before his death Marquis Ito himself came to a different view. In December, 1908, he told a gathering of Christian people at a dedication of a building in Seoul that in the early years of Japan's reformation the senior statesmen were opposed to religious toleration, especially because of distrust of Christianity.

"But," said he, "I fought vehemently for freedom of relief and propagation, and finally triumphed. My reasoning was this: civilization depends upon morality, and the highest morality upon religion.

Therefore, religion must be tolerated and encouraged. It is, for the same reason that I welcome the Young Men's Christian Association, believing that it is a powerful ally in the great task I have undertaken in attempting to put the feet of Korea upon the pathway of true civilization."

Prince Ito's new view was not accepted by others, however, and the Education Department especially has been conducted as an agency of discouragement to religion, especially to Christianity. During the past year, however, under the influence of Mr. Tokonami, Vice-Minister of Home Affairs, a new movement has begun. Mr. Tokonami believes that moral teaching is indispensable and that religion is essential to morality. Accordingly, under the auspices of the government, he called a conference of the three religions to which he felt Japan must look to meet her needs. The purpose of the conference is indicated in the following statement issued by Dr. Imbrie, Bishop Harris and Mr. G. M. Fisher, with the approval of Mr. Tokonami:

1. The primary intention in holding the Conference is to direct attention to religion as a necessary means to the highest spiritual and moral welfare of both the individual and the nation. For a number of years this matter has not been given the importance that properly belongs to it: and the primary purpose of the Conference is to reassert that importance.

2. No attempt is intended to unite the adherents of the several religions in one body! still less to establish a new religion. Shinto, Buddhism and Christianity are all religions; but in certain important particulars each differs from the others, and the religious convictions of the adherents of each should be respected without interference. It may, however, be confidently presumed that Shintoists, Buddhists and Christians alike will cordially recognize a responsibility to act as fellow-laborers for the advancement of the spiritual and moral interests of the nation to the utmost of their ability.

3. Shinto and Buddhism have long had recognized place as religions of the Japanese people. Christianity should also be accorded a similar place.

The significance of the proposal was at once discovered. The old regime opposed it, but the government stood back of Mr. Tokonami and the conference was held during several days of the week beginning February 25.

All the preliminaries of the Conference were conducted by Mr.

Tokonami; but the Conference was made a Cabinet matter. Besides Mr. Hara, the Minister of Home Affairs, Mr. Tokonami, the Vice-Minister, and the Heads of the Bureau of the Department, the following representatives of the Government were present: The Ministers of Justice, Communications and the Navy; the First Adjutant of the Army as the representative of the Minister of War; the Vice-Ministers of Justice, Communications, the Navy and Education. The Prime Minister and Minister of Education were unable to be present, and the Prime Minister sent his regrets that the state of his health had prevented his coming.

The Higashi Hongwanji, one of the largest of the Buddhist Sects, declined the invitation. The reason given was that, as the Government exercises much closer supervision over Shinto and Buddhism than it does over Christianity, it could not properly put Christianity on the same level with them. The other Buddhist Sects and all the Shinto Sects accepted the invitation.

There were present at the Conference, thirteen Shintoists, fifty-one Buddhists and seven Christians. These were Dr. Ibuka, Bishop Honda, Mr. Miyagawa, Drs. Chiba and Motoda, and Messrs. Honjo and Ishikawa.

The resolutions finally adopted by the conference were made up by a combination of the statement presented by the Christians, with a few sentences from the Buddhists' resolutions, as follows:

We acknowledge that the will of the Government, which led us to hold the conference of the representatives of the three religions, is in conformity with the principle of the freedom of religious beliefs, to respect the authority of religion, which each possesses, to promote national morality, and to improve public discipline, without spoiling our original creeds; and the statesmen, religionists and educationists, non-interfering with one another, and to maintain the honor of the Imperial Household and to contribute to the progress of the times. As this is in accordance with our original maintenance, we comply with the request of the authorities and promise to make all possible effort for perfectly discharging the onerous duty of the betterment of the nation, always adhering to our own belief. Simultaneously we hope that the Government authorities will never be short of their endeavor and assistance in realizing the ultimate object of this conference. With those principles and object in view, we have made the following decisions:

(a) To foster and develop our respective creeds, to promote the welfare of the State and to contribute to the developments of national morality.

(b) To hope that the authorities concerned will respect religion, to fraternize the relations between the statesmen, religionists and educationists, and to contribute to the progress of the nation.

After the resolutions had been adopted, Mr. Tokonami made a long address:

There were those who say that religion to-day is losing its hold on the minds of the people; that in Western countries less and less is made of it. Why then, they asked, should the Japanese Government at this late hour drag it out? There was no need for such a thing, and nothing to be gained by it. He himself did not feel the force of such statements, and it was not necessary for him to argue for the importance of religion in the presence of such an audience. It would be preaching a sermon to Buddha (a Japanese saying). He would, however, say a single word. To discover the answer to statements of that kind, one needed only to imagine what would be the condition of civilization in Europe and America, if religion were done away with. . . .

In his opinion it was extremely important that religious leaders should understand and keep in close connection with the conditions of society. Recently, he had heard a criticism of officialism. Officials, it was said, are out of touch with the people. It might be that priests and ministers are open to similar criticism. It was noticeable in history that the great religious teachers and reformers were men who kept close to the people, and it would not do for religious leaders to-day to retire to the mountains.

The Government was deeply impressed with the importance of bettering social conditions. To this end it was assisting societies for social reform. It had already collected much material which he would be pleased to place at the disposal of a future Conference. Recently, he had read an address by Mr. Lloyd George, on the duty of the Church to social conditions. He had been so much impressed with it that he had had it translated, and he would be happy to present copies to the members of the Conference.

There were those who say that there is no connection between religion and education, but he did not agree with them. The two were distinct and should be so regarded, but it was also true that they should have an aim in common, and that they should co-operate for its accomplishment.

It was said by some that religion is a thing that has to do only with the other world; that such matters as the national welfare are outside of its sphere, and that it is, therefore, a mistake to call upon it for aid in such matters. He was glad to see that that was not the position of the Conference, as was evident from the resolutions just adopted. It was a pleasure to him to know that its members recognized their moral and social duties so clearly. He was a layman and a Government official, and what he said might be wide of the mark, but if he had been able to be of any service in the matter he would be amply repaid for any labor.

A missionary of more than twenty years' experience writes:

This new attitude of the Government is most important. It is a complete somersault from the position of the Government toward religion in the last two decades. Hitherto, it has said religion was unnecessary, and education apart from religion was sufficient for the Japanese, but this recent promulgation is really an acknowledgment that it has been wrong and it now asserts that the two must go together. All the rest about amalgamation of Buddhism, Shinto and Christianity we do not need to pay any attention to, and in any affiliations that may be made, there will be no attempt to combine in doctrine, but in works, and in such combinations Christianity will always be the gainer. This really means that Christianity has won its way to the top, and that is to sway the affairs of the nation, while Buddhism and Shinto gradually retire and fade away into nothingness. It can't be done in a day, but watch the next ten years.

There are advantages in such opposition and unpopularity as Christianity has had to face in Japan for some years, but there are advantages in such a new situation as seems now to be arising.

The work of the Mission has been carried forward in harmonious co-operation with the Church of Christ in Japan. That Church represents now 65 self-supporting churches, 20,677 communicant members and gave last year toward self-support 132,939 Yen.

In January the Board joined with the other missionary agencies at work in Japan in a conference to consider the present conditions and needs of the Empire and at that conference the following resolutions were adopted which the Board has heartily approved:

That the Conference expresses deep sympathy with the missionaries in Japan in the problems which they are facing in connection with the evangelization of that field, and our fullest appreciation of the devotion and zeal with which they are giving themselves to their task.

That we express also our gratification at the large extent to which the missionary ideal has been realized in the establishment of autonomous, self-supporting and self-propagating churches in Japan, and at the spirit of harmony which prevails between the Japanese churches and the Missions at work in their country.

That we express thorough sympathy with the proposition for the establishment of a Christian University in Japan at the earliest possible date, and our conviction that, as preparatory thereto, and with a view of securing permanent support thereof, as well as to meet our immediate obligations, we should strengthen to the utmost and extend the work of our secondary schools in Japan, that we would emphasize our conviction of the importance of the fullest possible measure of co-operation of missionary bodies in the support of secondary schools and of a united movement of all bodies in the establishment of the University. And that we express our satisfaction in the recognition by the Japanese Churches of their obligation in connection with the development of these schools and of the University, in connection with which the missionary organizations are called upon to render aid in the preparatory stages.

That we commend the action of the Conference of Federated Missions in Japan in the investigation which it is prosecuting through committees on the field with regard to the distribution of forces in the missionary occupation of Japan, and we express the hope that the results of their investigation may be made available to the Mission Boards at home as soon as possible, and that the Boards and Missions may find it possible to co-operate in effecting the best distribution of forces, with a view to covering the unoccupied areas of the field.

That, in response to the call of the Missions and of the Japanese Churches, we assure the Christian forces in Japan that we are in hearty sympathy with the principle of missionary reinforcements, and we recommend to the Mission Boards that they should endeavor to take advantage of the present opportunity to send as large and adequate a number of well-chosen men and women, with a view to strengthening the agencies at work in the Japanese Empire, special care being taken to distribute these reinforcements according to the plans being worked out and recommended by the Conference of Federated Missions on the field.

That we recommend to the consideration of the Mission Boards the advisability of increasing their appropriations to the work in Japan, not only to provide for the support of additional missionaries, but to furnish more funds for extending the evangelistic work.

Japan stands at the gateway of the Orient. This is no time to neglect the wonderful opportunities she presents for national and continental influence as well as for the salvation of individual men.

KOREA (CHOSEN).—We must begin to use the new name of the country. The Japanese have discarded the name "Korea" and have adopted "Chosen," which is the name by which the Koreans themselves have always spoken of their country.

Some large and peculiar problems are before the Board and the Mission.

The first is the readjustment of Korean political, educational and social life to the new conditions of Japanese rule. The country is now an integral part of Japan and it is being reconstructed in every part and institution. Even the dress of the people is changing. The top-knot, the badge of old Korea, has almost disappeared except in the interior villages. The policy of the missionaries is to be absolutely loyal to Japanese rule and to use their influence to induce the Christian Koreans quietly to accept it. But while a large majority of the Christians are doing this, it is inevitable that the period of transition through which the nation is passing should have some effect in making the work of the missionaries more difficult. The policy of the Japanese, like that of the British in India, is splendidly effective in administrative and public improvements, but it is not always conciliatory towards the sensibilities of a proud and ancient people who naturally chafe under the rule of what they regard as an alien race. The arrest of a number of Korean Christians on a charge of complicity or knowledge of a conspiracy against the life of the Governor-General caused much anxiety. The accused men have not been tried as this report goes to press, but if they are found to be guilty, of course they will have no support from the Mission, which feels that it must keep the missionary enterprise and the Church, as far as the missionaries are able to control it, wholly independent of politics.

The period of transition is affecting our educational work. We must readjust all our schools to the requirements of the Japanese Department of Education. This will be a benefit in many ways, but it involves difficulties especially in the primary schools which have been wholly supported by local Christians who do not find it easy to adjust themselves to the new regulations.

Primary schools are a problem in many ways. The necessity for such schools and for keeping them up to the highest standards is clearer every year, and yet the money for their support is increasing slowly, if at all, and the repeated calls for reports, etc., on the part of the government authorities are making the post of school committeeman an undesirable one.

The Mission is working toward a consolidation that should give strong central Grammar Schools with good buildings, a fair amount of apparatus, an adequate teaching force and regular income. These would be in the natural centres, and affiliated with them we would have a large number of schools teaching the first four years of the regular course. This policy will economize resources and lessen the labor of supervision, while at the same time greatly improving the quality of our educational work. It is probable that the new plan will be in force before the end of this calendar year.

A still more serious matter is the tide of worldliness and materialization which appears to be sweeping over the country. The life of the average Korean is no longer an empty one apart from the Church and he is almost intoxicated by the influx of new ideas and new methods.

But in spite of all difficulties, there are undoubted evidences that the power of God is still working in Korea. The reports of some of the stations are inspiring reading. Syen Chyun, for example, reports that the number of Christians in Mr. Whittemore's district is 9,000, of whom 2,952 are communicants and 1,997 catechumens; that Mr. Ross reports 707 persons baptized in his territory during the year, 279 by the three associate Korean pastors and 428 personally, so that in Mr. Ross's district the number of Christians is 8,545, of whom 2,851 are new believers, 2,327 catechumens and 3,367 communicants; that Mr. McCune baptized 183 and enrolled 189 catechumens, thus making a constituency of 1,287; that Mr. Roberts' statistics show 2,368 new believers, 990 catechumens and 1,095 communicants, of whom 179 were baptized during the year, bringing the total number of professing Christians up to 4,500; and that Mr. Lampe records 232 persons received into full communion.

A Korean leader and deacon attended the Syen Chyun Men's Bible Study Conference and Bible Institute. On his way back, he came to the foot of a high mountain pass toward evening. As it was Wednesday, he wanted to cross over and worship in a little gathering place that evening, so he attempted it. Night came on, he lost his way and fell into a great snow bank, where he perished. When he was found after the snows had melted, his body was in the attitude of prayer. Further investigation revealed the fact that he had left the inn without breakfast that morning as he had used up all his money, and his tired, weakened condition lessened his power of resistance.

In some of the older stations the work is settling down to steady progress. We rejoice with our youngest station, An Dong, in all the interesting experiences it is having, and we also sympathize with our second youngest, Kang Kai, in its difficulties of the past year. Every one will read with interest about the great multitude of men and women in the Bible classes of several stations.

The so-called "Million Campaign for Christ" formed a prominent feature of the year's work. A million were not gained and some regret that a fixed number was ever used in such a way. But He who knew to what extent the field was white unto the harvest, garnered in the ripened grain. The daily prayers of all Christians, the enthusiastic preaching of those who had come to acknowledge Him as their Lord, the hearty co-operation of all in what has been called "the most thorough national campaign for Christ that the world has ever seen," were a great inspiration to all who had a share in it.

In Taiku, a revival on a large scale was held along the most approved lines of Western world revival meetings. The church was filled nightly, and between 400 and 500 confessed conversion; but almost none of them can be found now. Mr. Adams says in his report:

It seems manifest to me that the method indigenous to the Korean Christian, that of constant, individual personal work, is vastly superior to our Western method of public evangelistic meetings, and that the product is much more permanent.

Viewing our church work as a whole we are greatly encouraged not only by growth in numbers, but by the large place taken by the Korean leaders. The ordained pastors, in all cases but one, are associated with the missionary in the co-pastoral relationship. Such relationship has proven very happy and has meant a saving of the time of the missionary in examinations for baptism and catechumanate, but on the whole, it has not meant as large saving of time as was anticipated. Because the native pastor is ordained and has the pastoral relationship to the church, it is natural and right for him to do many things that hitherto were done by the missionary, and if in some cases he makes mistakes he is not to be blamed, for he is doing his best. Nevertheless, the mistake is there and has to be righted, which often takes much more time and anxiety than it would have taken for the missionary to have done the work in the first place. Even when the work is done by both Korean pastor and missionary in unison, it often takes more care and as much time. Formerly the right of decision was in the hands of the missionary. Now it is shared with the Korean pastor and he must often be persuaded to see the wisdom of the decision. The position of authority as pastor is putting him in a different relation to the people. They are often tempted to impute wrong motives to his actions, or, perhaps, accuse him of partiality, to which condition a foreigner would naturally not be so open. The co-pastoral relationship has been a blessing to the Korean pastor in that it has often protected him and given him support in doing that which was difficult though right. Missionaries believe that the co-pastoral relationship is the ideal one for some time yet. The Korean co-pastor agrees with this, in proportion to the length of his experience in that relationship. Though these men after ordination need as much help as before, it is time wisely invested, for the dealing is with picked men of more than average ability in large fields of service. The policy of the Presbytery, therefore, concerning the newly ordained men is to put them in co-pastoral relationship with the missionary as a preparation for the full pastorate later.

Chai Ryung Station reports:

Here, as in all other parts of the country, the special Evangelistic Campaign, with its watch-word "A Million Souls," was the most conspicuous feature of the year's work. We followed the plans approved by Presbytery, and, as one report puts it, "did all that men could do" in the way of meetings, advertising, distribution of literature and house-to-house work. The Christians who took a share in the Campaign were much benefited. Many received an inspiration for personal work that will continue, and may be the best result of the Campaign. But the congregations in the churches show no increase beyond what is to be expected each year. The Campaign style of work has not proved itself fitted for the conditions in rural Korea.

Another report says:

The meetings were helpful in interesting the churches in evangelistic work and in scattering a knowledge of the Gospel, but very few results have been seen in permanent additions to the Church, though there have been some.

Another sums up the work thus:

Thousands who heard the Gospel preached during the Campaign do not know what it is all about. They heard, but have not put it in connection with any transformed lives, so it has not really touched them at all. The old man-to-man way that has brought the Church in Korea to its present state is the best, and no other, however good, should be allowed to displace it.

The country work has presented many encouraging features. The itinerating missionary has found new groups which had never been visited by a missionary, and other groups, that had not been visited for a year and a half, in excellent condition. Thus God carries on His work. The Koreans are becoming more and more efficient in carrying on the work, and to their untiring zeal and admirable evangelistic spirit must be attributed a large part of the advance that has been made.

A cause of special satisfaction is the efficient oversight given by the sessions of the churches to the instruction of baptized children. These children first commit the Child's Catechism and then the Shorter Catechism under the personal direction of the individual elders.

The translation of the whole Bible has been completed. This is the year three hundred and one for the King James Version, but the year one for our Korean Un-moon. Seoul Station appreciates the honor that three of its members, Dr. Underwood, Dr. Gale and Mr. Pieters, had a part in so great an undertaking.

The accessibility of Korea to the outside world is bringing many visitors, and the pleasant task of showing these friends what has here been wrought has taken no small amount of time. It is time well spent, for besides the keener interest in the work which they carry away with them, they usually bring fresh inspiration for the accomplishment of even greater things in the work of the Lord.

PHILIPPINE MISSION.—This Mission has had another prosperous year and holds its rank as one of the most rapidly growing of our Missions. It is only a dozen years since our first missionary entered the islands, and, of course, most of our stations are much younger than that, but the Mission this year reports 12,207 adult communicants, of whom 1,025 were added during the year. The Cebu Station alone, which has been occupied less than a decade, now has 2,700 members with nine self-supporting churches, 50 young men studying in the Silliman Institute at Dumaguete, and several young women in training for nurses and Bible women. Our Mission now occupies ten different centres in the Archipelago. Each one has an independent field and large promise of continued growth.

We are particularly encouraged by the increasing missionary spirit of the Filipino Christians. Presbyteries are showing a deeper sense of responsibility for the evangelism of their own people. The Filipino preachers are doing a higher grade of preaching and the Sessions of the churches are so desirous of having fully qualified men that the Presbytery of Manila rejected some candidates for evangelistic work on the recommendation of the Session of the local churches. This caused some feeling among a few who considered that their abilities were not properly recognized, but it has given higher ideals to the congregations as a whole. There has been a distinctive improvement, too, in the spirit of harmony among the churches. Dr. James B. Rodgers says that he went up to Presbytery this year with a clear list of churches without a quarrel on the docket.

The two leading educational institutions of the Mission—the Silliman Institute at Dumaguete, and the Ellinwood Schools at Manila—are doing fine work and are recognized throughout the Archipelago as in the very front rank of the educational institutions of the Islands. The Mission has now come to a point where the question of property is becoming more urgent. The pioneer work of the first years did not require much property, and in many instances buildings left by the Spaniards could be rented to advantage. Now our work has grown so that more property plant is necessary to care for our rapidly enlarging interests, and the fourteen years that have elapsed since the American occupation has witnessed such deterioration of the property left by the Spaniards that it is no longer practicable for us to use it.

SIAM AND LAOS.—The coronation of the Crown Prince, in succession to his honored father, whose death was reported a year ago, was celebrated with great splendor January 2. The Crown Prince was educated in England, and on his return to Siam by way of America in 1902, the Vice-President of the Board, Mr. Warner Van Norden, gave a dinner in his honor, at which the Crown Prince spoke in warmly appreciative terms of our missionary work in Siam. The Mission sent him a message of congratulation on the occasion of his coronation and received the following reply:

FOREIGN OFFICE.

BANGKOK, 20th December, 1911.

Reverend Gentlemen of the American Presbyterian Mission:

"I am commanded by His Majesty the King, my August Sovereign, to acknowledge the receipt of the document containing your congratulations to His Majesty on the occasion of His Coronation, which was transmitted through the kind offices of His Excellency, Mr. Hamilton King.

"His Majesty desires me to express his sincere thanks for your good wishes and to assure you that, mindful of the excellent work performed by the American Missionaries for the enlightenment of the people of this country, he will not fail to follow in the footsteps of his Royal Predecessors in affording every encouragement to them in the pursuit of their praiseworthy task.

"I have the honor to be, Reverend Gentlemen,

"Your very obedient servant,

(Signed) "DEVAWONGSE,

"Minister of Foreign Affairs."

American Presbyterians have all good wishes and earnest prayers for the reign of this enlightened ruler of Siam.

The Rev. R. W. Post has prepared the following valuable summary of facts regarding the territory and population of the Siam Mission. The figures are taken from official statistics. The total population of the seventeen provinces is 7,561,585, of whom 166,253 are monks and nuns. The population by provinces is as follows: Bangkok, 868,577; Ayuthia, 545,520; Chantaboon, 132,216; Chumpon, 159,704; Nakon Chaisee, 277,842; Korat, 479,651; Nakon Sritamarat, 460,686; Nakon Sawan, 277,052; Patani, 263,448; Prachin, 319,892; Pitsanuloke, 232,325; Payap, 1,156,975; Pechaboon, 71,544;

Pooket, 222,802; Rajaburi, 406,904; Isarn, 1,074,596; Udon, 613,243.

The Presbyterian Church has divided the country according to language, giving the work for the Siamese-speaking provinces to the Siam Mission, while the Laos Mission has charge of work among the Laos. But the Rev. J. H. Freeman of the Laos Mission says that the government free schools have developed a demand that makes it necessary for our Laos mission schools, even in the villages, to teach Siamese. In all of the seventeen provinces, the Siamese language is becoming better known every day and is more and more generally used even among alien races. In Nakon Sritamarat, not many years ago, there were thousands wearing the Laos costume, where now it is not to be found. This process of assimilation is going on everywhere.

The following figures of the races represented in Siam are for fourteen provinces, which have a population of 4,462,829, figures for Bangkok, Isarn and Payap not being available: Tai (this includes both Siamese and Laos), 3,379,586; Chinese, 172,216; Malays, 342,992; Indian races, 3,350; Burmese tribes, 47,537; Cambodians, 90,409; other races, 26,739. There are some surprises. These figures mean not only that there has been a recent exodus of Chinese out of Siam because of fear of conscription, but also that all Asiatics, born in Siam, are being counted as Siamese. This is in accordance with fact, for almost all of kindred races, born in Siam, speak the Siamese language, live more or less according to Siamese customs, and are, by recent enactments, placed on almost the same footing as the Tai. This shows that the Siamese are good rulers and amalgamators; it is also proof of the efficiency of the Interior Department, which is charged with the oversight of all the provinces except Bangkok.

It is proved from official sources that the Siam Mission must minister to the spiritual needs of sixteen out of the seventeen provinces, Payap Province, with a population of 1,156,975, and adjacent territory, outside the kingdom of Siam, being the field of the Laos Mission.

The Siam Mission shares the responsibility for these sixteen provinces, with two families of Plymouth Brethren missionaries, who came from England to work among the Moons.

The census gives the number of this Burmese tribe, who are residents of Siam, at 27,260, although some eight years ago it was estimated that there were 80,000 in the two provinces of Rajaburi and Nakon Chaisee. This is another proof of the assimilation that is going on. There are no Baptist missionaries in Siam, but Dr. Foster, a Baptist missionary in China, makes occasional visits to instruct the few Chinese Baptists in and around Bangkok.

The sixteen provinces, for which the Siam Mission is almost wholly responsible, have a population of 6,428,618. If 400,000 are deducted as the share of the Plymouth Brethren and Baptists, there are left, as the number for which the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. is responsible, 6,028,619. Every one has greatly underestimated the responsibilities of our Church and of its agent, the Siam Mission.

The Siam Mission therefore presents a strong appeal to the home Church for the reinforcements and increased appropriations, so that this great and needy field may be more adequately equipped for aggressive work.

The Laos Mission is energetically planning for the wider opportunities which were referred to in our report to the last Assembly.

Meantime the past year has been one of marked encouragement. The Rev. J. H. Freeman writes:

The marked interest everywhere shown in the preaching of the Gospel has been evidenced by large accessions in every station and almost every out-station of the Mission, and by the large number of catechumens and inquirers reported from widely separated points. Increasing interest, too, has been shown in schools. Not only our Mission schools, but in equal degree the Government schools have shared in this increase.

The average additions on confession the preceding ten years had been about 250, the largest in any year about 400. This year 613 in our Laos Churches have confessed Christ before men. One marked characteristic of this movement toward Christianity has been the large share in it of evangelistic medical work, both in our hospitals and in out-stations. Sickness in almost all cases is attributed by the people to evil spirits: every epidemic of whatever sort is accompanied by multiplied offerings intended to appease these angry spirits, and when these fail and all other hope is gone, then and only then, as a rule, non-Christian people come to the Christian physician. The most serious epidemic of malarial fever most of us have ever seen has carried off thousands everywhere and rendered a still larger number incapable for weeks of any real work. The result has been widespread distress and poverty, both among the Christians and non-Christians. With this, have come opportunities for Christlike ministry that have resulted in tearing down many a spirit-shrine and other signs of the old worship. But aside and beyond everywhere, is an unwonted willingness to listen and to learn.

The Government is placing added emphasis on its schools and steadily moving toward a higher standard and compulsory school attendance. Our Mission schools must keep pace with this movement. They must be no less efficient than those with which we must compete. Otherwise, we cannot hold our own Christian pupils, much less draw in those we would win to Christ. The Government seems to be aiming to reach the standard of the Japanese school-system, but here its situation is like that of the Japanese in Korea, amid a people kindred, indeed, to the Siamese, but using a different alphabet and differing widely in speech and custom. We must hold their confidence as well as that of the Laos.

The great bereavement of the year was the death of the Rev. Daniel McGilvary, D.D., and the Rev. Jonathan Wilson, D. D. They were the oldest missionaries in point of service on the roll of the Church, each having given more than half a century to loving and eminently devoted service of Christ in Siam. Dr. Wilson was a man of marked gentleness of spirit, fidelity of devotion and strength of faith. He was the sweet singer of Laos, the translator of the hymns which voice the faith and worship of the Laos people.

Dr. McGilvary was the great apostle to the Laos. He knew no greater joy than to declare the Gospel of His blessed Lord to the people to whose up-lifting he had devoted his life.

"If," says Dr. McKean, "to be great is 'to take the common things of life and walk truly among them,' he was a great man—great in soul, great in simplicity, great in faith and great in love. Siam is the richer because Daniel McGilvary gave her fifty-three years of unselfish service."

Mrs. Curtis, the gifted author of "The Laos in Northern Siam," says of Dr. McGilvary:

"Neither Carey nor Judson surpassed him in strength of faith and zeal of purpose; neither Paton nor Chalmers has outranked him in the wonders of their achievements, and not one of the other hundreds of missionaries ever has had more evidence of God's blessing upon their work."

Not only the missionaries but the Laos people loved him as a friend and venerated him as a father. Some of his most intimate friends were the abbots and monks of the Buddhist monasteries and the high officials of the country. No one could know the saintly patriarch without instantly recognizing the nobility of soul of this Israelite in whom was no guile.

The Laos country had never seen such a funeral as that which marked the close of this memorable life. Princes, Governors and High Commissioners of State sorrowed with multitudes of common people. The business of Chieng-mai was suspended, offices were closed and flags hung at half-mast as the silent form of the great missionary was borne to its last resting place.

Fortunately Dr. McGilvary had completed his autobiography before his natural powers had abated, and had sent the manuscript to his brother-in-law, Prof. Cornelius B. Bradley, of the University of California. Dr. Bradley, himself a son of a great missionary to Siam, has done his work with sympathetic insight. It has been a labor of love to him to put these pages through the press and every friend of the Laos people and of Dr. McGilvary is his debtor.

INDIA.—The tone of popular feeling and thought in India is much more hopeful and encouraging than five years ago. The wave of sedition and lawless nationalism has subsided, but it has given undoubtedly a great accession of permanent strength to a true nationalistic spirit. In the Church and throughout the land there is an increasing disposition to strive to meet the conditions essential to honorable independence. Mr. Ghokale's bill providing for popular vernacular education, if it had been adopted and carried out, would do much to atone for the unsatisfactory higher English education and build a broad base of popular and indigenous intelligence. There is an enormous mass of ignorance to be dealt with. In "A Letter to the People of India" from a Japanese, Dr. Harada, who visited India in 1905 and who now writes an appeal to the people he met then, recalls one of his impressions of his visit:

To speak frankly, we were amazed at the prevalence of superstition among your countrymen. In the light of general intelligence and the progress of science, not a little of your religious ceremonies and racial customs are manifestly steeped in superstition. No one will be inclined to dispute that this is to-day the greatest peril to the welfare of your country. Ladies and gentlemen of culture and education like yourselves will with few exceptions acknowledge this at once. The summons to the reformation of society resounds in your ears; but in the whole country how few respond. Valiant men and true who will gird themselves to battle for righteousness, regardless of consequences, are as rare as the first stars in the evening sky. But we are by no means urging the wanton destruction of all superstitions forthwith; that is not so difficult a task. Unless substitutes for them in the form of higher and purer ideas are supplied, "the last state of that man shall be worse than the first." He who would remove superstition must become saturated with the largest and loftiest purposes himself, and give men what will satisfy their deepest desires.

To dispel this superstition and to give India deliverance and enlightenment only Christianity can avail. As in Japan, the old religions do not offer a satisfactory basis for moral education and ignorance and evil can be conquered only by moral light. India is recognizing its need and the futility of meeting it with any of its old panaceas. Mr. Borup stated to the Board on his return from India last summer that the Commissioner of Education of the United Provinces had told him of a meeting held in Allahabad the preceding winter by Sir John Hewitt, with representatives of the Mohammedan and Hindu communities, to consider the question of moral teaching in the schools. He asked the Hindus and the Mohammedans to suggest portions from the Shasters and the Koran which could be printed for use in a moral text-book. Both parties regretfully stated that they knew no passages which could be so used, and then a Mohammedan arose and stated that he knew nothing better for the purpose than the Law of Moses and the Sermon on the Mount, and suggested that those portions of the Bible might be used. All the other Mohammedans agreed with him and several Brahman teachers. But the other Hindus objected. The result was that a committee was appointed to consider the matter and report later. And Mr. Fleming writes from Lahore of the way in which Bible ideas have penetrated Indian life even where they have not won as yet their dominant and sovereign place:

One of our Christian professors went out recently to an old castle about sixteen miles from Lahore, built by Sham Singh, the greatest of the nobles of Raja Ranjit Singh. It was he who, when he finally saw that defeat was inevitable in the war of the Sikhs against the British before the annexation of the Punjab, called fifteen of his followers and made a final charge against the British line.

Into this castle this professor was received by the grandson of that brave noble. They had been classmates together in the Lahore Medical College and perhaps the witness of Harbans Singh that day was the result of earnest prayers offered for him ten years ago by his Christian friend. It became plain, as they conversed, that here away off in this village was a man who had been touched by Christ, and who was living as best he could simply and unselfishly for others. As they were eating breakfast Harbans Singh said, "There are only three books I read—the Bible, the Grant and Tolstoi. I need no others. That the truth can be found in Christ I have come to believe. That there may be other ways is possible, but in Christ at least there is a way."

Shall I turn to the testimony of another who cannot be numbered in the Church? Gopal Singh Chowla, a professor in the Government College at Lahore, was giving recently a lecture to the Hindus and Mohammedans of our student hostel. In the midst of his lecture he gave this frank testimony, "Whatever India's future religion may be, it will not be an abstract philosophical dogma; but a deeply living personal relation with the Supreme Spirit. As such, it will cultivate genuine personal relations with those who have shown us most how to be God-like. The future religion of India, whatever the name or form may be, will be intensely loyal to the gracious personality of Jesus, to him whom the homage of millions of human hearts has acknowledged as revealing in the clearest manner the heart and thought of God to the human race. The religious consciousness of this ancient land may or may not accept the doctrine and teachings of the Christian Church, but we cannot without running the risk of spiritual stagnation ignore the light and strength that we can derive from the life of Christ himself."

The Durbar at Delhi and the proposed removal of the capital of India from Calcutta to Delhi have done not a little to attach the Indian people the closer to the British throne. Not least among the influences for good was the personal character and spirit of the king-emperor. Dr. Ewing, of Lahore, who has been called to the unique honor of the Vice-Chancellorship of the University of the Punjab, the highest educational honor in all northwestern India, and an honor which he holds as a missionary, was invited by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab to go as his guest to the Durbar. Dr. Ewing writes of his visit and the honors which it brought to him:

My time has been so fully occupied since my return from the Durbar that I have had little time to write about it. You do not need to be told of the greatness of the function, so I shall merely tell you of some of the more personal things. The entertainment at our Camp was sumptuous in the extreme, and very great courtesy was shown to me. I was chosen as one of the twenty representatives of the Punjab selected to do homage on behalf of the Province at the great function, and so was called upon to approach the throne, bow and retire backward! Similarly, I was one of those selected to attend at the laying of the Foundation Stone of the new Capitol. But the greatest surprise and honor of all was when I was commanded to dine with their Majesties, at one of the three dinner parties given by them. After dinner I had the honor of being presented to both, and of conversing for a few moments with each. It was a treat to attend such a function once in a lifetime, and I was glad to do it; but I do not think that I shall ever care for another. The return to Lahore and the work here was welcome.

The educational work of the India Missions has continued its growth and influence, and some progress has been made in carrying out the resolute purpose of the Board that the whole staff of teachers in all mission schools, including the schools for Hindus and Mohammedans under Mission care aided by the Government, shall be Christian, and every influence of the schools made evangelical and evangelistic. The Forman Christian College at Lahore and the Christian College at Allahabad have retained their positions at the head of education in these fields, and generous gifts from Mrs. C. P. Turner and Mrs. John S. Kennedy have given to Woodstock the equipment necessary for the development of its college work for women. The district work has been as needy as ever in the past. There are now 25,481 catechumens connected with the 47 churches in the Punjab and North India Missions. Most of these have been baptized, but await further instruction before admission to the Lord's Supper. The low caste people are ready to place themselves under the care and instruction of the Christian Church, but the men and women and necessary support are not available to seize this opportunity, which has had no precedent on the mission field in our day and which will not linger for us long.

The first missionaries of our Church landed in India on October 15, 1833. After twenty-five years' work they had 267 church members. Last year alone the Missions added 801 communicants and thousands of catechumens.

In the Western India Mission for the past year the work has been carried on under the usual activities. Two things, however, stand out with special emphasis. First: The reorganization of the educational work. For years the work has been carried on by the different Stations individually. At the last Mission Meeting there was an exhaustive report of the Committee on an Educational Policy for the whole Mission which reviewed the situation in detail. The result has been the dividing of the Mission into two parts, one including the stations of the Deccan, and the other the two stations of the Konkan. In each one of these districts there are to be primary schools for Christians and non-Christians; secondary schools for the Christian community and normal training schools. Also, there are to be boarding schools at Sangli, Kolhapur and Ratnagiri. In addition to this there is to be an industrial school at Sangli which will eventually have attached to it an agricultural department. Provision was also made looking to the establishment of a theological school, thus completing the whole system of education in a way that would minister to the establishment of the native church and the raising up of native Christian teachers. While this plan looks into the future, it faces in the right direction.

The second point of emphasis in the Western India Mission has been the recognition of the increased need of evangelistic effort. The report in the annual meeting is made vivid by the appeal for evangelists. It closes with the following words which show the spirit and temper of the whole Mission. They might well be a call to all missionary workers:

That we aim to sell as many portions as possible of the Word of God and other suitable religious books, always being careful ourselves to know the contents of the books we offer to the people.

That we try to know more of the faith, and superstitions, the hopes and fears of those for whom we labor, not for the sake of controversy, but in order to understand better the nature of the soil into which the seed of the Word is cast, that we may give our message in a more natural and sympathetic way.

That we strive to preach Christ with that intense feeling of conviction that comes from a vivid sense of the immediate urgency of producing the effect aimed at, realizing that the people of India have had their spiritual faculties weakened by the speculations of a dreamy philosophy, and have no definite religious belief; and that in order to rouse them from their lethargy it is necessary to speak with an earnestness and assurance like that of the apostle when he proclaimed the name of the Lord Jesus Christ and said, "In none other is there salvation; for neither is there any other name under heaven that is given among men wherein we must be saved."

That when itinerating we daily pray with our Indian helpers for the presence with both ourselves and those to whom we speak of that Holy Spirit who alone can savingly apply the redemption of Christ to the souls of men.

SYRIA.—The work of the Syria Mission has been carried on this year under peculiar conditions, causing anxiety to the workers. Their position cannot be fully understood without recalling that all their work must be done in an atmosphere of change, unrest and suspicion. For years the workers have been conscious of developing conditions from a political point of view which have now become openly manifest. The attitude of the nominally Christian powers of Europe, such as Italy, Great Britain and Russia towards Turkey and Persia, have tended to antagonize and solidify the Moslem forces. Added to this, the rise of the young Turkish party with their gift of liberty to Turkey has tempted the opponents of Christianity, and particularly the Moslems, to become more out-spoken in their opposition. At the same time it has released the missionaries from the old censorship, and has opened the doors for them to speak boldly and publicly to their constituencies. The situation thus created has required the greatest wisdom and caution. The slightest indiscretion would close the door of the missionaries to the very field into which they desire to go. So carefully have they handled the problem, that their report says that never before have they had so many Moslem students in their schools or such eager listeners among Moslem audiences.

In addition to this general situation, the Syria Mission has had to face, first, the presence of plague; then a scourge of cerebro-spinal meningitis which broke out in the Government barracks in Beirut near the Mission; also the epidemic of small-pox which even penetrated into the compound, and at Tripoli and Beirut there has been the dreaded cholera. The war with Italy has also been hostile to the progress of the work.

The population of Syria has been decimated by those who flee from military service on the one hand and leave the country, and by those who, becoming panic-stricken because of war and pestilence, seek escape in the interior. In many cases the attendance upon the school has been decreased almost to the point of necessitating closing the school. In spite of all this the missionaries have kept to their task, have been guarded from pestilence and the peril of war, and their reports are full of hope.

The need of reinforcements in the Syria Mission is emphasized by the fact of the new educational opportunity which is unlimited. During the past year the Mission has not only joined in the establishment of an annual conference on education with the other missionaries in Syria, but has also planned for the building of a theological school which shall adequately train young men for the evangelistic work. This school will work in co-operation with the Syrian Protestant College.

As this report is written, there comes word from Syria of one of the most gracious revivals that has occurred in many years. Beginning in the Boys' School at Sidon, it has reached Suk el Gharb and Beirut. The inquiry rooms are filled with eager questioners, and at the Boys' School in Sidon 33 have professed their faith in Jesus Christ.

The work in Syria may be summed up by saying that while, for the time being, things are unsettled, we should anticipate that at last after all these years of repression, the Christian forces are to be released as never before. If the emphasis is laid on evangelism, the publication of Christian literature and the preparation of a Christian ministry, it will not be long before Syria contributes to the near East the best gift that can be given to any nation, viz., the knowledge of that righteousness which alone establishes a nation.

PERSIA.—The year has been a year of tragedy for Persia. It began with great hopes in the breasts of the young men of Persia that at last the political storms surrounding the establishment of constitutional government and parliamentary institutions were to subside; that with the help of the American advisers the government would soon be on a sound financial basis; and that Persia might go forward to take her place again among the respected nations of the earth. But these hopes were soon rudely shattered. The ex-shah came back from Russia and his brother advanced on Teheran from the southwest. Both were driven off, but difficulties arose with Russia which led to the overthrow of the new financial organization of the Americans and to the assumption of practical control of northern Persia by Russia. The agreement of 1907 between Russia and Great Britain binds the two powers to preserve the integrity of Persia, but the Persians sorrowfully mourn the collapse of their hopes and point to the facts of their present situation as evidence that the independent destiny of their land is gone.

After the struggle of the last few years, there is now a lull in northern Persia. The roads are less disturbed and the people are seeking quietly to adjust themselves to the new conditions. In some sections the constant fighting interrupted the itinerating work, but with the exception of the Girls' School in Tabriz, where the streets have been dangerous at times, and of the Boys' School in Teheran, where work was interrupted slightly during the greatest excitement there, the schools have gone on with their work with greater opportunities than ever. The head of one of the girls' schools writes:

We have enrolled more than 300 girls this year and the Moslems (and Jews) are almost half. Since I wrote you in January three more Moslem girls have joined the Sunday morning class for special study which I have after Persian service. There are twelve Moslem girls attending school this year who say they have accepted Christ as their Saviour, and I believe in the sincerity of nearly all of them, though some of them are weak Christians.

I wish there were time to tell you of the two receptions we had last week for the Persian mothers. Ninety came (including some sisters or other representatives) and it was a fine opportunity to tell them how they could help the school, what our ideals are, and that Christ is the Fountain of all the "morals" they are so eager to have their daughters learn. It was a strong dose, but they took it well and no one has left the school!

And the head of one of the boys' schools, with an enrollment of 348, most of them Moslems, writes:

Many were deterred from applying by the well-known fact that we were already full up; but, as it was, about 40 boys were refused, a number of them from the very foremost families of Persia—the sons of Kajar princes, cabinet officers, governors of provinces, members of the Majless (Parliament), wealthy merchants, and, best of all, middle-class men of moderate means ready to sacrifice and pay full rates for their sons, turned away because there was no room for them. If the quarters had been large enough and we had been ready to receive them we probably could have had 100 or more boarders before the end of this first year. How popular the boarding department is with the boys themselves is shown by the fact that every one of them is enrolled for next year and most of them have a brother or friend on the waiting list.

The boarders received come from six of the leading cities of Persia—Tabriz, Isfahan, Kashan, Koom, Resht and Teheran, and applicants have been refused from these and other cities. We have been greatly surprised by the number from Teheran itself. It is a never-ceasing wonder to hear these Moslem parents say—as they almost always do say—"I want to get this boy away from the influences of the home and under your care. I want him to be in the boarding department; for however good the instruction in the school may be, it is counteracted by home influences."

Here is a great door and effectual opened to us in a land where for over seventy years our presence has been recognized and our work welcomed.

But how different are the conditions as compared with seventy-five years ago! Then there was no door open to the Moslems and no Moslem pupils attended the schools. Even twenty years ago the Moslem door was still closed. Now all over the Moslem world the iron bars are being lowered. One of the leading Persians of the day recently told Dr. Shedd that Islam was a foreign religion that has harmed Persia. He says that the drift in the Caucasus among Moslems is away from Islam and told me of a polemic book against Islam that was written by a literary man among the Mohammedans of that region and left as a legacy to be quietly passed from hand to hand and to be copied by faithful persons, but not to be published.

So Islam at last has begun to be shaken. Our leading American authority on Mohammedism, Professor Macdonald, of Hartford, has set this forth in his last book, "Aspects of Islam":

Look for a moment on the Islam of the present day as it confronts and ponders the non-Moslem world. For, undoubtedly, its attitude just now is far more conscious than it ever was before. It is no longer developing and advancing or slumbering and mouldering, at any rate, following its nature in happy unconsciousness; but its back is at the wall, and it looks upon an order of things, hostile now not only militantly, but, what is far more deadly, economically. This situation Islam has realized and is realizing more and more widely with every year that passes. It is not only the young men in the cities who are facing a new future. In the villages and even in the recesses of the desert itself the consciousness is awakening that all is not well with the People of Mohammed. They all know how Arabi Pasha was crushed at Tell el-Kebir, how the Fulani Emirates went down, and how, in these last days, the Mahdi and his rule have been swept from the Sudan. It has gone ill with militant Islam, and when Islam is not militant, it dreams away its life in slow decay. The pressure, too, and the drive of the modern world have at last come home to them. They are learning that Europe will use and exhaust them to the last drop of blood if they do not learn to use themselves. On Asia the great European fear now lies more blackly than ever since the time of Alexander and his successors. And always before—when Islam yielded ground—in Spain, in Sicily, in Hungary, in the Balkans—it was conquered territory, and no native soil that it gave up. Or, if it yielded, it took it again, as the Latin kingdom of Jerusalem rose and fell. But now the war of manufacture and commerce, with their swift, stern blows of economic necessity, has struck to the very centre of the Faith, and many Moslems see that, if they would save themselves, an education and training alien and antagonistic to Islam must be whole-heartedly accepted and used. Thus the Moslem peoples are slowly and uneasily becoming aware that the Faith which was their pride and strength—nay, the very essence of their being—is their handicap, and they do not yet see how to transform it. Militant and dominant Islam is gone. Can Islam be anything else?

Nowhere are the old foundations more seamed and shaken than in Persia.

WEST AFRICA MISSION.—The year closing has been marked by more confessions of Jesus Christ, more additions to the churches, more itinerant evangelistic work by both missionaries and natives, more village schools conducted, more opportunities beckoning, more wrestling in prayer, more competition and opposition, more new missionaries coming, more tangible and commanding reasons to thank God and move forward, than ever before.

The members of the Mission clearly recognize that the time of opportunity and crisis is on, and that the rapid recent spread of Hausa people of the Mohammedan faith, the aggressive enterprise of European commercial agencies, the readiness and spiritual destitution of the multitudes untouched by any missionary influence, the certain passing of the old-time type of heathenism to whatever faith or force comes first, to say nothing of our Lord's Commission, carries a clear call to move forward and take a goodly land before it shall soon be too late. Quite less than a decade's delay may easily mean lasting loss of evangelical prestige in a strategic region toward the heart of the once Dark Continent.

A gratifying record has been made in the line of self-support in the West Africa Mission. All the churches in the Benito district have been self-supporting so far as known, excepting Ayol, Avune and Myuma, in which exceptions very little progress has been made. The system of giving in all these churches is that of weekly collections, except Ayol, and without envelopes in all excepting Benito and Gaboon. In addition to meeting current expenses, these churches have provided repairs, Bible readers, teachers, and catechists. All pastors' salaries have been fully paid with more or less promptness.

In the Batanga district, with their numerous outposts, the congregations have done magnificently. In addition to large gifts of money there has been much given in the way of material and voluntary service. The total in cash from Batanga, Kribi and Ubenji with outlying districts, is Marks 3,644, or $949.07. Under Kribi, Lonji has built a house for a Bible reader. At Polongwe the old church has been removed nearer to the main road and entirely rebuilt. Under Batanga, at Abunja, a new roof has been put on the chapel. At Ubenji, a pastor's house has been erected by the people. These contributions and various material, amounting to Marks 635, added to the cash gifts, make a total of Marks 4,279.29 put into the Lord's work by the Batanga district of churches. Thus Batanga and Kribi have been better than self-supporting in the sense of paying a pastor's salary and current expenses. The envelope system is used at Efulen, each person pledging the amount he or she will give when enrolled as inquirer. The Efulen Church, too, has been more than self-supporting. At Elat Church the total offerings were large. The people of the church showed their hospitality by entertaining nearly 400 people for one week at a conference. The envelope system is used for the monthly offerings, in which about 7,500 people are enlisted. In the MacLean district are the churches of Lolodorf and Lam. Each of these is more than self-supporting, Lolodorf having a balance of Marks 300 and Lam of Marks 200 on hand. Almost all the receipts have been used for the preaching of the Gospel in needy places. The gross receipts from all the churches has been $3,953.27 gold. The receipts from all sources are as follows:

Churches of Presbytery	$3,953.27
Schools	3,314.17
Medical	1,120.47
Frank James Industrial	2,699.24
Total receipts	$11,087.15

This is a wonderful showing for a poor people like the Africans. It speaks of devotion, religious reality and new character.

LATIN AMERICA.—The General Assembly of Brazil, with its two Synods, seven Presbyteries and over 12,000 members, celebrated in Rio de Janeiro in January, 1912, the jubilee of the establishment of Protestant Missions in Brazil. The Rev. Ashbel G. Simonton went to Brazil under appointment from the Board in 1859 and in eight years of service left an ineffaceable imprint upon the land. Three men are still living who have seen almost the whole of the remarkable development of the work in Brazil—Dr. Lane, President of Mackenzie College; Snr. Trajano, the honored pastor emeritus of the church in Rio, and Snr. Carvalhosa, pastor of the Egreja Unida in Sao Paulo. These three can remember the days of sorrow and trial at the outset, when the great results which have been attained were made possible by “work done,” as Snr. Trajano has said, “in blood and suffering and sacrifice.” Never did Brazil need more than to-day the work which only the evangelical church can do.

The present administration in Brazil is military, and the tendencies have been too strong in favor of federal interference in the States and of the imposition upon them of military governors. It is difficult to say whether or not the change from the corrupt "boss" rule to military control is an evil or a good. There is little advance to a really free government. Brazil is still a pseudo-republic of the Latin type. The material progress of the whole country is very rapid. Enormous sums of foreign money are coming into the country for railways, manufactures and all sorts of enterprises. The exports are in excess of the imports. The two great staples, rubber and coffee, run into hundreds of millions. This commercial and industrial progress does not, however, mean any great degree of prosperity for the mass of the Brazilian people.

The Government has taken a wise step in modifying the educational system by destroying the system of Government recognition which gave the recognized schools the right of exemption of pupils from entrance examinations for the professional schools. The effect of the old system was to lead many institutions to shelter inferior education behind the inducement of the Government privilege. The corrupt system embraced all the so-called "higher education" of Brazil, except a few German schools in the south and Mackenzie College. The Government has now abolished it, forbidding the issuance of diplomas by such schools, and directing each professional school to organize its own entrance examinations. The State of Sao Paulo has continued to forge ahead. Immense investments have been made in the State by British capital. Last year the State voted the equivalent of three and a third million dollars for public school buildings. Graded schools are found all over the State, and there are four branch normal schools. The percentage of illiteracy has been greatly reduced in this State, as it has also in the more prosperous States of the Union. In the backward States of the north and centre, education is also backward. But the spirit that favors education is rapidly spreading.

In Colombia there is now a larger missionary force than ever before in its history, and the four stations which the Mission has longed for twenty years to have kept open are all occupied—Bogota, Barranquilla, Medellin and Bucaramanga. The land lies open before us, at once a great need and a great opportunity. The people are accessible everywhere. A man with leaflets or portions of Scripture can have a friendly crowd around him instantly. There are hundreds of large towns and small cities which are waiting for wisely planned, steadily prosecuted itinerating work. We have begun, but only begun, to answer the questions addressed to the Board in a Secretarial report presented after visiting Colombia three years ago, when there were only three men missionaries in Colombia, instead of nine as at the present time:

But shall we consider doing anything at all for Colombia? Have we not enough to do elsewhere? We have worked there for fifty years. Have we not done enough for a people who have done nothing for themselves except to bring their rich country to ruin? Surely, we can answer these questions in only one way. We have put our hand to this plow. We put it there fifty-three years ago. The furrow is not run yet. We shall not turn back. We are practically the only evangelical agency at work in this field. Others have come and gone, but the work that is to be done is laid at our door. It is a needy work. There is none needier. I am writing these words on the Magdalena River. We are just passing by a collection of hovels on the river bank. Children are playing before the door. The father has come down to hold off his canoe to save it from damage from the after wash of the boat. The mother is looking out from the main hovel, which is her home. There is no school. There is no church. Now for scores and scores of miles up and down the river are hundreds of such hovels. Back in the mountains they are gathered in villages and towns and cities. The people are of flesh and blood like ourselves. They are a warm-hearted, loving, responsive people. The Gospel is in our hands for them, and if we abandon them who will give it to them? The Roman Catholic Church has been with them for three centuries, and it has not given it to them. Who will, if we do not?

Venezuela, which forms an important part of our Colombia Mission, although with but one station, Caracas, and one family, has had a most encouraging year. Gifts for a new church property have brought great happiness to the Rev. and Mrs. T. S. Pond and the outlook is bright.

The Chile Mission reports for the past year a quiet work of mingled encouragement and discouragement. The fact that the Board was able to respond to some of the needs for building, and to provide the Mission with a new school building at Valparaiso; a new gymnasium for the Santiago Institute in Santiago; a new church at Concepcion and two or three new residences for the workers, has furnished the Mission and the missionaries with an equipment which should enable them to meet new opportunities with more efficiency than ever before. The Board has also been able to grant to the Chile Mission a sufficient increase for its evangelistic work so that their earnest plea for additional funds to strengthen their native work has at last been answered. The result of this has appeared in a more vigorous prosecution of the evangelistic work both in the field on the north, including Tocopilla, Taltal and Copiapo; and in the field on the south, covering Concepcion, Parral, Chillan and Traiguén. From all these fields come reports of added interest, and in spite of the fact that in some of them there have been local difficulties which have temporarily interrupted the work, there is every prospect of a greater advance than for years. The Spanish-speaking people possess a nature which, because of its volatile character, is apt to give evidence of instability, and in many cases their allegiance seems to be more expedient than deep-rooted. A report from one of the fields shows how a man who was himself the son of a Christian, can become an obstacle in the way of Mission work when it thwarts his plans of temporal success. The report also gives a picture of much of the work which the itinerating missionary must meet. It is the report of the work at Los Sauces.

One of the workers, in writing, speaks as follows:

This place is enslaved as much by its vices as by men. On Mondays there is a veritable orgy there; saloons and bad houses at every step, and drunkards giving each other blows right and left. The other master of that unfortunate place is a former Mayor, at present a representative in Congress of the Province. This man practically exercises absolute power there. The people have no individual rights as free citizens. The word of that tyrant is law, which must be obeyed by right or by might. The person who dares oppose his orders and does not submit to his caprices, must leave town as soon as possible, if he does not wish to suffer. He hates the evangelicals. He is the owner of almost all the soil in the town and the fields that surround it, so that to go contrary to him is equivalent to pay a higher rent, or be dispossessed of his house, losing in this way the building, which almost always belongs to the lessee (as the owner makes only a ground lease), and the lessee must perforce build; and finally if he is poor he must go to the bar where he is cruelly whipped. Until I came to know the town of Los Sauces, I never knew that in Chile such atrocities would take place.

In Santiago proper, the population is approaching the half million mark, and a city extending in all directions. Artisans are endeavoring to provide themselves with dwellings, which makes a general boom in real estate with a fabulous rise in prices. The city is a Roman Catholic stronghold. Vested interests remain. The arrogance of office is obtrusive at all points of contact. Religious indifference seems general on the part of wage earners and professional men. In spite of this, the Instituto Ingles reports a larger attendance than ever before. The total number of students matriculated being 302; 140 registered as boarders; 62 as half-boarders, and 100 as day students. It has been necessary to refuse a large number of boys for lack of room. Approximately 60 were thus kept from entering, and a notice was published in the papers of the city stating that no more students could be received. This was done while other schools were advertising for students. It was significant that many parents, fearing the atheistic instruction in the schools of the Government, and having as an alternative to send them either to the priests' schools or to the Santiago Institute, chose the latter. This indicates perhaps as well as anything else the trend of a new thought in Chile.

In addition to the educational and evangelistic work, the colportage work has been vigorously pressed by Mr. Garvin. A new field has opened in the public schools where he is permitted to sell books of a moral, but not distinctively religious character. It opens, however, an opportunity for contact which he has not been slow in improving.

With the new equipment, the perfected plans, and lightened hearts, because of fulfilled desires, the Chile Mission enters the new year with hope and courage.

In Mexico the revolution formally came to a close with the resignation of President Diaz and his flight to Europe in May, 1911, followed by the inauguration of Senor F. de la Barra as provisional President of the Republic. However, in spite of Senor Madero's almost unanimous election and inauguration in October following, great unrest has continued to prevail throughout the year. This is due to the open disapproval of Madero's policy, shown not only by members of the old Diaz regime, but by many of the old revolutionary and liberal elements, as well. The Zapatist agrarian uprising in the State of Morelos and adjoining districts not far from Mexico City, and the wholesale brigandage which continues all over the country, requires the constant efforts of thousands of Federal troops to suppress it, and has completely upset business conditions.

The immediate result on missionary work has been materially to reduce the field of evangelistic itineration and visiting of out-stations, and has also affected the contributions of our scattered Indian congregations. But it is the opinion of the missionaries and of a large majority of the native workers that the final effect will be decidedly favorable to the extension of the Gospel. The re-establishment of democracy and a free press, and the waking up of the masses to a larger participation in public affairs, as well as the organization of many new societies for social betterment, cannot but be helpful to the work in the coming years.

The year was marked by several changes in the personnel of the Mission. On September 18, 1911, the Rev. Isaac Boyce, D.D., felt compelled to resign from the Mission. Dr. Boyce had been connected with the work of the Mission since 1884. He was a diligent and efficient missionary. In addition to pastoral work, and much itineration for a number of years, he has written the Sunday-school lessons for the Mission paper El Faro, and even after withdrawal from the Mission has prepared the lessons for the year 1912.

As the records of the foundation of our missionary work seventy-five years ago indicate, our Church has from the beginning recognized her duty to the Latin-American lands. One of her first missionary ventures was the short-lived Mission to Buenos Aires. In 1859 the work was begun in Brazil, and in 1856 in Colombia. Apart from all else that could be said in support of the Church's policy in establishing such Missions, the sound moral sense of the Church went straight to the central consideration recently set forth by the Rev. J. W. Fleming, D.D., of the Scotch Church in Buenos Aires, who says:

In the first place, we have in our hands the priceless message of the Gospel, and without, in any way denying the true and vital Christianity of numbers of Roman Catholics, we believe that there are still greater numbers who are in ignorance of what real Christianity is. They are not only bad Christians, they are bad Roman Catholics. It is altogether an error to say that we are seeking to proselytize these people. When we seek to make them Protestant we are winning them from heathenism or the next thing to it, and giving them for the first time in their lives a real knowledge of Christianity. It is a clear duty to take up such work; we have received the Gift and we are bound to pass it on. All the world is to be won for Christ, and surely our first duty is to begin with that portion of the world which does not know the unsearchable riches of Christ and which at the same time lies at our own doors.

We cannot lift up our eyes to look upon the field without seeing these fields first.

In the Guatemala Mission interest has centered around the new building operations which were made possible by the Kennedy bequest and the kindness of a group of friends in the United States. After the visit of the Board's Secretary in March, 1911, the Board voted to re-establish its educational work in Guatemala. As a result, the Mission has been building in Guatemala City a fine girls' school and has planned, also, eventually for a boys' school, and for two day-schools at Quezaltenango. The educational opportunity in Guatemala is a very remarkable one. The Mission not only has the permission, but the strong and urgent approval of the Government, which has promised to lend its influence to this work.

The ideal of President Barrios is education. As far as the Government is concerned, it has enacted laws and provided equipment looking to the establishment of a complete governmental educational system. It is thwarted, however, by two difficulties: one recognized, and the other unrecognized. It is almost impossible on the one hand to get competent teachers, and on the other, if they do get those who are mentally equipped, it is found that education divorced from morality does not serve the purpose of upbuilding the State. At these two points the Mission finds its opportunity to serve Guatemala. In its schools it can equip both men and women mentally and spiritually for this task.

As to the spiritual situation in Guatemala, it can be summed up by saying that Protestantism has reached that stage where its influence is very widespread, though its outward manifestation is comparatively small. It only needs some vigorous action on the part of our Mission to crystallize a religious sentiment which now seems to be in solution.

The contrast between the work in Guatemala twenty-five years ago and to-day is very significant. Then, including all the Protestant workers, there were but three native believers; now there are nineteen congregations varying in attendance from 12 to 250; besides visiting believers in seven other preaching points. Besides this there are eight congregations somewhat isolated. This means a total at present of 33 congregations of believers, totaling not less than 1,400 actual adherents.

It is now possible to travel on mule-back from the Atlantic to the Pacific, or from Honduras to Mexico, and stop every night at an evangelical preaching point.

Twenty-five years ago the banks of Guatemala refused our bills of exchange because of suspicion in their minds as to our stability and purpose. Now the Government strongly endorses all our efforts. Twenty-five years ago it was not possible to print a syllable of Protestant literature. To-day one can travel all over the country distributing tracts, and will find a Bible in almost every town and village, and in some places there are almost as many Bibles as families. Most remarkable of all the effects of Protestantism is the way in which the Gospel is permeating upward the higher class of society. Every Sunday a service in English is held in the chapel at Guatemala City, attended not only by the American Consul-General and others in the diplomatic service, but by many from the higher social class in Guatemala City. This being the situation, Protestant Christendom has a duty towards Guatemala that is obvious. In a small compass is given the chance of proving how the pure religion of Jesus Christ can transform a nation. It is only a difference in size, but the principles underlying the work are the same, as in all Roman Catholic countries.

CHINESE, JAPANESE AND KOREANS IN THE UNITED STATES.—Chinese.—The work among the Chinese in California has been increased by the addition of a new Mission located at Marysville, a town of four or five thousand, in the Sacramento Valley. This was formerly under the care of the Congregationalists, although supported largely by the Presbyterians.

The uniting of the workers of all denominations among Orientals on the Pacific Coast into one organization, under the name of "The American Workers Among Orientals on the Pacific Coast," marks an advanced step in behalf of the spiritual welfare of the Asiatic population. The aim of the organization is union or co-operation wherever possible so as to check waste, promote economy and accomplish large results.

The Chinese Mission Home at 920 Sacramento Street, San Francisco, under care of the Occidental Board, has had between 60 and 70 inmates during the year. By special permission of President Taft, the Occidental Board has become guardian of two young girls brought over as slaves and bought by High Binders before their arrival. They are bright, attractive and deeply interested in the Christian religion. The Chinese Church at Los Angeles made a special gift of $450 to the Canton Christian College. The Rev. J. H. Stewart, who for so many years had charge of this work, passed to his reward on March 1. He was a faithful and devoted servant of the Lord, honored and respected by his fellow-workers, and much beloved by the Chinese. The work among the Chinese in New York City has prospered. The Chinese Christian Church, under the care of the Rev. Huie Kin, has a membership of 43; 15 of these are in universities and other institutions of learning.

Japanese.—This year marks the completion of twenty-five years of the work of Dr. and Mrs. Sturge. At the beginning of their work they found a small Japanese church of 30 members, which held its meetings in a dilapidated hall over a saloon. This year they report four organized churches, four other missions with a combined membership of more than 500, not to speak of the large work done by the Japanese who have returned to their own land. More than 20 young men from this Mission have been ordained to the Christian ministry. The total contributions from all the churches for the year are $7,422, a larger sum than the Board expended in the entire work.

Koreans.—There are organized groups of Korean Christians located in Los Angeles, Claremont, Upland, Riverside, and a number of others scattered in several towns. The Koreans of the Claremont Mission, assisted in part by fellow-Koreans, erected a building costing $2,200, of which the Koreans gave $1,700. The Koreans in Yucatan, after years of great distress, were much disappointed in the failure of their plans for emigrating into the Hawaiian Islands. Ten thousand dollars was raised for transportation, but the United States Government would not allow them entrance. They have, however, removed to a more prosperous part of Yucatan than they formerly occupied. The total contributions of Korean Christians in connection with the Mission in the United States and in Mexico is $1,446.15 from a membership of 560.

LOSSES AND GAINS, NEW PROBLEMS AND NEW POLICIES.

The following workers finished their course on earth during the year and passed on amid the sounding trumpets to be with Him Who shall henceforth be their Rewarder:

	Born.	Appointed.	Died.
The Rev. Jonathan Wilson, D.D.	Mar. 24, 1830	1856	June 3, 1911
The Rev. F. J. Newton, D.D.	July 24, 1847	1870	Apr. 28, 1911
The Rev. John E. Hail.	Nov. 22, 1873	1900	Aug. 15, 1911
Mrs. William Jessup.	Mar. 7, 1870	1890	Aug. 18, 1911
The Rev. Daniel McGilvary, D.D.	May 16, 1828	1857	Aug. 22, 1911
J. C. Hepburn, M.D.	Mar. 3, 1815	1840	Sept. 21, 1911
The Rev. John N. Hyde.	Nov. 9, 1865	1892	Feb. 17, 1912

Reference is made in connection with the section of this introduction relating to Siam and Laos to the life and work of Dr. McGilvary and Dr. Wilson. Here we may quote, accordingly, simply a few paragraphs from the memorial minutes of the Board with regard to Dr. Hepburn and Dr. Newton, Mr. Hail, Mr. Hyde, and Mrs. Jessup.

When Dr. and Mrs. Hepburn retired from Japan in 1892, the Japan Mail, the leading English newspaper in the Empire, if not in the Far East, published an editorial appreciation of their work and character.

"On Tuesday evening," said the Mail, "the foreign community was invited to say farewell to a man whose name will be remembered with respect and affection as long as Yokohama has any annals. More than thirty years have elapsed since Dr. Hepburn came to Japan, and during the whole of that time the public's feeling of love and reverence for him has constantly increased. No single person has done so much to bring foreigners and Japanese into close intercourse. His dictionary was the first book that gave access to the language of the country, and remains to this day the best available interpreter of that language. But even more than his dictionary has helped to facilitate mutual acquaintance—his life has assisted to break down the old barriers of racial prejudice and distrust. For the beauty of his character, his untiring charity, his absolute self-negation, and his steady zeal in the cause of everything good constitute a picture which could not fail to appeal to the Japanese people. His benevolence, though always large and sometimes even trespassing on the limits of his means, was so unostentatious that few have suspected its extent, and it is probably little known in Yokohama that the whole of the sum gained by the sale of the second edition of his dictionary, amounting to several thousands of dollars, was devoted to the building of a spacious addition to the Meiji Gakuin at Shirokane. Much would have to be written to convey even a tithe of what the reverend doctor has accomplished, and of the love that all nationalities in this settlement bear to him. But though it would please us well to write and others to read, our pen is stayed by the knowledge that public panegyrics are essentially distasteful to one who works entirely for the good to be wrought and in no respect for the praise to be won. We confine ourselves, therefore, to wishing that the closing years of a well-spent life may be full of peace and happiness, and that in the country to which they return after a long career of usefulness, the home of the venerable doctor and the kind-hearted lady who has been so faithful a helpmeet to him and so true a friend to his friends, may be full of sunshine as their memory will always make in our hearts."

Dr. Hepburn's life was spared for nearly twenty years after leaving Japan, and for five years after the death of Mrs. Hepburn. His health failed greatly toward the close, but until the end he was the same gentle, humble, affectionate spirit he had ever been, and in placing upon its records its appreciation of his great character and great work, the Board desires to thank God for the privilege of having been permitted to send out and sustain in his labors for so many years a Christian missionary so true and useful and a Christian man so honored and beloved.

Dr. Newton was the son of the Rev. John Newton, one of the pioneers of Mission work in the Punjab. He was born in 1847, educated at Washington and Jefferson College and the Western Theological Seminary, and appointed to work in India in 1870. After some six years' work in India, owing to ill-health, he was obliged to return to America, where he stayed long enough to take his medical degree at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, returning to India in 1880. For the last thirty years he has labored as a medical and evangelistic missionary in Ferozepore and the district. All that was of interest to the people concerned him. He was a member, and for a time President of the Municipal Committee, and concerned himself in all the life of the community of which he was a part. He had a thorough mastery of the native languages. It was his custom to read every morning a portion of Scripture in the Hebrew or Greek original. He did excellent service in the translation of the Bible into the Punjabi and Urdu languages. Of untiring energy in his work, of boundless sympathy for the people, and filled with a spirit of Christlike love, he went to and fro in his missionary service representing Christ to all about him. Multitudes of Hindus and Mohammedans followed his body to the grave, and he has left behind him the priceless memory of a pure, unselfish and devoted life.

Mr. Hail was born of missionary parentage in Japan. After receiving his education in the United States he returned to take up work among the Japanese, where his modesty of spirit, his great ability, his mastery of the language, his geniality of disposition and his purity of consecration have endeared him both to the people and to his associates and made his life efficient and fruitful in a high degree. The Board laments the loss of so capable a worker at this time, when Japan needs such friends more than ever before.

Mr. Hyde was one of the most devout, prayerful, and fruitful missionary workers in India. With no adoption of native dress or external signs of asceticism, he was yet recognized by the Indian people as a 'Holy Man,' who knew God and the deepest secrets of life, and they came to him in unreserved confidence and trust. In his death the Church on earth has lost a character of unique spiritual beauty and the Mission and the Board a brother beloved, whom they rejoice to have known and for whose life they thank God.

All Mrs. Jessup's missionary life has been spent in Zahleh, Mt. Lebanon, where she has been engaged in work for the women and children. During the last years of her life she has been particularly eager in establishing a kindergarten work at Zahleh, and through her deep earnestness she was able to obtain from friends funds sufficient to assure the success of her plan. There is a pathos in her death, owing to the fact that she will not see the fruition of her hopes and that others must carry on the work that was dear to her heart. Mrs. Jessup's life was marked by a quiet and joyous Christian faith, and was just such an one as can become an unobstructed channel for the operations of the Holy Spirit and His entrance into the lives of others.

Ninety-seven new missionaries were sent to the field in 1911-12, so that the total number of foreign missionaries now connected with the Board is 1,082. The Missions are asking for five times as many more missionaries as are available to appoint.

There have been four visitations of the Missions of the Board during the year, practically without expense to the Board: one by Dr. Halsey to Mexico at the urgent call of the Mexico Mission, to confer with the Mission on difficult problems which had arisen in the work; one by Dr. Sailer to Egypt and Syria, to observe the educational problems in missions, to whose continued study he is giving his time and strength as an honorary worker; one by Dr. Cobb, a valued member of the Board, to Venezuela; and one by Dr. Bradt, accompanied by the Rev. W. R. King, D.D., Chairman of the Foreign Missions Committee of the Synod of Illinois, and the Rev. H. W. Reherd, D.D., Chairman of the Foreign Missions Committee of the Synod of Iowa. Dr. Bradt and his party have visited Syria, India, Siam, Laos and China and expect to visit also the Philippines, Japan and Korea before returning home.

In various Missions during the last few years steps have been taken to promote the efficiency of administration and the more comprehensive and progressive development of the work. In China the China Council, which is a central executive committee representing all the Missions but one, with a chairman, the Rev. J. Walter Lowrie, D.D., nominated by the Council and appointed by the Board, has already proved a great help, and in Brazil, Siam and Laos, India and Japan the Executive Committees of the Missions are filling a larger place. Increased unity of missionary plans, better facilities of travel and communication, enlarged missionary bodies and the conscious need of closer policies and more continual guidance of the work have combined to convince the Board and many Missions of the desirability of a larger measure of field administration. Many of the Missions would welcome the appointment of field secretaries for large areas like China, India and South America.

The Board has continued to pursue in the most earnest manner the policy of co-operation and unity of work on the foreign field, in accordance with its long-recognized principle, as approved by the General Assembly in its action at St. Louis in 1900, ratifying the following action of the Board:

Believing that the time has come for a yet larger measure of union and co-operation in mission work, the Board would ask the General Assembly to approve its course in recommending to its Missions in various lands (in line with the General Assembly's action of 1887, Minutes, p. 23, having in view building up independent national churches holding to the Reformed doctrine and the Presbyterian polity) that they encourage as far as practicable the formation of union churches, in which the results of the mission work of all allied Evangelical Churches should be gathered, and that they observe everywhere the most generous principles of missionary comity; and, further, it is voted that the Board now adopt the statement of policy prepared by its Special Committee on Policy and Methods, and submitted to many of the missionaries and approved by them, as follows:

"In the view of the Board, the object of the Foreign Missionary enterprise is not to perpetuate on the mission field the denominational distinctions of Christendom, but to build up on Scriptural lines and according to Scriptural principles and methods, the kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ. Where Church union cannot be attained, the Board and Missions will seek such divisions of territory as will leave as large districts as possible to the exclusive care and development of separate agencies. It is believed that in other regards also missionary comity should be given large range: (1) Salaries of native workers should be so adjusted among Missions as not to introduce an element of dissatisfaction among the workers of any Mission, or to tempt them away from the Mission with which they are connected. (2) Each Mission and the churches connected therewith should recognize the acts of discipline of other Missions and the churches connected with them. (3) In co-operative educational work, and especially where the schools of one Mission train helpers for other Missions, the latter should render some compensatory service. (4) Printing establishments are in many Missions required by the missionary work. Such should not be unnecessarily duplicated. The printing establishment of one Mission should, if possible, be made to serve the needs of all others in the same territory. (5) A hospital invariably opens wide opportunities for evangelistic work. Until these are properly utilized, it is not judicious or economical to establish other hospitals, the results of whose establishment will be to multiply further unutilized spiritual opportunities. (6) Fellowship and union among native Christians of whatever name should be encouraged in every possible way, with a view to that unity of all disciples for which our Lord prayed, and to which all mission effort should contribute."

Under this policy the Board has joined during the year in new union work in publication in Brazil with the Episcopalians, Southern Methodists and Southern Presbyterians, in Nanking in education in University, Bible School and Medical School with the Methodists, Disciples, Baptists (North and South) and with the Southern Presbyterians, in Hangchow in educational work for girls with Northern Baptists and Southern Presbyterians and in new comity arrangements in evangelistic or educational work with the Berlin Society's Mission in Shantung Province in China and the Baptists in Burmah and Laos. Other plans for co-operative work are under way and will doubtless develop during the coming year. The language of the old hymn, "Like a mighty army moves the Church of God," is being translated into reality on the foreign field, and the Board rejoices in the large part which Presbyterian Missions have had in the movement.

Special effort has been made to overcome the difficulties in the way of getting a complete statistical report from the Missions. As a result, the report of the present year is the most complete and accurate report which it has been possible to present for many years. Various reclassifications and adjustments cut down the figures in some columns, but the number of accessions to the churches continues to be encouraging. This year the additions on the foreign field are greater than the entire church membership of the Synods of Tennessee or Oregon or the combined church membership of the Synods of Idaho, Montana and North Dakota and Utah, or of South Dakota and West Virginia. One difficult problem in the statistical report arises from the fact that in several fields, such as Japan and Brazil, our missionaries do not establish Mission Churches, but contribute all the results of their work to the National Churches already established, which represent the union on the field of various Missions and which are ecclesiastically independent of all outside organizations. For the present we include in the tables one-half of the membership of the independent churches in Japan and Brazil with which we co-operate. Sometime in the future, if such situations increase, it will be necessary to carry out the action of the Board covering such cases, as follows:

The Council made a statement to the Board regarding the difficulty of satisfactory statistical reports in the case of Missions co-operating with independent native churches, especially those which represent a union of different missionary organizations, and it was voted that until the necessity should arise of printing entirely separate statistical reports from such Missions, the statistical table in the Board's Annual Report should include an appropriate fraction of the combined Mission work done in such fields and in connection with such churches, a footnote to be added to explain the situation in such fields.

The Board has been compelled to face the question of some increase of the administrative force to care for the greatly increased work. There is now the same number of executive officers as 25 years ago, and yet the work has more than doubled in volume and intricacy. The Board has the whole problem under consideration for further study, but it is already clear that there should be some underbuilding of the secretarial staff with competent assistance, so as to relieve the Secretaries of as much of the routine as possible and free them for the ever-increasing responsibilities of the administrative work.

One of the great encouragements of the year has been the in-pouring of special gifts through the Women's Boards in commemoration of the Jubilee of Women's Work in Foreign Missions, these gifts almost without exception being designated for definite objects in the way of new property. The year has brought the following contributions on this account from the various Women's Boards:

Philadelphia.....	$75,560 00
New York.....	73,811 00
Northwest.....	44,491 95
Southwest.....	3,687 43

This makes the grand total of Jubilee gifts received from the Women's Boards, $197,550.38. This is only one other evidence of the efficiency, devotion, large-mindedness and loyalty of the women of the Church who are engaged in the work of missions.

On December 1, 1911, Miss Ellen C. Parsons, after twenty-six years of conspicuous service as editor of Woman's Work, retired and returned to her old home in Northampton, Mass. The officers of the Board who have known Miss Parsons in the intimate association of daily work and companionship accept her withdrawal with deep and sincere regret. They have been where they saw constantly her fertility of mind, her eager hunger for true news, her spiritual interest and sympathies, her quick perception of vital things, her single-minded concentration on her work, her missionary character and her whole-hearted consecration to the cause. The work and the Lord of the work have been Miss Parsons' supreme concern, and all small things have fallen into their own place, while the great things of the Kingdom of God and the means of its extension over the earth have stood out as the things that alone matter. Some workers have cross interests which dilute the intensity of their application to this one central task. Not so Miss Parsons. She has had daily living spiritual interests about her, men and women to be drawn to Christ or helped forward in His service, but they have not hidden the far peoples from her, as the far peoples have not hidden the human folk at her side. Christ's service here and the world around have been her one true passion. We are glad to have had the privilege of the long and lovely associations of these years, and we wish our friend Godspeed as she retires to her well-earned rest, which we know will turn out to be only a new form of loving service by friendship and by prayer.

Among the special activities at home of which mention should be made, in addition to the steady promotion of the work by all the home agents and agencies of the Board among the churches and the Sunday-schools in the four districts of the Church covered by the Assistant Secretaries, mention should be made of the work of the Men and Religion Forward Movement and the continued and invaluable activities of the Laymen's Missionary Movement and the Missionary Education Movement. In Dr. Bradt's absence Dr. W. S. Marquis, without expense to the Board, has rendered invaluable service in the Central District. We recognize with gratitude the increasing attention to missions in the International Sunday-school Movement. Every effort has been made in the Home Department work of the Board to forward the plans for united work among the Boards. Since April 1, 1911, the Educational Department has enrolled 1579 Mission Study Classes, with a total of more than 19,000 members. This is a gain of more than 19 per cent. over the record for the preceding year.

The Rev. E. E. Morris, D.D., resigned from the Board on January 1, 1912, and acting under Standing Rule No. 22, General Assembly Minutes, 1911, p. 448²⁶, the Board elected the Rev. William P. Merrill, D.D., pastor of the Brick Church, New York City, to succeed him in the class whose term expires in 1912. Dr. Merrill's two predecessors, Dr. Richards and Dr. Babcock, were both members of the Board. The Board reports the expiration of the terms of office of the following members: the Rev. John Fox, D.D.; the Rev. Cleland B. McAfee, D.D.; the Rev. Charles R. Erdman, D.D.; the Rev. J. H. Jowett, D.D.; the Rev. William P. Merrill, D.D.; Mr. W. P. Stevenson; Mr. Scott Foster; Mr. L. H. Severance, and recommends their re-election to serve for three years in the class of 1912-1915.

The Board has pursued during the year the policy with regard to the use of the Kennedy bequest which had been carefully drafted after consultation with the Missions and which was submitted to the last General Assembly and approved. This policy provided (1) for the immediate expenditure of about one-third of the bequest upon necessary property equipment, healthful homes for missionaries living in trying climatic conditions, schools, land, etc.; (2) for the division of the balance of the bequest into three funds—an Evangelistic Expansion Fund, an Educational Endowment Fund, and a small reserve fund for the banking necessities of the Board. The total amount received thus far under Mr. Kennedy's will is $2,610,000. Of this $920,000 has been appropriated for property; $741,428.57 set aside for the Evangelistic Expansion Fund; $741,428.57 for the Educational Equipment and Endowment Fund, and $207,142.86 for the Reserve Fund. It is proposed to use not only the interest, but also the capital of the Evangelistic Expansion Fund, and some such draft upon the capital is contemplated this year. The amount thus far expended upon property has been applied approximately as follows: Land, $216,654; hospitals, $41,223; missionary residences, $256,532; chapels, $58,225; schools, $273,863; miscellaneous, $51,432; unappropriated, Punjab, $7,133. The portion set aside for the Educational Equipment and Endowment Fund, it will be remembered, was to constitute the nucleus of a larger amount. It was desired that this Fund should be as rapidly as possible increased to $5,000,000. During the past year $51,100 has been added to it by special gifts for endowment and $59,150 has been given for equipment. The thought last year was that $5,000,000 would be needed for endowment and equipment. It will doubtless be made evident that this sum should be raised for endowment alone.

Toward this Educational Endowment Fund the Board has decided to apply henceforth all legacy receipts each year in excess of the sum of $100,000. On April 15, 1912, it took action:

That the Treasurer of the Board be instructed, until otherwise ordered by the Board, henceforth to credit to the Educational Endowment Fund, at the close of each fiscal year, all excess of legacy moneys received for the general uses and purposes of the Board over $100,000, with the understanding that any exceptional legacies which may be received, such as the bequest from Mr. John S. Kennedy, will be considered and disposed of by the Board by special action, and with the further understanding that any specific designation by testators with regard to the use of their bequests will, of course, be rigidly observed by the Board.

And that this resolution be transmitted to the General Assembly through the Standing Committee on Foreign Missions, with the request that the General Assembly approve the policy embodied therein.

This is in accord with views which have been repeatedly pressed upon the Board by friends of the work and by Standing Committees of the General Assembly which from year to year have examined the reports of the Board to the Assembly. It has been urged that legacies are too uncertain and vacillating to be made the basis of appropriations in advance, and that the current work should be supported as far as possible by the donation of living givers and legacies be applied at least in part to permanent support of the work. The following table will show how irregular the legacy receipts have been:

Legacies and Annuities.

1898.....	$75,940 44	1906.....	$91,370 43
1899.....	75,593 94	1907.....	101,317 15
1900.....	62,342 00	1908.....	69,576 77
1901.....	82,111 36	1909.....	124,466 34
1902.....	158,045 90	1910.....	108,086 00
1903.....	164,096 88	1911.....	221,613 64
1904.....	114,671 10	1912.....	175,371 37
1905.....	163,784 66

It has seemed to the Board that $100,000 would be a safe average upon which to figure in making out the budget of the Board, and that for the present it would be wise and right to apply that much from legacy receipts to the maintenance of current work, but that when there are legacy receipts over this amount the excess should be added to the Educational Endowment Fund.

The receipts and expenditures for the past year exceed those of any other year in the Board's history. The total actual receipts from all sources were as follows:

Churches.....	$684,447 45
Women's Boards.....	596,488 39
Sunday-schools.....	76,410 34
Young People's Societies.....	40,451 60
Legacies.....	175,371 37
Miscellaneous Donations.....	276,017 64
Interest on Kennedy Securities.....	102,693 83
Income from securities, rents and miscellaneous credits.....	94,306 57

This total amounts to more than the entire income of the Board for the first twenty-six years of its existence. These receipts, after providing for all the liabilities and expenditures of the year, enabled the Board to extinguish the accumulated deficit of $38,662.49 with which the year began and to add over $50,000 from legacies to the Educational Endowment Fund. The figures as given do not include any part of the Kennedy bequest, whose expenditure is elsewhere reported in this introduction. They do include, however, the Jubilee gifts of the Women's Boards, which were an exceptional offering and which will not, of course, be repeated in the receipts of the new year.

The direct contributions from the churches alone show a decrease as compared with the preceding year of $9,107.88. For the last ten years the receipts from church offerings alone for Foreign Missions and the annual increase or decrease of these receipts has been as follows:

Year.	Amount.	Increase.	Decrease.
1903.....	$349,185 78		$8,253 02
1904.....	366,513 42	$17,327 64
1905.....	412,531 10	46,017 68
1906.....	485,653 71	73,122 61
1907.....	495,776 16	10,122 45
1908.....	586,923 78	91,147 62
1909.....	612,285 49	25,361 71
1910.....	611,360 63		924 86
1911.....	693,555 33	82,194 70
1912.....	684,447 45		9,107 88

It is hoped that this falling off in church offerings is only temporary and that the next year may show a great advance.

The budget of the Board for 1912-13, made out upon the basis of the budgets designated for the Boards by the Budget Committee of the Executive Commission, is as follows:

Support of foreign missionaries.....	$786,753 86
Native work.....	595,134 43
Expenses in the United States, including administration...	130,000 00
New missionaries.....	52,000 00
Reserve to cover slight increase in salaries in China rendered absolutely necessary by new conditions.....	16,000 00
Emergency health returns.....	5,000 00
	$1,584,888 29

This leaves a small margin for distribution and readjustment under the total appropriation approved by the Board for 1912-1913, which is $1,596,000. This is much less than the actual receipts for the past year, but it must be remembered that this included the Woman's Jubilee Gift and also all the special gifts received during the year and appropriated for the objects specified by the donors but not available to meet the regular budget for the year. Such gifts amounted to nearly two hundred thousand dollars.

In the way of prospective income to cover this budget, the Board has counted upon the amounts indicated by the Budget Committee, adding $100,000 from legacies, $100,000 from miscellaneous sources and $85,000 income from the Kennedy securities still in the hands of the Board. The following is the detailed table of estimated receipts:

Churches.....	$762,910 86
Women's Societies.....	416,590 50
Sabbath-schools.....	77,679 27
Young People's Societies.....	43,178 80
Legacies.....	100,000 00
Miscellaneous.....	100,000 00
Kennedy Fund.....	85,000 00

$1,585,359 43

The amount asked for from church offerings in this estimate is an advance of $78,463.41, or 11½% over the receipts from such offerings in 1911-1912. This is less, however, than the actual percentage of increase in the church offerings in 1905, 1906, 1908 and 1911 before the budget system was adopted. Under this system a yet larger increase ought to be possible.

The increased amount asked from the churches for the Board of Foreign Missions is sufficient to meet only in part the absolute necessities of the year. The Board requires $786,753 for the American foreign missionaries alone. This includes their support on the field and the furlough and traveling expenses of those who come back for necessary rest at home after a prolonged stay in trying climates. This amount is $74,505 more than the amount appropriated for the purpose a year ago, in view of the fact that the number of missionaries has increased from 1,030 to 1,082. The Missions require for their native work, in addition to the salaries of the foreign missionaries, $595,134. This is $61,272 more than the preceding year, but it is $68,645 less than the Missions certify in their detailed estimates that they ought to have to carry on their present work with its immediately necessary enlargements. The increased amount for the new year is necessary in view of the fact that the number of native workers has increased from 2,105 on April 1, 1911, to 2,334 on April 1, 1912. The increased cost of living in Asia, which, due to recent economic and political changes, is advancing far more rapidly even than in the United States, necessitates an increased expenditure for the support of old work, and the new opportunities surrounding the Missions on every side demand, without the establishment of any new stations, a far larger increase than the Budget Committee and the Board have dared to propose. The small amount of $61,272 added to the appropriations for native work, in addition to meeting in part the enlarged expense due to increased prices, will provide for the addition in each field of a few preachers, evangelists, colporteurs, teachers and Bible women, the establishment of a few new village schools and the enlargement of the number of pupils in the high schools, colleges and theological seminaries, for some additional Bible training classes, and a little expansion of work in the hospitals and dispensaries, with a considerable increase of the evangelistic itinerating work.

The budget for 1912-13, as given above, while making possible a real advance, is yet entirely inadequate. It provides for only a fraction of the new missionaries urgently needed by the Missions. It leaves unprovided $68,645 asked for by the Missions in the detailed estimates for their native work. It makes no provision for new property, for which the Missions have asked in Class VIII of their estimates for the coming year, $1,084,728.20. It provides for no new stations and for no expansion of the educational work to meet the special critical conditions in lands like China, Korea, Persia, etc. It does not provide for the emergency expenditures which cannot be foreseen at the beginning of the year and it takes no account of the representations from the Missions as to the program of activity which would have to be adopted if we were to begin to care adequately for the discharge of our entire foreign missionary responsibility. Especially is it to be lamented that no special provision could be made for the extraordinary situation now confronting the Church in China. It ought to be possible for the Church, in addition to meeting the requisitions of the regular budget, to take some advance step toward seizing this marvelous opportunity. The immediate needs which should be added to the budget of the Foreign Board on a conservative basis, if the Budget Committee and the Board felt justified in including them in the regular budget for the year, might be tabulated as follows:

Sixty additional new missionaries.....	$52,000 00
Additional asked for present native work, schools, evangelists, hospitals, etc.....	68,645 00
One-quarter of the new property needed immediately.....	271,182 05
Toward meeting present educational emergencies.....	300,000 00
Normal emergency necessities.....	25,000 00
Additional special emergency fund for China.....	100,000 00
	$816,827 05

Although it is impossible to add such a total to the budget for the year, it is clearly incumbent upon the Church to do something in a special way to meet the situation in China. "The whole world is agreed in recognizing in the transformation of China one of the greatest movements in human history. Whether we consider the immensity of the population affected, the character of the change that is taking place, the magnitude of the interests which are involved, the comparative peacefulness of the crisis or the significance of the fact that a great and ancient race is undergoing in the period of a decade a radical intellectual and spiritual readjustment, it is evident that it is given to us to witness and have part in a vast movement whose consequences will affect the whole world and be unending."

China looks to the churches of the United States as to no other friends throughout the world for help in this time of need, and if the Church only rises to her opportunity she can give now a stamp to the character of the Chinese Republic and to the whole future educational system of China which will affect the future not of China only, but also of the world. Such an evangelistic opportunity, moreover, as is now presented, has no precedent in history.

The China Missions have asked for 67 new missionaries for the year 1912-13, of whom the Board has been able to provide under its budget for only 15. It has asked also, in careful detailed estimates, for property amounting to $304,775. It is calling also for immediate help for Christian schools, colleges and universities, and for the enlargement of its native evangelistic force. This appeal must not go unheeded by the Church.

The Board rejoices in the efficient and harmonious work done during the year through the combined efforts of the Executive Commission and the Joint Executive Committee of the Boards and the Commission. The budget plan and the co-operative effort of the Boards have marked a distinct advance. There is still much room for progress. There are many churches which have not adopted any plan of systematic giving. There are others which have adopted such plans, but have trusted to their plans without adequate educational effort in behalf of each cause of the Church. There are many which have accepted the apportionment schedule as a maximum or a statement of full duty, whereas it is only a minimum beyond which the churches must advance with courageous and heroic sacrifice if the work that presses upon us is to be done.

This work in the foreign field now stands out in far clearer outline and with sharper and more definite presentation of its pressing needs. The dimensions of our duty begin at last to come into view. In earlier years the whole enterprise was in its experimental stage. The field, both of missionary conditions and of missionary problems, was largely unexplored. The resources of the Church were small and the character of the missionary enterprise as an enterprise of isolated bodies of Christians and not as the co-operative undertaking of the entire Christian Church prevented the localization and definition of responsibility. We are standing now, however, at the beginning of a new day. The views which our Missions are taking of their own distinct responsibilities and the reports which they have made thereon to the Board, the missionary conventions of the last ten years within our own Church, the consideration of missionary duty which has been the chief characteristic of inter-Church relations in America, and the ideas which found expression and confirmation in the Edinburgh Conference, and the movings of the Divine Providence in the political life of the world and in the religious changes among the non-Christian peoples, have all put us in a position where we are called upon to embrace in our missionary policy more adequate, more far-reaching, more courageous elements.

Let us speak of three larger elements of our missionary policy:

1. First of all, and as fundamental, we must continue to seek to broaden and solidify the base of missionary support resting on the whole Church. This was the view which the late John H. Converse was ever pressing upon us. He was a giver of large special gifts to the cause, and believed that Christian men of wealth should give on a new scale to Foreign Missions; but he held that, whatever might be done in these directions, our primary effort should be to lay out upon the whole Church the base of missionary support in a way that would yield an adequate and continuous income.

We need to keep this clearly in view as our dominant purpose, and not to allow it ever to be confused with the methods or practices by which at any particular time we seek to realize it. There have been times when there has been danger of our making this confusion and of our tying ourselves too limitedly to a particular method. The support of individual missionaries, the parish abroad, the Omaha Standard, budget plans, systematic beneficence, proportionate giving—these are only methods, not ends. The list of such methods will have to be constantly increased. We should be prepared to deal with them all with freedom and boldness, and we must be ingenious with new plans. But the central thing is not any plan, but an enlarged and adequate base of support upon the whole Church.

And we are able now to define to ourselves in a measure how broad this base should be. The Omaha Convention in 1907 helped us to clearer ideas upon this. What was done there was not a thing premeditated or worked up. When we went to Omaha we did not know what we were going into.

Something came down upon us there, and no one who was there can doubt that it came down from above. Under that influence it seemed entirely reasonable, and it seemed obligatory that we should plan for as many foreign missionaries and for as large a support of their work as the missionaries on the field and our own Missions, acting deliberately and in great gatherings like the Shanghai and Madras Missionary Conferences, reckoned would have to be provided in order to compass our missionary responsibility. That program called for a total foreign missionary force of 4,000 and annual contributions for the maintenance of such a force of $6,000,000. At that time this involved a fivefold increase of missionaries and income, and an average contribution per church member of $5 per annum. That it was no chimerical project is shown by the fact that already we have made such an advance that we need now only a fourfold increase, while the increased church membership has diminished the average contribution required.

There have been those who have shrunk from stating so definitely as this the measure of our missionary duty, but the chief ground of misgiving, it seems to us, is not the magnitude of the program as a whole, but the pettiness of the average duty which it lays on the Church. The only real ground for misgiving we have kept constantly in mind, namely, the danger of reducing a spiritual enterprise to a mathematical problem. We have constantly reminded ourselves and all those with whom we have been associated of the tentative character of all such calculations. We believe firmly that if once our Church demonstrates its purpose to obey the last command of Christ, and lays itself in line with the conditions of power prescribed by our Lord in the Great Commission, as recorded in the last chapter of Matthew, spiritual resources will be opened for us and tides of spiritual power will break in upon us which will upheave all our calculations and deluge our mathematics with the mighty working of God. But the indispensable condition of such an era must be the deliberate and resolute purpose of the Church to deal adequately with our missionary duty as a duty resting upon and to be borne by the whole Church.

2. The second of our larger elements of missionary policy must be the provision of the fund required to provide the Missions with the necessary equipment for activities commensurate with our task. Our Missions need at the present time new property to the amount of $3,000,000 beyond all that was provided from the Kennedy bequest. The estimates which they have sent in in reply to the Board's request for information as to their needs called for this amount in specific detailed items. Accordingly, this is not a mere guess, and the Missions' requisitions are not artificially worked up. The residences, schools, hospitals, chapels and land called for by these estimates are imperatively needed. We have now 162 stations, so that the average amount called for by the stations is $20,000, which would build only a small school building in the United States, whereas the regular normal Mission station in Asia needs to be equipped with residences, boys' and girls' schools, hospital, chapels and other buildings. To provide the property that will be necessary for an increased staff of 4,000 missionaries, will call, it is estimated, for $12,000,000 more. We have now on the foreign field property valued at approximately $4,000,000. $15,000,000 is a conservative sum to set before us as the amount that needs to be added if we are to have an equipment measurably adequate to the work that is to be done.

3. The third need that we should hold in view is the Educational Equipment and Endowment Fund already referred to. The Board has an immense educational enterprise. It is far and away the greatest educational enterprise connected with the Presbyterian Church. According to a statement issued by the Board two years ago, there were in connection with the Board 14 colleges and universities, 9 theological seminaries, 6 medical schools and colleges, 5 nurses' training schools, 6 normal schools, 35 high schools and academies, 61 boarding schools, many of which should be ranked as high schools, and hundreds of day-schools. Apart from the salaries of missionaries, this entire educational work cost the Board last year $186,382.92. There is no more urgent need than the enlargement and adequate maintenance of this work, whose object is the raising up of Christian leaders. It was with this conviction that it was voted by the Board and endorsed by the Assembly to seek to raise a fund of $5,000,000, to be known as the Educational Equipment and Endowment Fund. The reasons for such an effort are convincing:

1. The importance of the work of raising up Christian leaders in the various Mission fields, and the necessity of strengthening and increasing the institutions necessary for this purpose.

2. The inadequacy of the provision which it is possible for the Board to make out of its current receipts for the support of educational work.

3. The desirability of providing for the educational work on a more permanent basis, and at the same time of releasing as large a portion of the current receipts of the Board as possible for use in the direct evangelistic work.

4. Such a fund would make it possible for the Board to administer directly and adequately all the educational institutions in our foreign missions without the creation of independent Boards or Trustees.

5. It would exempt the home Church from all special appeals in behalf of educational institutions abroad.

6. It would make possible a flexible use of the gifts for such work without attaching them to local institutions which will sooner or later be passed over to native control. Through the agency of such a special fund, the support of educational work could be moved from field to field as conditions altered, and would remain in the control of the home Church.

7. It would enable the Board to hold all higher education on the Mission field true to the direct missionary purpose and in integral connection with the evangelistic spirit and aim of all missionary work.

Here, again, one's only ground of hesitation is not the largeness but the smallness of the amount specified. In a recent Annual Report, the President of Columbia University reports that the University owns property amounting to $42,871,774, of which $28,519,930 are invested funds. President Butler closed his report with a statement of further immediate needs, some of which he characterized as "desperate," calling for $11,000,000, including an endowment fund for the Engineering Schools of $2,500,000, which is half of the entire fund proposed by the Board, and an endowment for the Columbia University Press alone of $1,000,000. The recent Acting Chancellor of the New York University, in his report, asked for a $10,000,000 endowment for that University. Over against proposals like these, our project is so modest as to seem inconsiderable, and yet with a few hundred thousand dollars at our disposal for the establishment of a Christian College at Teheran, or at Bangkok, or for the Shantung or Nanking University, we would make a greater contribution to these lands than $10,000,000 given to Columbia or the New York University would enable either of them to make to America. Whatever other transformations may pass over the missionary enterprise within the next few years, it is certain that our responsibilities for Christian education in the Mission fields will be only intensified. This educational fund, which should not stop at $5,000,000, should be another conspicuous element in our policy.

We have spoken of three of the larger elements of our missionary policy, but, after all, these things do not constitute our aim or purpose. They are only devices, projects, toward the accomplishment of that which is our real policy, namely, the naturalization, the domestication of Christianity in each of our Mission fields as an indigenous power, a native institution. The growth of native agencies, once they have really begun powerfully to grow, will modify all calculations as to the number of foreign missionaries required. We must feel the burden of world need and responsibility far more heavily than we have ever felt it. We must lay out our projects with a far bolder and more daring faith. At the same time, the dominating principle of our mission policy is the creation of native Churches which are to bear the chief burden of evangelization, and we must not allow the slow development of such a Church in lands like India, where Protestant Missions have been at work for more than a century, or the vast masses of the unevangelized population still unreached in lands where independent native Churches have been established, as in Japan, with its 85% of untouched village people, to obscure our aim. All our plans for expansion need to be carried through with purposes facile and sensitive to the development of national Churches and the sense of national missionary responsibility on the part of these Churches.

And even conceived as means or agencies, these three elements of our missionary policy of which we have been speaking must not obscure the central and indispensable means. It is here that our primary and fundamental need lies, namely, an increase of the reality and volume of our spiritual resources. A world emergency is upon us, freighted with world responsibilities. Have we the spiritual resources capable of meeting this emergency and of coping with this responsibility? The way to answer that question is not to investigate, but to invest; not to sit down at home to scrutinize our spiritual character and possessions, but to rise up and go forth to our world work. It is with this view that some men who otherwise might be wishing to give their lives to the spiritual vivification of the Church at home are drawn instead to pour themselves into the missionary enterprise, because they realize that it is through devotion to the missionary enterprise alone that those spiritual resources are to be placed at the Church's disposal, without which she cannot fulfill her missionary task at home or abroad. When we try to lay out an adequate policy, not only do we do the thing that is obviously our duty with regard to our world task, but we also make a great contribution to the spiritual vitality of the Church and to that enlargement of her spiritual resources essential to the discharge of the Church's duty at home as well as throughout the world.

Now, as we begin the last quarter of the century of our Church's missionary activity, shall we not give ourselves more earnestly to prayer, and form our plans with courage and adequacy, as men who believe in a living God and who know that their God is sufficient for them and for the world-work which He has committed to them?

In behalf of the Board,

ROBERT E. SPEER.

BENITO: 77 miles north of Baraka; occupied as a Station, 1864. Missionaries—Rev. J. S. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, Dr. O. H. Pinney and Mrs. Pinney, Rev. John Wright and Mrs. Wright.

BATANGA: 170 miles north of Baraka, on the coast; occupied as a Station, 1885. Missionaries—Mr. A. G. Adams and Mrs. Adams, Rev. Albert I. Good, Mrs. A. C. Good, Rev. F. D. P. Hickman, Mr. A. A. Hoisington and Mrs. Hoisington, Rev. J. G. Sutz and Mrs. Sutz.

EFULEN: 57 miles east of Batanga, behind the coast belt, and 180 miles northeast of Baraka; occupied 1893. Missionaries—Rev. L. D. Heminger and Mrs. Heminger, Rev. Jacob A. Reis, Jr., Dr. H. L. Weber and Mrs. Weber, Rev. F. A. Wyckoff and Mrs. Wyckoff, Miss Elizabeth Christie.

ELAT: 56 miles east of Efulen and 195 miles northeast of Baraka; occupied as a Station, 1895. Missionaries—Mrs. C. W. McCleary, Mr. A. N. Krug and Mrs. Krug, Rev. Wm. M. Dager and Mrs. Dager, Rev. M. Fraser, Mr. F. H. Hope and Mrs. Hope, Mr. H. W. Grieg, Rev. W. C. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston, Mr. George Schwab and Mrs. Schwab, Miss Verna E. Eick, Rev. Fred. W. Neal.

MACLEAN MEMORIAL STATION: at Lolodorf, headquarters of the German Government in the Ngumba country, 70 miles northeast of Batanga and 210 miles northeast of Baraka; occupied as a Station in 1897. Missionaries—Mr. R. B. Hummel and Mrs. Hummel, Dr. W. S. Lehman and Mrs. Lehman, Mr. A. B. Patterson and Mrs. Patterson, Rev. F. O. Emerson and Mrs. Emerson, Miss Mildred Harting, Miss Jean Mackenzie.

METET: 73.5 miles northeast of Elat; opened 1909. Missionaries—Dr. Silas F. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, Rev. G. C. Beanland, Rev. D. Coe Love and Mrs. Love, Rev. R. H. Evans.

TRANSFERS: Rev. F. O. Emerson and Mrs. Emerson and Miss Mackenzie, from Efulen to MacLean; Rev. R. H. Evans, from MacLean to Metet; Rev. W. C. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston, Mr. George Schwab and Mrs. Schwab, from MacLean to Elat.

RESIGNATIONS: Dr. O. A. Hansen and Mrs. Hansen, Mr. C. H. Funk, Rev. E. A. Ford and Mrs. Ford.

FURLOUGHS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. W. M. Dager and Mrs. Dager, Mr. A. N. Krug and Mrs. Krug, Mrs. W. C. Johnston, Rev. J. S. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, Dr. H. L. Weber and Mrs. Weber, Mr. Fred

Hope, Miss Jean Mackenzie, Rev. Jacob A. Reis, Dr. W. S. Lehman and Mrs. Lehman, Mr. A. G. Adams and Mrs. Adams, Mr. R. B. Hummel and Mrs. Hummel.

The year closing has been marked by more confessions of Jesus Christ, more additions to the churches, more itinerant evangelistic work by both missionaries and natives, more village schools conducted, more opportunities beckoning, more wrestling in prayer, more competition and opposition, more new missionaries coming, more tangible and commanding reasons to thank God and move forward, than usual.

The members of the Mission clearly recognize that the time of opportunity and crisis is on, and that the rapid recent spread of Hausa people of the Mohammedan faith, the aggressive enterprise of European commercial agencies, the readiness and spiritual destitution of the multitudes untouched by any missionary influence, the certain passing of the old-time type of heathenism to whatever faith or force comes first, to say nothing of our Lord's commission, carries a clear call to move forward and take the goodly land before it shall soon be too late. Quite less than a decade's delay may easily mean lasting loss of evangelical prestige in a strategic region toward the heart of the once Dark Continent.

BENITO STATION.

Including the Work in the Gaboon.

The work at Benito received an unexpected setback at the very outset by the action of the temporary governor at Fernando Po, of which we learned on our way home from Mission meeting, closing all the Protestant schools, on the ground of the unfavorable reply made by the home government a few years ago to the request from the Primitive Methodist Mission at Fernando Po.

The arrival, later in the year, of the new governor-general, Señor Barrera, afforded an opportunity, of which we availed ourselves, to send him a petition for authority to continue our school work, not only at Benito, but at other points on the coast. There was no serious interruption during the year.

The Gaboon field has received such care as it was possible for Mr. Ford to give without interfering too much with the needs of the Station and the direction of the Benito school, in which he was assisted by Mrs. Ford and the Benga helper, Balevakwe.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The church services have been regularly held, the preaching being sometimes by a missionary, sometimes by one of the theological students. The attendance has been moderately good. Sunday-school has suffered from irregularity of teachers in attending the weekly teachers' class taught by a missionary.

Preaching services have also been regularly held at Melega, south of the river, by elders living there, and other villages have been visited frequently by members of the theological class.

Out-Stations.—

Myuma Church, just south of Campo, is under the care of Elder Meko, supporting him and another Bible reader.

Evune Church, under the pastorate of Mbula Ngubi, reports 33 additions and contributes the entire support of the pastor and three helpers.

Bata Church has contributed this year $232 for all purposes, including salary of Licentiate Epuwa and Elder Mekobi and the support of two preaching places, also building a chapel some miles north of Bata.

Hanji Church.—Besides preaching and pastoral work at Hanji, Rev. F. Myongo goes frequently to Nume, four miles distant, where services are conducted during the interval by an elder.

Corisco Church.—Rev. Bodumba Ibia, in addition to the pastoral care of the church on Corisco Island, has held communion service at Ndombo and gathered a little school of 10 boys.

Ndombo Church.—At Ndombo, on the mainland opposite Corisco, Elder Ikika is working as an evangelist among the shekiani, amid many discouragements, one of them being the defection to the Roman Catholics of some who complained of the introduction of a collection into the Sunday services.

EDUCATIONAL.—

The Station school was opened February 1, and by the 1st of March there were 60 boys and 27 girls, all boarding pupils. Later, school was depleted somewhat by some of the newer Fang boys' running away and others of Evune withdrawing.

In addition to Spanish, the older scholars had training in reading the Benga Bible, and more than 40, including 6 Fang, were in the catechumen class.

Some of the Kombe youth are asking for industrial training, and show an aptitude to make the most of whatever ability or opportunity they possess.

MEDICAL.—

In the absence of Dr. Pinney, Dr. Hansen cared for the medical work while with us, using the boys' vacant dormitory during five months' suspension of school as a surgical room.

BARAKA STATION.

The first-fruits of the work of recent years are just beginning to appear, and if we do not fail to provide them with training in Christian work, we may hope to see others taking up the responsibility as the older ones pass away. The first young man in many years to confess Christ is Joseph Lewis, our teacher, who gives promise of a useful life, if God spares him.

But the cheering thing about the church is that the maintenance of its services and activities has helped to develop in the members a degree of self-reliance greater than they had supposed to be possible. The offerings for the past twelve months amounted to $99.86 and those of the Women's Missionary Society were $20.69.

The school has been faithfully and successfully conducted by Joseph Lewis, aided by his mother as matron to the girls, and has gained the confidence of the people to a remarkable extent, so that applications for admission have been more than we felt it wise to accept. The 12 girls and 5 boys who were left as boarding scholars when the missionaries were withdrawn have gradually increased to 21 girls and 9 boys, and there are 30 day-scholars, of whom 25 are quite regular in attendance. $61.34 have been received from tuition, and the boys, though few and small, have done work worth fully $50 on the Station grounds.

Fang Work.—

This is the part of our work which has suffered the most from the absence of the missionaries. In January all four catechists were brought to Baraka for ten days' Bible instruction. But on account of the sickness of one and the unworthiness of two, these three were laid aside, and the blind catechist, Robert Boardman, is now the only one at work in that large and needy field. He has done good work.

After the closing of Angom, Etuga Minaña, the blind man of Sizakang, was persuaded to accept baptism at the hands of the Roman Catholic priest, but, realizing the mistake, he has returned to the former fold.

Communions have been held from one to three times each in seven of the twelve principal centres of the membership of the Ayol Church.

The school work has been practically nothing.

The lack of catechists to give instruction where inquirers are needing it makes constant visitation by a missionary all the more necessary, to say nothing of advance evangelization, of which there is much need in the Gaboon River and its tributaries; while in the region east and north-east there is a large population, and the whole district north from the Gaboon to the Muni River and the large extent of the different branches of the Muni and the district of the Woleu-Ntem have never been visited by a Protestant missionary.

While anchored in the river, the "Dorothy" lost her rudder and the propeller shaft was so loosened that she was leaking badly and much damage was done by the water, but repairs and change of anchorage have put her into shape for use another year or two, we hope. But this work can scarcely be done by one man in the brief time of the quarterly visit made for the supervision of the entire field and holding the communions.

BATANGA STATION.

The tremendous growth of the work along educational and industrial lines in the Kamerun Interior has, in spite of the fact that Station stores no longer exist, caused a large increase in the amount of goods and material to be received at Batanga and reshipped by carriers to the Interior. A great addition to the Station, one long needed and now much appreciated, is in the person of Mr. Hoisington as caravan man, by whose arrival the needs and expectations have been fully met.

Another feature at Batanga is the entertainment of missionaries constantly passing from or on their way to the home-land.

EVANGELISTIC.—

Kribi Church, with its eight places of regular worship and preaching outside of Kribi itself, has a membership of 380, a gain during the year of 27. The additions to the catechumen class number 40, making a total of 200. Both in the church and the class, the majority of additions are of the Mabea people. Owing to the large territory over which the work is scattered, besides the regular communion services at Kribi, pastor Eduma holds communion for the Mabea people at Makawom and at Lokunje, 26 miles north of Kribi, for the Christians in that region. Regularly paid evangelists are kept at five points and regular services are held every Sunday at nine points. The people of Longji have erected recently a new house of perhaps 50 marks' value for their Bible reader, material and labor for which has been contributed by the people without drawing on church funds. Likewise at Polongwe the church building has been moved nearer to the main road and entirely rebuilt, and is now one of the neatest little church buildings in the district. This was also done without drawing on church funds. The total collections of the Kribi Church are $442, of which amount the Mabea people contributed about 50 per cent.

The Batanga Church has a total membership of 477, a gain of 46 over last year. The membership of the catechumen class is about 95, of whom 85 new persons have been added during the year. Probably 85 per cent. of the additions to the church are Mabea, showing that the hitherto unreached Mabea people flanking Batanga are coming. Regular preaching services are held at seven points, and five paid evangelists are in the employ of the church. Rev. Ndenga Pipa is the stated supply of the church, and the contributions have been $428. The Bongahele Church has been newly painted, and the finances are in good condition, the church having a credit balance of $72.

Ubenji Church has a total membership of 171. The church supports two evangelists, one at Ubenji in the absence of a regular pastor, the other at Bongola on the Campo (Ntem) River in the midst of a large and hopeful field. The class membership is about 130, of whom about 30 are new additions during the year. The Ubenji Church has replaced the pastor's old house with a fine new one on posts, valuation perhaps $90, of which amount about one-half was contributed in labor and material. The church has also undertaken to paint their building. By reason of these two items, the church closes the year in debt, but in healthy condition.

The summary of evangelistic conditions may be stated thus: The work among the strictly coast tribes shows no real progress, losses and gains being about equal. What gains are to be reported are on the side of the Mabea people, many of whom are coming in. Still, in this work, the first flush of enthusiasm is possibly beginning to die away, and the percentage of gain among them will probably decrease slowly to a normal rate. The unsteady growth is partly due to lack of proper care.

We are exceedingly glad to report that one Mabea young man has been led to decide for the ministry.

EDUCATIONAL.—

One term of Station school has been held, with an enrollment of 165. Tuition receipts from Station school have been $89 and school-boy work on the premises has been worth $50. By the energetic work of Mr. Funk, practically every boy in the Station school has been contracted for from three to five years, the majority before the governor at Kribi, thus insuring continuity of attendance. Four young men successfully passed the examination in March, thus entitling them to the position of graduate teachers—all contracted.

Ten village schools have been held for one term, averaging 21; nine for second term, averaging 20.

The Girls' School is one of the encouraging features of the work at Batanga. A term of fourteen weeks was held with about 60 as total enrollment, and a day-school for ten weeks with an enrollment of 71. The outlook for the Girls' School grows brighter each year.

EFULEN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The church has received 65 members on confession of faith, making the total membership 274. There have been 160 advanced to the Nsamba, or catechumen class, making the total in that class 264. There have been 675 persons placed on the roll of the Esulan, or first catechumen class, making the enrollment of this class 1,260. The inquirers of the two classes under instruction for church membership, 1,524.

In addition to this number there are several hundred others, of whom a strict record has not been kept, who have come to the missionaries or the elders of the church expressing a desire and purpose to become Christians, and have been sent to their homes to straighten up their past offenses and to come again to have their names placed on the roll as inquirers. These Christians and inquirers are scattered over a territory within a radius of about 40 miles about Efulen. This means that on the first Sunday of the month, when the people gather to make their monthly offering, many of them have walked two or three days in order to be at church. Some of our people actually spend about one-fourth of their time attending church. This may be praiseworthy for them, for it does show an earnest spirit, but certainly "we missionaries can take no praise for a system that takes hundreds of women away from their homes for a week or more out of the month and leaves their unbelieving husbands to complain of hunger and the hardships of Christianity."

A little has been done to give these people the Gospel in their own neighborhoods. The young men teaching the village schools are always Christians. Where it has been possible to find a suitable man, a teacher and an evangelist have been placed together. This plan is fairly satisfactory, but the supply of suitable young men who are not in school is very limited. This lack is one of our weak places in the work. Ministers we certainly need, but we can not hope to place ministers in these numerous places for years to come, and Efulen Church could place and care for 20 men as evangelists to-day, if we only had them.

In April 14 young men were sent out to preach and teach the people in different districts, but they were all in school and could spend only their three weeks' vacation in the work. During these three weeks over 200 persons expressed a desire to become Christians, and the stock of discarded fetishes brought in by the boys attested the sincerity of that desire. Then from these places came urgent calls for evangelists, and we had none to send them. But during the present two months' vacation there were 19 young men out preaching in the different communities.

The people who come in from these distant places are not, as a rule, ignorant. They continually surprise us by what they know. They do not spend a week out of the month going to church for nothing. When the people come together the first Sunday of the month, they talk over and discuss intelligently what they have been taught. They are furnished lodging, but they bring their own food to these monthly gatherings at the Station. They get nothing from the missionaries but instruction, and that seems to be what they are after. They are not a couple of thousand of people out for a holiday, but they are there for food—for something to take back with them to their people—for the majority of them are Christian workers.

The offerings for the year have been $407. This is not a high rate of giving per capita, but money is scarce with these people off the main road, and some of the old women have to stir themselves to get even their five pfennigs for the collection basket.

The number of village schools during the months of December and January was reduced from 18 to 12 for lack of competent teachers. These 12 came back with good reports of their work in school as well as the Christian work done by the evangelists associated with them. At the close of the last Station school, calls came in from town after town for a teacher and a school. Boys wanted to buy charts and teach in their own towns. Women came and bought packets of letters to have a boy of their own town teach them to read. There are at present 17 village schools, and the average attendance last term was 38.

The Station school has taken a stride forward. During the last two terms the curriculum used by the German government in the schools of the colony has been introduced and is now being used. Five of the class of six young men were graduated the latter part of June. This class passed their examinations with an average of 75 or above, 75 being the passing average. Two of these five are contract teachers and will help to supply a pressing need along that line. The three graduates of a year ago have been doing excellent work as teachers, even when in several cases they were left alone with the school. But for proper work they still need the supervision and care of a white man to prepare them for their classes. While doing their work as teachers, they have also taken the review of subjects and advanced work in order to be up with the coming classes.

The average attendance of Station school has been 275. Both Station and village schools have been self-supporting. There have been 50 odd boys as boarders each term. These have earned their food in caring for the premises and the extensive gardens about the Station.

But most important of all, there has been in the school a good Christian atmosphere, and the greater part of the boys go out to exert a good wholesome Christian influence on the communities they represent.

The Girls' School has had three terms synchronous with the Boys' School. The girls themselves do not realize the need of school, and there has been a disposition on the part of fathers and mothers to keep the girls out of school on the ground that it interferes with an early marriage, and this has combined with the mothers' desire to have them help in the work at home.

The girls have worked in the garden in the mornings, raising peanuts, ngon, plantains and cassava, and their work has been profitable. They have been taught sewing besides their regular school work. The greatest stress has been laid on teaching the girls to read and write in Bulu. Stress has also been laid on the committing Scriptures to memory.

MEDICAL.—

There has been no doctor at Efulen this year, and no hospital patients have been taken. But the dispensary has been kept open, and the people have appreciated the help received in this way. Cash receipt for sale of medicines has been $172.

The Spirit of God seems to be brooding over the land, and the field is wonderfully ripe for the harvest. On Sunday, July 30, the Session examined and enrolled 124 persons as catechumens. We realize that with the large blessings come large responsibilities.

ELAT STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The influence of Elat extends 150 miles to the east and from 20 to 50 miles in other directions. Our people come from all parts of this extensive district, and our aim should be to establish as soon as possible centres of evangelistic work which would relieve the congestion at Elat, better provide for the work and relieve the people wanting to be Christians of the necessity of long trips of several days to attend services.

The average Sabbath-school attendance has been 1,437 and the average at preaching services has been 1,750. The number present at the four communion services was: October, 3,610; January, 4,000; April, 5,190, and July, 4,387—an average for communion Sundays of 4,292. The largest attendance was on conference Sunday, November 6, when 5,745 were present, several hundred of whom were on the outside.

The unique problem of having difficulty in dealing with converts because the number is so great, has been constantly with us. Without the aid of the 10 student pastoral assistants, the work would have been impossible. Everyone was dealt with personally by one of these men before coming to the minister in charge for enrollment. Collection Sundays and especially communion Sundays are strenuous days for all who have a share in this work. At the last communion season, Ovamba was sent to Mejap Mebae to look up those in that district to be received into the church or into the advanced inquiry class as well or to deal with new inquirers. A few days later he wrote: "The work here is large. I have much to do. The people keep coming to me in crowds and I have not time to take my meals." Other workers have had the same stress. The work, however, is regarded by all as a privilege, for as a result of it 3,000 have been this year enrolled as inquirers.

We have also carefully examined and placed in the advanced class 616. The large number advanced at each communion has required several days' work, during which meetings are held morning and afternoon for the instruction of all who have been called for the examination.

On confession of faith 180 have been received into the church. New elders have been ordained and installed and there are now 12 of them in the session.

Mr. Krug's inspection of village schools has afforded opportunity for a number of evangelistic services.

On most of the Sabbaths, Mr. Fraser held services in the villages within a radius of 8 to 10 miles from Elat. He also made three evangelistic trips: first, to the Ja River, 190 miles east of Elat; second, to the Yebekola country, 100 miles north of east of Metet; and, third, through the Ntum country, south of Elat and Efulen. The three trips aggregated 71 days.

Mr. Dager's trip to Molondo and the eastern border of the Kamerun colony occupied 72 days, reaching, with the assistance of six evangelists, many people to whom the Gospel was a strange and absolutely new recital.

One of our Christian women expressed the mind of many when she said: "I have become a Christian and the women of my town look to me to tell them of Christianity. I have not been taught and can only live as best I can and tell the little bit I know, and so I entreat you to send us an evangelist." To meet such needs as these, 14 school-boys, evangelists, were sent out during vacation in April and May. Another group of 32 were sent out the first of July. This work is producing results. Converts are coming in. One Saturday 26 came from 80 miles east of Elat, sent in by one of these boys.

The German government recently began the work of segregating the lepers of the colony. The government physician at Ebolowo'e invited the Mission to establish work, religious and educational, among them. An evangelist was at once sent, who holds regular Sabbath services and visits them at other times. A score or more have already confessed Christ.

One result of the conference, noted in last year's report, was the decision of three men from a village near Elat to leave their homes and settle at a place 60 miles from Elat where the Gospel was not known. A school was at once asked, and by the united efforts of school and these evangelists living among a distant tribe for the sake of the Gospel, 40 have been enrolled as inquirers. Others who have confessed, but who have not yet met the requirements for enrollment, would make the number influenced for Christ in less than six months to be about 100.

EDUCATIONAL.—Frank James Industrial School.—

A RECENT GATHERING ON EFULEN HILL ON A COMMUNION SUNDAY.

The gross receipts of the school have been about Marks 10,000. The traders and government officials as well as the missionaries are continually clamoring for a larger output. One man, while paying Marks 500 for chairs, said: "You ought to put 50 more boys on at this work. If you had 50 chairs now I would buy them all." Within the last few months two firms, one at Rio del Rey and the other at Duala, have written requesting the agency for our products in their section of the country. The sub-governor of Ebolowo'a (the district in which Elat is situated), took four of our chairs home with him to Germany. He requested and gained permission of the Colonial Department to put them on exhibition at the Colonial Exhibit in Hamburg this last summer.

The school might be increased several times its present size without having the least trouble about finding a market for all of the products and without trouble finding the apprentices. This has been convincingly proven by the requests for the products of the school and by the number of boys who have been seeking admittance to the classes. But because of the lack of a teaching force and of adequate accommodations only eight boys have been taken into the classes during the past year, all other applicants being forced to wait till more roomy quarters are supplied to the school.

At the beginning of the year there were 16 apprentices in the Carpenter Class. Three of these have graduated and have been put to work at other Mission Stations, two going to MacLean and one to Metet. All three of the boys are giving satisfaction and are highly spoken of. Only one boy has been dismissed and that for polygamy. He has been working for a trader ever since at rough carpenter work and has been giving entire satisfaction as far as work is concerned.

There were eleven in the Tailor Class at the first of the year. Two have graduated, but because of the number of orders on hand they were hired and kept in the shop. They are both doing good work and continually improving. This class not only make clothes for the natives, but also for the traders and missionaries who have begun recently, when they are preparing for their furloughs, to order wool suits and overcoats for use at home.

The Kamerun Chair Class, consisting of nine boys at the first of the year, has increased its numbers by the addition of eight boys, while only five have finished their apprenticeship. Of those who have finished only one has gone to his town; another, after working for the class on a salary for a few months, started to work for a factory man and is giving good service. The other three graduated very recently and are still working in the class on a small salary, it being the policy of the school, if possible, to give the boys employment at the close of their terms till such time as it is possible to place them in good positions.

The school is doing a big work for the young men and for the future of the Southern Kamerun, but it is still in every respect pitifully inadequate to the demands put upon it and is falling far short of its possibilities and even its present responsibilities. A boy by putting in his full apprenticeship is able in three years to triple or quadruple his earning capacity and to gain an honored position among his people, recognized both by black and white.

One of our graduates of three years ago went back to Melundo, and, after working for the government for a time, went to the Sud-Kamerun Company, the largest trading firm in the Kamerun, and is still working for them as headman over a gang of a dozen or more carpenters gathered from many parts of the country. The report reached us recently that the white man in charge had said that our graduate was superior both in his skill at the trade and in his character as a man.

Station School.—The total average enrollment for the three terms of the Station school was 622 boys and 64 girls. The outlook for the Girls' School grows brighter each year.

Leper School.—The Leper school was opened at the time the Station school began. There was no lack of volunteers to act as teachers, so one of our trained teachers and another as assistant were installed in that capacity. An eager response was the result, for the isolated people were most glad of this diversion. Forty-two were enrolled, all ages, sizes and different stages of the disease being represented in the enrollment. A few had had some school work previous to their isolation, and all made progress in the work. Slates, pencils and books were furnished them and reserved in a special place accessible to each one. The teacher's desk was removed at a distance sufficient to protect him and yet afford his instruction to all. We desire to replace the present improvised building by a schoolhouse properly equipped and furnished. The government is in coöperation with us in this work. $100 has been given through one of the missionaries, but this is not sufficient.

Theological Class.—This class consists of students from Efulen, Elat and Lolodorf. The large church work at Elat has furnished them with practical work as pastoral assistants. They have this year been instructed in Church History, Homiletics and Catechism, following the course outlined by Presbytery.

Village Schools.—There have been two terms of village schools as follows: First, 46 schools for seven weeks, with a total enrollment of 3,760, being an average of 81 pupils per school. The amount of tuition received was 1,870 marks. The second, 50 schools for six weeks, with a total enrollment of 4,394, an average of 87 to a school. The amount of tuition received was 2,141.70 marks.

The teaching in the village schools is done by teachers who have been under Mr. McCleary's training. They do as much evangelistic work, holding morning prayers and Sunday services, as the school work allows.

LITERARY.—

The translation of landmarks of Church History, begun the year before, was finished by Mr. Fraser. He also completed the translation of the epistles from Romans to Revelations, which is now in a completed and copied form.

MEDICAL.—

The number of pay patients for the year numbered 3,080; the number of those not paying, 1,027; total receipts, 1,780 marks.

The general Station work has been carried on exclusively by the school-boys and girls, of whom there have been from 225 to 275, varying with the different terms of school. There were three terms during the year, and the boys have carried on quite extensive work in the gardens and have kept the Station houses in a fair state of repair.

In the gardens the boys have worked the ground in the rubber plantation once, and through the palm and plantain patches and pear orchard several times. By way of a new garden, they have put out about 4,000 plantains, a couple of acres or more of bibaki and have cleared a number of acres of new ground.

Besides keeping old buildings in repair, the boys have built the new German schoolhouse and a large boys' house and have fenced in the north side of the Mission property abutting on the main road.

A little work that might more strictly be called industrial work was experimented with during the year, when a small gang of boys were set to work extracting the rope fibre from the sissal leaves. Some rope was made and the experiment proved so satisfactory that 500 young plants were set out. Those are all doing well, and in three years, when they begin to bear, we hope the Station will be in shape to make a big thing of it, as it is an industry that would be very profitable to the people who have begun already to ask for the plants.

MACLEAN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The usual services have been held at the Station church, and at the out-stations, Mimbo Mi Nga and Lam. Systematic instruction has been given inquirers at these three places. The interest and attendance at the out-stations has kept steadily on the increase during the year. School-boy evangelists have conducted weekly meetings for instruction at a dozen points within a few hours' walk from the Station. This way has seemed the best for the present to reach the hundreds who would like to have come to the Station, but whom distance prevented from regular attendance. These youthful teacher-evangelists were first instructed by a missionary, and the plan of their being used thus has been a distinct success.

Regular Sunday and midweek services have been held also at Mbango, Bijuga, Nkutu, Tyange, Mpikiliki, Mebandi, Muga, and a number of other places. Missionaries have taken turns in going to Muga for Sunday services.

The work at Olama on the Nlong River has slowly grown, despite the persecution which the natives who have had a desire to follow Christ have had to suffer. A most touching letter, written by the head-man of this community, which is stanchly holding up the banner of the cross, requests the Mission not to forget his people in their extremity, and, if not able to do more for them, to at least remember them in prayer.

The guest-house near the Station has continued to be a source of blessing both bodily and spiritually. Not only have hundreds of carriers spending a night in it heard the message which the faithful evangelist nightly gives, but a number of conversions have taken place there during the year. That these were genuine was proven by the turning over to the evangelist whatever fetishes the converts possessed.

The average Sunday morning attendance at MacLean has been 761.

Twelve village schools, averaging 56 pupils, have been in session. Owing to the employment of ten graduate teachers at necessarily high salaries, the village schools have not been self-supporting, but longer terms and better work more than made up for increased cost.

For the first time, German was introduced into the village schools, much to the satisfaction of the pupils.

The Girls' School has held its own with an average enrollment of 60 for the year. Doing less garden work than formerly, they have been instructed more in sewing. German was also begun by the advanced class.

The Station School has had an average enrollment of 315, of whom 125 have been boarders. The new curriculum, as recommended by the government, was introduced.

MEDICAL.—

Of the hospital patients there have been 180 during little over ten months of the year. During this same period, 2,900 patients and numerous cases among the school-boys have received treatment at the dispensary. Some 5,900 treatments were given in addition to the above. These figures can give but a very slight hint as to the immense amount of physical distress among this primitive people. Most of the cases come from our immediate vicinity, though the fame of Dr. Lehman as "maker of real medicine" extended to the coast, whence patients came. The work of the physician is unlimited, as each village has its sufferers in the dismal, dark, often reeking huts, unsuspected by the passer-by, but revealed to the inquiring missionary.

We are glad to note that a German official recently told us that since his acquaintance with our Mission and its methods, his views concerning missionary activity have undergone a radical change. He was formerly opposed to Missions.

METET STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The church services have been very well and regularly attended, considering the newness of the work, the attendance at the morning service averaging a little over 300, and a good interest has been manifested. There has been a scarcity of good teachers, but seven classes have been maintained.

The catechumen class now numbers 57 in good standing and regular attendance. We trust that the time is not far distant when a church can be organized. A young men's meeting has been held Sunday afternoons.

A few trips have been made in the interest of village schools and the preaching of the Gospel. Two of these trips were to the Yebekolo people, reaching a point 90 miles north of east from Metet across the Nlong River. This is a large tribe, and farthest interior-ward of the tribes using a dialect closely allied to the Bulu. An evangelist and a teacher were placed among them, but they did not have the grit to stay when they found that some of the head-men opposed them.

The guest-house which was begun in the midst of the year is well under way at Obut, and we are wanting an evangelist to place there.

The Station School opened September 28 with an enrollment of 109, all of whom paid up their tuition fee of 1 mark.

The second term opened February 1, when we enrolled 173, each pupil paying his entrance fee promptly. Of this number 108 were boarders and 65 day-pupils, with average attendance of 155. At the close of this term we sent one of the choice young men to open a village school at Ejom among the Yengone, where he gathered 17 little fellows about him, teaching them the charts, holding morning prayers, and preaching each Sabbath during the term of four weeks.

May 15, the third term opened with an enrollment of 207, of whom 110 were boarders. All of our houses were crowded with boys, and we had to erect an extra shed and use our foodhouse for teaching. We have recently sent boys to four village schools, three of which are new.

The outlook for the Station School is very promising, as there are now nine village schools to draw from, and in the immediate vicinity there are a great many boys to be gotten hold of. Near the Station and further on in the interior there are scores of very strategic points for village schools, and now is the time to go in and have our work started and get hold of these boys.

INDUSTRIAL.—

Considerable ground has been cleared, and a large part of it was planted in peanuts by the women of near-by villages, they preparing the ground and giving the Station one-third of the crop for rent. About 3,000 plan-tains, 1,200 pineapples and 100 papaws have been set out, and several varieties of fruit trees. There are 150 young pear trees in the nursery.

A couple of school-boys have been helping in the carpenter shop, and three or four more have been making rattan chairs for our house. We had many requests from Europeans for chairs, but we could not accept their orders, though we did let one man have 105 marks' worth.

Factories are rapidly taking possession of the Nlong River near Metet, nine firms having white men located within 15 miles of the Station.

We are making soap out of the oil from the palms on the Station grounds, and sell it out in small cakes at 10 pfennigs.

MEDICAL.—

There is as yet no hospital or dispensary building at Metet, and it has been out of the question to do any regular medical work or keep record of cases.

Eighty-seven dollars has been received for medicines sold, all but $2 coming from natives.

SELF-SUPPORT.—

A gratifying record has been made in the line of self-support in the West African Mission. All the churches in the Benito district have been self-supporting so far as known, excepting Ayol, Avune and Myuma, in which exceptions very little progress has been made. The system of giving in all these churches is that of weekly collections except Ayol, and without envelopes in all excepting Benito and Gaboon. In addition to meeting current expenses, these churches have provided repairs, Bible readers, teachers and catechists. All pastor's salaries have been fully paid with more or less promptness.

In the Batanga district, with their numerous outposts, the congregations have done magnificently. In addition to large gifts of money there has been much given in the way of material and voluntary service. The total in cash from Batanga, Kribi and Ubenji, with outlying districts, is Marks 3,644, or $949.06. Under Kribi, Lonji has built a house for a Bible reader. At Polongwe the old church has been removed nearer to the main road and entirely rebuilt. Under Batanga, at Abunja, a new roof has been put on the chapel. At Ubenji, a pastor's house has been erected by the people. These contributions and various material, amounting to Marks 635, added to the cash gifts, make a total of Marks 4,279.29 put into the Lord's work by the Batanga district of churches. Thus Batanga and Kribi have been better than self-supporting in the sense of paying a pastor's salary and current expenses.

The envelope system is used at Efulen, each person pledging the amount he or she will give when enrolled as inquirer. The Efulen Church has been better than self-supporting.

At the Elat Church the total offerings were large. The people of the church showed their hospitality by entertaining nearly 400 people for one week at a conference. The envelope system is used for the monthly offerings, in which about 7,500 people are enlisted.

In MacLean Memorial District are the churches of Lolodorf and Lam. Each of these is more than self-supporting, Lolodorf having a balance of Marks 300 and Lam of Marks 200 on hand. Almost all the receipts have been used for the preaching of the Gospel in needy places. The gross receipts from all the churches has been $3,953.27 gold. The receipts from all sources are as follows:

KIUNGCHOW STATION.

Sabbath Services.—The regular Sabbath services in the new church at Hoihow have been conducted by Dr. McCandliss and Mr. Byers alternately. Mrs. McCandliss' class of women has been so large she has divided it with the Bible-women. Dr. McCandliss has a large class of men and Mr. Byers takes all the children to the hospital chapel and teaches them in a class by themselves.

Communion Services.—There have been three communion services during the past eight months. Eight new members have been added on profession of faith and one child received baptism. At the last communion season two lepers, a man and a woman, were received at their own village outside the walls of Hoihow.

Itinerating.—Mr. Byers, accompanied by Evangelist Tang, made a three weeks' itinerating trip on the Peninsula of Lui-ciu. Several large markets were visited, some having over 10,000 population where as yet there is not a single Christian worker. Christian books were sold in all these places and the Word preached as they had opportunity. Several days were spent in selling gospels and tracts in the city of Lui-ciu, which is a walled city larger than any in Hainan. No Protestant Mission has as yet opened any permanent work in this needy and neglected field. Another trip was made to Lio-ta in Hainan, where an immense idol festival is held annually.

Street Chapel.—Mr. Byers continued to hold regular services at the South Gate Chapel in Hoihow until the beginning of the Chinese New Year, when another room was rented for a chapel in the business centre of Hoihow, giving up the former chapel.

Country Work.—While little interest in the Gospel has been shown in the immediate vicinity of our large Mission plant in Kiungchow City, the past year has witnessed a most remarkable growth in the out-station work, a total of 47 having been admitted to the communion of the Church, bringing the number up to 145. At the last communion, on June 25th, the two extremes of Chinese society were represented among those baptized. One was an old woman, 75 years of age, who came some 25 miles to be baptized, herself the product of the testimony of a most zealous sister, a fellow-villager baptized three months ago; the other was a young man, 23 years old, the son of a wealthy Hainanese who has for many years been an official in Peking. Our humbler Christians say, "Were it not for Christianity, we could never be received in their homes."

With regard to the itinerating work, Mr. Newton writes:

After New Years, an opportunity was offered to gather some dozen young men into a study class for closer study of the Word of God. This work consumed the last of February and most of March. The Epistles to the Galatians and Hebrews were taken up and some study of Church Government attempted. A good deal of effort was expended on the study of the Mosaic institutions, the Tabernacle and the Priesthood, and their bearing on Christianity. During the middle of April a trip was made to Bag-khoe and Deg-ag. From May 4-16, a trip to Deg-ag and Ji-se via Tab-tu-lou and Lia-kha was undertaken, and from May 31 to June 16, the Vunsio District was covered in a separate tour.

A case of religious persecution has since arisen at Bag-khoe which is of interest. A Christian in that market, just before Chinese New Year, destroyed some tablets he had inherited along with a shop from an uncle, and as a consequence was beaten by some distant members of his clan and dispossessed of the shop. As the benefit to the church from interference in these matters is becoming increasingly doubtful in my mind, I declined to take the case to the magistrate. So far none of the Christians have been frightened into giving up their faith. One most encouraging feature of this work in Bag-khoe is the attitude of the Christians of Nam-Ciam village. Their ancestral hall which they finished repairing not long ago, having left no idols in it, has been turned over to the Christians for services and school purposes. The leading man of this village, a doctor of wide acquaintance, after holding off for some time, has finally begun to make his confession as he goes from village to village, and his testimony will doubtless bear fruit.

As an example of wayside work the following instance is given: "Returning from the last Vunsio trip we left Bo-lo market at 5.30 and reached the market of Ou-song about 1 o'clock. As the sun was still extremely hot, it was decided to halt here in the cool shade under the broad banyan trees until later in the afternoon and to finish the remaining five miles toward evening. So the baskets were set down and the horse turned loose to graze, while the two Christian carriers went into the market to get rice to eat. The people soon discovered that there was an attraction out under the trees, and getting out our tracts we began reading them and explaining to the people. One man attracted attention by his manifest interest, and the people soon informed us that he was a retired school-teacher. He stayed on until we left and bought a Testament and various tracts, promising to attend our next communion season. I had gotten him interested by reading the tract with him, but it was the Chinese Christian along who made him see things clearly."

This report may be summarized by stating that the work done has included four general itinerating trips of 65 days' duration, a month devoted to the study of the Scriptures with a class of helpers, regular weekly and mid-weekly preaching and teaching, the examination of many candidates for baptism, and the actual admission of 47 members into the Church.

Evangelistic Work for Women.—

The Bible women report much interest wherever they go and have had more invitations than they could accept. The simple trust and childlike faith of some of the women who have just come out of heathenism is an inspiration. The most annoying persecution seems only to increase their zeal. They tell of a young women of 21 years of age who accepted the truth gladly, was earnest in learning to pray and quick to memorize hymns and verses. She unbound her feet, and upon returning to her home was eager in her innocent faith to tell others what she had learned. Her husband, however, beat her and compelled her to bind her feet. In telling the women about it she said that her husband might beat her and perhaps kill the body, but could not injure the soul. At another village a Christian widow was told that there could be no Christians in that village, and one day while she was out in the fields her neighbors or husband's relatives entered her house and robbed her of between $70 and $80 worth of clothing, jewelry and other valuables. In the face of such persecution these women keep cheerful and happy and retain an abiding faith.

Mrs. Campbell has conducted regular Friday meetings for the women as far as her health permitted, and has gone out in the city for house-to-house work.

Mrs. McCandliss' weekly Bible Study Class has been continued. While intended especially for women who can read, many others as well have received pleasure and profit from the instruction given.

Paxton Training School.—

The total enrollment for the fall term was 45. The average monthly enrollment was 42. There have been enrolled 71 during the present term. The average per month has been 60. All but 12 of these are boarders, who pay from $1.50 to $3.00 per month for board. For the most part, the boys pay $2.00 per month. The price for board and tuition is gradually being raised, though with the high price of rice at the present time this has been rather difficult to do. However, with the increased attendance it has been easier to exact a reasonable increase for board. The general health of the boys has been above the average. The corps of teachers consists of the Missionary, Mr. Dang, Mr. Tang, Mr. Hgo and two advanced student-teachers.

The tone of the School is distinctly Christian. At the communion season last fall 10 of the boys from 11 to 16 years of age were baptized on their profession of faith and received to the Lord's Supper. This spring another was baptized, making in all 14 professing Christians. These, with one or two exceptions, are all boys in the upper classes.

At the beginning of the present term a Sunday evening prayer-meeting was organized for the School. The topics of the United Society of Christian Endeavor are followed, though no Endeavor Society has been formed. So far the meetings have been led by Mr. Campbell or Mr. Tang, but most of the Christian boys have shown an interest in taking voluntary part in the meetings.

Pitkin Girls' School.—

The School has been in session about 10 months with a vacation of three weeks at Chinese New Year. Fifty-one pupils have been enrolled, although many more have applied, and the average attendance has been 45. As the Chinese are coming to look more favorably upon the education of girls, the school is increasing in popularity, and it has been found possible to increase the price of board to $2.00 per month. A number of girls have been received from homes of the better class, some of the students coming from a distance of 30 miles. The young woman from Bang-khoi, the wife of the colporteur in that place, who has been preparing herself for a teacher, is a person of fine Christian character and has done exceptionally good work. Her neighbors would like to see her open a day-school for women and girls this fall.

The example and influence of the older girls over the new students is excellent, and all take great pride in keeping everything about the building neat and orderly. Thus a favorable impression has been made on the numerous visitors who have come at all hours to inspect the building. Among these visitors were the mother of the chief official and the Prefect's wife, in company with several other ladies of the yamen. These ladies expressed their appreciation of what they saw, especially the calisthenic drill. Six of the girls have united with the church during the year and several others have asked to be baptized.

The commodious new school building is now complete, and with the added comfort, coolness and sanitation there has been a marked decrease in the amount of sickness. We can scarcely find words to adequately express our appreciation of this beautiful new home, the gift of Mrs. Albert J. Pitkin. We are earnestly hoping to have another foreign lady teacher this fall.

Hoihow Hospital.—In these eight months the local receipts have been Mex. $2,747.96. This of course does not include any help from the Board. The cost of food for the patients has been higher owing to the increased price of rice, which has averaged $4.76 (Mex.) for every 100 English pounds of rice, the total cost for food being Mex. $900. The average cost of food per patient per day has been about 12 cents (Mex.). As there are three meals a day, and the feeding-up process is encouraged, it will be seen that the Oriental can be well nourished on the equivalent of $1.65 gold per month.

The general plan of the religious work in the hospital has been maintained. At 10 o'clock on week-days the Doctor holds a general service for out-patients, for in-patients who are able to leave their beds and for all others who care to come. From 2 until 3 Mr. Byers has his Bible class with the more interested of the men-patients. The other men and all of the women at that time are studying in the wards. Mrs. McCandliss holds a class for women in the evening, which has been especially fruitful of good results.

Reference has been made to the ready response of the lepers in the leper village near Hoihow to the efforts made in their behalf. In this connection Dr. McCandliss writes:

The leper village is just outside the Hoihow City wall, at the southeast, and less than a mile from the hospital. It is in some degree a community, entrance to which requires a preliminary fee of $10. There are now 72 lepers in the village. The majority of the lepers live by begging, and suffer from open sores on hands, feet and legs. As about four-fifths of the population go bare-footed, it can easily be understood what a menace to the general health is offered by this string of leper beggars in their frequent expeditions through the streets of the city. With a desire to do something for these diseased arms and legs, the doctor circulated a subscription list amongst the foreign community in Hoihow, to which the Tautai (the chief official of the island) also contributed, raising Mex. $157. This money is being used to purchase bandaging, etc., with which to dress the open sores. In these last six months 560 such dressings have been applied, the work necessarily being done at the village.

NODOA STATION.

The health of the missionaries has been good, and there has been but little sickness among the Chinese assistants. Plague has been very virulent in the market and in many of the villages and, though dead rats were found in the school, carpenter's godown and the servants' quarters of the manse, no case among human beings broke out on the compound.

Mr. McClintock has had charge of the Boys' School and the evangelistic work, with the exception of Nam-fing. He has also erected the catechumens' quarters and has repaired the manse and the Century House. Mrs. McClintock has had charge of the Girls' School and the work among the women. Dr. Bryan has been in charge of the Hospital and the evangelistic work at Nam-fong.

EVANGELISTIC REPORT.—Mr. Vang has been in charge of the services at Nododa and has had general oversight of the work there. He has been very helpful in consulting with the Christians, advising them in their difficulties and in exhorting them to better lives and service.

Out-stations.—The out-stations maintained during the year have been Fah-hih, Tai-fong, No-tia, Ham-hui, Nam-fong and Lim-ko. A new chapel was secured in Nam-fong, renting it for 13 years at a rental of $113.00 for the entire period. The chapel is off the main street, but is fairly large, and with some alterations will serve the purpose. Plague in No-tia has prevented holding services continuously. Rats dying in the chapel caused us to advise the colporteur to return to his home. On May 28th he returned to No-tia and held services, reporting an attendance of 60.

Meetings for Catechumens.—These meetings for instruction have been held every other month and have been very well attended. The smallest number present at any meeting was 80 and the largest 116. The number of catechumens at present on the roll is 132.

Additions to the Church.—The Station reports proportionately a smaller number of baptisms this year, but this does not by any means mean a falling off of interest, only that those asking for baptism have not as yet convinced the session that they are fully prepared for that rite. The increase in the number of catechumens, 147, indicates a very wide and constantly increasing interest.

Opposition and Persecution.—

There has been more active opposition and persecution than for some time. For some reason the people at large seem irritable and ready to make trouble, and there has been a great deal of lawlessness throughout the territory. Lim-ko City has been attacked, Tai-fong twice looted, Nam-fong robbed, Lag-jiang also; No-tia has been threatened and Lok-ki attacked; in short, practically all the markets within 10 po of Nodoo have either been threatened or actually attacked. Many of the Christians have also felt the heavy hands of their neighbors. Colporteur Fae Kim-ciang was set on by a villager near his home and beaten, the man claiming that the colporteur in stopping at his door and asking a civil question had stolen the spirit of his ancestors. One of the catechumens near Lim-ko City has been set upon by his neighbors and beaten, and when plague broke out later in the village the villagers threatened so vehemently to cage him in a pig basket and drown him that he ran away and it is not known where he is. A marriage service in Nam-fong was the occasion of the market roughs' gathering and trying, by loud talking and scolding, to prevent the service. Most of the incidents are trivial, but collectively they indicate the spirit of the people.

Incidents of the Work.—

Looking out of the window one day we saw two of the Bible women returning from one of their short pilgrimages, carrying two idols and the red cloth with which their idols are draped, together with the "potted ancestors." "While we were talking, last night," they explained, "the old man of the house jumped up, tore down all his idol paraphernalia and urged us to take it away," as one of the idols was supposed to be very wicked and the old man was just a little bit afraid of it himself. Several weeks later this old man died, and his son and wife, in the face of stiff opposition, insisted on a Christian funeral. The old man's death was so sudden that all the heathen believed that the devils had "done him" and would not go near the house. Last Sabbath 10 people from his immediate family attended church.

One encouraging incident of the year's work has been that Tong-ti, a former graduate from our Girls' School who had not attended church for years and who we feared had lost all interest, returned last fall, bringing husband, mother-in-law and sisters-in-law, all of whom had been bitterly opposed to the Gospel, but being frightened by long-continued illness in the family, not only permitted the girl herself to come to service, but came with her.

Bible Women.—Our four Bible-women have been busy a good part of the year, spending altogether 208 days in the villages.

Catechumens.—There is an increased number of Lim-ko catechumens this year and a larger number also from Nodoa market. The Lim-ko women are very hard to teach, as it has to be done almost entirely through interpreters and the Lim-ko language does not seem to have the right words to convey spiritual truth. But that some progress is being made is shown by the fact that one Lim-ko woman was heard to tell another, "You need not come here once in two months to study doctrine unless you go to church every Sabbath at the nearest chapel; just to keep the 'big Sabbath' will not do."

EDUCATIONAL.—Girls' School Report.—

This year as well as last has shown an increased desire on the part of parents to send their girls to school, and there would have been a larger number of boarders had it not been that, owing to the smallness of the appropriation, we could only take 20. Including day pupils, the total number in the school is 27. As in former years, the girls do the cooking, carrying the water and keeping the school clean; the older girls are also required to sew an hour every day. It has been gratifying to note the neatness and skill shown by the girls who have been in school some years in making their own clothes. The aim has not been so much to make scholars of the girls as to prepare them for being capable wives and good Christian mothers. The number of graduates from this school who regularly attend services on Sabbath though living many miles from the church is very noteworthy.

Boys' Boarding School.—

Attendance.—Owing to the unsafe and unsanitary condition of the lower school and to the high price of rice prevailing throughout the year, it was necessary to limit the number of boarders to 40. Only six new boys were accepted. In addition, 21 day-pupils have been in attendance. The pupils have been constant in attendance with one exception, a boy in whose village plague broke out and who was not allowed to reënter the school after a visit home.

The students are drawn from very widely separated districts and represent five languages. Instruction in the Chinese classic is given in Mandarin, while instruction in the other classes is given in the language best understood by the pupil. The advanced students are all Christians or catechumens and the older new boys, with two exceptions, are catechumens. Attendance, conduct and health have been excellent.

Shortly after Mission Meeting last year, plague broke out in the town. The school was kept running for over a month but, finding that the rats were dying in the school granary, which is between two dormitories, it was felt that it would not be wise to keep the boys exposed to the danger of infection. School was dismissed late in December.

MEDICAL.—The Mary Henry Hospital.—

The Hospital has a village population to draw from of probably 100,000, from an area of about 40 by 80 miles. The people speak five different dialects. The Hospital has a capacity of 33 beds—boards placed on benches. The native staff consists of a dispenser, a dresser, an assistant to both, a Bible-woman and a coolie. The drug counter was patronized by 2,046 people during the year of 8 months. The number of first visits to the dispensary was 1,099; while the number of return visits was 1,064. There were 113 in-patients in the wards. Of these 54 were female, 82 were medical cases, while only 15 operations under chloroform were performed. Sixteen of the in-patients were Christians, 68 were either friends or adherents to the church; the rest were strangers who had no interest in the church. Thirty-two outside calls were made, from one-fourth to ten miles. Over $200 gold was received in calls, fees and from sales of medicine. The new obstetrical ward was patronized three times, while one baby was taken care of in the Century House.

There was a little girl on the brink of death for so long in one of the wards that the whole family was allowed to sort of come and camp out in the Hospital, and ever since the entire family have come to church every Sunday and the parents have twice been examined for membership.

KACHEK STATION.EVANGELISTIC.—

Itineration by the foreigners has been carried on as there has been opportunity. Miss Schaeffer has made trips to Tintai (Vang-ciu) and in the region of Doa-lou and the villages surrounding Kachek. Dr. Lasell has made a trip to Tintai and another up the river to Tinfau. He also made a short trip to Do-fo market, southern part of Vunsio and home by Doa-lou. Mr. Tappan has made two trips to Doa-lou, and he and Dr. Lasell made a trip to Gai-ciu at the extreme south of the island. In this latter place many students were present for the government examinations, and an excellent chance of meeting them in the chapel was afforded. The students visiting freely discussed religion in an unusually friendly manner. They then went to Lok-lah where 17 days were spent preaching, teaching and healing all that came. The women in Miss Schaeffer's charge have visited villages around Kachek, Doa-lou and Tintai under her direction. When the hospital was not busy, the assistants made trips to neighboring markets, selling books and preaching. Some of our church members have done a good deal of preaching without pay.

The Station has under its control, for preaching purposes (besides Kachek), chapels at Ui-hong, Doa-lou, Tintai, No-lak, Leng-tui, Ngai-ciu City and Lok-lah. The Kachek church rents a street chapel in Kachek market. All these the Station expects to continue, and is planning, in addition, to acquire one in Vang-ciu City. The services at Kachek consist of preaching Sunday morning, Sunday-school Sunday afternoon, prayer-meeting Wednesday evening, evening Bible classes at Hospital, besides religious exercises at the School.

Communion has been held every three months. Regular inquirers' instruction classes have preceded the communion Sunday. These have been well attended. Twenty-eight applicants for baptism have been examined, of whom 15 have been received into the church. In Vang-ciu Mr. Tappan examined three and received two into communion.

Work among the Women.—

This work has been in the charge of Miss Schaeffer and was conducted by her along the usual lines until she left on furlough in March. On account of her absence, there is no detailed report.

MEDICAL WORK.—

The work of the hospital and dispensary has been of the ordinary routine kind. Opium cases have continued to come in moderately. Some have been permanently cured, but a good many relapsing. Very little surgery has been done. On several itineration trips numbers of patients were seen, one or two men, Loi men, submitting to the opening of abscesses. In Lok-lah many eye cases were treated as well as minor surgical cases. Several patients unable to walk to the chapel were brought hither in ox carts. The statistics are given below, and include treatment of school boys, so that they are larger than would normally be the case.

McCormick Boys' School.—

Since the last report to the Mission the most important event in the life of the school was the Field Day held during December. The results of the meet have been more than enough to pay us for all the trouble and time necessary to carry out such a meet successfully. The fall term closed January 4th.

The Spring term opened February 2d, 1911. The total enrolled during the term has been 49, only one of whom is a day-pupil. It was found necessary to expel two of the Vang-ciu boys for disobedience of rules. The total number enrolled at the end of the term was 43. All of the students pay, with the exception of one who works for his board, two who assist in the teaching and one who is supported privately.

FINANCES.—

The extremely high price of rice has made the running of the school quite expensive, rice costing as much as 85 and 90 cash a catty. It did not seem best to change the tuition of those already entered, but the last three students paid in addition to a registration fee of $5.00, $3.00 a month for board. The total receipts since October 1st have been $428.50 and 12 hwt. rice, making a total of about $610.30 for the nine months.

SOUTH CHINA AND HAINAN MISSIONS

THE SOUTH CHINA MISSION.

CANTON: capital of Province of Quangtung, on left branch of Chookiang River, about 70 miles from China Sea—a port city; occupied as a Station, 1845. Rev. H. V. Noyes, D.D., and Mrs. Noyes, Rev. A. A. Fulton, D.D., and Mrs. Fulton, Rev. J. J. Boggs and Mrs. Boggs, M.D., Rev. W. D. Noyes and Mrs. Noyes, E. C. Machle, M.D., and Mrs. Machle, Mrs. J. G. Kerr, Miss Harriet N. Noyes, Miss E. M. Butler, Miss M. W. Niles, M.D., Miss M. H. Fulton, M.D., Miss H. Lewis, Miss E. A. Churchill, Miss L. Durham, Miss L. R. Patton, Miss Mary T. Bankes, Rev. James M. Henry and Mrs. Henry.

LIEN-CHOU: 125 miles northwest of Canton; occupied as a Station, 1890. Rev. Reese F. Edwards and Mrs. Edwards, Rev. J. S. Kunkle, Robert Ross, M.D., and Mrs. Ross, Miss Elda G. Patterson, Miss Hannah Kunkle, Miss Nan M. Latimer, M.D., and Rev. G. W. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall.

YEUNG KONG: about 112 miles southwest of Canton; occupied as a Station, 1886. Rev. C. E. Patton, M.A., and Mrs. Patton, William H. Dobson, M.D., and Mrs. Dobson, Miss V. M. Wilcox, Rev. J. W. Creighton and Mrs. Creighton, Rev. Geo. D. Thomson and Mrs. Thomson, Miss Margaret S. Bliss.

SHEK LUNG: Rev. A. J. Fisher and Mrs. Fisher, Harry W. Boyd, M.D., and Mrs. Boyd, Rev. Paul J. Allured and Mrs. Allured.

TRANSFERS: Rev. Geo. W. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, from Canton to LIEN-CHOU.

FURLOUGHS DURING THE YEAR: Dr. H. W. Boyd and Mrs. Boyd, Miss E. M. Butler, Dr. W. H. Dobson and Mrs. Dobson, Rev. R. F. Edwards and Mrs. Edwards, Miss Harriet N. Noyes, Rev. J. J. Boggs and Mrs. Boggs, Miss Lucy Durham, Miss Elda G. Patterson.

South China has had a turbulent year politically and an unsteady year commercially. This has more or less affected all classes everywhere. The political horizon is not clear yet, neither is confidence in business circles restored. The work of the Mission, while not seriously disturbed, has been, and is being, affected by these revolutionary disturbances. The Lien-chou Station has been more affected than the other Stations. A local insurrection kept the district in confusion for a good part of the year. During the riots the buildings at Sam Kong were destroyed. At times the plant at Lien-chou was in danger. But friends were raised up on all sides, and we believe that the whole movement has, under God, worked out for the advancement of His Kingdom. For four months the Station was held by the men only, all women and children being sent to Canton, and not permitted to return until just before Chinese New Year.

The workers on the whole have had good health, but Rev. and Mrs. Rees, F. Edwards had to go home on account of sickness. Dr. H. W. Boyd and family, the Misses Patterson, Noyes and Butler, and Dr. and Mrs. Dobson went home on well-earned furlough.

At the annual meeting of the Mission, September 5-9, certain policies were adopted by the Mission looking toward the further development of the native Church by urging the organization of Home Missionary Societies, and the necessity of preaching in the villages, the home of three-fourths of the people of China. It is hoped that each field in the care of a Missionary will support one or more native preachers under the direct care of the Presbytery.

CANTON STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Evangelistic Work of the Canton Station has been carried on by Rev. A. A. Fulton, D.D., Rev. A. J. Fisher and Rev. Wm. D. Noyes, assisted by 5 Chinese ordained men and 49 native preachers. The following items are from Dr. Fulton's report to the Mission:

The work under my care in the country is confined to the "three districts." I have 13 chapels in the San Ning district, 3 in Hoi Ping and 15 in Yan Ping, oversight of First Church in Canton, and the care of the chapel at Poon Tong, where we have a dispensary. The villages in the three districts number many thousands and a large part of these have never been visited by preachers of the Gospel. The people are very friendly and in almost every village may be found some men who speak English. The people are especially friendly to American missionaries. The railroad has made thousands of villages easily accessible, and greatly increased our responsibilities. All the important market towns in the Yan Ping district have been occupied by our Mission with the exception of three which are occupied by other missions. In the San Ning district there are some important market towns without chapels, where we must enter as soon as possible. For some years I have insisted that we should concentrate on the villages and we have that work now more carefully systematized. Every preacher furnishes a monthly report as to daily work, and indicates the number of villages reached, the number of hearers, and the number of leaflets distributed. We have arranged that chapels should be grouped, and the preachers unite every two or three months for combined effort in visiting the villages. The chief function of the chapel is to give light to the surrounding villages. We limit financial help to the markets. Villages must supply their own houses of worship. I have several deeds to sites in villages, but I have steadily refused any financial aid in helping villages to get houses of worship. In company with a half-dozen of my helpers I visited a large market town, and from this point we made daily visits to the adjacent villages. We received very friendly treatment, the people bringing out seats and tea, and being willing to listen as long as we would remain. The preachers enjoyed the work and gained a valuable experience in meeting all sorts of people, and became more confident, acquiring self-control as well as power of expression. During the year more than one hundred schools have been visited, and tracts given to the teachers. We are planning to reach as soon as possible every village in our field, and this can be most effectively done by a large body of trained men and women in conjunction with voluntary support given by members of different churches. The preachers must be qualified as leaders, and stimulate the members to engage in active work of evangelization without whose aid great results cannot be obtained. During the year one new church has been organized at No Kut, a market town about 15 miles south of Yan Ping. We began here some years ago with a few members who had heard the Gospel at Yan Ping, and now have about 50 members and a flourishing school. The members gave a shop for a Women's Chapel and raised $200 for the new school buildings in rear of the chapel. At Sanning the brethren gave $950 to secure property adjacent to the church, and will find funds to erect a new building. One elder gave $300 towards this fund. At Kam Ue the church has long been overcrowded and the brethren have purchased a site and subscribed $450 toward a new building. At Noh Fu the building is too small to seat converts, and the members have subscribed nearly $600 to meet the cost of enlarging the chapel. At Chung Lau the members have raised $3,000 and purchased a fine site at the end of the market and have begun work on the new building. This is one of our largest and most important market towns. The population within a radius of five miles is about 40,000 and many large and wealthy villages are easily accessible by railway. Toward this chapel Mr. Palmer, of Chicago, gave $400. The church is now entirely self-supporting and pays part of the salary of a Bible woman and supports a school for girls. Last year the chapel at Tung Pik was partly destroyed by men from an adjacent village as the result of some dispute over right-of-way between the villages, in consequence of which the work was much hindered, but the chapel is being rebuilt and recently two men were baptized.

SHEK LUNG.—Mr. Fisher, in charge of this field, writes:

We thought before we left for our furlough that we had great opportunities, but we find now that they are even greater and more pressing. The lower part of Tsang Shing, the most populous part of that district, seemed marvelously opened up. This was due partly to the railroad passing through that section, which had the effect of stirring them up like a stick run through an ant hill. But it was due to the chapel in Shek Taan that in the stirring up many came to join the Church. This chapel was opened about five years ago. At that time the people were anything but friendly. Now upon my first visit about 100 Christians greeted me. As a result of this chapel in Shek Taan several large villages in the neighborhood have decided to have a chapel of their own. Shek Ha already has one and now Ma Che and Ngok Taam-po are preparing to open.

Tsang Shing City Chapel has had a good year. Nearly all the members made a promise that with God's help they would at least lead one other to Christ each year. Good results are developing from this. Most of the members in all the chapels have taken the same pledge, but it has thus far shown best results in this place.

Siu Lau, an important market town between Tsang Shing city and Ching Kwoh, can, after long years, be opened. We have secured a good site for building. This will open a large number of villages to the preaching of the Gospel and will be a stepping-stone to other important places. Some other out-stations have not made very good progress.

This may be compared to gathering crops—the first crop has been gathered and now there must be a time of seed-sowing again. We pray the Lord of the harvest may soon let us see the results of the labors in these places.

Shek Lung Church has five chapels outside of Shek Lung Chapel, besides meeting places in a number of large villages.

The attendance at Sunday services has been very good in Shek Lung. The chapel is full almost every Sunday; often crowded. The Sunday-school has had an average attendance of 150.

The work among women has been done chiefly by the wife of Rev. Wong Shiu-yung, without pay. The Tuesday meetings for prayer and study for women held on the compound have been well attended and some of the Christians are making good progress in the study of the Bible.

Since our return over 5,000 tracts have been put into the hands of seekers after truth. About 4,000 portions of Scripture have been sold. A special grant from Scripture Gift Mission, London, has been put in the hands of those willing to read them. We have large opportunities, but it requires work to lay hold on them.

Rev. Wm. D. Noyes has charge of the Shun Tak field. Last year several new churches were organized. These have done good work.

Street preaching has been carried on wherever practicable. There have been added to the church's activities: (1) Education, three new schools having been opened; (2) Medical, a dispensary having been opened at Look Lau; (3) Reading rooms, one having been opened at Tai Leung and Chan Chuen, respectively. The reading room especially draws the influential men.

At Tai Leung and Kau Kong there is a partial support of the preacher. The Third Church, Canton, has made especially good progress along this line.

The chapel near the leper village is in care of Mr. Noyes. At one communion alone 19 people were baptized. A man believes in Christianity when he sees the joy of hope come into these hopeless faces of human wrecks.

Two conferences were held for preachers during the year. There is the hope that in it all there is a realization of the true emphasis on Bible study and prayer.

MEDICAL.—The physicians connected with the Canton Station, named in order of arrival in China, are:

Dr. Mary W. Niles, 1882; Dr. Mary H. Fulton, 1884; Dr. E. C. Machle, 1889; Dr. Ruth Bliss Boggs, 1892; Dr. Harry W. Boyd, 1899.

These five doctors have given, deducting furloughs, 87 years of continuous work to China. Following in the footsteps of our illustrious pioneer missionary physician, Dr. John G. Kerr, who established the large Canton hospital, the Refuge for the Insane, medical school and dispensaries, and made many translations, we have endeavored to clear the road still further.

Connected with our Station is a hospital for women and children, four dispensaries for women, three general dispensaries, a hospital for the insane and a school for blind girls and boys. Four of the doctors besides being engaged in practice give regular instruction in our Women's Medical College and two of these in two other institutions as well. Three have engaged in translating books, now used by doctors and nurses in all schools in the empire. Two have published booklets on hygiene. Three of the doctors have built up compounds valued at between $100,000 and $200,000. All are self-supporting, except the salary of the physicians in charge. Calls to the homes of the official and other influential classes are as frequent as calls to the other classes. Over 20,000 patients have been treated during the year and about 2,000 operations performed. The lame have been made to walk, the blind to see, the poor have had the Gospel preached to them, the lepers are being cleansed. A home, in care of one of the doctors, for the untainted children of leper parents is a great object-lesson to this whole province. These doctors have trained many Christian workers, doctors and nurses, who are extending the knowledge they have received to hitherto untouched villages and towns.

Dr. Mary Niles has translated a large medical book on obstetrics. She has also published a much-needed popular tract on tuberculosis, as well as given lectures on this subject. Weekly lectures on hygiene have been given at the True Light Seminary, while in the Women's Medical College she occupies the Chair of Obstetrics.

Under her supervision Dr. Lam carried on a dispensary for women and children on Fati till last January. Since that time she has herself seen patients that could not go to other places.

Dr. Mary Fulton has charge of the Hackett Medical College for Women, Julia M. Turner Training School for Nurses, and David Gregg Hospital for Women and Children.

The Hackett Medical College has had the best year of its history. Twenty-seven have matriculated. In January, twelve young ladies, two of whom are from Foochow and one from Honolulu, received diplomas of graduation. It is not the aim of this institution to make specialists, but to make good, intelligent doctors, who will be able to relieve much suffering and prevent much sickness. The graduates all have responsible positions in hospitals and in private practice. The aim is to have two Christian women physicians in every large city and town. The Nanking Exposition awarded seven silver medals and a diploma for anatomical drawings to the students, while the College received two large gold medals with a diploma. These drawings were also exhibited at the Boston Exposition.

Dr. Fulton, aside from her regular lectures, has prepared for publication the first installment of "Diseases of Children"—about one-third of a book of 1,100 pages. She has prepared medical booklets on "Infant Hygiene" and "Bandaging" and two religious tracts, "Who God is and who Christ is" and "Wonders of Prayer."

In the David Gregg Hospital about 8,000 out-patients were treated, over 300 in-patients, over 300 visits to homes made and over 400 major operations performed, besides 1,956 minor operations.

The Julia M. Turner Training School for Nurses.—Forty young women have been enrolled. Twelve have graduated. These nurses are in great demand. The aim is to send them out among their own people to disseminate Christian and hygienic knowledge. A much-needed new building to accommodate 24 persons is in process of erection, and includes kitchen, diet kitchen, laundry, and "Band Bath Rooms."

Direct evangelistic work is being carried on all the time in connection with the Hospital. All helpers and patients attend service. Three Bible women go to the dispensaries and work among the patients in the Hospital. It is estimated that 4,000 people have heard the Gospel through the agencies of the Hospital and schools. Including all sources, fees, gifts, etc., about $19,000 has been received and $17,700 already expended. Ravages of white ants made extensive repairs necessary. A new isolation ward in memory of Shi Muihing will be erected.

Dr. E. C. Machle is teacher of Science in the Fati Middle School, teacher of Materia Medica in the Hackett Medical College for Women, physician of two dispensaries and consulting physician to Opium Refuge under a Chinese Benevolent Society.

He has not been able to give the entire year to his work on account of illness, undergoing four operations within five months. We rejoice that God spared his life and restored him to health.

A dispensary for the students is held in one of the rooms of the Theological Seminary, an average of 10 a day attending. One case of small-pox occurred. The patient was promptly isolated and made a good recovery. All the other students were at once vaccinated. One of the valued teachers, Mr. Ho, died of the plague. The students to the number of 131 were at once inoculated with plague vaccine.

Dr. Boyd, before leaving on furlough in March, had charge of the Harbison dispensary at Poon Tong, a large market just on the outskirts of the Western Suburb of Canton. He teaches practice of medicine, with demonstrations in class-room, in the Hackett Medical College for Women and has charge of the leper work. Beside this he has given lectures on tuberculosis in some of the Chinese schools, in our own school on Fati and also in Shek Lung to a gathering of officials, gentry and school teachers. He writes:

The work among the lepers has been greatly helped and blessed by the addition to the force of Mr. James Taylor, supported by the Mission to the lepers in India and the far East. The work, however, is under the direction of the Station. His unselfish devotion to the "cleansing of the lepers" and the superintendence of the home for untainted children has resulted in additions to the home. In the home we have installed a patent knitter for the manufacturing of various garments, towels, etc., and a native weaving machine. Vegetable gardening, with poultry and live stock helps to keep the hands busy and gives added interest to the home.

The segregation of the lepers is a big problem and is engaging the attention of the South China Medical Association and also of the Chinese native doctors, who will present the matter in detail to the government, and it is hoped that the government will soon take up the matter in a more earnest manner.

John G. Kerr Refuge for the Insane.—Dr. Selden and Dr. Hoffmann, honorary members of the Mission, together with Mrs. J. G. Kerr, are carrying on the work of this growing institution. There are now 387 patients in the Refuge.

During the year 46 have been discharged cured; 26 have improved and 38 remain unimproved. It has to some extent the support of the government officials. A dispensary is being carried on twice a week in connection with the Refuge and has prescribed for 1,764 patients. In connection with the dispensary there is preaching both for men and women. Mrs. Kerr reports:

The prayer meeting for our women has been well attended and has been a joy and help to us all. The Holy Spirit has made Himself felt in our midst—all our helpers, except one, who were not already Church members, received baptism. A primary Sunday-school is held with splendid results. Weekly services with preachers supplied from the students in the Theological Seminary are held for the patients and others who may wish to come. Daily chapel is conducted for the patients, and thus made a direct evangelistic agency not only for the patients, but for the whole neighborhood.

EDUCATIONAL.—The educational work centres in the Fati schools, with Preparatory, Middle School and Theological Departments, and the True Light Seminary for Girls and Women, with Preparatory, Middle School, Normal and Bible Readers' training departments.

The educational work of the Mission has, within the last few years, been systematized and put on a firmer basis with a uniform curriculum for the various grades of schools. The idea is to have a primary school, with four years' work, in every out-station or chapel, and in each station centre a school with four years' more and higher work, preparing for the Middle Schools in Canton, the Middle Schools in turn preparing for the Theological, Normal and other professional schools. As time goes on, in a very few years there must be added a College course.

The Fati Theological Seminary and Middle School.—From very small beginnings in uncomfortable quarters on Sha Kei, behind Shameen, this institution has, in the last twenty-five years, under the guidance of Rev. H. V. Noyes, D.D., become imposing in its great potentialities as well as in the work it has accomplished.

With a foreign working faculty of five, a Chinese faculty of seven and five student tutors, the past year has been one of the most successful in the history of the institution. The enrollment of 181—the largest ever recorded—includes 98 in the preparatory department, 34 in the high school, 32 in the secondary theological course and 17 in the regular course. In the present state of deterioration in government schools and with the far-reaching educational policy now being entered on by the Mission, the future is not only promising, but heavy with responsibility.

The Theological Seminary is now a Union Theological Seminary. Overtures made to the New Zealand and Canadian Presbyterian Missions, to the A. B. C. F. M., Rhenish and London Missions brought cordial replies from the first four, final action on the part of the L. M. S. being deferred until its senior member shall have returned from furlough. The New Zealand Mission has given a man for part time this past year, and expects to give him for the whole time next year. There seems to be every prospect of building up a strong theological institution. The students have put their theological work into practice in the neighboring villages, at the Refuge for the Insane and in the city chapels and churches, and are now putting in order a chapel of their own. About one-third of the theological students are from other Missions.

The high or middle school has been doing rather more work than the average American high school and the faculty has felt that more time than three years is required to carry out the present curriculum thoroughly.

It is felt that two years added to the course in the middle school will give the opportunity needed of adding to the curriculum to meet present needs and also of relieving the theological department of work that belongs really to the middle school and so leave room for other necessary courses. This desire to add two years to the middle school course has received the endorsement of the South China Mission, the South China Educational Association and the China Council at their last annual meeting.

As in the theological department, about one-third of the students are from other Missions, and of the whole number in the high school all but three are either Christian or from Christian families. In the preparatory department 98 were enrolled. The number is partly due to the increased number of schools in connection with the evangelistic work.

Advanced students in the upper departments have been employed to do a good deal of instruction in the preparatory classes. Aside from the great assistance thus given, there is, in this way in practice, planted the germ for normal training which it is hoped may soon be developed.

The guarantee of $600 Mexican a year to assist poor but deserving students has materially increased the third year of the preparatory and lower years of the middle department.

The New Zealand Mission has assigned the Rev. Geo. H. McNeur to give his whole time to teaching in the Seminary. The same Mission has also given £20 toward the payment of Chinese teachers. The Rev. J. M. Henry, who has been studying the language, will soon be taking part in active school work.

To the staff of loyal Chinese instructors is due a large share of the success of the year. One of the most faithful and valued was called to his reward not long before the close of the spring term. Two of the strongest alumni of the school have joined the Faculty. A graduate from the Shantung University has also joined the faculty as instructor in Mandarin and assistant in science. At least one more teacher is needed—a thorough scholar to teach Chinese classics and composition.

Including this there are needed for the salaries of teachers annually $3,000 Mexican, for student tutors $300, for gatekeepers, watchman, coolies in care of buildings—10 in all—$900 Mexican, making a total of $4,200. The appropriation from the Board for current expenses for this year amounted to $2,787 Mexican, the same amount for next year from the Board would leave $1,413 Mexican to be provided for from other sources. Valuable improvements on the plant have been made during the year. The generous donation of $8,000 Mexican, by Mr. L. H. Severance, made it possible to enlarge and rejuvenate the building, remove interior walls, build a wall enclosing the whole premises, and fill up the canals and low ground, thus making a fine campus.

True Light Seminary.—The furlough of Miss Noyes and Miss Butler left two foreign women on the field in charge of the True Light Seminary—Miss Lewis and Miss Patton.

The efficient Chinese principal, Mrs. Loh, continues with us and we are happy in having her daughter as superintendent of the Normal Department.

We are endeavoring to meet the increasing demands for Western learning and also to prevent the one thing needful for the present as well as for the future life taking a secondary place in the curriculum. Dr. Niles gives weekly lectures on hygiene. Thanks are also due to Dr. Todd for his valuable services in two cases of plague, who were treated with serum and recovered, and also in other cases of minor illnesses among the pupils.

The average attendance, except during the time of the revolutionary riots when school was dismissed for a short time, was 260. Within the last year 19 from the Seminary have united with the Church.

The schools have contributed toward self-support since April $1,694 Mexican. The Missionary Society, besides supporting a Bible woman during the whole year, selected five from their number to work during vacation, giving them a monthly salary for the time.

Light-giving School for Blind Girls and Boys.—This School continues to be superintended by Dr. Niles, assisted by Miss Durham.

Dr. Niles writes:

This year was noted for the opening of the new building, October 25, 1910. H. E. Police Taotai Kwang Tung was present in person. Their Excellencies the Tartar General, the Minister of Education, the Salt Commissioner, the Provincial Judge and other officials sent representatives. One more year has been added to the course of study. Mrs. Allen has kindly taught English to some of the girls. Mrs. Bigelow has taught the girls music and also the boys. They have a new incentive for organ practice and are learning to read and write exercises and hymns in the Braille system. Two girls have gone to the True Light Seminary to study for Bible readers. One boy is taking work in the Theological Seminary. Several are taking lessons in massage. Several of the graduates are doing good work as preachers and Bible readers. The site for the Boys' School is ready as soon as funds for the building are forthcoming. There will be a place to receive blind boys as well as girls.

Day Schools for Boys.—Day-schools are a very important factor in our Mission work.

These act as feeders to the boarding schools. They also become a direct evangelistic agency, as many boys and girls from heathen homes come into these schools under Christian influence. These schools are being pushed with vigor in the country out-stations, five new schools having been opened in the "Four Districts" by Dr. A. A. Fulton and three by Rev. Wm. Noyes in the Shun Tak field. Dr. Fulton has 22 day-schools in his field with a total number of pupils of 363, for which the Mission puts out $371, the amount raised on the field being $2,421. In the Shek Lung field, on account of lack of properly qualified teachers, there are only three day-schools for boys carried on this year. The one at Shek Lung has 40 pupils and two teachers preparing for the Canton Middle School.

Day Schools for Girls.—Practically all the women connected with the Station are engaged in this work.

Dr. Niles has five day-schools for girls in the country connected with the chapels with a total number of 93 pupils. Miss Churchill gives most of her time to the work of day-schools, making of them a direct evangelistic agency, as she invites the relatives of the pupils to a meeting in the school-rooms when she visits them twice a week. She has eight in the city. The past year her schools were carried on under much difficulty, as she was in the most disturbed part of the city during the riots. Mrs. H. V. Noyes and Mrs. Wm. D. Noyes are working into the adjacent villages on Fati. Mrs. H. V. Noyes has one school at Sha Ho with an enrollment of 20 and one at Po Tai Shui where weekly services are held for women, and also a dispensary. Mrs. W. D. Noyes has carried on a school under great difficulties at Fa Hui. Mrs. Noyes has also trained a choir of Y. M. C. A. boys from the college and given organ lessons to two, as well as teaching in the Sunday-school. Miss Lewis is carrying on her schools in the midst of the city. She has four such schools where weekly services are held for women. Miss Patton has the care of two schools with 60 pupils in Canton City. Mrs. A. A. Fulton has carried on her school for girls in the western suburb of the city. The school was removed to near the compound. A well-ventilated Chinese house has been secured and has been made bright and attractive. Thirty pupils have been enrolled. Mrs. Fulton gives her personal attention to instruction three days a week. Mrs. Fisher has charge of a girls' school with 24 pupils in Shek Lung.

WORK FOR WOMEN.—Evangelistic work is carried on in all the day-schools and a large number of Bible women spend their whole time visiting women in their homes.

Mrs. A. A. Fulton has herself made 77 visits into the homes with her Bible woman and with Miss Banks has held weekly meetings for women at her home. Miss Banks spends her entire time in this work. Mrs. Kerr is carrying on evangelistic work in connection with the Refuge for the Insane. Miss Churchill has under her care five Bible women who work in the city. Miss Lewis has one. Dr. Niles has nine in her charge who work chiefly in the out-stations in day-schools and Sunday-schools, five of these are blind. Sunday-schools and mid-week classes for prayer and instruction are held in all the places. These Bible women are very earnest workers. Mrs. H. V. Noyes carries on evangelistic work in connection with the Fati Church by distribution of tracts, Sunday-schools for women and children, and a class of boys in the regular Sunday-school. In Shek Lung Mrs. Fisher had weekly meetings for women and visited in homes.

LIEN-CHOU STATION.

We have sorely missed Mr. and Mrs. Edwards whom sickness has held in the home land. Miss Patterson has for the last half-year been home on furlough. This left only Mr. Kunkle and Dr. and Mrs. Ross to carry on the work of the Station. Our Chinese workers have done nobly, and through them the work has been kept going. Some advance can be reported. The self-sacrificing, public-spirited efforts of Pastor Li Yeung-shang during the uprising were recognized by the government which granted him a title.

EVANGELISTIC.—The regular services of the various out-stations were kept up without break throughout the period of disturbance. On the burning of the Chapel at Sam Kong, the congregation, undaunted, assembled on the following Sunday in the ruins of another building, the shell of which had been left standing by the rioters.

On account of heavy school work, Mr. Kunkle has been unable to do much itinerating this year. A walking tour around the field was made last August in company with the American Bible Society's agent in which a large number of tracts and Scripture portions were sold. The work has been greatly aided by the medical itineration of Dr. Ross.

Our preaching force has been strengthened by the addition of three Chinese from our training class. This enables us to more adequately man the work already under way, and to open a new chapel at Chai Kong. The progress of our work has been marked by the increasing relative importance of the out-stations. The older Stations are taking on new life. The signs of new life at Tung Pi noted last year have been increasingly realized. At Ham Kwong the first converts for six years have been received. The new chapels are doing well and are giving promise of speedy development. The work at Pak Fu has, however, been greatly hindered by the fall of one of its members, a medical student from Canton.

Seventy-one candidates were examined, and 26 were received.

The rest we hope soon to receive. Ten were over 60 years of age. After the uprising we had a number come to us from the district where it arose. They were members of a vegetarian society, formed for the deepening of the spiritual life. "Teach us first to pray," they said.

We have not been able to secure a site for our institutional work at Lien-chou City. Efforts to do so last summer and again this summer aroused considerable opposition. We are going ahead with our plans. The Intermediate Society of C. E. of the Scotch Presbyterian Church, N. Y., has sent a good beginning for a museum.

WOMEN'S WORK.—Miss Kunkle is on the field now and will soon take up this work. Monthly trips were made to Sam Kong, oftener when possible. Special meetings for women have been held.

EDUCATIONAL.—Boys' Boarding School.—The insurrection, having for its avowed purpose the closing of all new schools, threatening every scholar and teacher, made the continuance of the work precarious.

Many of the insurgents were ready to make an exception of our school as supported other than by taxation and as helping poor boys to get an education. We bent every effort to emphasize this position by keeping our schools going when all others had closed. Twice, however, we were compelled to dismiss the school. But as soon as the immediate danger was passed, effort was made to get scholars and teachers back again. At the end of the term we had only a third of our pupils left, but our purpose had been accomplished. At the beginning of the new term we reaped our advantage. When the government schools were deliberating as to the possibility of reopening, we were being pressed with applications for admission. We were able in a measure to pick our students and impose our conditions. Pupils were received up to our seventy limit. An added fee of one dollar was required, security for the payment of board and a written guarantee that the work of the year would be completed. The school was regraded. This gave us six classes, to which another will be added next year. We are fortunate in having three strong Christian teachers who have maintained the high standard for which the school has been known. Among the new boys received many were from the so-called "better families" of the city and district, but the majority are still from the poorer classes, and able to pay little towards their own support. They have shown an eagerness to work, although we could provide them with no better work than digging clay. More than 40 boys have taken a part in it, some getting up at 4 or 5 o'clock to get a turn. Thirteen of our boys appeared before the session for admission to the church.

Girls' Boarding School.—The troubles of last year naturally affected the Girls' School more than the Boys'. It had to be dismissed at the commencement of the riots and was barely able to open at New Year.

Many parents were still timid about sending their children away from home. Miss Patterson, in the meantime, had gone home on her furlough, so the prospects for the school were not bright. However, a good corps of Chinese teachers was got together and the school opened with 14 girls. Four girls have come before the Session for admission to the church. Last summer, through the generosity of the Philadelphia Board, a new building was put up to serve for class rooms, designed by Mr. Collins, of the Canton Christian College. The school is thus at last provided with an adequate plant and is in a way to realize the high ideals of its principal, Miss Patterson.

Day Schools.—Two new day-schools were opened this year. One, at the earnest request of a Christian, at his own home, to meet the needs of the region that was the seat of the insurrection of last year. The other is in connection with our chapel at Ham Kwong. Three of the pupils have applied for admission to the church.

The Sam Kong Girls' Day-school has had a very encouraging year. In the old, partially destroyed buildings two rooms have been fitted up. This school has not been successful since the removal of the boarding department from Sam Kong to Lien-chou. But this year it has taken a splendid start. We have two good teachers. Better than these two with their new ideas have been the prayers of three women for this school. There are 21 advanced pupils, 23 primary, and 7 women. Tuition all paid.

Training Class.—The training class for preachers has been continued. Three men have completed the course and a new, promising class has been formed.

MEDICAL.—The medical report speaks of abundant opportunity to preach the Gospel in the dispensaries and to the in-patients in the hospital. The work was handicapped by the riots for part of the year. Soldiers being stationed in the hospital did not add to its efficiency as a hospital. During the year three dispensaries have been opened at the out-stations. These have been very satisfactory, especially the one at Paak Fa. God has blessed our efforts in a few apparently hopeless cases, and we hope that this will win a place for His message.

YEUNG-KONG STATION.

The year shows an increase of Chinese workers, an increase in the attainments of the foreign force, an increase in native contributions, about the regular yearly increase in church membership, a growth in the schools and a general brightening of the situation.

We feel more nearly equipped for work and that we have safely passed the time of our greatest trials. There is a united purpose in the Station to press the work as never before.

Robbers in the country have hindered us somewhat, the revolutionary agitation has hindered us more, and the prevalence of the plague has hindered all our work, especially the school work.

Mrs. Creighton's coming was a pleasure to all, but the death of Mr. and Mrs. Thomson's child was a great sorrow.

Dr. and Mrs. Dobson left for a well-earned rest in America in April.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Each member of the Station has done considerable country itinerating—a fine record.

We have undertaken to provide some way for each employee on the compound to have the benefit of family prayers. While the masons and carpenters were with us, several attended the hospital chapel, and frequent informal Gospel talks were held with them by Dr. Dobson and Mr. Creighton.

EVANGELISTIC.—

We have introduced the plan of making well-tried preachers responsible for student colporteurs. Mrs. Dobson reports that the Bible woman work has grown so that in the near future we hope to have one woman at each chapel. Mr. Creighton has conducted a two weeks' class for Bible women and teachers. We are trying to make our workers more efficient.

Mrs. Dobson, Miss Wilcox, and Mrs. Thomson have done much visiting and conducted several cottage prayer-meetings.

Our Sunday-school is one of our best evangelistic agencies. Dr. Dobson has been superintendent, while each member of the Station has had a class. Average attendance 250. The hospital continues to be a first-class evangelistic agency. Miss Wilcox has the woman inquirers, while the local preacher has the men who are seeking light.

We have 21 evangelistic workers of various grades, of whom a third are new. Communicant membership is now 462. Christian Endeavor Society has an enrollment of 35.

MEDICAL.—The widespread regret among both officials and populace, which in places almost amounts to censure, when the Forman Memorial Hospital closes its doors upon the furlough or vacation of the foreign physician, is indicative of the present semi-public standing of this institution.

Although but ten months are included in this report, the total of visits approximates that of last year. This Hospital has now arrived at a period when, through natural growth, there is more work with its accompanying responsibility than can be attended to by one physician. A graduate from the Hackett Medical College for Women at Canton, Dr. Kwoo, has recently been employed and gives promise of affording much assistance among women.

Most of our patients come from the same circle as for the past three years. The Gospel is steadily being sown.

By far the most gratifying matter to report is that of the intelligent and deep interest taken in Gospel things by the patients in general. Services in the chapel were cheerfully attended morning and evening. During the day the foreign physicians and the native helpers, even to the lowest coolie, took turns in showing their colors in the wards.

Bedside work has been very fruitful. Every Sunday many of those who could walk went into the city to church. As most of the patients come from distant homes, few have joined the church in Yeung-kong. During the furlough of the foreign physician, one or two of the Chinese workers are touring the field and visiting former patients.

There is every promise that local friends may annually contribute towards the running expenses of the hospital. A subscription book will be circulated during the coming year, and self-support will be attempted.

EDUCATIONAL.—Boys' Schools.—The problem is the securing of suitable teachers.

If we had the teachers, we could in three years have 500 boys. The present year we have seven schools in connection with our chapels, six of which have a combined enrollment of 112, one school not reporting. Two of these schools are conducted by the chapel preachers, while in two other places the preacher assists. Four schools have been of no expense to the Mission, though we confess that these are the poorest schools in the field.

The Christians are now definitely committed to the Christian school system, many sending their boys at no small sacrifice. From a single locality five boys come to Yeung-kong 40 miles away, though there are supposedly good government schools in that city.

Several boys come to us who have native schools in their own villages. The best of it is that these boys pay all their expenses. At two chapels the schools are kept up by two or three Christians, in spite of the fact that there are other schools there.

In our Yeung-kong School we have 44 boys, 40 of whom pay all expenses, while four work for their tuition. One boy goes to school in the morning and herds goats in the afternoon. These facts are mentioned for the reason that two years ago there were many boys being helped by the Mission.

The missionary in charge cultivates outdoor games, and the results have been gratifying. Baseball and sports of different kinds have been indulged in. We expect to develop this side of the life of the boys, for we find that the spirit of the school is changed and discipline is much easier. We have several afternoons for the boys at the different homes at the compound, and we are all acquainted with the boys.

We have five new boys at Fati School, Canton. These boys borrow the money for their school expenses. After graduation from the Chung Hoak they teach, and each month pay back part of the debt until all is paid. In this way we indirectly help the boys, and we offer the choice of preaching and teaching, for we do not wish to force anyone to become a preacher.

Girls' School.—The year's work has been very encouraging. We are following the course recommended by the Educational Society for the two Kwong provinces, though some classes are irregular at present. Two years' work has been prefixed to this course for the little ones.

We had an enrollment of 60. When the bubonic plague became so bad, many of the day pupils shut themselves up at home, fearing to venture out lest they become infected. Two of our children were taken with this dread disease; one a little boy, the other was "Peace," the Bible woman's little girl, seven years of age. Just before she died she called for Jesus to come for her; pleaded with her uncle and aunt to repent and follow Jesus, and asked to have "Jesus Loves Me" sung.

Seven of the girls have been before the Session, wishing to be received into the church.

Only one so far has been accepted, as the most of them are rather young. It has been our aim to keep before the pupils the main reason for opening the school, which is to teach them of the love of our Saviour, and to endeavor to bring them to love and serve Him; that this was more important than learning characters, but the learning of characters should be a help in their Christian life, making them more useful workers for the Master. At morning prayers each one has her Bible verse ready to repeat.

The Industrial Department has been an expense rather than a help financially, but it has taught the girls that their hands should be useful as well as their heads.

WOMEN'S WORK.—The women's work and the medical work are closely allied. Regular clinics have been kept up by Mrs. Patton in the Ko-chou City street chapel, together with a quarterly round of the field. 604 women and children have been treated, of whom 372 were "return" patients. Over 1,000 women, by actual record, have attended the Gospel services in connection with the clinics.

These clinic services afforded excellent "practice" for the class of women we have in training for Bible women. As these women as yet know little of the Gospel, I choose one of their number for each clinic, select the topic on which she is to speak, teach her to read the Scripture passage, give her a rough outline of the way in which the subject may be treated and finally hear her go through her talk from beginning to end, to make sure that all is straight.

This work, together with two hours of daily teaching, has given me close contact with the women. The Romanized Cantonese only is used. The women, who as a rule have no previous ability to read, learn in four months to read anything at sight. It has been impossible for us to secure a woman teacher from Canton, so we have pressed the local preacher and another man into service as teachers.

For the summer months two of these women have been assigned to chapels in the lower part of the field to work among the women and teach a local class in Romanization. We hope thus to start more of our women toward the ability to read the Scriptures and to popularize the Romanized. From these temporary classes we may secure recruits for the Ko Chou group.

KO-CHOU FIELD.—Mr. Patton reports that the year has marked a readjustment stage.

All our preachers have been reassigned to other posts; a new group plan for our colporteurs has been tried; new preachers' examinations and salary regulations, also regulations for theological students, have been introduced. New and uniform school curricula also have been adopted. With this readjustment there has come the inevitable "jar," in some respects interfering temporarily with "results," but, we trust, leading to better things later.

Under the Expansion Fund Work, three new chapels, at Chei Kai, Tin Pak City and Shek Kwat, have been opened during the year, making 13 in all.

Ten elementary schools in connection with the chapels have enrolled about 230 pupils.

Three members of the Ko-chou City Church have districted the city, and once each month, voluntarily, post a new street poster, anti-opium, cigarette, plague, evangelistic, etc. Each chapel of the field is doing a similar work.

Our group system, with regular Sabbath services in distant localities, each under a local leader, has proven a help in shepherding our scattered flock. Two of these groups have become full-fledged chapels, Wong Tong and Tung Chan.

The erection of our church building and dwelling house has taken much of our time.

In response to urgent solicitation, we taught two hours of English each week to about 40 of the Government School students. One of the three teachers of English in the Government Schools is a sturdy Christian, a graduate of the Canton Christian College, and has proven a great help to the work.

Mr. Patton closes his report with the following discussion of the weighty subject of the upper classes and the church:

The most marked feature of our year's work has been the development of contact with the upper classes. The gentry meet us socially, but remain aloof from our religious services. There are two apparent reasons for this aloofness; the character of our chapel buildings and a misconception concerning our public services. In all too many instances the chapel and its furnishing are such that a well-dressed gentleman cannot find congenial surroundings; perhaps not unclean, but crude. This is an unavoidable concomitant of our policy of local self-help; a development of property, etc., together with the numerical growth and financial strength of the local group of Christians. The democracy of the Gospel, too, makes it inevitable; the gowned scholar must sit by the barefooted farmer. For the unchristianized Chinese this is a big hindrance. This part of the problem we are seeking to solve by our new church. We are experimenting with a block of "seats reserved for students." In this block the better-class man (always a student past or present) can be seated. This is a natural Chinese distinction and perfectly unobjectionable. Carefully safeguarded until the leaven of Christian brotherhood makes a change, it may aid in the solution of this part of the problem.

A misconception as to the nature of our public worship prevents many from attendance and consequently better understanding of our Gospel. The unthinking come freely and listen. It is for the thinking, educated man that we are just now concerned. He will sit and chat socially up to the very moment of public service; then make a polite withdrawal, despite pressing invitations to remain. Why? Partly because he fears his presence, with the social attentions it necessitates, may interfere with our duties; partly because he feels that his mere presence at the worship makes him a worshiper. Even had he no scruples concerning himself or fears of what his friends might think, his unfamiliarity with the ways of our worship might make him "lose face" by some blunder or other, so he discreetly withdraws. To induce him to sit through a public service, even as many do in the homeland without actual participation, would lead to much profit and a clearer understanding of our ways and worship.

As an attempt to solve this problem and bring the better classes into contact with the church, we have organized a "Men's Association," which includes any man of good character who will pledge himself to seek the highest good of body and soul for himself and others. So far we have held about eight meetings in our study and have enrolled over 30 members, one-half of whom are non-Christian gentry. Every Saturday evening an address or debate on some current topic is held, together with a business session for the consideration of practical work. For the summer months the Association has undertaken to keep a fifteen foot wide grassy promenade round the city wall cleared of weeds, for the citizens on hot evenings—the city park. A committee was appointed to report in October on a plan for opening a poor boys' industrial school next year. The Association has also undertaken to provide a stone walk along the rice fields, thus making a shorter walk from the city gate to the new church. The Association will regularly meet in the church where it will have a small social room, a reading room, book-lending library and a book-shop. A Sunday Bible class and week-day classes for Government School students in English, etc., will probably be added during the fall. Singularly enough, though all meetings open and close with devotional exercises and the topics discussed are more frequently religious than secular, these gentry offer no objection, even enter freely into all—merely making the reservation that they have not “entered the church.” To what this may grow we cannot say. We merely prayerfully press forward, step by step, ever seeking a better way.

Ko-chou being a Fu City, there are naturally numerous officials and their associates of the upper classes. To all these we have ready access and with them frequent interchange of calls. Our old living quarters forbade any official return calls, though the Fu official even ventured to seek us out for one such call. In our new compound, provision is being made for these social amenities. A favorite procedure recently for the members of the Men's Association has been to bring prospective members to call upon us. Every such call of course necessitates a return call at least.

Among our more intimate acquaintances or friends may be noted a member of the new National Assembly, the heads of the three government schools, the chief of police, etc. Several of the teachers in the schools are interested in the Men's Association.

TRANSFERS: Rev. W. T. Locke, from Hengchow to Chenchow; Rev. Samuel C. McKee and Mrs. McKee, from Chenchow to Hengchow.

FURLOUGHS DURING THE YEAR: Miss Effie Murray, Rev. Gilbert Lovell and Mrs. Lovell, Dr. E. D. Vanderburgh and Mrs. Vanderburgh, Miss Annie Morton, Miss Emma T. Kolfrat, Rev. D. E. Crabb and Mrs. Crabb, Rev. G. F. Jenkins and Mrs. Jenkins, Rev. A. R. Kepler.

SIANGTAN STATION.

Though now slightly ancient history, yet for the sake of completeness in our records, even at this late date, mention should be made of the Changsha riots of April, 1910, and the consequent unrest throughout Hunan which led the governments temporarily to call all foreigners out of the province. On April 16, all but Mr. Lingle boarded the governor's launch which was sent to fetch the Siangtan missionaries, and the party left for Hankow. After taking the women and children to Kuling, Dr. Vanderburgh and Mr. Kepler returned to Siangtan, followed shortly afterwards by Mrs. Lingle and Miss Murray, and the work of the schools and hospital was continued until they were closed for the summer vacation.

Except for the one fatal sickness, resulting in the death of Dorothy Kepler, the health of the Station has been very good.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Siangtan Church.—Fourteen were added to the church on profession of faith and one by letter. The C. E. was reorganized and its services follow immediately after the Bible study service.

An Inquirers' Training Class was started in the spring, meeting just before the afternoon service. Eighteen inquirers are enrolled and an increasing interest is being taken.

Weekly systematic giving was also launched during the year, and it immediately resulted in a large increase in the weekly offering, which increase has been maintained up to the present.

An effort to put the finances into the hands of the Christians and to give them a share in the conduct of the work through the appointment of an Advisory Committee, an embryonic Session, was not so successful. They did not show any inclination to assume these responsibilities.

The Sunday-school has been under the superintendence of Mr. Sen and Mr. Liu, successively. There has been an average attendance of about 130, which have been divided into 10 classes, including the Primary Department.

In order to get a more strategic place, the chapel in the Fourteenth Ward was rented to the C. M. S. and our work transferred to the main street in the Ninth Ward. The results immediately indicated that this move was a wise one. The chapel is crowded every evening, and the people are most orderly and attentive. We have, in addition to the regular preaching service, a library and reading room, dispensary, day-school and evening classes. The reading room and library are well attended; we estimate that at the present rate more than 10,000 will make use of the rooms in the present twelve months.

Out-Station.—Of the out-station work the report says:

At Yi-gia-wan Mr. Ho, who has had two terms in the Evangelists' Training School, is faithfully disseminating the spoken and printed Word. We have only two Christians at this place. Our previous evangelist had a very successful day-school at this place, but this very fact prevented his doing any aggressive evangelistic work. Consequently there were few if any inquirers. Since Mr. Ho has been appointed to the place, a new interest has been awakened. One old Buddhist who for thirty-two years had been a vegetarian has removed the taboo on meat and is showing a real faith in Jesus Christ and the Gospel.

Yi-soh-ho was unfortunate in having a weak and indiscreet young man as resident helper. The work suffered accordingly. In January we stationed there one of our Siangtan Christians, Mr. Wang Deh-shin. He is an earnest Christian, but lacks training. There are seven church members in this place and a half-dozen inquirers. Five children of Christians were baptized the past year.

Giang-chê.—Old Mr. Chang, one of our first and most faithful Christians and helpers, had been transferred to this place from Yi-soh-ho only a few months when he became sick and was moved to Siangtan, where he died in the latter part of November. Mr. Li was transferred from Yi Gia-wan to take Mr. Chang's place at Giang-chê.

Siang Hsiang is the last, largest and most important of our out-stations. It was opened at the close of our last fiscal year. It is a prosperous hsien city 90 li to the west of Siangtan. Mr. Li Goh-dzien, formerly at Giang-chê was placed in charge of the chapel here. Mr. Lingle has paid fortnightly visits to this place.

WOMEN'S WORK.—We are at last seeing a renewal of Women's Work in Siangtan. Mrs. Djoh, who came from Shanghai with Dr. and Mrs. Tooker, gave two months in the spring to Bible woman's work. She spent several hours daily in visiting the homes of the people, telling the women the Gospel story. She had earnest listeners and received many cordial invitations to repeat the visit. On Saturday afternoons, Miss Woods and the Bible woman would together visit in the homes and urge the women to attend the Sabbath afternoon service in the Ninth Ward chapel, where Miss Woods and the Bible woman tried to teach them to read and to understand the simple Gospel truths. They were very much encouraged by the number of women who attended this service, from 15 to 20 being usually present.

Mrs. Djoh also taught a class of heathen women in the Sunday-school. This effort to reach the women began to tell immediately in the attendance at the church services. In the coming year Miss Woods expects to devote half of her time to this work, and we hope that Mrs. Djoh, too, will be able to resume the duties of a Bible woman in the autumn.

EDUCATIONAL.—Day-schools.—The scarcity of suitable teachers has obliged us to have fewer day-schools than formerly. Reports from four of these indicate a total attendance of 68.

Boarding Schools.—John Well's Boarding School for Boys.—Mr. and Mrs. Lingle have continued in charge of this school and have both of them carried a heavy teaching schedule. This has been banner year for the Boys' School in every way. There has been an increase of 22 students over last year, making 52, with a total enrollment of 68. There were more applications, but they had to be refused. Fortunately, a special gift of $260 gold from Mr. Post was just then received, to be used for the Boys' School where most needed. This enabled Mr. and Mrs. Lingle to erect a large one-story dining-hall. The room formerly used as a dining-hall can now be used as the assembly-room for the pupils of the elementary grade. And when the new residence is completed, the second story of the west wing of the school now occupied by the Lingles will be available for dormitories. In January, the school gave a diploma to its first graduate, Yo Yao-ling, who at that time completed the prescribed course of study.

The spirit of New China showed itself among the boys. Last winter they had a very exciting day when 15 of the boys cut their queues and appeared in Western tonsure. They sold their discarded queues and put the proceeds in the Y. M. C. A. treasury. The spirit of the school has been excellent. The boys revel in football. Twice a week they have military drill, the instructor being a qualified drill-master in the local military camp. We have been especially gratified with the spiritual condition of the student body. Two joined the church during the year. A number of the boys meet every noon for Bible study and prayer, while several of them take turns in assisting in the evening street chapel preaching. The Y. M. C. A. had six representatives at the recent conference at Lien Hwa Tung. Among them were the leaders of the school. One of these decided to give his life to the Christian ministry.

The Sunny Side School for Girls.—This school has experienced a steady growth since 1904, when its history began with one little girl whom the missionary had rescued from a life which is worse than death—a life of slavery. To-day there are 31 pupils enrolled. Miss Murray continued in charge of the school until Miss Kolfrat returned to resume the duties which Miss Murray had so acceptably performed during her absence. Miss Kolfrat writes:

The great problem which confronted us on my return from furlough was how to run a girls' school for three months without any appropriation, as all had been used. I found Him faithful who promised, "Ask and it shall be given you." Money came from unexpected sources, which enabled us to close the year without a deficit. I was able to secure in Shanghai a lady teacher for our school. Miss Chen was a young woman soon to graduate from our South Gate Girls' School. Her coming made it possible to open a primary department, a long-felt need in our school. The primary is our special pride and delight. Eight little tots, ranging in age from six to eight, with snapping black eyes and such cunning round faces, have been enrolled. One, the youngest, when being examined on her 1,000 characters at the close of school, missed but one. Their singing is excellent and the progress they have made in sewing would delight the heart of any mother.

Five of the girls were baptized and received into the church. About a dozen of the older girls have joined the Pocket Testament League and have pledged themselves to carry a Testament with them and to use it every day. The League is doing much to form the habit of daily Bible reading. They meet daily for prayer.

MEDICAL WORK.—The work of the hospital and dispensary has witnessed a steady growth, for only a short time last summer and autumn during the general unrest throughout Hunan was there a temporary decrease in the number of applications for healing. A marked increase in the number of dispensary patients was noted after the dispensary was moved from the Fourteenth Ward to Main Street in the Ninth Ward. The old place was in a less bustling locality, and the dispensary, being in the rear of the building, had too forbidding an aspect to the already fearsome might-be patient. The medical work shows an advance in the increasing confidence of the people. The dispensary patients for the last calendar year were over 5,000, and at the present rate for this year will be over 6,000.

Another advance has been in the securing of a most earnest evangelist for the hospital. He assists with the dispensary patients and does personal work with the in-patients.

An interesting case was that of a woman who brought her son for an operation. Both became at once interested in the Gospel, and it was encouraging to see the son sitting up in bed reading his New Testament. They had been in the hospital but a few days when she said: "We have removed all the idols from our house. When my son heard the truth he made me go home and do it, and now they are all gone." She is attending the inquirers' class and seems an earnest believer.

CONFERENCES.—The Second Annual Conference of Hunan Christians was held in Siangtan, February 12 to 19. There were 42 delegates present from the other Stations. The delegates during two afternoons separated into small bands and preached and sold Scriptures on the streets throughout Siangtan. An appeal was made for contributions of days of service, and 31 people contributed 726 days and 176 evenings for the next twelve months to the preaching of the Gospel.

HENGCHOW STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Aside from the regular services for Christians, there has been daily evangelistic preaching in each of the two city chapels, in which missionaries, Chinese evangelists and church members, voluntarily offering their services, have shared. Each of the country circuits has had a missionary's visit at least four times. For the people in our country fields, the novelty of the thing has largely worn off, and we are now down to the substratum of those really interested. We have succeeded, without any outside intervention, in renting chapels in several towns where we have long tried in vain for a foothold.

The annual conference of city and country Christians was held in the fall and proved to be of great spiritual value.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—In the Boarding School there were, during the year, 14 boys constantly in attendance. In the middle of the winter we were compelled to move the boys' school into the house used as an Evangelists' Training School, lest the old mud building should collapse in the night and kill or injure the pupils.

Some of the boys are deeply interested in Christianity and two of the larger boys profess to believe in Jesus Christ. That they may all be led to follow Him and become fishers of men is our hope and prayer.

WOMEN'S WORK.—The women's work progresses slowly in Hengchow, and the loss of the valuable Bible woman, Mrs. Chang, whose ill health prevented her return to us in February, was keenly felt. She was highly respected by all who knew her and the women and girls love her.

The Women's Bible School closed with nine in attendance and with evidence of progress made on the part of all. Three have since received baptism, and their lives since have shown growth in grace and knowledge of the Lord.

Four of our girls attended the boarding school of the London Mission during the year. Miss Coxen reports that one of these is the best student in the school while another was the cause of much trouble.

The regular women's meetings at the two chapels in the city were encouraging in the fact that there were those whose presence could be counted upon, as well as the casual visitors and onlookers.

MEDICAL WORK.—The hospital is at last completed and is waiting only for equipment to begin work. As during last year, only dispensary work was engaged in; patients were seen every second day, starting at 1 P.M. Emergency cases were seen at any hour. The total number of patients seen was 1,981, there being 1,127 new cases and 854 return cases.

EVANGELISTS' TRAINING SCHOOL.—The 1911 session of the Evangelists' Training School had 14 students, who may be classified as follows: Changteh, 2; Chenchow, 4; Hengchow, 6; Siangtan, 1; London Mission, 1.

For the first time in the life of the school a class finished the five years' course prescribed by the Mission. Four graduates received diplomas or certificates.

Each student was required to do evangelistic preaching once a week at the city chapels. On Chinese New Year's day they made a systematic broadcast distribution of calendars in the temples and among the boat population. At the great annual festival of the second month in Hengchow's foremost temple, the teacher and students, assisted by some church members, after gathering for prayer in the chapel, went forth and sold tracts to the crowds in the temple grounds on two successive days.

CHENCHOW STATION.

The actual force on the field this year comprised: Mr. Mitchell, who had charge of the evangelistic work; Mrs. Mitchell, who had charge of the women's work and girls' school; Mr. Derr, head of the Boys' Academy; Mrs. Derr, who had charge of girls' school and woman's work for the first half of the year; Dr. Lewis and Dr. Berst, in charge of medical work; Mrs. Berst, Mr. and Mrs. McKee. The last three were engaged in language study, Mrs. Berst having completed the second section of the course of study and Mr. and Mrs. McKee the first section.

At the beginning of the year, in April, our new church was dedicated.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The evangelistic work this year has shown an encouraging advancement. There were 73 baptisms, 52 adults and 21 infants. Our total communicant membership now numbers 259. The church members are each year showing a willingness to make larger contributions to their church. The Christians at Chenchow gave $20 for famine relief, have $40 in the treasury for the purchase of land for a cemetery, besides having met the running expenses of the church, such as caring for the church and supplying oil. Gwei Yang Chow has a fund of nearly $100, which is accumulating for the purchase of land and the erection of a new building. The general expenses of the chapel, such as oil for lights and tea, have been met by the contributions each Sabbath. Lin Wu pays all the running expenses of its own church, and $2 a month has been raised to cover part of the support of an itinerant elder, amounting in all to nearly $50. Gia Ho is also accumulating a fund to be used in repairing the chapel and making additions to it. The amount raised during the year is about $30. Yui Hsin and Hsing Ning have Sabbath collections, but no more than the oil and tea expenses. Lan San has just begun Sabbath collections, and on account of the difficulties connected with renting a chapel, there has not been much done in this line.

The fact that in a field comprising 6,000 square miles we are the only Christian agency, makes the evangelistic work of special importance. Mr. Mitchell made ten trips into the country in the last six months, having spent sixty days away from home and traveled a distance of 550 miles, or 1,640 li. Over 100 inquirers have been examined since the beginning of January, and during the fifteen months there were 155 examinations.

The regular preaching services have been held each day in the Chenchow chapel, the attendance averaging 20 persons. Occasionally a magic lantern and phonograph have been taken to the chapel, and these attracted large crowds, affording a good opportunity for preaching and selling tracts.

The Mission has been much helped by the American Bible Society, which has stationed three colporteurs in the field under the supervision of the missionaries. They have sold over 4,000 portions of Scripture.

The Sunday-school has grown during the year. The secretary reports an average attendance of 128; the largest number was 170, the smallest 99. Chenchow is the only Station in our district where we have a Sunday-school.

WORK AMONG WOMEN.—After Mrs. Mitchell's arrival the work was taken up energetically. Regular meetings were held each week, there having been 22 in all, with an average attendance of 35, smallest number 12 and the largest 75. The women have shown good interest in these meetings, which is due in the greater part to the many visits, 105 in all, which Mrs. Mitchell has made in their homes.

EDUCATIONAL.—Boys' Academy.—This institution is under the care of Mr. Derr. The enrollment was 40 for the first term, and 51 for the second. Thirty-six pupils successfully finished the work of the first term and 43 completed the studies of the second term.

The following statistics are based on the records of the 43 boys:

The pupils represent eight counties of South Hunan. The ages of the boys vary from 10 to 20 years, with 4 exceptions, the average being about 16.

During the year four students united with the church on confession of faith. With the exception of one, who will assist in his father's shop, all this year's graduates will continue their studies in higher schools. One will go to a medical school, while the Union Theological Seminary at Nanking and the Yale Mission School at Changsha have each offered a scholarship for one.

Girls' School.—The girls have contributed $42 toward their support. As we have said in former reports, nearly all of our scholars are from poor homes, and it is impossible for them to pay all their board, although owing to the splendid management of our school cook, who is a most earnest and honest Christian woman, the board only amounted to the exceedingly small sum of $1.25 per month for each student. Nine girls united with the church this year. Half of the girls are communicant Christians, while all but two come from homes where at least one parent is a Christian.

Day-schools.—There are five good schools in the out-stations which report 57 pupils.

MEDICAL.—This has been the first year that the hospital has had its proper equipment of instruments, sterilizer and beds. Forty beds were put up in October, and in less than two months they were all filled. The hospital was open only 11 months. On account of the riots, Dr. Berst had to leave for Kuling with the women and children in May.

Regular medical itineration has had its first year's trial. In all eight trips have been made, covering 2,420 li or 807 miles. 3,066 cases were treated, including 39 minor operations. One hundred and twenty of the patients come to the hospital from these outlying districts both for operative and medical treatment.

CHANGTEH STATION.

The Changteh Station has been reinforced by the coming of Miss Minta Ellington, who is to help in the Girls' Boarding School, and by Mr. William C. Chapman, who is temporarily stationed at Taoyuen.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—During the year we have received 14 members into the church on profession of faith. There are now 88 members of the church at Changteh.

The evangelistic work among women was in charge of Mrs. Preston, and the year just ended was most encouraging in every respect. From September until January an unusually large number of visitors were received. In the fifth-ward guest room, by actual count, there were received 1,266 woman visitors. Many women came from miles around, and the Gospel has thus penetrated far into the country. Mrs. Preston has spent three afternoons a week in house-to-house visitation. A large territory has been covered in the city as well as surrounding country.

Mrs. Preston also gave much time and strength to famine relief work, spending fourteen days during the coldest weather in the worst of the famine district with Mr. Preston and Mr. Stewart.

The Wednesday prayer services for women were splendidly attended, an average of 35 and often 50 women coming. It was a rule that all members should take part in the services, and all responded either by prayer or testimony.

English Bible classes were taught during the year. These classes were held at times that would not interfere with other work. The young men were from the post-office, government schools and retired wealthy classes of the city. Through these students entrance has been gained into some of the most exclusive homes of the city.

At Taoyuen, which is connected with Changteh as an out-station, the work was conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins until they left on furlough. Mr. Chapman then assumed charge, and will be there during the coming year. All the regular services of the church were maintained, there being also a prosperous Sunday-school.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Girls' Boarding School.—Owing to a disturbance in the school in October, the girls were sent home for the first term. The second term of the year, therefore, began with only seven pupils, but it was encouraging to notice the changed atmosphere of the school. There is now a good foundation upon which to build. Previously our number of non-Christian girls was so out of proportion to the number of Christians that it was almost impossible to foster a school spirit. The few girls with us in the spring realized that they were there upon their good behavior, and the fact that there were so few tended to develop a proper esprit de corps.

John Miller School for Boys.—Mr. Lovell writes:

At the beginning of the fall term we had thirteen boys and two teachers. In a month after school opened, we found it necessary to dismiss one of the boys. Soon after this incident, Mrs. Lovell was compelled to dismiss the wife of one of our boys' school teachers who has been studying in the girls' school. We anticipated trouble from this action, but never dreamed that it would be so serious as finally occurred. While Mrs. Lovell was trying to quell the resulting disturbance in the girls' school, I was amazed to face a rebellion in the boys' school. After a day or two of great disturbance and excitement, I closed the school pending an inquiry into the causes of all the trouble.

The new term opened February 17, and, as it progressed, presented a striking contrast to the previous one. We had 19 boarders and one day-pupil—all we could accommodate. It was gratifying to have all the boys apply for admission, and all but two were received. At least five more boys applied for admission during the term, but for one reason or another we judged it best to refuse them.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Logan writes:

This, the thirteenth year of medical work in Changteh, has been, we believe, the most fruitful year of our service—certainly, it has been the busiest and happiest.

First of all would we place the spiritual results. The tracts and Scripture portions distributed to the patients, and the Gospel teaching of the hospital, we find bear fruit far beyond the tangible results that can be noted any one year, but it is always particularly gratifying to hear of definite instances where patients have accepted the Gospel as a result of hospital work. This year we can report two accessions to the church: one a prosperous farmer and the other a hospital assistant. Almost as encouraging is the good news that a former patient left word with his wife that he was not to be buried with heathen rites, as he had believed the Gospel ever since he heard it years ago at the hospital. Still another patient, who lives several hundred miles away, met a former employee of the hospital and sent 6,000 cash to us to pay the amount due for his treatment several years before.

Women's Hospital.—After twelve years of waiting, through the kindness of the ladies of the Salt River (Mo.) Presbytery, land was bought adjoining the men's compound for the women's hospital. The old buildings which were on this land were sold for enough to enable us to put up a small temporary ward for women. There are beds for twelve patients; but, ignoring the physical law that no two bodies can occupy the same place at the same time, Mrs. Logan packed 20 patients into 12 beds.

We now have the assurance that $2,500 gold will be forthcoming this year for building the women's hospital and $4,000 gold for buying land and enlarging the men's hospital.

Men's Hospital.—Owing to the great number of surgical cases that needed us, the doctor had to refuse many medical patients and to limit the number of those who came to break off the opium habit to three at a time. Many cases came from distant places, often a half-dozen at a time, and it has been distressing to have them sleeping in the hall, on the narrow veranda, and even in an old shed, but only in this way could we accommodate the most needy ones in busy times.

The number of tubercular-bone cases is noteworthy. At one time there were 19—more than half the entire number of patients in the men's hospital. The report speaks of one patient as follows:

One of our patients is head priest in one of the temples of Changteh. For 19 years he had suffered from convulsive facial neuralgia. This is one of the most distressing diseases that flesh is heir to. Every few minutes, night and day, this poor man would have an attack so severe that it would cause him to violently rub his face until the skin came off in places. The operation required the dissection of two branches of the offending nerve. To get at one branch just after it left the brain, it was necessary to temporarily remove the cheek bone and chisel through the bones forming the floor of the eye socket. The day following the patient was decidedly more comfortable than he had been for years, and has not had a recurrence of the neuralgia since. One can see by talking to him that it would be an awful sacrifice to give up his priesthood and serve God. The conflict in his heart is apparently uncertain at present.

GENERAL.—This year a flood, rivaling any of previous years, has visited the city and district of Changteh. For four years these floods have been gradually increasing in volume and destructiveness. The one last year broke the record up to that time, and yet the flood this year is four feet higher than that of last year. Dikes have broken and the water is everywhere like an inland sea. Much damage has been done in the city, but the greatest sufferers are the farming population. Their farms are under water and the present crops destroyed. This much afflicted people need the prayers of God's people everywhere. What the future holds in the way of protection from these floods it is impossible to say, but it seems certain that scientific engineering needs to be done in order that there may not be constant repetition of these floods.

The Mission was reinforced during the year by the appointment of Miss Esther M. Gauss.

NINGPO STATION.

A few items only can be selected from the reports of the extensive country and evangelistic work.

At Dziang-'o-z, the congregation is outgrowing its building. The earnest, substantial character of the recent converts in this field, and the fact that so many whole families have come into the church together, gives good promise for the future of the work.

In September, meetings for women and children were begun by Miss Dickie on Friday afternoons, in Bing-gyiao-deo Street Chapel, in the midst of a populous non-Christian section of Ningpo City. When the chapel doors are opened the children from the street come in, and the mothers follow, often with some work in hand to stay only a little while, but others remain till the close of the meeting. The men are not allowed inside; but they stand about the door and often slip in. The Bible woman usually acts as door-keeper, to let the women and children in and keep the men out.

As usual, special evangelistic meetings intended to reach non-Christians were conducted in all our churches and chapels during the Chinese sixth month. As Mr. and Mrs. Wright have spent the summer in Ningpo, we are able to give a first-hand report of this work in North Bank Chapel. Mr. Wright says:

"The work has been difficult yet very enjoyable. The sight of dozens of faces listening to the story of the love of God and of His Son is enough to make anyone forget the heat of the air and the weariness of the mind. And the hotter the night, the larger the audience, so that one could not wish for a cool evening if he wished to do good work."

Having been made stated supply of the Song-'ô Church, Mr. Knickerbocker has made regular quarterly visits to the groups comprising this church (Song-'ô, Siao-yuih, Pah-kwun and Pin-teng), besides making extra tours in which these places were visited as well as several other out-stations. Mrs. Knickerbocker accompanied her husband on most of these itinerations. The work among women in the Song-'ô and Zông-yü fields is much more backward than that among men, and it is hoped that this joint itinerant work will help to even things up a bit.

The encouraging results from the work done by the bands of evangelists sent out last year led to the continuation of the plan this year. A band of five or six spent most of the month of May working the regions north of Yü-yao. Again they found the people eager to listen to their message. As a result of last year's demonstration in force by this band of itinerant evangelists, we are now undertaking the opening of a new out-station.

The Bible women have done good work in all of the out-stations, going two by two in this work.

Of some of the country workers, Mr. Wright says:

Too often these country workers tend to settle into a rut and to stay there indefinitely. It must be admitted, too, that the encouragement to do differently is not very great externally. If these men cannot find within themselves hope and faith that will produce vigorous zeal, they will hardly find it in the churches over which they minister. If there is one problem that troubles more than any other here, I judge it to be the problem of deadness. We have never had any serious persecutions in the churches of this region, and I often wonder whether we do not need them. At least the effort is being made to help the resident worker stir up the church, and if the church responds ever so little, it will surprise itself before long. We have also to report that a considerable part of the support of the local evangelist has been assumed by business men whose early home was in this region, but who are now in Shanghai. They are, of course, Christian men.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—

The Day-schools now number 11, with an enrollment of 320 pupils; an increase over last year of one school and 55 pupils. Soon after Chinese New Year there was a meeting of the day-school teachers for the second annual day's conference. This they seemed to enjoy. The plan is to make more and more of this yearly conference, for it is painfully evident that the necessity of using men who have had no normal training requires that everything possible should be done to make good that lack. The teachers are most of them graduates of the Ningpo Academy, and the reopening of that institution next year ought to be successful, if for no other reason, because of the interest these teachers will take in sending their country pupils to the Academy.

Girls' Boarding School.—

The school has been full and many were turned away. The enrollment for the year was 89 and the average attendance 82. Sixty-two were boarders and 26 were day-pupils. Miss Duncan says:

"The greatest of joys has been mine this year in seeing 11 of my girls unite with the church. On June 26 a class of 10 received their diplomas and 2 in the Intermediate Department their certificates. These latter and 4 of the graduates are to go to our Union Girls' School in Hangchow. One goes to Shanghai to study kindergarten methods. Another returns to us as a pupil-teacher. Another goes as a teacher in a gentry school for a year.

The Girls' Intermediate Boarding School—usually called the "Short Term" School—was held in Yü-yao. The term began in October and lasted three months, Mrs. Shoemaker being in charge. Twenty-four were enrolled, ranging in age from 11 to 19 years. Five of these are professing Christians; the rest, with two exceptions, are daughters of Christians or inquirers or else prospective daughters-in-law to be married into Christian homes. Those who could not read began with the primer in Romanized Chinese; and with the exception of three or four, all learned to read, getting a fair knowledge of the Life of Christ from their own reading and from the oral lessons.

Women's Classes.—During the year two successful Women's Classes have been conducted. There were enrolled 24 women, and 9 children came with their mothers. Two of the children were old enough to attend day-school; 3 were babies in arms; the other 4 were between the ages of these. The women ranged in age from young women in their teens to women between 50 and 60.

The spring class, conducted by Miss Rollestone, in Yü-yao, was in session two months. Fifty-three were enrolled. These, with 20 children and the helpers, kept things in an over-crowded condition most of the time. A large number were farmers' wives and were obliged to leave when farming time began. That this class of people is increasingly desirous of study, and that husbands and other relatives are willing to make it possible for their women to attend classes, are most promising signs.

The Bible Women's Training Class deserves separate mention. They are all fine Christian characters and willing workers.

The Men's Class, or Bible School, was conducted for a month in Yü-yao by Mr. Shoemaker at the beginning of the Chinese year. There was an enrollment of 32, ranging in age from 16 to 60. The oldest man walked in from the country more than three miles each day, stipulating that if it rained he could not come. But he said, laughingly, "I have six teachers; three in the class and three at home, so I can't but study." The three at home are a daughter, niece and sister-in-law, all of whom have studied in the "Short Term" School or the Women's Class.

Students for the Ministry now number five, and all are attending Hangchow College, though one is giving us a year's work as a day-school teacher before finishing his work in college.

MEDICAL WORK.—In a neighboring city to Yü-Yao there is a small hospital provided by the gentry of that place, with a Christian Chinese physician in charge, trained by Dr. Venable, of the Southern Presbyterian Mission.

SHANGHAI PRESS—BINDERY.

He treated over 10,000 out-patients last year and 100 or more in-patients. Not only did he take in enough to provide himself a living, but all the running expenses, excepting a grant-in-aid of $200 Mex. from the gentry, came from the fees, and the neat sum of $700 Mex. was left for additional equipment.

CONFERENCES.—

As usual, Autumn and Spring Conferences were held with the pastors and evangelists of our whole field. These are a very helpful part of our work. One of the finest things of the autumn Conference was an address by one of the oldest pastors telling the younger men "some things the preacher of the Gospel ought not to do."

The Provincial Federation Council, held in the city of Taichow in April, although not properly a part of the Station work, may well be reported in this connection, as Pastor Zia, of Koa-gyiao, and Mr. Knickerbocker were two of the three delegates of our Mission, the other being Pastor Tsang Pao-dzang, of Hangchow, who was Secretary of the Council. Seven Missions were represented by twelve Chinese and ten missionaries. Only one Mission of those working in Chekiang Province was not represented. This was a time of good fellowship, and the Communion Service, which was not on the program, was the best part of it all; when all the delegates sat together at the table of the Lord—Episcopalian, Methodist, close-communion Baptist and Presbyterian—all looked alike.

SHANGHAI STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—

In material things Shanghai has made great progress in the last six years. Railroads, tram cars, water-works systems, electric-light plants, an organized police force, educational institutions and a municipal government in Shanghai are making the Chinese familiar with the material benefits of Western civilization, and the Chinese themselves have not been slow to finance and manage these things for themselves.

The changes which are taking place in the life of the Church are no less evident than those which are taking place in the material life of Shanghai. Advance is being made in every line of work. We have more and better helpers than we ever had before, but at no time have we felt the need of helpers more than at the present time. We rejoice that the Chinese themselves, those who are not paid by the Mission, are realizing their responsibility, and are more and more willing to assume the responsibility of evangelizing their own people. The spirit of independence, now in evidence in China, sometimes foolishly, presents new problems to the foreign missionary, but it is the harbinger of better things to come.

The three churches—the South Gate Church, the Mission Press Church and the Hongkew Church—have all continued their work and advanced in it.

Closely connected with the South Gate Church is the work of the Street Chapel in the eastern suburb of the Native City. We rented the building in October and started a Sunday-school, and the attendance has varied from 9 to 75. More than once some relative has come in and grabbed some youngster by the queue and marched him out, lest he should be contaminated by contact with the Foreign Religion. In the Press Church there were 25 additions to the church during the year on profession of faith. The total membership is now 228. The church day-schools have an enrollment of 90, and school fees were received to the amount of $450. The contributions of the church for congregational expenses and benevolences amounted to $867.33.

Miss Posey has begun work in Hongkew Church during the year, especially among the women and girls working at the Commercial Press, now the greatest press in China, controlled in no small part by Christian men.

During a recent visit to a man who had been acquainted with the Gospel for about a year, after the message had been pressed home again, he took his two idols off the table where they had been in evidence all his life, beat them up and threw them away, to the delight of his mother who had recently become a believer.

Out-Stations.—

Tsong-sing-'oo.—Two or three years ago a Chinese doctor from Tsong-sing-'oo commenced attending the services at Doo-ka-'aung. For a time he made this journey alone and on foot, five miles each way, every Sunday, but gradually he persuaded his neighbors and friends, one after another, to go with him. Their numbers increased and they rented a building in Tsong-sing-'oo, and asked for a service of their own. Mr. Kyung has given them one service a week, Sunday forenoon; but not satisfied with that, the members have themselves met together on Saturday and held a service of preparation for Sunday. They have also started a prayer meeting, Wednesday night, which they themselves conduct.

Two hundred were present at a recent communion service. The membership at Tsong-sing-'oo now numbers 40, and about 100 inquirers are reported from this and the Doo-ka-'aung fields. One of the features of the work of the year is that women are beginning to come into the church.

Tsen-phoo.—The resignation of Mr. Tseu left this place without any worker. Mr. Espey secured the five years' lease of a pawn-shop on reasonable terms, and in October moved his goods and his family into it. There was not a door upstairs, and some expense was necessary in making alterations, but they finally succeeded in making it comfortable.

Tseu-phoo has had an unfortunate history. For thirty years, more or less, work has been carried on there, but some of our helpers have yielded to the temptation of opium and immorality, and the church members have proved unworthy representatives of the Gospel. During the year all the former church members have either died or moved away, so that we begin a new year with a clean slate.

Mokanshan.—Dr. and Mrs. Farnham had the pleasure during the summer of seeing a stone church building erected out on the hillside.

Training Class for Women.—Mrs. Silsby had charge, in Miss Silver's absence on furlough.

Eight boarders and 12 day-pupils were in attendance. It was beautiful to see the interest which these old women and young girls took in their study. One poor old woman from the settlement, who delivered laundry to people twice a week, walked some three miles each way, returning the following day to the class.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Lowrie High School.—Mr. Silsby reports:

The day before Christmas, 1910, was a great day in the history of the Lowrie High School, for on that day was celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the school, and at the same time an addition to the main school building, including two recitation rooms and a fine new lecture hall, was dedicated.

The building was the gift of the three sons and three sons-in-law of Rev. Bau Tsih-dze, all but one of whom had been students in the Lowrie High School. It will be used as a Chapel and lecture hall for the school, and will be the home of the South Shanghai Church until a larger building is erected.

The Lowrie High School has had the largest attendance in its history. Eighty boys were enrolled during the first half-year and 108 during the second half-year.

There has been a larger number of boys from non-Christian homes than usual, but the Christian boys have sustained weekly Y. M. C. A. meetings, and quite a number of the boys have, during the last term, signed papers declaring their purpose to read the Bible daily and to live in accordance with its teachings, as God enables them to see their duty.

Girls' Boarding School.—

Besides the little girls in the kindergarten department, 98 pupils were in attendance last term.

Seventeen pupils, who had not yet joined the Church, signified their desire to confess Christ and live for Him.

South Gate Kindergarten.—

Miss M. D. Morton has continued to superintend this kindergarten which she organized, and which, owing to her efforts, has been supported by special funds.

Twenty little tots were enrolled in the regular kindergarten, 7 of the number coming from Christian families.

The kindergarten Sunday-school has been continued with an average attendance of 103 for the past year.

HANGCHOW STATION.

[Special evangelistic meetings were held during the year in an open space near the railroad station and in the large lecture hall connected with Dr. Main's hospital. Mr. Goforth, of the Canadian Presbyterian Mission, who has had much success in evangelistic work in China, conducted the later series.

Not a few made open confession. One of our most influential pastors in charge of the largest church we have, and the most influential of all the teachers connected with our work (who is at the same time an elder in the same church) have not been on good terms for many years. There has been no open quarrel, but a good deal of deep-seated feeling and a marked lack of confidence on both sides. One evening the pastor came to the front of the church and stated his deep sorrow for the unkindly feeling and his sense of sinfulness for his own part in it. He then stated that the night before, when this conviction came upon him, he had gone to the other man, had asked and received entire forgiveness and wished then and there to make public confession. The other man followed in the same way and there has been since every evidence that the utmost of good will has prevailed between the two.

The utterly inadequate staff available for evangelistic work has found it impossible to carry more than a small part of the work which should be done, although the conditions in the country field are more hopeful than ever. Most of Mr. Bible's time has been spent in the Lower Road.

A series usually lasting a week has been held in each of the out-stations. In nearly every instance the attendance has been large and the congregation has listened with a quiet interest which was not so common a few years ago. On some occasions the chapels have been overcrowded. For example, at Ven-s-we there were by actual count 65 people in a room 18 by 12 feet. It is an undoubted fact that in almost every part of this field it is possible to gather, night after night, a considerable number of people who will give a respectful hearing to the Gospel.

In the various groups of churches special attention has been given to three methods of work: 1st, Personal work by all the Christians; 2d, Specific pledges for support of the preaching of the Gospel from each Christian; 3d, The development of prayer meetings, of Bible study and of instruction classes for inquirers.

Mr. March made three trips in the Upper River Field.

On the second trip eight days were spent at two places where, from morning till night, crowds thronged the evangelistic services that were held. Special Bible study classes for inquirers and workers were also held. Outsiders have shown an increasing respect for the claims of Christianity and in many places they asked most intelligent questions.

The city of Tong is near the centre of our Upper River Field, with a thousand or more square miles belonging exclusively to our Mission. It is a Hsien city and has a population of about 20,000 within its walls.

EDUCATIONAL.—Hangchow Presbyterian College.—

The great event, of course, was the moving out to the new site on the Chien-t'ang River, four miles south of the city. This was no small task when we remember that there were four households and all the old furniture of the college to be carried to boats in a canal in the city, then twice transhipped on the way and finally carried up the hill to the new buildings. The work, however, was done very expeditiously; and in less than a week, the residences were all occupied and housekeeping begun.

The total attendance was 117, of whom 31 were in the College and 86 in the Preparatory Department. Sixty-seven were church communicants, 10 bona fide inquirers, and 8 others children of Christian parents, leaving a non-Christian attendance of 32. Later 15 of these expressed a desire to become Christians.

Self-help Department.—This new department, for which provision was made last year, has been exclusively under the charge of Mr. Judson, who has given his whole time to its inauguration and development. The object is to provide a way whereby poor students may obtain an education which would otherwise be denied them. A large number applied to enter this department, but only 27 could be received, all coming from Christian families. Fourteen work three hours per day; 12, two hours; and 1, one hour. They have done various kinds of work outdoors and indoors. They have been happy in their work, have kept up for the most part with their class work, and have not, apparently at least, been looked down upon by their fellow-students.

The Board of Directors decided that no instruction should be given below the academic grade. As practically none of our mission day-schools take their pupils through a full grammar-school course, we have had for years to do one or two years' supplementary work in that department. One of the greatest needs of our educational work at the present is the development of our primary and grammar schools.

Union Girls' School.—The long planned-for union between our school and the Southern Presbyterian Mission School has been effected and the united school established in the old buildings of the Boys' College. The total enrollment was 126, and 113 were boarders; 47 were members of the church, 91 from the Christian constituency, and 10 of the students joined the church during the year.

The fear that there might be clans and factions among the girls was not realized. Differences between "my school" and "your school" did not often disturb the even tenor of school life. The dear old cook, whom we had had for many years, did not forget at once. When asked one morning why the cat howled so, she replied, "Oh, that is not our cat. That is their cat. Our cat knows how to behave!"

Dr. Lee, of the Southern Presbyterian Mission, has acted as principal of the school. Miss Ricketts has had charge of the primary and normal departments, the latter containing 15 girls being trained as teachers in primary work and methods. The coming year it is hoped to enlarge the union by combining this school with the Baptist school, requiring a new and larger property and developing the school into a woman's college.

SOOCHOW STATION.

The one organized church of the Station is at the Ts'ong-men, adjoining the Mission compounds. In many respects the year just closed has been the best year in its history.

At the opening of the year there was one elder to assist the pastor, but during the year two more elders were elected, one being one of the older licentiates and the other a recent graduate from the Nanking Theological Seminary, who will shortly be licensed. A deacon was also elected and is serving in a most acceptable manner. It is a real triumph of grace that two of these men should be elected. Only a year ago one of the elders and the deacon were removed from office after a most serious division in the church. As a result of a revival all were reconciled, and it is a matter of great rejoicing that they were again chosen by the people to fill the vacancies caused by their removal. The church is on a good financial basis, and it is hoped will soon call and support its own pastor.

The year just closed has been marked by a larger effort in the street chapels than ever before. The three chapels have been kept open more regularly than for many years, and the results have been most gratifying.

The crowds have been larger and more attentive than in former years. Night meetings have been held in all of the chapels, and the meetings have been largely attended.

During the year our itinerating work has been more completely organized than ever before. Our men, including the foreign missionaries, have had stated times for visiting certain places. They have gone out two by two to all of our stations, and with the addition of the helpers in those places have made special effort to reach the unsaved. In every instance success has crowned their efforts. This plan has proved more effective than the old one of a single man going to a place.

At Kwong-foh out-station during the foreign New Year season a week of special meetings were held. The chapel was specially decorated and lighted for the occasion. Hand-bills and posters were put out. During the morning the chapel was filled with country people and the afternoon was given over to women's meetings. The evening audience was made up of business men and their families from the town itself. At every meeting the room was crowded, and most earnest attention given to the singing and preaching. Many showed a real interest in the gospels, borrowing or buying our books, and a number gave in their names as inquirers.

At Kwong-foh we have kept a village school open all year, although few attended. While this school gave small encouragement, the rather unique experiment was made of opening a country school. Whereas few of the most earnest inquirers from the country districts are able to read or write, they were exceedingly anxious to learn, and proposed that if we would furnish half the price of a teacher they would raise the remainder. An opening was made under the direction of Mr. Leu, and was so successful that another has been opened, and ere long we hope to open two more. In these schools, the farmers, when they have a few days free, gather and are taught to read, the Bible in colloquial being the chief text book.

Boarding School.—Permission having been given by both Mission and Board to reopen the boarding school, a small beginning was made after China New Year.

At the close of the spring term there was an attendance of 34, 12 of whom were boarders. Only one pupil in the school at present is a church member, all our other Christians having gone to Hangchow College. Two other boys, though not yet having been admitted to the communion, have been before the session confessing their faith in Christ and their desire to serve Him.

WOMEN'S WORK.—

A weekly prayer meeting for the women of the church has been held in the hospital chapel as usual, the attendance being from 30 to 50. This meeting is entirely in charge of the women.

MEDICAL WORK.—Tooker Memorial Hospital.—

The hospital work for the year has, considering all branches of it, been most encouraging. The in-patient department has continued largely along the lines of the previous year. A notable feature has been the large number of children registered, many of whom have come unattended by relative, showing increasing confidence. A second point of interest has been the long average stay of the patients. This, of course, can be explained by the chronicity of many of the diseases; but from the evangelistic standpoint it means that a large number of the patients have been thoroughly drilled in the fundamentals of Christianity.

"In the death of Mr. Tooker, who was called Home, June 7, we have suffered a great loss. Fifteen years ago he built and equipped this hospital in memory of his wife, and has ever since supported it. He also provided the church building, and in many ways showed his unfailing interest and love for the Master's work. We shall ever remember him as we try to carry out his desires for the hospital."

Mr. Tooker made provision in his will for the continued support of the two doctors and the hospital.

KIANG-AN MISSION.

NANKING: on the Yang-tse-Kiang, 90 miles from its mouth; occupied as a Mission Station, 1876. Missionaries—Rev. Charles Leaman, Rev. W. J. Drummond and Mrs. Drummond, Rev. J. C. Garritt, D.D., and Mrs. Garritt, Rev. J. E. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Miss E. E. Dresser, Miss M. A. Leaman, Miss Lucy Leaman, Miss Jane A. Hyde, Miss Grace Lucas, Rev. Alfred V. Gray and Mrs. Gray, Mrs. A. M. R. Jones, and Rev. A. A. Bullock and Mrs. Bullock.

HWAI-YUEN: 150 miles northwest of Nanking; occupied as a Mission Station, 1892. Missionaries—Rev. E. C. Lobenstine, Rev. D. S. Morris and Mrs. Morris, Rev. J. B. Cochran and Mrs. Cochran, Samuel Cochran, M.D., and Mrs. Cochran, Rev. Thomas F. Carter and Mrs. Carter, Miss Agnes Gordon Murdoch, M.D., Miss Mary Cole Murdoch, Miss Margaret Falconer Murdoch and Rev. George Hood.

FURLONGS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. J. E. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Mrs. A. M. R. Jones, Rev. J. B. Cochran and Mrs. Cochran.

The only addition to the Mission staff during the year was the Rev. George C. Hood, sent out with a view to the opening of the new Station at Nan-hsu-chow. It was over Nanking that the storm of the Revolution broke, and in Nanking that the centre of the new government was established, but these events occurred after the close of the Mission year.

The fearful famine conditions in 1911 described in the Introduction to the last Annual Report existed most acutely in the territory of the Kiang-an Mission, and the burden of relief fell more heavily upon the Hwai Yuen Station than on any other Mission Station in China.

NANKING STATION.

The Station Report begins with a reference to the hopeful conditions which prevailed even before the Revolution opened the mind of China, and to the continued sense of loss at Mrs. Leaman's death.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—City Work.—

The work in the city has been greatly influenced by the special mass meetings of recent years; Dr. Li four years ago; Mr. Goforth two years ago; later, Pastor Ding Li Mei, and finally the New Year tent meetings of the last two winters. Over 500 men and women signed cards at these two meetings; although some have been disappointing, yet many have been enrolled in our inquirers' classes and some after careful instruction have been baptized. The church life has been raised to a higher level, and the city as a whole has been awakened; evangelistic effort in the city now is most encouraging, and we can only wish for a better force to deal with the willing hearers more adequately.

At each communion we have examined from 80 to 134 persons; all possible have been gathered into classes for instruction, and we have tried to be sure of their Christian experience before admitting them.

The co-pastorate of Mr. Drummond and Mr. Gray over the Chinese Church ended in April, when the Chinese pastor for whom we have prayed and longed these many years came to relieve them of this charge. He arrived when both foreign pastors were absent at the famine relief work, and he at once entered vigorously into the church work in the city and country. He and his wife have won the confidence of all classes, and we feel that he is a rare spiritual leader.

In the Grace Memorial Church at Hubugiai Bible and inquirers' classes have been held three nights a week; the attendance at the Sunday evening Bible class has sometimes reached 50 persons. The Sunday morning services have increased fully one-third and the Sunday-school has more than doubled in attendance. The Chinese of their own initiative have begun to pray for the enlargement of our Grace Memorial Church.

A night-school and a reading room have strengthened the work and helped to draw about us some of the better-class families, and the more intelligent men and boys. Success has attended the faithfulness of a student-evangelist who is a converted Mohammedan, formerly in the Union Christian College. Encouraged by our neighbor, the Tartar General, numbers of soldiers from the camp near by have attended our services.

The work among the women at Hubugiai has been unusually satisfactory. High-class ladies have called on Mrs. Gray in larger numbers than formerly.

Street Chapels.—Elder Mao has continued in charge of the Shwan Tang Chapel. The chapel is only a small Chinese house with three little rooms fitted up for day-school and chapel. Mrs. Drummond describes the situation vividly:

There is a large open square just ahead. See it dotted with the low huts of the squatter. A narrow path cuts diagonally into the heart of the little squalid group of homes—life teems everywhere. People sit crouching on the ground, bowls of rice and chop-sticks in hand, too busy even to ask questions. Some sewing and mending, some smoking—the daily life of the people, all in open air. But see, here is a new box right across the path. Not an ordinary box, but a long narrow new-made box, such as the very poor can buy. It is the last resting place of some one. Stay, here he lies on the bare ground close beside; face covered, hands folded—bare feet, coarse clothing. All tells of a life of toil and poverty that is now ended. His wife, a white rag around the head, and a few coolies smoking, crouch near. An hour and a half later when I returned along the path the coffin was gone—the hut open and empty even of a bed. A little further I met the wife returning from the funeral; a few idle women, gossiping, followed. Such is death here!

By the way, this is Shwan Tang, and close by is our little Gospel hall, a native house dignified by the name of chapel.

The Seminary students have aided greatly by preaching every Sunday. This year there have been many openings among the people, and at the Sunday services the rooms have been literally filled to overflowing, with audiences no longer shifting but in regular attendance at classes. The children's little room at Sunday-school time has, like last year, brimmed over with eager responsive boys and girls, numbering up to 125 a Sunday.

Mr. Drummond adds:

The work among the men and in the day-school has been fairly successful; but that among the women and little children has been phenomenal in its growth, so that the accommodations have become altogether inadequate.

The work has been continued at three other city chapels.

Country Work.—Mr. Drummond says:

During the past two or three years the number of applicants for admission to the church in all these country Stations has fallen off greatly. They are now no more than a tenth of what they were. The excuses for this falling off are various, but the real reason for it is that they did not get the help they desired and expected when they got into trouble.

Work is carried on in the country at nine points. Of Gu Yong and Hu Shu, the report states:

A very advantageous change has been made at Gu Yong in moving from the country to a busy street inside the walled city. A visit here in the fall by Mr. Gray and two Chinese Christians was very encouraging. After having the little hall filled to overflowing at every meeting, they accepted an invitation to preach in the best tea-shop of the city; this place in turn was crowded. Many were greatly impressed by the truths they heard; 3,000 Gospels and Acts were distributed. Three inquirers and three baptisms were added to our list. We need an educated evangelist and a good day-school here.

Miss Hyde says of the women's work:

Probably the greatest encouragement of the year was at this place. Every afternoon women, sometimes from twenty "li" away, would come and listen with real attention and interest to the old, old story, often learning a little prayer and accepting the proffered tracts.

Both in the country and in the city inveterate superstition still presents itself every day. Mr. Drummond writes of a case in Nanking City:

Quite recently one of our Christians moved his family to a new neighborhood. In his new home he had occasion to cut open a new window onto the street. Not long afterwards the neighbor who lives just across the street, opposite this new window, became ill. Instead of seeking a physician, the family called in a Taoist priest, to drive away the devil, but next day the man died. Before night his widow came across to our Christian, blaming the death of her husband on the opening of that window, opposite her door. The street is about thirty feet wide here. She threatened if he did not guarantee the good health of the remainder of the family, to deposit her husband's coffin at his door. The Christian answered her kindly, tried to comfort her, and offered to talk it over with any of her male relatives. Only then did she go away quietly. The man's coffin is not yet buried, so we are not sure that the incident is closed.

One of our elders had a similar experience last Chinese New Year. Superstition is far from dead even in Nanking and among those who have lived within sight of a Mission Hospital for twenty years.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Nanking is a notable centre for coöperative educational work. The Station is now carrying on union work with other denominations in the University, the Theological Seminary, the Medical School, and Nurses' Training School; and even in the independent institutions of the Mission there is full and friendly coöperation.

The University.—The Methodists, Disciples and Presbyterians are united in the University.

It has safely passed through its first year of experiment and is on a surer footing. At the January meeting of the Board of Managers tentative assignments of departments were made, including twelve departments. Several of these have been carefully graded and organized. Some classes formerly taught in English have been tried in Chinese, e.g., mathematics and Bible; this resulted in more effective teaching. Our ideal in this respect seems to be somewhat more favorably thought of than formerly.

Speaking of the Bible study, in his charge, Mr. Williams says:

Each student is required to take three periods a week in a graded course of study, and will not be advanced in his other studies until his Bible work is up to the grade. It is a satisfaction to find how heartily the students entered into the work.

For six weeks in the spring the University and incidentally all the Mission schools of the city were blessed with the long anticipated and prayed-for visit of Pastor Ding Li-Mei. He preached twice daily to large bodies of students; although there was good attention from the first, the interest increased greatly toward the last. Tangible results showed that over thirty of the University students have decided to lead a Christian life, and over sixty have become Student Volunteers for special Christian service. (It should be mentioned in passing that among the women and girls of the Mission schools even larger numbers of volunteers were enrolled—175 in all.) Of the intangible results in the University, we know that a marked new spirit of earnestness in the Christian life or of unprejudiced openness to Christianity, of patriotic service to the country and of college loyalty, have come over the student body as a whole which cannot but lift the general atmosphere of the institution to a higher level than it has ever known.

Mr. Williams adds:

The work of the University has developed in a most encouraging way. God's purpose and guidance in the plans have been very manifest. It is His work, not dependent upon any man, not to be hindered by any man. The spirit of love and mutual confidence has grown in all the work.

Theological Seminary.—The union work of the Southern and Northern Presbyterians in the Theological Seminary has been expanded to include a Bible Training School and to embrace also practically all the Missions working in Nanking.

It is hoped that a part of the students of the Seminary can be cared for in connection with the advanced course of this Training School; and that the Lay Evangelists' course will be merged in the preparatory course of the Training School.

Women's Training School.—This year has seen a beautiful and suitable building erected with much care by Miss Dresser for the women's school.

All the women who were fitted to do so have had Christian work assigned them; we hope to make this part a very important feature of the training. Three days in the week they work at Ban Bien-ying; and six of the advanced women spent over a week in the chapel and homes of a busy market town in the country. We have had six from other Missions—two from the Christian Mission, one from the Methodist, one from the Friends', and two from the Southern Presbyterian.

Girls' School.—

During the nine months of school since last summer the total enrollment, exclusive of any day-pupils in the kindergarten, was 107, though at no time was the limit of 100 exceeded. The school was in charge of Miss Lucas, assisted by Mrs. Jones and Miss Lucy Leaman. The industrial work has been the means of earning greater or less portions of their board and fees on the part of a large number of girls. Its management is not without disadvantages, but it is rewarding in that it develops the girls' self-respect, independence, and an appreciation of values.

Owing to the illness of one of our teachers, the Friends' Mission loaned us their teacher an hour a day for a time, and two of the Seminary students gave assistance throughout their term. But a regular substitute being not forthcoming, our senior class was finally sent to the Christian Mission School for the remainder of the semester. This proved to be a most valuable experience for them, and we are deeply grateful to Miss Lyon.

Kindergarten.—Miss Lucy Leaman, who has charge of the kindergarten, reports that the full seating capacity of the rooms was taxed this year by the 61 children enrolled, of whom 21 were day-pupils. Miss Lucas writes:

The class of fourteen promoted from kindergarten to a place among the older girls is the most interesting thing in the Girls' School just now. They are so spontaneous and eager that they fairly tumble over each other. They have taken the proper, precise Chinese teacher completely by storm. He seemed somewhat dubious when these infants lined up in front of him, with their second readers (Chinese), and assigned only half a lesson, but to his amazement they swallowed it quickly and cried for more. Now he is fully convinced of their superiority over those larger girls who come in from outside. It is an inspiration to have them to teach, and if the kindergarten needed any vindication in the eyes of the Chinese teachers, it has certainly been received.

SPECIAL EVENTS.—Christian Headquarters at the Exposition.—

Much time was spent during the summer and fall by Mr. Gray and others of the Mission in oversight of the Christian headquarters. A substantial building was erected in an excellent location outside the grounds and at the right of the main entrance. Two evangelistic services daily and a Sunday morning service for the thirty-three Christians from other provinces who were connected with the Exposition exhibits were conducted for three months.

Late in August, Tao-tao Ou Yang, of Tientsin, who had quite recently become a Christian, came to the Exposition and threw himself heartily into the work at the Christian headquarters. His addresses twice daily made a strong impression upon the Nanking Christians and non-Christians alike. The large audiences which he drew consisted mainly of civil and military officials, and of government school students, drawn by his rank and scholarship, to hear purely evangelistic addresses in which they had never before been interested. His aid gave a great impetus to the work which has been languishing during mid-summer.

The most important single event of the three months at the headquarters was a large gathering in the Exposition Auditorium, when Dr. McGillivray lectured upon "Evolution from the Christian Standpoint." It was attended by 1,300 students and educated people. Dr. McGillivray was followed by Mr. Djang Bo-ling, a Chinese M.A. and high-school teacher, who spoke with telling effect. He is an earnest Christian man and his influence was strongly felt.

The work conducted here witnessed to all Exposition visitors that the Christian Church is a unit and is alive to its opportunities.

New Year's Tent Meetings.—

For the second time at New Year the Nanking Ministerial Association has held a union evangelistic campaign of ten days. Two tent meetings were held daily in the Hubugiai compound, and night meetings were held in all the chapels. These meetings were attended daily by 800 to 2,000 people; but they have been an invaluable lesson to the whole city that the Church and its varied forms of work are one in aim, i.e., the winning of individuals, city, and nation to Christ.

Famine Relief.—

In the autumn and early winter, famine refugees by the thousand migrated to Nanking, but before relief could be given to them through the missionaries, the officials sent them back to their homes, practically to die of starvation.

When the need for volunteer workers in the relief work of Anhwei and Kiangsu came in the spring, Mr. Drummond was assigned to Koyang, where he spent two months superintending the distribution of grain and flour. Over 200,000 persons received help through him and his co-workers: the Roman Catholic priest, Father Dannic; Mr. Buck, of the Christian Mission, and two Chinese business men. Mr. Drummond reports most pleasant relations to the priest and to the gentry. In all there were eight missionaries and twenty Chinese students from Nanking who engaged in work in the stricken district. Mr. Williams at the Nanking end assisted in the buying and transporting of 26,000 (1,700 tons) piculs of rice and beans.

LITERATURE.—Through the kindness of Rev. W. E. Blackstone, the secretary of the Distribution Fund, a large amount of literature has been in our hands for distribution. At the Christian headquarters 18,000 Scripture portions were given out, and also over 100,000 tracts.

HWAI-YUEN STATION.

Owing to the famine conditions in the northern part of Anhui Province during the past year, much of our regular work has necessarily been neglected. We have been called upon as a Station to witness the suffering of thousands of cold, hungry and fever-stricken folk, so that our hearts have again and again been overburdened with the sight.

The illness of Dr. Cochran and Mr. Morris was a time of great anxiety to all and added an extra burden on Chinese and foreigners alike.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Hwai-Yuen Church.—

At times every seat has been occupied. The new organ is much appreciated by all and we hope to have new pews made for the church this autumn. Mr. Liu continues to live in the church compound. The reading room with its opportunities for reaching the young men of the city has been useful. The attendance at the reading room is increasing and many of these come to the church services.

Inquirers' Class.—

The attendance was good, and an especially interesting fact was the presence of several teachers who showed a genuine interest in the Gospel. Among those was a Mr. Li, of Ma Keo Cheng, the old home of our first Christian, Mr. Liu, a place which has been constantly visited by our evangelists. Mr. Li, after a hard struggle because of the necessity of giving up ancestral worship, became an inquirer. He has since proved faithful in attending the church, often walking the 20 li just for the Sunday service. He has started a small school in Ma Keo Cheng and teaches the Bible and other Christian works. At this time twelve were received into the church, among them a Mr. Liu Chang's sons. He was a proud Confucianist, and we rejoice now to see his humility and simple trust in the Saviour.

Village Work.—Of the evangelist in the Mengchen field, the Station Report says:

Mr. Sun is still doing splendid work. If we had such men in all out-stations progress would be rapid. He is a man with energy, initiative and consecration, and under his direction groups of Christians are gradually forming in this district, making the Mengchen field at present the most promising of our country work.

WOMAN'S WORK.—

Very little visiting was done owing to the contagious diseases prevalent. Meetings were held twice a week in the hospital chapel, the foreign women of the Station taking turns with the wives of two of the helpers and the teachers of the Girls' School in conducting the meetings. We have felt much encouraged in the numbers of women who came out and the decided increase among them of women of the better class.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Boys' School.—The Boys' School has been enjoying its school building, which was occupied December 1. The building accommodates 50 boarders at present, and when Mr. Cochran and his family move into their new house thirty more can be accommodated.

The amount of time spent on the study of Chinese has been doubled, and so an additional man was needed in this department.

There have been 80 boys in the school, 30 of them being day-pupils.

At the Chinese New Year, of the government and private schools in the city only one was open and in this one-half the usual number of students failed to attend. This was due to the fact of the hard financial conditions prevailing, and also to the fact that many have reverted to the old Chinese method of teaching. Because of these conditions and because of our standard of scholarship our school has gained a place of preëminence in the district and we have practically a choice of the class of boys we want. We have had five boys from the Sung family, the oldest and most influential family in the city, and also a son of the Vice-President of the Chamber of Commerce, a prominent and public-spirited citizen. Other influential families have also sent their boys. If we had accommodations and a large enough teaching staff we could easily add 50 per cent. to the number of scholars. During the past year quite a number of boys applying for admission were turned away. Our aim, however, is to improve the quality of the boys rather than to increase indefinitely the number. We realize that if we would keep the Christian influence strong we must not let the school grow too large.

The tuition fee was raised at the Chinese New Year to $3 per month—this includes English; 500 cash is deducted for those who do not study English. The money raised on the field, which was $297 last year, increased this year to $458.

Nine of the boys helped with famine relief, some of them proving very efficient. During the year several of the boys applied for baptism and five were taken on as inquirers. An unfortunate incident must be recorded, namely, the formation of an anti-Y. M. C. A. Society (known as a Confucian Society), mostly of non-Christian boys who had personal grudges against the Y. M. C. A. leaders. Meetings were held at the time of the Y. M. C. A. meetings, but for prayer and singing vituperation was substituted, and the large stock of such terms being finally exhausted the society broke up, and the leaders voluntarily retired from the school.

Girls' Boarding School.—The work of the school was much affected by the famine conditions. The largest number of girls in the school at any time was 51. Several of the girls were taken into the school this year because they would probably have starved if left in their own homes.

The girls have been happy, and good, and busy during the year; studying cooking, making their clothes, and doing almost all of the hospital sewing.

Out-station Day-schools.—

All the village day-schools are taught by our own boys. This fall, if we can arrange for teachers, we hope to open three more schools. The opportunity for Christian education in Northern Anhui is limited only by the time and means we have for it. Many of the government and private schools have been closed because of the famine and other reasons and the field is open to us as never before. Our Academy is already the leading school in the city. By increasing our out-station schools we hope to develop not only feeders for the Academy, but a network of Christian influences which will be mighty in hastening the Kingdom in North Anhui.

MEDICAL WORK.—Hope Hospital.—

When Dr. Cochran returned from Mission meeting last year he found a severe epidemic of cholera raging, which was general throughout our part of Anhui. While it was probably not true Asiatic cholera, it was very fatal, and the total number of deaths was large. Sixteen cases were brought to the hospital within a few days, and as each of them needed vigorous treatment for a long time on the part of several people, the hospital staff was given plenty of hard work. It is a great satisfaction that a large majority of these cases were saved. Besides this, medicine was given for cholera to all applicants day or night, and a ready-made mixture was sent out to several places which applied to us for help during the epidemic.

During the fall and early winter the work of the hospital was along much the same lines as it had been in previous years, though the number of patients was doubtless less than it would have been but for the general poverty caused by famine conditions. This was noticed particularly in the reduction of the number of patients applying for operation. The hospital has done a great deal more work in some ways than in any previous year. This year there have been 279 in-patients as against 123 last year; 124 operations have been performed under local anæsthetic as against 110 last year, and a total of 263 operations as against 230 last year. There have been 6,717 out-patients, counting each separate visit, as against 5,690 last year. New patients were 2,772 as against 1,704 last year.

The hospital has done a great deal of work for the railway, which has been mostly in the line of treating accidents and injuries, a class of practice of which the hospital saw little previously. The railroad officials have been most appreciative of the hospital's services.

Dr. Cochran has done some investigating with the microscope. This has been made possible by the excellent little laboratory recently fitted up and by the fact that better organization in our building gives more time for such work. The head of the London School of Tropical Medicine has specially commended this work and sent £20 to the hospital with the hope that it may be continued.

Woman's Medical Work.—As in all the work, the effects of the famine were felt here.

In the women's ward a few old women who would have starved otherwise were taken in and have been of some assistance. One poor woman lost her emaciated little baby a few days after she came into the hospital, but she has been most generous in feeding the other little waifs that have been picked up and brought to us. One of these babies, a splendid boy, has done so well and is so fat and bonnie that the hospital cook's wife has asked to adopt him as her own son.

FAMINE WORK.—Hwai Yuen was at the southwestern border of the famine region, which extended through the whole of Anhui east of the Ko and north of the Hwai Rivers.

The entire amount of contributions from all sources, exclusive of government relief, for the famine work was about 1,000,000 Mexican dollars. The total amount of grain distributed was approximately 10,000 tons.

The work has been carried on through local committees consisting of members of the gentry and of the Catholic and Protestant Missions. In Hwai Yuen the work was done largely through the Chamber of Commerce. In addition to the help which has been employed by the local committees, a number of students from the Nanking Union Medical College, the Nanking Union Theological Seminary, the Collegiate Department of the Nanking University, and of the Hwai Yuen Boys' School have rendered valuable assistance.

CHAPEL AT OUT-STATION OF HWAH YUEN.

When such large amounts of grain had to be hauled, the transportation question was one of the greatest importance. Had the Tientsin-Pukow Railway not been open for construction trains as far as Linghwaikwan, the nature and method of the relief work would have been very different. The railway deserves the highest praise for the work it has done at no small expense. There were at least forty covered cars devoted to famine relief and so marked, but in times of pressure all empty cars were freely put at the disposal of the committee.

Linghwaikwan, owing to its position, became the distributing centre for all of the grain coming into the famine region in Anhui. Mr. Carter was there from February 12 to May 25. During this time he received 467 cars. Most of the cars had to be unloaded after 5 o'clock in the evening so that the empty cars could be ready to return the following morning. In order to prevent the boatmen from stealing the grain it became necessary to weigh every bag, which enormously increased the amount of work that had to be done.

It is impossible to make even an estimate of the number who have lost their lives in this famine. Nothing but a careful census, covering large sections of the country, can show how many have perished of famine and of the resulting famine fevers. The death list has undoubtedly been a large one notwithstanding the relief given. There is not a village without a considerable list of the dead. Many have left home to try and exist by begging in more fortunate centres and have perished by the roadside; families have been scattered; wives and children sold in large numbers, and a considerable number have been reduced to a condition of permanent beggary.

Over 1,000,000 were on the lists of those receiving relief, and we have reason to believe that only a small percentage of these died.

Mention must be made in our report of the sorrowful fact of the death of Father Perrin, of the French Jesuit Mission. Being himself tired out, after watching at the bedside of Father Brasile, at Yingshanghsien, he returned to Mengchen to be present at the later distributions there. He was taken ill April 30, but because of head winds returned to Mengchen and did not reach Hwai Yuen until May 6. Everything was done for him that could be done. In response to telegrams, Drs. Fearn, Shields and Brown came from Shanghai and Nanking to help Dr. Murdoch and Miss Margaret Murdoch in the care of him, but it was of no avail. He died on May 11, and was buried at Wuhohsien on May 15. In the words of Mr. Lobenstine: "He was a man who never knew what it was to spare himself. He endured every manner of hardship for his Master's sake. He lived on the simplest of Chinese food, traveled in all kinds of weather when there was a call of duty, and was constantly in the lowly homes of the people, to help whom to a more worthy life he gave his own. No one could know him without loving him and he won to himself the friendship of all who were privileged to work with him or to watch by his bedside during the last few days."

One fact seems clear to the minds of all as a result of this famine, and that is that some measures to lessen the danger of floods in the future is absolutely necessary. Undoubtedly there are evils connected with famine relief. Free distribution of money or grain undoubtedly pauperizes the people, and foreign relief lessens the responsibility of the officials, and upon this class the responsibility should be pressed. We await with interest the report of the engineer sent out by the Red Cross Society. Whether any reclamation scheme is adopted or not, something can be done either by encouraging emigration, or by establishing winter trades for the farmers, or by improving the agricultural methods of the district and importing better grain for planting, or by some other means to help those suffering brothers and sisters of Northern Anhui who are still in such sore need.

SHANTUNG MISSION.

TENG-CHOU: on the most northern point of the Shantung promontory, 60 miles south of Port Arthur, and 35 miles northwest of Chefoo; occupied 1861. Missionaries—Dr. W. F. Seymour and Mrs. Seymour, Rev. J. P. Irwin and Mrs. Irwin, Miss M. A. Snodgrass, Mrs. Calvin Wight, Miss M. A. Frame, Rev. Otto Braskamp, Miss Christine Braskamp, Miss Mary J. Stewart and Miss Alma Dodds.

CHEFOO: an important port of call for North China steamers, on northern coast of Shantung Peninsula; occupied 1862. Missionaries—Rev. Hunter Corbett, D.D., and Mrs. Corbett, Rev. W. O. Elterich, D.D., and Mrs. Elterich, Mrs. Annetta T. Mills, Mr. W. C. Booth and Mrs. Booth, Dr. Oscar F. Hills and Mrs. Hills, Mr. M. Wells and Mrs. Wells, Mr. H. F. Smith, Rev. Paul R. Abbott and Mrs. Abbott and Miss Susie F. Eames.

TSING-TAU: the important German port and terminus of the new railroad to the Provincial Capital, on Kiaochow Bay, about 100 miles southwest of Chefoo; occupied 1898. Missionaries—Miss L. Vaughan, Rev. C. E. Scott and Mrs. Scott, Dr. Effie B. Cooper, Rev. T. H. Montgomery and Mrs. Montgomery, and Mr. Kenneth K. Thompson and Mrs. Thompson.

WEI-HSIEN: 110 miles northeast of Tsinan-fu; occupied 1882. Missionaries—Rev. R. M. Mateer and Mrs. Mateer, Rev. F. H. Chalfant and Mrs. Chalfant, Rev. J. A. Fitch and Mrs. Fitch, Prof. Ralph Wells and Mrs. Wells, Mrs. C. W. Mateer, Rev. Paul T. Bergen, D.D., and Mrs. Bergen, Rev. H. W. Luce and Mrs. Luce, C. K. Roys, M.D., and Mrs. Roys, Miss Charlotte E. Hawes, Mr. Horace E. Chandler and Mrs. Chandler, Rev. J. J. Heeren, Ph.D., Mr. Samuel J. Mills and Miss G. M. Rowley.

TSINAN-FU: capital of the Shantung Province; 300 miles south of Peking, on Ta Tsing River; occupied 1872. Missionaries—Rev. W. B. Hamilton, D.D., and Mrs. Hamilton, Rev. John Murray, James B. Neal, M.D., and Mrs. Neal, Miss Emma S. Boehne, Rev. W. W. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston, Dr. W. M. Schultz, C. F. Johnson, M.D., and Mrs. Johnson, Rev. A. B. Dodd and Mrs. Dodd, Dr. Caroline S. Merwin, Mr. A. E. Torrance and Mrs. Torrance.

ICHOU-FU: 145 miles southeast of Tsinan-fu; occupied 1891. Missionaries—Miss E. E. Fleming, M.D., Rev. George A. Armstrong, Rev. Paul P. Faris and Mrs. Faris, Rev. H. G. Romig and Mrs. Romig, Miss Margaret Faris, Miss Sarah Faris, and Robert W. Dunlap, M.D., and Mrs. Dunlap.

TSINING-CHOU: 95 miles southwest of Tsinan-fu; occupied 1892. Missionaries—Charles H. Lyon, M.D., and Mrs. Lyon, Rev. T. N. Thompson and Mrs. Thompson, Rev. C. M. Eames, Rev. F. E. Field.

YI-HSIEN: 20 miles from the Grand Canal, about 140 miles southeast of Tsinan-fu; occupied 1905. Rev. C. H. Yerkes and Mrs. Yerkes, W. R. Cunningham, M.D., Miss A. K. M. Franz, and Rev. Roy M. Allison and Mrs. Allison.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Hayes and Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Chalfant are stationed at Tsing-chou-fu, Professors in the Union Theological Seminary.

TRANSFERS: Miss Susie F. Eames, from Tsining to Chefoo; Miss Alma Dodds, from Chefoo to Teng-chou; Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Dunlap, from Teng-chou to Ichou-fu.

RESIGNATIONS: Dr. Frederick Fouts and Mrs. Fouts, Miss Margaret H. Bynon, M.D.

FURLOUGHS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. George A. Armstrong, Mr. Will C. Booth and Mrs. Booth, Dr. Margaret H. Bynon, Rev. W. P. Chalfant and Mrs. Chalfant, Dr. Robert W. Dunlap, Mrs. W. O. Elterich, Dr. Fred. Fouts and Mrs. Fouts, Miss Margaretta Franz, Mrs. C. F. Johnson, Miss Louisa Vaughan, Rev. Paul D. Bergen and Mrs. Bergen, Rev. Dr. W. O. Elterich and Mrs. Elterich, Rev. Paul P. Faris and Mrs. Faris, Dr. Emma E. Fleming, Rev. J. P. Irwin and Mrs. Irwin, Mr. R. C. Wells and Mrs. Wells, Dr. Effie B. Cooper.

TENG-CHOU STATION.

Changes in personnel were the furlough of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, the departure on health leave of Dr. Dunlap and the arrival of five new missionaries—Miss Frame, Miss Stewart, Mr. Braskamp, his sister Miss Braskamp, and Miss Dodds.

The new property generously provided by Mr. L. H. Severance is giving the Station a superior equipment. The site in the East Suburb, long occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Mills, has been enlarged by the purchase of seven acres adjoining. Three buildings are almost completed. A substantial brick hospital and two dwelling houses—one for the doctor and one for the ladies in charge of Girls' Boarding School and its associated day-school and evangelistic work. The former Mills residence is to be put in repair for the Girls' School dormitory and the foundation stone of the Girls' School building was laid September 15.

At the Ladies' House in the city, additions of land and old native buildings have been made both to the southeast and northeast. What was formerly a tumble-down corner has been cleared out and enclosed with a new wall. When the Girls' School moves, these premises will all be taken up with Primary and Kindergarten day-schools, Woman's Bible Training School, Woman's Inquirers' classes and Woman's Evangelistic services. The southeast addition is temporarily used this year by the Girls' Boarding School.

The Sunday question was a problem since the men were non-Christians and unwilling to lose a day's pay. It was decided the only thing to do was to give them their Sunday wages without work. The Christian contractor heartily coöperated with the station in requiring the men to attend the services and promptly dismissed those who disobeyed. Fifteen of their number are enrolled as inquirers and many more are interested.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Union Revival Meetings led by Mr. Goforth, although they did not succeed in reaching all the church, yet were fraught with great blessing to those who attended.

The city evangelistic work for women is in charge of Miss Snodgrass, assisted by four Bible women. Two inquirers' classes were held, from which three women entered the church. Miss Snodgrass reports a number of women giving up idol worship, and a new day-school for girls has been opened.

The city work for men is under the care of the native church, Pastor Lau in charge, assisted by the native evangelists. The missionaries all help as they find time, Miss Snodgrass especially.

There is daily preaching at the dispensary, the Museum and the hospital. A room for evangelistic effort was opened in the Water City. There has been an average attendance of 487 weekly. Five boxes of Bible portions have been sold. A room was opened in the city for reading room and study class. This has attracted some young men from well-to-do families and a number of business men.

The Central Sunday-school is not so large, as it has been divided into three Sunday-schools—one in the East Suburb, one in Water City and one in the city church.

During the year 34 have entered the church and 18 more have come before the Session.

The Chinese evangelists report great friendliness among the people and readiness to buy books and tracts. One Christian even sold his old books and gave the proceeds, 600 cash, to the Missionary Society. At one place a meeting for Christians was shortened because outsiders could not get in the small room and were insistent to hear what was going on. An adjourned meeting under a tree lasted four hours.

EDUCATIONAL.—In the country field, there are some 16 day-schools for boys and 3 for girls. In the city there are 3 for boys and 4 for girls. The banner boys' school is taught by a college graduate, and its success proves that we should have experienced teachers for the Primary grades.

The Boys' High School has had an attendance of 25 in High School and 12 in Intermediate.

Careful attention has been paid to thoroughness. The seniors help in teaching in Sunday-school. They have a Young Men's Christian Association. A number are members of the "Carry Your Bible" (Pocket Testament) League. This year a number of the ex-students are teaching in the country schools.

The Girls' High and Intermediate Schools opened with 51 boarders. The girls are all church members except one. The tuition received for half-year was $171.25 Mex.

Formerly each girl gave 8,000 cash per annum. Now a number give $12 per year. One girl's full board is paid by her sisters, who each give one-fifth of their salary to do this. Another graduate pays full board for a Primary School boarder. We still have many poor, as the fatherless girl in a family of six who are all supported by the mother's earnings, and the motherless girl who walked 60 miles to come to school, her father carrying her few necessities because he was too poor to hire an animal, yet anxious that this daughter should have an education.

On Sunday, when the seven day-schools and two boarding schools gather in the church, there are over 200 children—a fine sight that gives rich promise for the Church of to-morrow.

MEDICAL.—The medical work under Dr. Seymour, assisted by Dr. Dunlap and later by Miss Dodds, has grown.

Dr. Seymour, in addition to the medical work, has been station treasurer, had charge of native evangelists, the arrangement for country day-schools, the Boys' High School, the purchase of land and oversight of building. The Chinese medical assistants have given good service, and there has been greater attendance at dispensary (except for women, and that has decreased), more daily receipts and more in-patients at hospital than ever before. Fourteen patients came to be cured of opium habit. A number of cases have been obstetrical.

In a village 80 miles from Teng-chou-fu is a little boy of 6 years old totally blind. His mother said, "His eyes were sore for such a long time." "Why did you not go for treatment?" "We did not know." There are multitudes who cannot come to the doctor. Should we not send one to them? It may mean some such results as the following case: A merchant tries all the Chinese doctors he knows, but is not helped. He goes to a Christian hospital, studies the truth while there, promises God if cured he will serve Him and he is made whole. He returns to his home in Shantung. Now his whole family are Christians. His little daughter is taught to teach and to sing. He has built a school-house. When he leaves for Manchuria he says to the family, "Learn all you can about Jesus. He has power to heal."

CHEFOO STATION.

THE PLAGUE.—An event of the year which loomed large and set at naught all plans of men was the dire visitation of pneumonic plague during the winter. In two months Chefoo numbered nearly 2,000 less in population. The victims were mostly among the poor coolies, but the strictest quarantine was ordered by the officials. Every member of our Station, and also every church member and all connected with us in any way, escaped this fatal scourge. This exception made a profound impression on the non-Christians. The willingness of the Christians to follow precautionary rules was marked and augured well for the future of this people.

Changes in personnel were the furloughs of Dr. and Mrs. Elterich and Mr. and Mrs. Booth, the return from furlough of Mrs. Mills, the arrival of three new missionaries—Mr. and Mrs. Abbott and Mr. Smith—and the lamented death of Miss C. B. Downing.

WEI-HSIEN CHURCH.

Miss Downing came to China in 1866, in a sailing vessel, rounding the Cape of Good Hope. She took but one furlough to the homeland during 45 years of service. In 1880 she severed her connection with the Board, but she never ceased to be a worker for the Chinese. Her last work was done in connection with the Anglo-Chinese School, where she wielded a great influence among the young men. Six years ago, feeling the weight of years, she retired from active work and spent the closing years of her life in the quiet shelter of the New Missionary Home, the erection of which she had helped to make possible by a liberal gift. With her death another sum is released for the benefit of the Anglo-Chinese School, in which she was greatly interested.

After long years of waiting, the Station rejoices in the near prospect of adequate homes for workers, and buildings for the various lines of work which cluster about a well-equipped Mission station.

The Board is certainly to be congratulated on obtaining the necessary land at this time, when land is increasingly difficult to purchase. The sites procured for the new mission homes, the Boys' Academy, the Kindergarten, the Hospital and Dispensary are each admirable for their purposes. It is a great inspiration to the workers to feel that room and tools, with which to meet the ever-increasing demands of a growing work, are at hand, and our warm thanks are due to the donors of the necessary funds who are thus working with us.

Mrs. Nevius, whose long connection with the Station led to deep interest in every line of work, generously remembered its needs in a bequest of $5,000, given into the care of the Board, subject for a certain time to a small annuity of 3 per cent. The Station puts on record its appreciation of her thoughtfulness.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—This is conducted as heretofore in the daily and weekly preaching services in church or chapel and house-to-house visits by the foreign missionary, the trained Chinese preachers, evangelists and Bible women, the daily lives of all connected with the church and the printed Word. Through these avenues, as in the past, the seed has been sown broadcast seven days of the week, both morning and afternoon.

Especially attractive are the services in the chapel connected with the museum, followed as they are with glimpses of things strange and unusual which have not yet lost their drawing power. "By actual count, 87,220 people heard the Gospel preached and received tracts at the Chefoo street chapel and museum the past year. Several who have been received into the Church heard the Gospel for the first time in this place. There have been almost constantly groups of men daily studying the Scriptures, taught by the preachers stationed there. Many thus taught have gone to their homes, widely scattered. I have found no place so favorable for training students to think while talking to others. They gain self-possession and learn to interest and hold the attention of men untrained to listen to public discourse."

Several times during the year special union meetings have been held, participated in by the members of the Presbyterian China Inland Mission and the Baptist Churches. This unity of worship has been greatly prized and blessed.

Country Evangelistic.—There are 35 native evangelists working in the Chefoo field, and they report growing interest.

Mr. Hiei Bao Gieh, who travels with Dr. Corbett and has general oversight of a part of the field, is enthusiastic. Mr. Hiei is a college graduate, and a true type of the itinerant country pastor. Mounted on his little donkey, he makes his way over the mountainous roads of this part of Shantung, delivering the message of salvation to his countrymen. His stipend is $180 Mex. ($81 gold) yearly, yet he is a power in the land.

The Chefoo church raises $564 yearly and the country churches add $220 to this, making a total of $784 raised on the field for direct evangelistic work.

The work of selling Scripture portions by the Christians has developed until there are some 200 men engaged in this work, each doing what he has time for and preaching as he has opportunity; about 400 cases have been sold.

Dr. Corbett has made two journeys covering about 1,000 miles by mule litter and spending two months visiting the churches, out-stations and schools in the interior.

The children's Sunday-school since Mr. Booth's departure has been in the hands of Mr. Abbott and Mr. Smith; 120 attend on an average.

MEDICAL WORK.—During the plague epidemic Dr. Hills was port doctor for three months, releasing Dr. Gulowsen for quarantine and isolation work. The 150 visits to foreigners certainly were not made either while resting or asleep.

To the station doctor there comes, as to no other member of the station, a thousand and one things which do not seem to count on paper, but which count most decidedly to suffering human beings. Instance: a poor man, the only son of a widow, with a sore leg which is sapping his life and will soon, if not amputated, end it. Promptly a tiny Chinese room, inadequately lighted, is turned into an operating room, two other workers pressed into service, and the thing is done and successfully, too; but the operation must be followed by constant care, requiring much time and strength under adverse conditions with lack of trained native helpers. No wonder the doctor rejoices to see the foundations of his hospital and dispensary laid. His own personal gift to it of $10,000 gold, duplicated by Mr. L. H. Severance, has made it possible. It is to stand on a rise of ground, overlooking the teeming streets of the port city—hot-beds of disease—a proof of the faithfulness of the stewards of Him, who came “not to be ministered unto, but to minister.”

The native dispensary reports 3,970 cases in nine months, three months during which the dispensary was closed on account of the plague.

EDUCATIONAL.—The High School.—This school, numbering 22 pupils, has, in the absence of Dr. Elterich, been left largely to the care of the native teachers, who have done well; but there is great need of the constant oversight and help of a foreign worker if it is to meet the needs of the boys who come from all over the field to prepare for the College, Bible Training School, Medical or Theological Course.

The Anglo-Chinese School.—There were 71 students enrolled in the fall of 1910 and only 50 in the spring of 1911. This decrease was due to the plague, quite a number not being allowed to return for fear of infection.

All look with pride on the fine new building known as the "Cornwell Memorial Hall," built of red sandstone, well lighted with windows and conveniently planned. Mr. Booth raised $4,300 Mex. for it here in Chefoo, while a similar sum was given by Mr. L. H. Severance. The prospects of the School are very bright. Work, under such improved conditions, will be better done. The plant, however, is still not complete; there is no library nor science laboratories; the water supply is insufficient; the heating question a Chinese puzzle.

Such a school as this is only admissible as a mission enterprise when it is used as a channel for religious instructions; so it is with pleasure that we record the attendance of all pupils at the daily Bible lesson and prayers and the Sunday services at the church. Ten are active members of the Y. M. C. A., 35 are associate members and 5 privately profess faith—a total of 50.

Active members of the Y. M. C. A. must be members of some Evangelistic Church, and associate members must profess faith in Jesus Christ. This report shows that fifty of the seventy students attending the School are influenced by the Christian teaching.

Bible Training School.—The attendance has been 26. Of these 12 were graduated in July.

One of the men is employed by the Chefoo church to do home mission work in his native province of Chih-li. The others have been placed in groups of two in important centres in the Chefoo field. These men are all choice men and well trained for their work. More men are coming to attend the School and plans are in process for reorganizing this important department and making it even more useful than it has been before.

Girls' Day School.—This school, which is supported by the Christians, numbered 12 pupils, 7 of whom now go on for further study at the Teng-chou Girls' High School. Mrs. Wight speaks highly of the School and calls attention to the great saving it is to the Mission to have these girls receive their intermediate training in day-schools.

Kindergarten.—The attendance in this School ran up to the unprecedented number of 104. Mrs. Wells was put to her wits' end to provide for so many and sighed for a real kindergarten building, but the good work goes on nevertheless, to the joy of all concerned. Among these children are our future High School boys and girls, college students, preachers, etc.

Country Day-schools.—This important branch of work is under the care of two Chinese school superintendents, college graduates, who frequently visit the schools, giving advice and help, and conducting formal examinations twice a year. They are also visited twice yearly by the missionary in charge.

There are 20 of these country day-schools, many of them co-educational, with an average attendance of 212 pupils; representing a total expense of $2,958.00, of which $1,062.50 is raised on the field, $120.00 being given by the Chefoo church.

TSING-TAU STATION.

The plague and flood broke up carefully made plans for conferences and classes of evangelists and teachers; and the necessity for the return to America of Miss Vaughan on account of ill health still further crippled the work. The flood conditions cause a temporary backward step in self-support. The wheat crops of many of our people were destroyed by hail, and what the hail left, the floods about finished.

The Station report, however, enumerates the following reasons for thankfulness:

A. Providential Protection.

Deliverance of village of Ta Shin Tan with our Girls' School from plague when it was very near at the time when Pastor Ding Li Mei and other leaders and school children were there.

Deliverance of that village from flood when all the country around was a sheet of water and the river had broken its banks at 180 places above and below them.

Deliverance of Tsingtan from plague and the ample provision made by the German government for the Chinese in quarantine, hundreds being received daily into military barracks, where food, coal fires, hospital blankets, sanitary conditions, skilled attendants, professional experts were all free at the service of the Chinese, special provision being also made for families, women, children, teachers, gentry, etc. This mitigated much hardship for our Christians.

The total exemption from plague of all the Christians of our field.

B. Additional Equipment.

The generous Kennedy bequest furnished us with money for a residence, and Mrs. O'Neill added to her already generous gifts that of a Boys' High School in memory of her son, and supplemented this with gifts for the teachers' houses and for electric lighting.

C. Courtesy from the German Government.—It would be ungracious not to recognize the courtesy of the German officials and their manifest desire to further our work.

Having come to realize, through our representations to them, that the best of the Chinese are honestly trying to extirpate the vice of opium, they have closed all the joints but two; and they have pledged us to close these by Jan. 1, 1912.

The German governor took considerable pains to guarantee to us in writing an option on all the land we might want on Mission Hill, and at a price considerably below that of less desirable land, thus shutting out the coming of a varnish factory.

Roads that will give access to our Compounds on every side are being cut through the rock for us. The government is also laying sewerage and pure water in these streets to our doors, and will this fall entail heavy expense on itself to make possible the connecting of our Compound with its electric lighting system. At our request an expensive road is being cut through in front of our Girls' High School Compound, which road will connect us directly and quickly with the steamer docks and the near-by railroad station, convenient for the country work.

D. Coöperation of Native Leaders.—This is the third year that the Station has invited the Chinese pastors to meet us and help to shape the policy by their judgments, which have been hearty, searching and conscientious.

The assistance of the Chinese elders and deacons in the flood disaster has been admirable. They worked out a good method, proved themselves reliable and efficient, and enabled the mission to give out, with a measure of fairness, what was distributed.

E. Activity of the Church.—The local church has kept up to its high standard. In addition to its own pastor, it has this year its own evangelist and Bible-woman and school teacher, and its own missionary in S. Lai Yang. It has enlarged its church building to twice its former capacity. This being still too small, and in the interest of greater co-operation with the Station and the Weimar Mission, it is planning to get a piece of ground near our Compound and build a still larger building, and use the present plant for kindergarten and primary school.

With the assistance of Mr. Thwing, China Secretary of International Reform Bureau, we have established an Anti-Opium Society, with 173 business and professional men as charter members.

The Tai Tsi Tswang church has made considerable progress in self-support and independence. Heretofore it has been one of five churches to unite in calling a pastor; this year one of two. A village of the group has subscribed money to build its own church. Several churches are planning, despite flood conditions, to support their own schools next year.

Heretofore our Women's Bible School at village of Tai Tsi Tswang has had no certain source of support. After part of a day in prayer with the elder chiefly responsible for the school, we went out and secured subscriptions to cover the expenses for the coming years.

The Lu Kia Kin church has wiped out the debt on its fine, large new house of worship.

The Sung Ke Tswang church, one of the peanut centres of Ping-tu County, will give $25.00 towards an evangelist. The Kwan Tswang church, where the flood conditions are bad, has politely but firmly refused the offer of financial aid from foreign friends to help them invite an assistant to Pastor Chao. They prefer to have him all their very own or not have him.

F. Some Fruits of Chinese Fervor (Hot Heart) in the Gospel.—

An evangelist has decided to study for the ministry. A Christian business firm subscribed the land and part of the building for a street chapel on a busy thoroughfare. In one village, Chang Kwan Tsai, a lone Christian was greatly distressed because there was no public worship place. So he himself built a chapel. As people began to get interested and wanted to give their children a chance, he was disturbed because there was no school room. So he built one beside the chapel.

The Tsing-tau church has established the custom for the leaders to meet Wednesday forenoons to pray for people and objects outside themselves; in fact, for world-wide missions and reforms—this in addition to the regular mid-week prayer-meeting. The reflex influence on its life has been marked. It has stimulated all to a broad sympathy for, and interest in, missions in their own province.

The women, being stimulated to a deepened spiritual life, especially through the efforts of Dr. Cooper and Mrs. Montgomery and Deaconesses Chao and Hwoa, have started promising work in the east and west suburbs. Out of this increased "warmth in the Doctrine" has sprung the Women's Missionary Society of the church, enthusiastic, flourishing, with 50 members and producing an average thank-offering of $6.00 at each monthly meeting. Beggar women attend and bring their offerings.

The hunger of our Chinese leaders to study the Bible is seen in the last Bible Class under the leadership of Dr. Hayes and Pastor Li. The only convenient time was during the rainy season, when 40 of the leaders came in from the country, some of them wading through the mud and water to attend, and all paying for their own way, food and travel expenses and text-books for a two weeks' session. Many of the Christians have taken to selling the Gospels not for financial profit, but to distribute the Word.

G. Generosity Displayed by Chinese to their Brethren in Need.—

Last fall Christians responded to the call for famine relief with $230.00. The bread of self-sacrificing giving then cast upon the waters has now returned after many days to our country brethren suffering now from flood. The only thing that Elder Nan Nan Kai could turn into ready money was his fat pig, and, though he himself was hard-hit by the flood, he gladly gave the price of the pig to needier brethren. Many inspiring instances of giving in this great need could be narrated; but what impressed us most were the unsolicited subscriptions of non-Christian business men which they handed us to distribute as we saw fit.

WEI-HSIEN STATION.

The Station report begins by enumerating some of the important things peculiar to the year:

The departure of Miss M. H. Bynon, M.D., and the arrival of Miss Grace Rowley; serious sickness on the part of one and prolonged on the part of another; pneumonic plague, which for a time paralyzed mission work; the quarantining of the compound closed all the schools and hospitals for two months; the decision to remove the College from Wei-hsien to Tsinan-fu; the evangelistic campaign in the city with its discovery of the city's much more friendly attitude towards Christianity; the new plan adopted by Presbytery for pastoral sustentation; the new plan of having evangelists passed upon yearly by our whole Wei-hsien pastorate, Chinese and foreign, with relative amount of each evangelist's salary; the large summer class for evangelists which has been held only on intercalary years; the largely increased number of out-calls on the part of Dr. Roys; the publication by Mr. Luce of his "Aids to the Study of the Life of Christ," and by Mrs. Mateer of an "Organ Instructor"; the unparalleled rain and wind storms, causing great loss and distress over our field; the rising cost of conveyances and grain. Many have lost their homes and a portion of their crops, so that it looks as though we were facing famine conditions; including the Rev. Liu Fu Tien with our three evangelistic missionaries who care for the country stations not in charge of settled pastors, Mr. Liu thus having charge of 30 out-stations; the enlargement of the Press to a pretentious printing and publishing house; the installation by Mr. Chandler of electric lights in the church, and the free evening concerts made possible by the new oil engine which furnishes power for the organ; the gift of 200 taels to the men's hospital by the Governor of Shantung, in appreciation of the services of Dr. Roys to the government quarantine station at Wei-hsien.

EVANGELISTIC.—Wei-hsien Church.—The membership, comparatively speaking, is of superior quality as well as large in numbers. The Christians are growing more self-respecting, more reliable in character, freer from unworthy expectations in entering the Church and from scandalous and extravagant conduct after admission. It is better understood what the Church stands for and the controlling sentiment among the influential church members is, as a rule, healthy and high-toned.

The training school at Tsing-chou-fu is furnishing an increasing number of better-equipped school teachers and evangelists. Young men who have been there are being elected as elders, which enables us to organize more of our work. During this year we have added three to the number of our churches, making in all 27 in our Presbytery. It is impossible to estimate the value of this training school. It has relieved us of the necessity of teaching so many station classes, although there are certain classes of men who must be still taught here. Sixty-four, or two-thirds of all Presbyterian students in attendance, are from our Wei-hsien field.

We have made an advance during the year in the appointment of a committee of two prominent elders from the Presbytery and two missionaries of the Station, to have in charge the care of pastors and their salaries, deciding what each pastor should receive, what the church which he serves ought to pay, the balance being guaranteed by the missionary. This new plan throws more responsibility upon the Chinese Church and promises to improve the pastoral situation so far as a satisfactory salary is concerned.

Wei-hsien station is seriously embarrassed by the lack of a sufficient number of Chinese pastors. Five thousand Christians scattered among 170 out-stations call for a large force. There is nearly double the membership of 10 years ago, whereas we have but one more settled pastor now than then.

A missionary society of the Chinese in Shantung was organized more than three years ago at Wei-hsien. It has been using largely Wei-hsien men and is being pushed with this as its centre.

This society is growing and promises to be a permanent and inspiring feature of our Shantung church. It has recently leased buildings for headquarters and has kindled considerable interest. While this work is not confined to the Wei-hsien Presbytery, it should be mentioned somewhere for the encouragement of the Board and the Church at home.

Women's Work.—Miss Hawes continues her country work among the women; but in view of the large number of women in the church, together with all the non-Christian women in the 10 counties in which we work; and in view of the smaller number of efficient helpers than in the men's work, another woman is needed to supply the vacancy caused by the transfer of Miss Franz to Yi-hsien.

While the Woman's Bible Institute was in session, about 30 women were in attendance. It is the purpose of this school to teach wives of promising young men and others who give promise of being satisfactory Bible women. The Bible-women now employed were gathered into a class here for the month of July. In all 13 classes for women were held in the country.

The evangelists of the Wei-hsien field were taught for a month. These evangelists in a few cases are supported entirely by churches, and most, if not all, of the 30 receive a portion of their support from the churches they serve.

EDUCATIONAL.—Middle Schools.—Point Breeze Academy for Boys.—The school graduated 38 boys at the New Year and has been conducted as usual, with the exception of the absence on furlough of Mr. Wells, the regular principal.

Girls' High School.—The High School, as usual, was filled to its capacity. Ten, or about one-sixth of the whole number, were from our other mission stations. The graduating class consisted of 12 bright girls.

These girls, as a rule, marry before long, but now they are pledged to teach for two years after graduation. Of the 80 graduates, 14 are teaching in the schools of the Wei-hsien field and 27 are in other station schools in this and adjoining provinces.

Primary Schools.—Village Boarding Schools for Girls.—These are all taught by graduates of our High School and number 180 pupils. These schools since their beginning, 23 years ago, have furnished the most cheering feature of the Wei-hsien work.

Village Schools for Boys.—These schools continue to flourish, their number having increased to 56 and the number of pupils to over 700. The character of the teachers and the quality of their teaching is improving. In the few government schools, the quality of the work done is not to be compared with that in these Church schools.

They are so popular that between one-third and one-half are from non-Christian families. This is a gratifying fact, but it makes the work more difficult from a religious viewpoint, and this of course projects itself into the higher schools. Some of the boys are urgent for Church membership before they have any real appreciation of experimental religion. On the other hand, in some places, this element has resulted in bringing into the Church the parents of these boys.

These schools in the matter of self-support are in advance of any station of north China, if not in all China. Although the salaries have been considerably increased, the schools still pay fully three-fifths of the salaries together with all other expenses.

MEDICAL.—The Men's Hospital, superintended by Dr. Roys, and the Woman's Hospital, superintended by Dr. Bynon, had a busy year as usual. The recent storm destroyed part of the isolation wards, which, of course, must be repaired. The quarantining of the Compound on account of the pneumonic plague closed them for two months, but the epidemic, as may well be imagined, added heavily to the labors and responsibilities of the physicians. The large number of students on the Compound always means considerable work for the doctors that does not count in hospital in-patient statistics.

The statistics of the Men's Hospital are as follows: In-patients, 324; major operations, 78; other operations, 265; total operations, 343; out-calls, city and country, 184; out-calls to students, 12; total out-calls, 196; new patients, 4,396; return visits, 1,347; additional treatments, 3,879; total treatments, 9,622.

The number of in-patients is somewhat less than last year, due to the fact that the Hospital was closed on account of plague in our busiest season. The number of new patients, however, shows a decided increase, being more than double the number seen last year. The number of out-calls is also more than double what it was last year, and has been the distinctive feature of this year's work. Four of these visits together called for over 200 li of travel; the others would average four li apiece, which together with a daily trip to the City Dispensary on 250 days during the year, makes a total of 3,960 li (or 1,320 miles) traveled this year in medical work.

TSINAN-FU STATION.

The year just closing was one of the most notable in the history of the Station.

The presence of the pneumonic plague in several sections of the country field, while its ravages were not extensive, seriously interrupted the spring evangelistic classes and delayed the opening of the schools; but both the city and, to a large extent, the country field escaped the visitation which seemed so imminent.

The decision to remove the Arts College of the Shantung Christian University from Wei-hsien to Tsinan-fu; the opening of the new East City Gate only 600 feet from the Compound, thus bringing 70,000 of the 100,000 or more of population in the Presbyterian section of the city 25 per cent. nearer at a time when the city is far more receptive than ever before, and changing the former isolated position to one of commanding strategic value; the grant of $11,200, from the Kennedy bequest, with a promise of several thousand more from other sources just as land purchases are sufficiently advanced to plan to the greatest advantage an enlarged compound; the greatly improved outlook in the evangelistic work signalized by the greater scope and efficiency of the street chapels and the closer drawing together of the entire Protestant membership of the city, all lead to feelings of joy as well as solemnity. Twenty years ago a magistrate beat a man to death for selling the Mission property in this suburb, and this year, the governor, with the sanction of the throne, opened this and three other gates, two of which will be of material benefit to the Mission, in response to the appeal of Dr. Hamilton.

EVANGELISTIC.—The City Field.—Street Chapels.—In contrast with the indifference and even contempt of a Tsinan street chapel audience of a few years ago, the present respectful and earnest attention to the Christian message fills the missionaries with delighted amazement.

There are now 43 registered candidates for entrance to the church in connection with the South Gate Chapel and nearly as many in the English Baptist Mission Hall outside the West Gate. The South Gate Chapel has been enlarged and is available for both street work and Sunday services, with a seating capacity of over 200.

The Union Church.—The East Suburb Presbyterian Church, organized 30 years ago, decided last January to cast in its lot with the Union Church organized four years ago in the West Suburb, thus uniting in one body the entire Protestant membership of the city.

The united body comprises 160 members, 53 having been baptized during the past year—32 in the Baptist Mission Chapel and 21 in the Presbyterian Mission Chapel. The main features of the constitution is that the form and time of baptism are optional and that the church be affiliated with both the Presbyterian Synod and the Baptist Union. The church now maintains work in five centres every Sunday and the entire evangelistic work of the entire county will be made over to it as it has the ability to take care of it. Mr. Han, of the Baptist Church, is now in his third year as pastor, and Mr. Harmon and Mr. Hamilton have been chosen to coöperate in the early stages of the movement.

Country Evangelistic Work.—There has been a steady progress and the outlook is bright, though the work has not seemed to move forward with the same rapid strides as that in the city.

The cruel and unprovoked assault upon Mr. Murray, the beloved senior member of the Station, by two men with clubs, as he was traveling last March on a second trip through his country field, brought weeks of pain to him, much care to his physicians, and keen anxiety to all. His recovery, though by no means complete, was sufficient for him to take up his regular work again in June. Mr. Murray's enforced absence from his field enabled him to receive only one of a large number waiting for baptism. Dr. Hamilton reports the development of inquirers in a region where none had heretofore existed. Mr. Dodd reports the erection of a chapel by a Chinese Christian of some means and the winning of a promising college graduate who voluntarily decided to devote himself to the Gospel ministry. The total membership in the country is 760, making with the Union Church in the city a grand total of over 900. 81 were received during the year. A seven weeks' Bible Training Class for evangelists was held in mid-summer.

Women's Work.—The weekly meetings for the women have been kept up in the East Suburb, and Mrs. Neal has also held a meeting each week in the homes of the Christians living in the Settlement.

The country work among the women was carried on by holding classes and visiting in the homes of the Christians. The outbreak of plague interfered with the work in the early spring.

EDUCATIONAL.—53 pupils were enrolled in the Clara Linton Hamilton Academy for Boys. Mr. Dodd has been in charge and Mr. Chang has continued to act as the head teacher. Of the other two teachers, one resigned, and in his place a second-degree man was secured who has set the classical department on its feet and is adding considerable to the prestige of the School.

A number of outside boys were brought under the influence of the school through two English classes which Mr. Merwin has conducted in one of the school rooms. These classes were entirely separate from the Academy, but nine students in the latter were permitted to enter. Mr. Torrence has been doing a much-needed service in teaching singing. The moral and religious atmosphere of the School has been good, and aside from three suspensions for cheating, there have been no serious cases of discipline. Two of the students entered college this year and one entered the Normal School at Tsing-chou-fu.

There are now 12 boys at the Wei-hsien College, two at the Theological Seminary and five at the Normal School. From the ranks of the alumni have come 12 of the 19 teachers of elementary schools for boys and 4 of the 25 evangelists used in the Tsinan field this year. Two more of the graduates have decided to study for the ministry, making a total of eight, all of whom intend to enter that sacred office with full college and theological seminary equipment.

The girls' higher education has for some years past been carried on for the Station by the Wei-hsien High School.

The Elementary Schools have shown a rapid and steady growth.

There were 16 for boys and 5 for girls. The financial support of these schools by the people is growing even faster than the attendance; last year the Chinese expending $200 gold on these schools, not including the money spent by the pupils for food, books and other personal items.

MEDICAL.—Owing to the absence of Dr. Johnson in Ichou-fu, which Dr. Fouts had been forced to leave on account of his wife's health, and to Dr. Merwin being engaged in language study, the care of the medical work has been left almost entirely in the hands of Mr. Chang and Miss Tai, the tried Chinese assistants, who have been faithful in keeping the medical work running regularly during this year when no foreign physician was available.

In common with all the other hospitals in the city, the medical work was closed for six weeks during the winter quarantine owing to the prevalence of plague in near-by regions. The women's medical work has been carried on in connection with the McIlvaine Hospital for Men, with a separate dispensary for the men and women. Following are the statistics for the past year:

ICHOU-FU STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—All the missionaries in the Station have had a part in this work, assisted by a few capable Chinese. Mr. Lu and Mr. Chia have been especially helpful.

Itinerating has of necessity received less attention this year. The whole field was visited once before the Chinese New Year and about half was covered in the spring. Due to the heavy storms at New Year time, Mr. Romig's plans for early itinerating and tent meetings could not be carried out, but he was able to get in a few months' work before Mr. Armstrong's departure. After that, purchases of land, building of Boys' School, receiving many calls, directing evangelists and looking after tasks in the Boys' School which the Chinese teachers could not manage have completely occupied his time. The trips made to Presbytery at Yi-hsien and to Synod at Tsinan-fu could hardly be called itinerating, though preaching was done on both trips.

We are gratified that in some places the Christians and inquirers have ably assisted the evangelists. One young man, a graduate of the T'an Cheng official school, has shown zeal in helping the evangelists in his vicinity. At one time, he and Wang Hsi Fu, a student at Tsing-chou-fu, started to visit a village where there were inquirers. The small bridge across the river was gone and the river was full of floating ice. Wang Hsi Fu was for returning, but the young man said, "No," and boldly waded through the cold water. Wang Hsi Fu, in telling about it later, said this inquirer showed more zeal than he, and Wang Hsi Fu is one of our best helpers. This young man, Shao Li Toa, plans to go to Tsing-chou-fu to study for the ministry.

Equally important with the itinerating work is the instruction of Christian leaders. For these we have held classes. From the middle of the 11th moon to the middle of the 12th moon, a large class of men were in the Station at work.

Tent Meetings.—Despite the snow and mud, the tent came in for service. Helpful meetings were held in Kūchow, Tsoa Ch'wan and in the Ishwei vicinity. At Kūchow the attention of non-Christians was remarkable; many remained seated and standing in continuous service for five or six hours. Tent preaching is a splendid method of reaching the people, and we hope soon to have a tent of our own.

Summer classes were held in Ishwei and Ichou-fu. The Ichou-fu class was made up of the country teachers and evangelists. Pastor Ding Li Mei held meetings for a week, which were well attended, but without any special demonstration. The members of the Ichou-fu church organized a home missionary society of seven or eight bands. Sunday afternoon is devoted to preaching in the city and vicinity and in the evening reports are heard from representatives of these bands.

Pastoral Work.—The city church has good prospect with Mr. Chia as preacher and prospective pastor. Never have there been such large numbers of baptisms at any one time as at the past two communion services, when 35 and 25 were baptized, respectively.

The practice of Sabbath observance and attendance on church services has not been entirely satisfactory, for these new Christians have yet much to learn. Ever since the special meetings in the winter there has been one familiar face in the fourth seat from the front—a Mohammedan, who has been the chief gambler in the city.

Several places in the country field have a hopeful outlook. One has a large number of inquirers and an excellent school. The people have subscribed 50,000 cash in part payment for a chapel and school house.

Women's Work.—Mrs. Romig and Miss Faris conducted classes for women from the country. Ichou-fu has only three Bible-women, and they cannot leave home for any length of time, for their children are dependent on them. It is hoped that from the women who attended the classes several could be chosen as helpers. There is good material in them and after several years' study they will prove valuable assistants.

EDUCATIONAL.—There are three schools for boys in the city—two small schools and the McPherson Academy. The school in connection with the Academy has 33 pupils, and the other, known as the East Suburb School, has 20 pupils. The Academy has 26 pupils of High School grade and six special students.

In the country there are 10 Boys' Schools with a total of 96 pupils. During the year we started our first Girls' Schools, three in number, with an attendance of 24. Of the 10 Boys' Schools, five have well-advanced teachers, three of whom are Academy graduates and one a Tsing-chou-fu graduate. Nearly all the teachers have had some instruction in Western branches. We inaugurated the policy of using a Chinese examiner and are fortunate in having a college graduate for the place. He will give his time to examining and developing the country schools. There is a strong desire for education, and the chief need is a better class of teachers, with more funds to pay their salaries.

The Prefect has opened a Normal and Industrial School in the South Suburb. He found it difficult to obtain a first-class English teacher and advised us to teach English. The teaching staff for our Boys' Schools numbers 19 and the number of pupils is 205. Most of the country school teachers have been helpful in leading religious services where they are located. The expenses of the Boys' Boarding School have been large this year. There were 31 boarders last spring, but not so many entered in the fall. Three pay 3,600 cash per year, about half the cost, and the others pay 2,000. A few are unable to pay anything themselves and the money is paid by members of the Station.

The Girls' School was in charge of Miss Faris last year and three Chinese teachers were employed.

Mrs. Fouts had advanced the standard by putting in the first year of the High School course. This was made with a view to a complete four years' high school course. We are to have two new teachers from Wei-hsien who came to us highly recommended. Thus the High School will be fairly launched, while the little school will not be neglected. During the last half of the school year, three of our Wei-hsien students who were at home during the plague season rendered valuable assistance.

Last year, there were nine High School girls, and in the little school forty girls took the mid-year examinations, though ten more had come to school during the year.

Strictly speaking, there were no boarding pupils, for there was no place for a dining room or kitchen. Instead, all these country girls prepared their own food wherever they could set down their kettle, the younger ones being helped by the school matron and gatekeeper. This year we are installing a complete eating plant in the added buildings vacated by the Boys' School. The new buildings will be begun this fall and the hope is that we will be able to occupy them next year.

The city school has continued in its old quarters in the chapel with 16 little girls. The school for young married women was open for six months of the year, during the least busy season, when the women can best be spared from home duties. There was an average attendance of 12.

MEDICAL.—The continued ill-health of Mrs. Fouts finally compelled Dr. Fouts to take her to America. After some months at home, the prospect of her returning to China appeared so indefinite that he finally felt obliged to resign, to the deep regret of the Mission and the Board. Dr. Emma Fleming was still detained in America by the serious illness of her mother, but after the latter's death Dr. Fleming, in spite of her sorrow, returned to the field, arriving at the end of the year. In the absence of the permanent medical staff, Dr. Charles Johnson, of Tsinan-fu, and Dr. Louise Keator gave valuable assistance. Valuable help was also rendered by the able corps of Chinese assistants who did much of the routine work in both hospitals.

The total attendance at both hospitals was 14,771. Of these 351 were hospital in-patients, 251 men and 100 women, and these received about 3,000 treatments, making the total number of treatments over 18,000.

The new plan inaugurated by Dr. Fouts, of having two hospital evangelists, has proved very satisfactory. These men take turns in the hospital and in the country, each spending a month preaching to the patients in the wards of the hospital and the dispensary waiting room, and then a month following up the cases in the country. Much more effective work has been done by this method, and several have already been led into the Church directly by these men.

The medical receipts for the past year have been only $250.00. One reason for this small amount has been the extremely hard times that have prevailed in this section. Everything has been at famine prices and many ordinarily well-to-do families have barely escaped starvation. Then, too, in the absence of the regular physician in charge, a less vigorous appeal has been made for contributions than would perhaps otherwise have been the case.

TSINING STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Tsining is a city of 200,000 inhabitants, and one of the largest and most promising centres for Christian work in this part of China. The number of souls won for Christ is growing larger each year. Tsining City is not unique in being hard to touch with the Gospel message, and yet even in the city the Gospel banner has been a little wider unfurled this year than ever before.

One big step in advance is the acquisition of a city street chapel, situated on a main thoroughfare of this busy city, where in the near future preaching can be heard day and night. We hope for great things for it. The city church has had a prosperous year, 700 examinations for entrance being reported, and 1,200 names on the church roll, although in it, as well as in the country, there has been the need for the expulsion or suspension of several members, but this in China, as well as elsewhere, works in the end to the strengthening of the whole Church.

For the better training of the Chinese evangelists, a class was again held to teach them "Preparation and Delivery of Sermons," "Life of Christ," "Parables of Christ," and the first principles of music. A written examination was held at the close of the class.

Woman's Work.—The women are beginning to realize the benefits to be derived from the course in the Bible Institute, and the interest is continually increasing in all the field—an indication that the old China is slowly but surely changing to new ideals. At present the number of students is only 20, owing to a lack of funds.

This year there have been held two women's classes in the country, conducted by Bible women, with no foreigner present. In Cheng Wu district alone the women form almost 40 per cent. of the total number of inquirers. More women have studied this year than ever before.

Sunday-schools.—The usual Sunday-school for street children has been kept up, superintended by a foreigner and taught by one of the Woman's Bible Institute teachers. The attendance averaged 50.

EDUCATIONAL.—Normal Institute.—For the first time this institution has been separated from the Boys' Academy—a great advantage to both schools.

Eleven men have been in attendance this year, these having been selected from a much larger number of applicants by means of an entrance examination. A teacher from Tsing-chou-fu gives half his time to the institute. The aim of this School is to train men to take charge of the Primary Schools, so that the students, both boys and girls, can finish the whole course before entering the city schools.

No non-Christian teachers are employed in either the city or country schools.

Boys' Academy.—The attendance has increased, the total enrollment being 46 at the close of the spring term, while only 17 of those were here last year.

The number of pupils has been limited on account of the hard times and the inability of the School to meet expenses with a larger number of scholars. In January the third graduating class received their diplomas. At the present time the Academy has representatives in all three branches of the Shantung Christian University. Of the 50 students who constituted the enrollment during most of the term, 36 are church members, 6 baptized during the year, and 18 of the entire number having received baptism after entering the school. 23 of the total number of students are from non-Christian homes. The average age is 18.

Kenarden Academy for Girls.—This school has passed its first birthday with an enrollment of 35 girls, many having been refused admittance for lack of room. Of the 35, 23 are church members and the average age is 16. The girls pay about $2.00 gold per year for board, which is, of course, quite inadequate to meet expenses.

Owing to the lack of country schools, both the primary and academy courses have to be followed. This year a sewing class was started and the girls are delighted over it. Many of the girls come from desperately poor homes, the greater number of them walking from 20 to 50 miles twice a year, often through mud and water. All have done splendid work during the school year. A Literary Society and Y. W. C. A. have been started.

From the money bequeathed by that great and good friend of Missions, the late Mr. John S. Kennedy, we have been given sufficient to enable us to erect a new main building, and the Station has allowed the school a tract of land adjoining the present site which will make the grounds more adequate to the needs. Mrs. Kennedy was asked to name the school, and she suggested "Kenarden," the name of her summer home at Bar Harbor, Maine, and associated with many memories of Mr. Kennedy.

Primary Schools.—This year there are 19 of these schools—an increase of 3 over last year. Two were closed and 5 new ones opened. One Girls' School was opened in the city with an attendance of 7 scholars and one in the country with an attendance of 12. Only the lack of funds and teachers prevent the opening of others.

The total enrollment in the 19 schools is 187. There are four others, distinctly Christian and with Christian teachers, but not under the control of the missionaries. Ninety-one of the students are from Christian homes. The chief difficulty is the lack of competent teachers; at the present there are only eight able to teach arithmetic and geography, and of these only one is well equipped to teach.

MEDICAL.—The hard times this year have reduced in some measure the number of patients treated in the Rose Bachman and Hunter Memorial Hospitals. Still they come in large numbers, the lame, the halt and the blind.

The patients in the wards have been fewer this year on account of the hard times and its being impossible for them to bring sufficient money to allow them to stay for any length of time. Twice the mother of the head city official has been out for treatment and has not demurred at having a man treat her. With her came a young woman of high rank who likewise requested the foreign doctor to prescribe for her. The men's and women's medical work in Tsining are still under one management, the women being treated in the men's dispensary, but having a yard, wards, and gatehouse entirely separate. One of the great joys of the year is a sum of money granted by the Board from that magnificent sum of money bequeathed to Foreign Missions by Mr. John S. Kennedy, for the purchase of new instruments and the erection of new surgical wards. We rejoice continually in the good name and popularity which our hospitals have throughout the country and city.

The treatments in the dispensary were 15,000. The fee which each patient is required to pay before being treated was increased. Altogether it has been a most prosperous year, and we believe that it has seen the hearts of many people opened to the Gospel message. It is our aim to make the medical work always a finger-post, pointing straight towards the Great Physician, and we are glad to say that many, through it, have gone to Him for true healing.

YI-HSIEN STATION.

The people of this field were sorely afflicted during the year. During the winter and spring, when plague was raging in the north, this region was visited by a malignant fever. Many deaths were reported.

Conditions grew worse day by day because of lack of food-stuffs and their high prices. Being located on the boundary line of the famine region, many suffered and died at our very doors, and we felt that we were able to do for them only a small part of what we should like to have done. About 8,000 homes were assisted. Members of Tsining Station and Mr. Eames in particular lent a helping hand. During the spring and summer another fever, similar to typhoid, appeared and numerous deaths resulted among both the rich and poor. While several families of the missionary employees were sick and several deaths resulted, we are thankful to report that none of the employees died.

Before this fever had abated came the floods of August 12 and 28. The Grand Canal was four days and nights higher than its banks, and on some streets of a neighboring city boats were the only means of communication. In the country several villages were almost totally destroyed and only the homes on the higher ground remained. With conditions in the south even worse, another famine is predicted with a winter and spring of suffering. Since the flood, malaria is found in nearly every home. One day at the dispensary out of 125 patients, about 100 of them had malaria of a severe type. The suffering of the poor people from hunger and pestilence has been great. Starving children of all ages, from babies carried in arms to boys and girls of 16 or 17, were offered daily to the missionaries. To refuse is hard, but to realize that to refuse a girl is probably deciding for her a life of prostitution is doubly hard. While parents would rather choose a better life for their children, yet rather than see them starve they sold their girls to men who were carrying them off to Shanghai and Tsing-tau.

EVANGELISTIC.—This has been interrupted to some extent by housebuilding and famine relief work.

The Chinese evangelists spent nearly two months in relief work. Mr. Romig and Miss Franz held meetings in the Teng-hsien field and the Christians were led to work for their fellow-villagers and out into the neighboring towns. The work kept up during the fall and winter months. Elder Chiang and two helpers made a circuit through the Yi-hsien field among the Christian and catechumens and returned with a bagful of wine jars, idols, etc., which had been donated to them because their owners decided they had no further use for them.

Mr. Yerkes made a trip into the south country and examined over 70 catechumens. Three Chinese leaders, Pastors Chia, Ma and Ding, conducted special meetings. Twelve were baptized and received into the church at Teng-hsien. A class for helpers and advanced Christians was held at Yi-hsien during the summer conducted by Pastor Ma. Another for country Christians was held at Tsang-kou conducted by Chao Kwei Chen. New centres for establishing the Church are opening up and more evangelists are needed. The most promising field is to the south of Yi-hsien city, and it is in this region that we expect to gather the evangelists for a fall and winter gospel campaign.

The women's work is very promising, both in the city and the country. In more than one place, the women make up nearly half the congregation. We need more Bible women to teach the women already favorably inclined to the Gospel as well as to enter many other homes which are open to their visits and await their message. At the beginning of the year 5 women were employed, but 3 of them had to be dropped.

The children's service, at which hymns are sung and Bible stories told, is one of the encouraging features of the work. Nearly all the children are from non-Christian homes and many are Mohammedans. The attendance varies from 40 to nearly 200, according to the season, with an average of 70 or 80.

EDUCATIONAL.—The city school for boys has had 2 teachers and an enrollment of 30 pupils. The girls' school has had difficulty in securing a suitable teacher. Since the Chinese New Year a man has been in charge. Progress in both schools has been hindered because they lack suitable quarters. The country schools are well attended, but suffer because of the quality of the teachers.

MEDICAL.—This has always been one of the most flourishing departments of the Station work and is one of the poorest equipped of any station in the Mission.

If figures are to tell the story, they speak with a loud voice. 13,574 patients were seen at the dispensary; of these first calls numbered 6,267 and return visits, 7,307. Operations under an anesthetic, 562; without an anesthetic, 1,214. In a one-room ward 62 in-patients accommodated. Out-calls, 16. Poison cases (opium, matches, etc.), 47. Broken legs are becoming numerous. Friendly relations continue to exist with the manager of the coal mines, and many cases from the mines and its railway are treated at the dispensary and in the ward.

SHANTUNG CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY.—It will be remembered that the Shantung Christian University consists of three colleges at three important centres of the province, viz.:

The Union College of Arts and Science at Wei-hsien.

The Union Medical College at Tsinan-fu.

The Gotch-Robinson Union Theological College at Tsing-chou-fu.

While the Colleges of the University are at present established at these three centres, it has been unanimously decided by the coöperating Missions and the Home Boards to concentrate the work of the University at the provincial capital, Tsinan-fu, where the Medical College is already located.

This becomes practicable, as the property now in use by the Colleges at Wei-hsien and Tsing-chou-fu is needed for other Mission purposes, which would otherwise have to be secured.

The uniting of the University work at Tsinan-fu will form an epoch in the history of higher Christian education in Shantung, facilitating a wider educational union amongst the Missions of the Province, leading to increased economy and efficiency, placing us in contact with the most influential Chinese of Shantung, and upon the two important railways of the Province.

The University was established by the American Presbyterian and the English Baptist Missions, and is governed by a representative Council subject to the ultimate control of the Home Boards.

Other Missions of Shantung and contiguous provinces are entering the union, either wholly or in part, on terms of equality with the original uniting Missions. The Mission of the S. P. G. of the Church of England has been in the College of Arts and Science for several years and other Missions are now negotiating with this in view. It is hoped that ultimately our union, which has been so signally blessed, may include all the Missions of the Province.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCE, WEI-HSIEN.—Rev. Paul D. Bergen, D.D., President; Rev. H. W. Luce, M.A., Rev. E. W. Burt, B.A., Mr. Harold Whitcher, B.Sc., Mr. H. S. Cousens, B.A., Mr. Horace Chandler, B.Sc., Professors, assisted by 14 Chinese teachers.

For several years, the College has been growing rapidly in numbers, as indicated in the table below;

	1904	1905	1906	1907	1908	1909	1910
Regular students.....	92	108	116	131	212	249	285
Special "	4	10	12	83	19	40	26
Medical "						8	9
Total.....	96	118	128	214	231	297	320

An ever-widening constituency has become attached to the College. The College is now connected with 15 Middle Schools which have a total of over 700 students, and these Middle Schools are fed by over 250 boys' primary schools, containing about 3,000 pupils. This year examinations were held at 15 different places. 118 students sat for the examinations, of which only 50 passed the required grade.

The graduating class of 1911 numbered 20 and was the largest ever sent forth. Three have entered the Theological College and the rest have all found positions in Christian service in Shantung, Honan, Hupeh, Hunan, Kwang-tung and Kiang-su Provinces.

Financial.—There have been received in fees $3,788.44, an increase over last year of $683.20. An average number of 28 students have arranged for their own food at a cost of $627.00. This makes a total of $4,415.44, or a total increase over last year of $370.20. Economies in expense have been effected at several points, and the students' text books are now sold at cost price.

Religious Life.—The Y. M. C. A. has kept up its usual effective work, which was stimulated by the successful Summer Students' Conference held here. The Principal of one of our Middle Schools writes a month after the Conference:

The benefits received at the Y. M. C. A. Conference are still evident in the lives of our young men.

Another writes two months later:

I wish I could tell how much the Y. M. C. A. Conference at Wei-hsien has helped our Academy. There is a noticeable change in the conduct of the students. . . . In short, it amounts to a quiet revival in our midst.

Owing to the pressure of administrative duties during the furlough of Dr. Bergen, Mr. Luce has been able to give but little oversight to the Student Volunteer Band. It is imperative that more time should be found during the coming year for helping these young men to keep true to their purpose. We need often to remember them in the trials and temptations which they meet on their way to the high and difficult office of the ministry.

Middle Schools.—

It is becoming clear that, with our more extended and vital relations to the Middle Schools, some opportunity should be given at an early date when the principals and teachers of the Middle Schools should meet to discuss these relations. Differences in curricula, salaries, standards, terminology, discipline, all these as related both to the college and primary schools demand attention. Many of the difficulties in the College should have been dealt with in the lower schools. For these reasons, the Faculty of the Arts College is arranging a Conference in September next in which each Middle School shall be represented by its principal and one Chinese teacher.

GOTCH-ROBINSON THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE, TSING-CHOU-FU, includes three departments: Theological Seminary, Normal School and Bible Institute. The Rev. J. Percy Bruce, M.A., of the English Baptist Mission, is President, and the Rev. W. M. Hayes and W. P. Chalfant are professors, assisted in the Normal School by seven Chinese teachers.

Many students in both the Theological and Normal School departments spent their vacations in evangelistic work and gave valuable assistance to the churches in their own districts.

The number of students at the close of the year was 163—18 in the Theological Department, 127 in the Normal School and 18 in the Bible Institute.

Theological Department.—The year began with 20 students—a net increase of 9 compared with the previous year, owing, as reported last year, to the revival meeting in the two colleges conducted by Pastor Ding. Of 15 new students received, 10 were from the Arts College at Wei-hsien and four from our own Normal School, and one was a Professor of the Arts College.

The students have done excellent and conscientious work in all their classes. Very earnestly we commend these young brethren to the prayers of our friends both in China and in the home lands. They have strong temptations assailing them. The impulse of a revival is not sufficient in itself to sustain their purpose, but our prayer is that the Master who called them forth will hold them in His grasp and prepare them by struggle and victory for noble service in future years. Two students have this year finished their course.

Some results of literary work have to be recorded. Dr. Hayes has rewritten his well-known work on Astronomy, published by the American Presbyterian Press at Shanghai. He has also completed his book on Pastoral Theology printed by the Wei-hsien College Press. Mr. Bruce's Text-book of Logic has also been published by the Press in Shanghai.

Normal School.—The number of Students who have remained through the year is as follows: Seniors, 19; Juniors, 29; Sophomores, 46; Freshmen, 33; total, 127.

Of these 112 have this year taken the Regular course and 15 the Modified course. Of the Senior Class two enter the Theological Department, 4 are appointed as Evangelists, and the remainder as teachers in Elementary Schools. Of former graduates, encouraging reports are received from time to time.

The Bible Institute forms a third department of this institution at Tsing-chou-fu.

The students taking this course have been fewer in the year just closed than in previous years, viz., 18, as compared with 38 and 27 in the two years immediately preceding. Their number bids fair, however, to be increased in the coming year. Their studies follow the prescribed course in the main, but when possible these students have attended the classes of the Missionary teachers.

We desire to record our sincere thanks to the China Emergency Committee for their grant of $7,500 to the College. Some of the desired land has been purchased, and plans are in preparation for putting up the new building in the ensuing year. The grant will greatly increase the efficiency of the institution.

UNION MEDICAL COLLEGE, TSINAN-FU.—James Boyd Neal, M.A., M.D., President; E. Freiherr von Werthern, Dr. Med. et Chir.; Charles F. Johnson, M.D., and W. M. Schultz, M.D., Professors, assisted by three Chinese teachers and James Russell Watson, M.B., M.R.C.S., D.P.H., of Tsing-chou-fu; Thomas C. Patterson, M.B., C.M., of Tsow-ping.

The first four of the above named teach regularly, while the last two give such courses as their other duties permit. All teaching is in Chinese.

The splendid new buildings were opened March 15, 1910. For four years previously, union medical classes had been carried on by the medical men of the two Missions concerned, the English Baptist and American Presbyterian, pending the obtaining of a site and the erection of buildings for the accommodation of the union College. Such a site was secured in 1908 in the south suburb of Tsinan, the most rapidly growing section of the city, and buildings were erected thereon. The main three-story building provides ample accommodation for lecture rooms and laboratories for the practical study of anatomy, physiology, histology and pathology. Special facilities are provided for a thorough study of materia medica and practical pharmacy. A modern equipped hospital gives facilities for the practical instruction of the medical students in clinical medicine and surgery.

April 17, 1911, we had our formal opening, when Governor Sun and all the high officials of the Province were present. On this occasion the Governor gave us Tls. 1,000 in consideration of our services during the plague time, with which we have erected a much-needed new dormitory for the incoming class of men.

The whole plant of the Union Medical College and Hospital was provided by the Baptist Missionary Society of London, from grants made by the trustees of the Arthington Fund; but while the buildings belong to the English Baptist Mission, the College is a union institution, under the joint control at present of the English Baptist and American Presbyterian Missions, through the University Council. It is confidently anticipated, that other Missions in Shantung, and possibly in some of the adjoining provinces, will share in this union undertaking for the training of Christian doctors for China.

The aim and policy of the College, as stated in the Basis of Union, is: "To give a medical education, under distinctively Christian influences, to young men chiefly from Christian families." In accordance with this aim, every effort is made to maintain the distinctively Christian character with which the institution starts out, and it is the endeavor of those in charge to turn out not only well-trained doctors, but earnest Christian men as well.

During the first term, there were 20 men under instruction. The classes as a whole did good work during this first term, but at the examinations at the end of the term in July it was found that two men, one in the old class and one in the new, had not come up to the mark and they were dropped.

The Hospital and Dispensaries were opened for patients the 19th of September, 1910. From the very first, we have been most gratified by the numbers coming for treatment, the records showing that within three months, there were over 4,000 at the dispensaries, besides 42 hospital in-patients. For the first full year, September 19, 1910, to September 18, 1911, the statistics are as follows: New dispensary patients, including 1,147 eye cases, 6,653; old dispensary patients, including 1,387 eye cases, 7,731, making a total of 14,384 attendances, besides out-calls, including therein 162 hospital patients, of which 66 were eye cases.

Daily prayers have been held with the students and a Y. M. C. A. was organized by the members of the new class, which has held weekly meetings. We all very much desire to see a strong Christian spirit prevail in the institution.

GIRLS' DAY-SCHOOL, PEKING.

NORTH CHINA MISSION.

PEKING: the capital of China, 100 miles northwest of the mouth of the Peiho; occupied in 1863. Missionaries—Rev. W. A. P. Martin, D.D., LL.D., Rev. John Wherry, D.D., Mrs. J. L. Whiting, Rev. C. H. Fenn, D.D., and Mrs. Fenn, Miss Janet McKillican, Miss Eliza E. Leonard, M.D., Miss B. C. McCoy, Rev. W. W. Hicks and Mrs. Hicks, Rev. Wm. H. Gleysteen and Mrs. Gleysteen, Rev. E. L. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, Dr. F. J. Hall and Mrs. Hall, Dr. F. E. Dilley and Mrs. Dilley, Rev. C. H. Corbett and Mrs. Corbett, Rev. Charles L. Ogilvie and Mrs. Ogilvie.

PAOTING-FU: 100 miles southwest of Peking; occupied 1893. Missionaries—Rev. C. A. Killie and Mrs. Killie, Rev. A. M. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, Rev. W. A. Mather and Mrs. Mather, Dr. C. E. Lewis and Mrs. Lewis, Miss G. Newton, Miss A. H. Gowans, Miss Maud A. Mackey, M.D., Rev. Albert K. Whallon and Miss Edith Gumbrell.

SHUNTEH-FU: 250 miles southwest of Peking; occupied in 1903. Missionaries—Rev. J. A. Miller and Mrs. Miller, Dr. Guy W. Hamilton and Mrs. Hamilton, Rev. Edwin C. Hawley and Mrs. Hawley, Miss Marjorie M. Judson and Miss Elizabeth T. Lewis, M.D.

TRANSFER: Rev. J. W. Lowrie, D.D., from Peking to Shanghai.

RESIGNATIONS: Rev. Dwight C. Chapin, Miss Ellen Ward.

FURLONGHS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. Dr. C. H. Fenn and Mrs. Fenn, Dr. Guy W. Hamilton and Mrs. Hamilton, Dr. Eliza E. Leonard, Rev. Wm. A. Mather and Mrs. Mather, Miss Annie H. Gowans, Miss Grace Newton, Rev. Dr. John Wherry.

PEKING STATION.

PERSONNEL.—The working force has been considerably affected by the furloughs of Dr. Wherry, Dr. and Mrs. Fenn and Miss McCoy. All have now returned to the field except Mrs. Fenn. Miss Ward, who has given several years of loving voluntary service to the Mission, but whose ill-health had for sometime prevented her doing active work, left for America at the outbreak of the plague, and Dr. Leonard started home in July for a well-earned furlough. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham have been in Paoting-fu this year, so that Dr. Lowrie might take Dr. Fenn's place in the Theological Seminary. Dr. Elizabeth Lewis has studied in the language school, taught in the Woman's Medical College, and since June 1st, had full charge of the Woman's Hospital. Miss Judson, of Shunte-fu, has been in the language school.

LITERARY WORK.—Dr. Martin has revised his "Religious Allegories" and has prepared a course of lectures to be printed in one of the Chinese papers. He has also written a tract on "The Christian View of the World." Dr. Lowrie has been responsible for revising the Confession of Faith, in the classical language, for the use of the Synod.

· EVANGELISTIC.—Both the city churches have flourished this year, the Second Street Church, under Mr. Johnson's supervision, and the West Church, under Dr. Lowrie's care.

It is an encouraging fact that the former church has been partially supporting the out-station at Ch'ing Ho and is now planning to become self-supporting and call a Chinese pastor. It has welcomed 31 persons on profession of faith during the year. Its contributions have amounted to $505.63, about $295 of which are from the Chinese alone. The midweek prayer meeting has indicated a great deal of real spiritual life. The West Church has baptized 18 adults and 13 children and its contributions amount to $60.

The work at the Street Chapels has been carried steadily on. The one at Chiao Tao K'ou has attracted many by its new gas-light.

The newly installed punkahs (fans) have added to the comfort of the summer audiences. Various classes are attracted, e. g., workmen, students, shopkeepers. The attendance for the year has amounted to 50,000. In this number a good many are counted more than once, but this is as it should be, for our hope lies in those who come again and again. At the Drum Tower Street Chapel a great part of the preaching has been done by the students in the Theological Seminary as a regular part of their work, which they are assigned to do in small groups. Thus they are able to combine taking in the truth with giving it out, and in the midst of their studies have the practical side of their profession kept persistently before them.

Preaching at the various Temple Fairs, which are held from time to time in several places around the city and which run from five to twenty days, is a new and promising work.

The London Mission, the American Board, the Methodist Mission and our own Mission united in the work and appointed a Union Evangelistic Committee to direct the undertaking. Separate tents for men and women were provided and both the foreigners and the Chinese who participated in the enterprise have been enthusiastic over it.

Out-station in North Field.—Ch'ing Ho, a few miles north-west of Peking, has suddenly sprung into importance because of the new institutions located there, e. g.:

The Military Academy with 3,000 students, the barracks for 10,000 Imperial troops, a woolen mill and the new Ch'ing Hua College, founded by the indemnity returned by the United States. This is the out-station to which the Second Street Church is contributing. There are now a promising number of inquirers and a great many copies of the Scriptures are sold. The chapel is so small as to be hopelessly inadequate and a much larger one is needed at once.

The East Country field, as heretofore, has been under the supervision of Mr. Hicks, and he and Mrs. Hicks have spent practically all their time in the country, and even when the plague was moving out toward them they stayed at their post until summoned by their colleagues to return to the city and be inoculated with anti-plague vaccine.

There have been baptisms in all of the 6 out-stations of this field, the total number being 12, and in addition there are 10 catechumens. At Hsin Chi, the chapel had to be enlarged to accommodate the greatly increased number of people wishing to attend the services there. Several members of the Station made visits to Ma Fang during the year and Mr. Gleysteen made a tour after school was closed with a party of his boys.

The regular forms of work for women have been carried on, including 4 inquirer's classes, with an average attendance of 20, and, in addition, a new form of union activity has been tried, viz., lecture courses for women.

EDUCATIONAL.—The absence of Miss McCoy naturally handicapped the Kindergarten work and only one of the two kindergartens was kept open. Mrs. Hall and the two Chinese teachers assumed the responsibility of the work and, co-operating with Mrs. Johnson, continued the children's Sunday-school and attracted from 50 to 100 outside children each time.

In the absence of Mrs. Fenn, Mrs. Wilder, of the A. B. C. F. M. at the Drum Tower, and Mrs. Hall, superintended the girls' day-school at Second Street. This school was enlarged during the year and enrolled 43 girls. All our schools were more or less affected by the plague and some schools reopened late and were not able to keep up as high an enrollment as in the fall term.

It is gratifying to report an advance in the country schools. New quarters for the boys' boarding school at Ma Fang nearly doubled the attendance. A girls' school was pluckily kept running at the same place in spite of miserable accommodations and an unsatisfactory teacher. A school was also opened at Pang Chun, but here, too, the difficulty has been to secure a suitable teacher.

By building each year on the foundation laid in previous years the Academy has steadily improved. It has a more adequate staff of Chinese teachers, and Mr. Gleysteen has been assisted by Mrs. Dilley and Mrs. Hall. We regret that Mrs. Gleysteen's ill health deprived the school of her valuable aid during most of the year.

The North China Union Colleges.—The Annual Report of the Field Board of Directors had not been received when the Board's report went to press. We know, however, from correspondence during the year, that the various institutions had a prosperous year except in so far as the outbreak of the plague and the disturbances incident to the Revolution interfered.

The Union Medical College graduated its first class at the close of the year, Dr. Hall being our special representative on the Faculty. Dr. Dilley also taught during the year. The Union Women's Medical College took a large part of the time of Dr. Hall and Dr. Elizabeth Lewis.

The Arts College at T'ungchou, where the Rev. Charles Corbett is our representative on the Faculty, and the Bridgman College for Women in Peking, continued their faithful work.

The Theological Seminary has had a good year and the spirit has been one of unbroken harmony under the management of Dr. Lowrie, Mr. Meech and Mr. Wilder.

A new form of effort in the educational line was the conference for government students held at the Western Hills during July. This was a union enterprise organized by Christian teachers in government schools in co-operation with the Y. M. C. A. There was an enrollment of about 40, from Tien-tsin and Peking schools, though a large number of these students were Cantonese. Dr. Martin twice came down from his Temple to deliver lectures at this conference. His wide reputation as a scholar and author assured him the profound respect of the boys and his addresses were much appreciated. Other addresses were given by the missionaries of the A. B. C. F. M., of the M. E. Mission, of the Anglican Mission and of the Y. M. C. A., as well as by Chinese and foreign teachers in government schools. Mr. Williams of our Mission in Nanking was present and spoke on the social work students could do while still pursuing their studies, and Mr. Corbett took a daily part in the work.

MEDICAL.—The plague that came with terrifying suddenness to Peking, brought into high light the various medical institutions of the city. The Medical College won high praise by its work in this crisis, both professors and students working with an unselfishness and efficiency which was illuminating to the authorities. Dr. Dilley went to assist Dr. Lewis in his co-operation with the officials at Paoting-fu, in fighting the plague there, and the An Ting Hospital was closed longer than is usual at the Chinese holidays. Dr. Hall remained in Peking, inoculated the members of the Station and superintended quarantine measures. The plague did not reach serious proportion in Peking and none of our people were touched by it.

The newly renovated An Ting Hospital, under Dr. Dilley's direction, has taken a long stride forward and is attracting men of higher classes than hitherto, including many who wish to be cured of the opium habit. Two of the recently graduated Chinese physicians are helping in the work, and the nurses, who have finished two years of the three years' course of training, add greatly to the efficiency of the establishment. The statistics of the hospital and dispensary will be given at the end of this report.

The Woman's Hospital and Dispensary have had a busy year. The visits to the dispensary total nearly 9,000, but the in-patients were only 83, for the hospital is too small to accommodate a great many at a time. There have been a large number of outside visits, most of which have been made by Dr. Elizabeth Lewis, though some, including professional calls to the home of a princess and a duchess, were made by Dr. Leonard. Miss McKillican has continued her training of nurses and has had the pleasure of seeing three Chinese girls graduate. The young men nurses under her instructions have made progress in their studies and have done better than she had anticipated. In the country field the Chinese have petitioned for the opening of a dispensary and small hospital at Ma Fang, and they are now endeavoring to raise $500 by their own efforts to secure it.

Visits at the men's dispensary, 3,843; new cases included in above, 902; new patients in men's hospital, 140; outside visits, 24; visits to dispensary, women's hospital, 8,850; out-calls, women's hospital, 150; operations, women's hospital, 45; in-patients, women's hospital, 83.

PAOTING-FU STATION.

The Paoting-fu Station, while greatly missing many who heretofore have been in the midst to bear a great share of the work and to add to the life and zest of the place, have been strengthened and upheld by the Lord, and as the year closes, all unite in thanking Him for His many blessings and mercies. The year has not been free from anxieties. Mr. Killie's health has been such as to give many anxious hours, and as this report goes to press, he is on his way to America with his wife—a trying journey for so ill a man, but, in the judgment of his physicians, a necessary one. The Rev. Dwight C. Chapin is still detained in America by ill health, and, as Dr. Lowrie's duties as Chairman of the China Council have necessitated his removal to Shanghai, the Station force is sorely depleted. The coming of Mr. Whallon, a new missionary, was gladly welcomed, but, of course, he cannot begin Station work until he acquires the Chinese language.

The visits of Mr. and Mrs. Warner Van Norden, of New York, Mr. Sherwood Eddy and party, Dr. Marten and Dr. Dilley, of Peking, were much enjoyed.

On April 22, a fine monument, the gift of loving friends, was dedicated to our martyred colleagues in Paoting-fu. The monument stands on the site of the old compound, the spot hallowed by their martyrdom. Mr. and Mrs. Killie and Dr. Lowrie had chief charge of the erection of the monument, the enlargement of the cemetery, planting of trees and flowers, laying of sod, building of walls and roads. The great company which gathered at the dedicatory ceremony rejoiced with us at this beautiful memorial.

EVANGELISTIC.—The church in the city has been carried on mainly by Mr. Cunningham, who has also had charge of the Street Chapel.

The services have been well attended and there has been a good spirit in the church. The annual rally, held for four days in November, somewhat like the Jews' feast of tabernacles, was a time of thanksgiving and drawing near to God. The general theme for the meeting was "The Great Salvation," and as we dwelt on different phases of this theme we found it rich and inexhaustible. About 100 Christians came from the country and the city Christians made this the one thing of importance, so that all felt the power of the Spirit of God, and returned to their homes better fitted for the work of the year.

There is a large field for many among the 3,000 or 4,000 students in the government schools in and about Paoting-fu. This field we have hardly touched as yet. That these young men are open to the Truth is evidenced by the fact that about 200 of them came to the church one Sunday afternoon to hear the Gospel story straight through from beginning to end, as they expressed it to Mr. Hang.

Later Mr. Sherwood Eddy addressed some 2,000 students in the government public building, and the next evening some 600 gathered in the church to hear him, 243 of whom gave their promise in writing to read the Bible, and, if persuaded of its truth, to accept it. All of our stock of the pocket editions of the New Testament was sold, and then the demand was not nearly satisfied. Nearly 50 persons have been received into church membership during the year. The strictly Chinese contributions have been from the following sources: Sunday contributions, the T'sui Personal Workers' Club, Woman's Home Missionary Society, and the charity fund, and have totaled $251.36.

Daily visits were made by Mr. Cunningham to the Street Chapel for many weeks, where the Gospel was told and sung to some who had long heard the Truth without coming to a decision, also to many who heard it for the first time, and where, in the after-meetings, not a few learned to frame simple prayers to the Living and True God.

Mr. Mather has been chief in carrying on country evangelistic work for men, having spent the greater part of his time in the north and east fields. He reports that at Ku Ch'eng, two helpers, Mr. Chao and Mr. Pann, conducted an inquirers' class during the plague epidemic.

One man who was enabled to break off opium during the class has remained steadfast and is now one of the most earnest worshippers. Two others have been received into church membership from that neighborhood this year. This increase, though small, is encouraging, coming as it does from the most discouraging, although the oldest centre of work in the east field. In An Hsu Hsien, where the work has been more or less hindered, two well-to-do men have applied for baptism. At Pai Kou Ho steady progress is maintained. The Lord's Supper was observed there for the first time this summer, and three were baptized, thus forming a nucleus of a Christian community. Good seed sometimes germinates slowly, as is seen in the case of the teacher of a small boys' school there, who was received into the church. He first heard the Gospel from a London Mission preacher in Cao Chou fifteen years ago; another, a carpenter, who has given up all Sunday work, and who daily searches the Scriptures, traces his first interest in the Gospel to Mr. Simcox's preaching before the Boxer trouble.

At Hsin An, where some had gone back on finding the Gospel demanded a higher plane of life than they had thought, others have shown greater interest. One old man has become a constant attendant on evening prayers. The mother and wife of Mr. Li, a very promising colporteur of the American Bible Society, has been baptized, and his sister seems to be a Christian at heart, but has not yet seen her way clear to face the strong opposition in her husband's home.

The past year has seen a somewhat unsuccessful effort to open work in I-Chou. In the autumn a small place was offered us for rent, but before we could take possession the landlord was cast into prison on the accusation of renting property to the church. The official was interviewed, but, for the sake of harmony, our claim was waived and our lease given up on condition that the landlord be released and quarters supplied in the city whenever a fair should occur. This part of the compact has been carried out, and this summer quite an advantageous piece of property has been offered us for sale by a well-to-do merchant who believes in the policy of the open door, having been favorably disposed to Christianity by his contact with Mr. I, a graduate of the Shantung College, teaching in the military school near I-Chou.

Mr. Killie, while being responsible for the west country field, has, owing to poor health, been able to make but two or three short country trips to the nearer fields and none to the distant and needy mountain field. Mrs. Killie has made many trips to oversee the work, and, assisted by native helpers, has carried on one class for men. In this field eight evangelists and four colporteurs have all been faithful and earnest, and the work seems to have made good progress.

Owing to Mr. and Mrs. Killie's inability to visit the mountain district, Mr. Mather made the autumn visit, at which time ten men attended a class. The little church seemed in far better condition than when visited by Mr. Killie and Dr. Lowrie the year before. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham made the spring visit, occupying eighteen days in all. They were greatly impressed by this little Waldensian flock, four days from Paoting-fu. Though the people were very poor in this world's goods, their simple life and sincere faith is beautiful indeed. During the nine days we were in their midst, 24 men, women and boys gave nearly the whole time to Bible study, practically at their own expense. Mr. Cunningham made four trips to the country, spending 30 days in all in the different fields.

Four inquirers' classes for men have been held in Paoting-fu this year, with representatives from the near-by fields. These have been conducted by Mr. Mather and Mr. Cunningham. In one of the classes, 50 catechumens were enrolled.

The work for women in the city has been carried on along the usual lines. The Sunday services, Friday morning prayer meeting, the Women's Home Missionary Society, the social and religious meetings and lectures for the ladies of official households, under Mrs. Lewis' care, in the absence of Miss Gowans, have all been regularly held. In addition to these four ten-day inquirers' classes were held, one conducted by

Mrs. Lewis and Miss Gumbrell, and three by Mrs. Cunningham. Regarding the work among ladies of official families, Mrs. Lewis writes:

Mrs. Cunningham and I tried inviting the ladies and girls' school teachers of the city to lectures given in our church as a means of widening our acquaintance among that class, and in a measure were successful, as some new ones always came, but we were too crowded with other work to continue these beyond the third lecture, and also feared they might detract from attendance at religious meetings which some were already in the habit of attending. I found the work among the ladies a fluctuating quantity. The first two months the parlor meetings were well attended, but with the advent of cold weather, bad roads, and afterwards plague, there were no meetings for about two months. When it was safe to go about freely again they began attending better and during the late spring weeks we always had some one. Those most earnest and best at bringing others moved away during the year, but there is certainly a real interest in the hearts of those who come. Miss Gowans has a strong hold on the ladies and they will rejoice when she returns.

The country evangelistic work for women has been done largely by Mrs. Killie and Mrs. Cunningham, who substituted for Mrs. Mather and Miss Gowans, and who also made one trip with Mrs. Killie in the west field, and one for her to the mountains.

Owing to Mr. Killie's illness, Mrs. Killie has been able to spend days only where heretofore she spent weeks. She has held five classes with an average of 22 women in a class. These have been held in the city, as she could not leave home. She held one class at a new place, two days' journey from Paoting-fu, in the spring, the first that had been held there. There were twelve women in the class, all of whom have applied for baptism and some of whom have since been baptized.

Mrs. Cunningham spent 75 days in the country, most of which were spent in the east and north fields, but, in view of the extent of these fields and the many open doors, these days seem but few indeed for the great need.

For many years one of the most apparent deficiencies in the machinery of our Mission work has been a school in which women would have an opportunity for consecutive study under the same favorable conditions provided by our schools for boys and girls, young men and older, of all grades. Women only have been neglected. Even young widows could not be admitted to the girls' boarding schools. So no matter how capable and earnest a woman may have been, and how much she may have been needed, her only way of preparing for work was by entering an occasional Station class and by getting more or less desultory teaching outside. No gifts of the past year should call for greater gratitude than that given to Miss Gowans for the opening of a woman's training school in Paoting-fu.

It was a month never to be forgotten, for the amount of information they obtained, the quickening, the knowledge of their own unsuspected but latent ability, the discipline that comes from being one of a number under authority, but above all for the spiritual blessings received, and for the new views we received of God's power and willingness to hear and answer prayer.

The fact that 20 women and 7 children lived in close contact for one month in peace and harmony, manifested the power of God in our midst, had it not been shown in any other way. The total expense was $34; $18.02 was paid in cash, and $4.88 was paid in work, making $22.90 raised by the class.

Books and Tracts.—Care of the Station bookroom is no small task. This year Mr. Killie has had most of this work, which consists in keeping up the supplies for the colporteurs and evangelists, and giving out books to them as needed. About 12,000 Gospels have been distributed by our force this year, with a somewhat smaller number of tracts and Christian books.

EDUCATIONAL.—In the boys' school we have been greatly blessed (with one exception) in the personnel of the Chinese teaching staff.

Though the plague delayed the spring opening, we had, after sending the advanced class of seven boys to Truth Hall, 55 boys in attendance at the close of the spring term. As most of the boys are from Christian homes, it has been much easier to maintain a good Christian atmosphere in the school. Nearly a score of boys have been received into the church this year. By means of church services, Sunday-school, chapel exercises, and Bible study in school, they have received a good amount of Christian teaching. The esprit de corps of the school is good. Ten of the graduates are in Truth Hall Academy and four are in T'ung-chou College. Mrs. Cunningham was the only foreigner able to attend the examination of the school. She reports that the school passed a very creditable examination, all the more commendable as the school had had little foreign supervision.

In Miss Newton's absence on furlough, Mrs. Lewis took general oversight of the girls' school, with Miss Li, the valued head-teacher, in charge.

A longer midyear vacation than usual, shortening our school year, was caused by the plague. Owing to a change in the curriculum, there were no graduates this term. The student teachers have done satisfactory work. Miss Sung, our first graduate from the Bridgman school, has been a great comfort, taking up with seriousness and dignity many responsibilities formerly resting upon Miss Li.

Day-schools.—Only one day-school for boys has been in operation this year. This is in a small village near the city.

The day-school at Wen Chin T'un is co-educational and very interesting, with an average attendance of twelve pupils. The day-school in the city and at Tsang T'sun both were started by Miss Gowans and owe a great deal to her fostering care. The teachers in both these schools are capable and devoted. The former has an average attendance of 6 and the latter has 11. This year a request came from a large village near us to open a day-school for little girls, which, after some delay in finding a suitable teacher, etc., we were enabled to grant. Miss Lewis has kindly undertaken its financial support for the present.

MEDICAL.—The George Yardley Taylor Memorial Hospital for men, under Dr. Lewis, has had many interruptions.

From September until Chinese New Year the medical and evangelistic work was carried on as usual, with good attendance and interest shown. After Chinese New Year about three months were spent in plague work and in attending the plague conference in Moukden. The hospital was closed during this time and the entire force, including Dr. Wang Chiu Te, who had just graduated from the Union Medical College, took part in the anti-plague campaign. Our work in the country districts was largely disinfection of houses where plague cases had died. In the district south of Paoting-fu, worked by our Anti-Plague League, there were 1,029 deaths from plague. The Chinese officials gave Dr. Lewis full charge of the campaign against the plague, backing him with ample funds and authority.

The hospital opened again May 1, with a large attendance at clinic, and in a very short time the hospital was full of in-patients. The attendance reached about 100 a day and kept up until wheat harvest began. Mr. Cheng and six nurses constituted the force of helpers in the medical work, and Mr. Liu has been hospital evangelist. Mr. Liu has been especially gratifying, being a very able man and also very faithful, preaching both by word and example. Mrs. Lewis has taught the nurses in the text-book translated by the China Medical Missionary Association, and helped in their practical training. The coming of Dr. Wang Chiu Te to the hospital as associate physician is cause for great delight on the part of Dr. Lewis. Eight country trips have been made during the year by Doctors Lewis, Wang and Cheng.

Number of new patients at clinics, 1,889; number of return calls, 3,755; number of patients seen in the country, 2,000; total, 7,644. Number of in-patients, 153; number of minor operations in the dispensary, 200; number of operations in the operating room, general anæsthetic, 120; local anæsthetic, 80.

The work in the Hodge Memorial Hospital for Women, under Dr. Maud Mackey, has been subject to the same conditions. Miss Keyes gave valuable assistance for eight months.

The attendance at clinics and the number of in-patients has been about as usual, while the hospital was open, but the total numbers are not so large, owing to the closing of the work on account of the threatened spread of plague in the neighborhood.

The number of dispensary treatments was 5,937; the number of hospital patients was 219; the number of out-calls was 68; the number in country clinics, 300; total, 6,224.

The city dispensary has been opened three mornings in the week. The attendance has kept up fairly well. The hospital has been enlarged with the completion of the new operating room and surgical ward, and the extension made for the waiting room in the form of a veranda to accommodate the increase of patients who come in the spring season. These are all on the ground floor. The second story had an addition of three private rooms, fitted up in foreign style, two fresh-air sleeping porches, and a nurses' dormitory. We feel sure that the out-door sleeping porches have saved Miss Li, the Chinese head teacher in the girls' school, from a complete nervous breakdown, and made it possible for her to go on with her work. Also a young girl who had tuberculosis of the lungs became rosy and plump and able to walk four miles in an afternoon quite comfortably, and had no cough after two months of sleeping out-of-doors. Patients have begun early in life to appreciate the cosy little rooms, and the three months' old daughter of the post-office inspector found the way to health there and brought her family, who are earnest Christian people, into close fellowship with us. Four new rooms have been added to the Chinese wards, and are kept, when possible, for patients wishing to occupy a room alone, and who are willing to pay 20 coppers a day for the use of it. Other Chinese rooms are free, all patients paying the entire cost of food, except charity patients.

The three nurses have just finished the first year's work of the nurses' training course, and give promise of becoming competent, helpful nurses. Mrs. Lewis has given them two lectures a week through the year and they have had good practical training in the dispensary, hospital, operating rooms and out-call work. There has been the usual amount of surgical work, and Dr. Charles Lewis has done the operating. Very faithful work has been done by the Bible women in the city and compound dispensaries, and almost every woman who has come to the dispensary has heard the Gospel.

SHUNTE-FU STATION.

Each of the three families did practically a full year's work. Mr. Miller was in charge of the evangelistic work; Mr. Hawley of the educational; and Dr. Hamilton of the hospital work. Dr. Keator carried on the woman's medical work until December 1. Miss Marjorie Judson spent most of the year in language study.

There are fewer missionaries under appointment for Shunte-fu than there were five years ago, in spite of the fact that Shunte-fu is a new Station whose work is undeveloped as yet. We are not an old field rapidly reaching the point of self-support and self-evangelization, but a new field needing evangelization from without. In the matter of native evangelists, we are worse off than we were five years ago. We must and do look to the other Stations for help in this matter. Our great east field has been neglected, and will continue to be until we can either secure outside help or raise it up within our own borders. The latter supply will necessarily be slow in forthcoming.

EVANGELISTIC.—Mr. Miller reports that the city work has been carried on faithfully. There has been daily preaching in the street chapel and hospital waiting room, and the weekly prayer meetings and Sunday services have been continued without interruption. Visiting in homes by the Bible woman and others has helped to keep alive the interest of the women.

These women, not being dependent on the inquirers' classes alone for instruction, have made the best progress. In five or six other homes occasional visits have been made, and the women have shown some little interest in reading. The woman's weekly prayer meeting has had an average attendance of 20.

In one inquirers' class of 20, 14 women lived at home and came daily for study, six country women being the only ones who lived on the compound and were provided with food by the church. These figures indicate not only the degree of self-support in the class, but also the neighbor women's interest in study.

The men's inquirers' classes were well attended and the men generally were diligent in study. Owing to the bad state of the country roads, few came in from our east field (which, as a rule, supplies the larger part of the inquirers' classes), but a new source of supply opened nearer home, and the usual number was in attendance.

A few months ago the head teacher in one of the Shunte-fu schools called at our compound, saying he would like to know more about Christianity. It is encouraging and refreshing to meet teachers who are frank to confess their souls' hunger for something more than physical science can give.

Another man, a teacher in one of the country schools, told one of our Christians that he was going to give up his school and retire. He said that he was dissatisfied with his work, for he was not teaching what he really believed, and he was dissatisfied with himself that he had not the courage to confess what he knew to be true. He declared that he would publicly profess his faith as soon as he was free to do so.

At the three communion services held in the church, 20 applied for baptism and 6 were received into church membership.

EDUCATIONAL.—Great advance in the educational work marked the year. Mr. Hawley continues as principal.

The boys moved into the new building provided by Mrs. O'Neill, in September. The buildings have been found very satisfactory. The dormitories are capable of housing 70 boys. The large athletic field is especially appreciated. The attendance has increased, but not with great rapidity. During the fall there was an average attendance of about 50 boys; the spring term average was 61.

The school opening was a unique event. November 11, 1910, the dedication of the new buildings occurred. The prefect and the director of the Government Normal School spoke at the dedicatory exercises. A luncheon in foreign style was served to the invited guests, including all the principal officials of the city and teachers of the government schools. Several hundred students from government schools surrounded the athletic field and watched with interest the carrying out of the program.

We are sincerely grateful to the donor and the Board for the gift of a building so well adapted to its purposes and so thoroughly appreciated by the pupils.

The girls' school has labored under the disadvantages of poor equipment, unsuitable buildings and shortage in teachers. Nevertheless, the school prospered, and the girls not only enjoyed the school life but also studied hard.

MEDICAL.—The statistics of the Hugh O'Neill Memorial Hospital, under Dr. Hamilton, for the partial year (the hospital closed June 3, on account of Dr. Hamilton's furlough) are as follows: Dispensary patients, old, 4,376; new, 4,060; total, 8,436; total surgical operations, 209; general anæsthetics, 115; local anæsthetics, 94; total ward patients, 269; total opium patients, 56; total out-calls, 32.

With a large clinic, congested wards, almost daily operations, constant inquiries regarding the hospital and requests for operations, the work was its own best defense. Without dispute, the hospital and educational work were the two outstanding features of the Presbyterian Mission at Shunte-fu for the past year.

GUATEMALA MISSION.

GUATEMALA CITY: 60 miles from the seaport of San Jose; occupied 1882. Missionaries—Rev. William B. Allison and Mrs. Allison, Dr. Mary E. Gregg. Out-station, San Augustin.

QUEZALTENANGO: 125 miles northwest from Guatemala City; occupied 1898. Missionaries—Rev. Walker E. McBath and Mrs. McBath, Rev. Linn P. Sullenberger and Mrs. Sullenberger.

INTRODUCTION.—The following brief review, giving a comparison of missionary work in Guatemala to-day and twenty-five years ago, tells an eloquent story. It is given in the words of a former missionary of the Board, who has recently visited Guatemala.

Twenty-five years ago there was but one centre, and in it but three native believers. Now there are 19 congregations, varying in attendance from 12 to 250, besides believers in 7 other preaching points. Besides this there are 8 congregations somewhat isolated. This means a total at present of 33 congregations of believers, totaling not less than 1,400 actual attendants, besides casual absentees, and isolated believers living at many out-of-the-way places. So that instead of the one centre of radiation and three believers of twenty-five years ago, we can now count upon not less than 40 centres and 2,000 believers. These centres are not all organized churches, a few being only "two or three gathered together" and a Bible. It is now possible to travel on muleback from the Atlantic to the Pacific, or from Honduras to Mexico, and stop every night at an evangelical preaching point, and all this in twenty-five years.

Twenty-five years ago we began with a bad reputation (banks refused our bills of exchange) and a school that had been founded on wrong lines, and the bottom of which had dropped out by the death of the President under whose favor it lived. Now there is a fine practical evangelical school at Chiquimula; another for boys just authorized at the same point, and a third in Guatemala City, nearly ready to enter, and others in the air that nothing can keep back long. The drafts of the missionaries are in demand everywhere.

Formerly it was not possible to print a syllable, though the public school and free mailing privileges pointed clearly to the printed page as a most effective means of evangelization. One could travel all over the country and not find a Bible, or at most a twelve-volume Catholic Commentary with the Biblical text adjoined. Now one can find a Bible in every town and village, and in some places there are almost as many Bibles as families. There is an excellent printing plant at Guatemala City, devoted exclusively to evangelical work and accomplishing more than can be easily imagined.

There has been a very marked increase in religious liberty in the twenty-five years. At the beginning it was a very delicate matter to open work at any new point. Severe persecution was the rule at each new place until the local authorities were made to understand that the missionaries were backed by the central government. Now that the Protestant faith has become so common, anyone can proclaim himself an "evangelico" who wishes to, and there are few places where it would be dangerous to begin work, and in many places it is not even necessary to call on the authorities.

Another quite noticeable change, and related doubtless to the preceding one, is that the Gospel is permeating upward into the higher classes of society. The "publicans and sinners" came in alone at first. Now many enter that are "of the household of Cæsar." Formerly our congregation in the capital was clothed in blue shawls and white cotton; now black prevails, not only because the Gospel improves the social, hygienic and economic condition of its adherents, but because, like all revolutions, it penetrates society from below upward.

Under the Liberal regime, the Roman Catholic Church is rapidly losing its grip on the people. In traveling all over the country a recent visitor said: "I found but two churches where there were any attempts at improvement in church structures, and with the Roman Catholic Church this is an infallible sign. Wherever she is alive she is building. But all over the country are churches falling into decay from neglect, others injured by earthquakes, some more and some less, but no effort being made to repair them, and seldom visited by a priest, and very scantily attended. Churches that twenty-five years ago were well attended and well stocked with nicely clothed wooden saints, are now almost abandoned, and we saw one with nearly all the saints stripped and huddled in a corner and covered with dust, where a family of screech owls had appropriated the niche back of the main altar." While the people are nominally Roman Catholic, they are far from being as Roman Catholic as they were twenty years ago, or even ten. It seems to be the blind working out of their natural religious instinct in the only religious form they know. The duty of Protestant Christendom in this connection is obvious.

This duty is increased by the further fact that the furore among the Liberals in favor of French Positivism (Compte's) has waned and bids fair to disappear. It was adopted in the first place, not for its philosophy, but for its license, and very naturally soon gave the worst moral results. There has been a growing feeling among the Liberals that Positivism has not made good, and the Liberals are now in a much more receptive condition of mind than ever they have been since the Liberal revolution. The duty of Presbyterianism is clear.

The year in the Guatemala Mission has been one of great activity. As the result of the Board's action approving the Mission's request for new buildings, the workers at both Guatemala City and Quezaltenango have had their hands fully occupied with preparing plans, buying materials and overseeing laborers. At Guatemala City, the hospital and training school for nurses has been completed and the handsome school building for the girls is nearly finished. When this is equipped and manned, the workers will turn their attention to the building of a boys' school. Owing to the favor of the Government, education flings wide open a door that must be entered. At Quezaltenango, the old Mission building on the hill has been repaired and put in order for the use of Mr. and Mrs. Sullenberger, and the new Mission buildings, consisting of residence and church, are almost finished. It is hoped some day to have a second residence in immediate proximity to the church and day-schools for both boys and girls.

The building operations have not interfered with the progress of the spiritual work.

GUATEMALA CITY.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—In November, Mr. Allison, Mr. George B. Bucklin, the American Consul General, and his Secretary, went overland to Quezaltenango, the ladies from Guatemala City going by train. The objective was the Mission meeting, but en route, visits were made in the several Christian communities. In addition to this, Mr. and Mrs. Allison have made several other trips, from one of which we take a typical incident showing Mrs. Allison at work.

Tuesday, November 28. Had to get up very early to get the horses and ourselves on the 5.45 train. At 7 o'clock we reached Mazatenango, where Don Flavio, one of our native pastors, is stationed. I got off here to spend a week among the five groups of believers that we have in and about Mazatenango. After the train had gone, Don Flavio and I started to walk to the Mission house. It was a long hot walk over rough cobblestones and up hill all the way. Before leaving San Felipe that morning I had breakfasted upon a small cup of lukewarm coffee and water and a piece of hard, sweet bread. By the time I reached my destination I was faint and tired and almost overcome by the heat. At the Mission house I found quite a company of believers gathered to welcome me. If I was writing from Alaska instead of from the coast country of Guatemala, I might say their hearty welcome warmed my heart. It really had quite the opposite effect, for it refreshed me and made the long, hard journey seem worth while. I went to my room at a hotel near by, and ordered some soft boiled eggs and hot milk. The hearty welcome from the believers and the woman who keeps the hotel, and the eggs and hot milk made me feel equal to almost anything. When I returned to the Mission house I found some mothers with their sick babies waiting for me to prescribe for them. After attending to them, the young people gathered about me asking me to open my baby organ and teach them some new songs for Christmas. I sang with them for an hour and then begged for a rest, promising to give them another lesson after dinner and another after supper.

At two o'clock the people began to gather for the regular Tuesday afternoon meeting. When the meeting opened every seat was taken and many were standing in the doors and at the windows. The congregation had nearly doubled since my visit a few months before. We had a few song services for forty-five minutes and then Don Flavio preached a powerful Gospel sermon. At 4.30 Don Flavio and a number of the believers went down to the railroad station to meet my Bible woman, Doña Mercedes, who was coming from the capital to join me.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Mary Gregg writes:

The months since our last medical report was made have been busy ones. Our work is growing. Last year we had in twelve months 2,344 patients, including visits paid and office consultations. In the last seven months the number is 2,099, quite an increase per month.

GIRLS' SCHOOL, GUATEMALA—IN PROCESS OF ERECTION.

The office has been open daily, even Sundays and holidays, with the exception of about two weeks when I was off for a rest. Sometimes the seats in the waiting-room do not suffice, but there are always some who have no objection to a seat on the floor. We have many Indians among our patients and they come with their baskets and other burdens and often with a baby strapped on the mother's back. Their costumes are picturesque, though sometimes dirty. We have all classes of people, some of the well-to-do, though most of them are poor.

Those who come for the first time look with curiosity at the pictures and texts of Scripture on the walls. A large picture roll, showing in colors scenes in the life of Paul, attracts much attention and I am besought to sell some of the pictures. We have also a supply of Spanish papers, tracts and Gospels to give away and Bibles and Testaments for sale. But those who wish to buy usually go to the book-room, where there is a better assortment. But many who come for the first time for medicine are afraid of the bookroom or church.

We see many sad cases, the result of ignorance or vice. The condition of the children is often pitiful. Little, starved-looking babies who have been sick for weeks or months are brought almost in a dying state. When I ask why a doctor has not been consulted before, the usual answer is that it was because of lack of money.

Fortunately, we have many hopeful cases also, and some amusing incidents. A short time since an old woman asked me in a confidential whisper if I would give her some pills to make her son hate his wife. She did not approve of the daughter-in-law. We are looking forward to the completion of our sanatorium in the near future. The walls are up and the roof on. We hope it will soon be ready to be occupied.

QUEZALTENANGO.

EVANGELISTIC.—In addition to the work in the city, the out-station work has been vigorously prosecuted. The report says:

The work of the out-station has been more encouraging. There is a Sabbath-school in Hutan and the interest in the Gospel is extending to Sibilia. In Sija, in spite of the fierce persecution that has imprisoned some and driven others from the town, the number of interested ones is growing and many are publicly declaring themselves as adherents of the Gospel. The work in Cantel is progressing quietly, though but one new member has been received since the March meeting.

New work has been opened in San Juan Ostuncalco, where we have held two meetings and plan to have meetings once a month. At the first meeting there were 70 persons in the room. For the second visit we were given the use of the little theatre building and had an attendance of between 125 and 140 in the afternoon and about 100 in the evening. Don Isaras is sending tracts by mail to about 30 heads of families in San Juan, who have requested literature.

Olentepeque has also been opened to the Gospel. A home has been opened to us and meetings are now held every Monday.

In the coast of Colombia the interest is very encouraging and several have asked for baptism, but no meetings have been held.

San Felipe has been visited three times and many friends made in a house-to-house canvass that covered almost the entire town.

In Saleaja one of our members, Dona Herlinda de Maldonado, is teaching the public school with acceptance, in the public examinations her school standing higher than the rival school opened by a fanatical Catholic woman to compete with the Protestant school teacher. Dona Herlinda has accepted the public school for another year.

We have visited in two Indian homes in Almolonga and in one in San Andres, and in the latter town there is already a nucleus of three believing families who are enduring persecution for the name of Christ.

MISSIONS IN INDIA.

PUNJAB MISSION.

LAHORE: the political centre of the Punjab, 1,225 miles northwest of Calcutta; Station begun 1849. Missionaries—Rev. J. C. Rhea Ewing, D.D., and Mrs. Ewing, Rev. H. D. Griswold, Ph.D., and Mrs. Griswold, Rev. Walter J. Clark and Mrs. Clark, Rev. D. J. Fleming and Mrs. Fleming, W. J. McKee and Mrs. McKee, Rev. E. D. Lucas and Mrs. Lucas, Miss M. J. R. MacDonald, and Rev. Charles H. Rice; out-station at Wagah, Miss Clara Thiede.

SAHARANPUR: 215 miles southeast of Lahore; Station begun 1836. Missionaries—Rev. H. C. Velte and Mrs. Velte, Rev. Christian Borup and Mrs. Borup, Rev. M. R. Ahrens and Mrs. Ahrens, Miss Emma Morris, Mrs. C. W. Forman and Miss Jean E. James.

SABATHU: in the lower Himalaya Mountains, about 170 miles south-east of Lahore and 70 miles east of Ludhiana; Station begun 1836. Missionaries—M. B. Carleton, M.D., and Mrs. Carleton.

LUDHIANA: near the river Sutlej, about 100 miles southeast of Lahore; Station begun 1846. Missionaries—Rev. E. M. Wherry, D.D., and Mrs. Wherry, Rev. E. E. Fife and Mrs. Fife, Rev. A. B. Gould and Mrs. Gould, Miss Sarah M. Wherry, Miss Mary C. Helm, Miss Amanda M. Kerr, Miss Mary Riggs Noble, M.D., Rev. J. V. Barrows and Rev. T. G. Henry.

JULLUNDUR: 110 miles east of Lahore, 25 miles north of Ludhiana; capital of Division of Punjab by same name; Station begun 1846. Missionaries—Rev. C. B. Newton, D.D., Rev. Fred. J. Newton, Rev. J. H. Orbison, M.D., and Mrs. Orbison, and Miss C. L. Newton.

MUSSOURIE: in Landour, 15 miles east of Dehra and 325 miles southeast of Lahore; school begun 1847. Missionaries—Rev. H. M. Andrews and Mrs. Andrews, Miss Alice Mitchell, M.D.

AMBALA: 170 miles southeast of Lahore; Station begun 1848. Missionaries—Rev. F. B. McCuskey and Mrs. McCuskey, Rev. H. A. Whitlock and Mrs. Whitlock, Miss J. R. Carleton, M.D., Miss Mary E. Pratt, Miss Emily Marston, M.D., and Miss Grace O. Woodside.

DEHRA: 320 miles southeast of Lahore; Station begun 1853. Missionaries—Rev. A. P. Kelso and Mrs. Kelso, Miss Elma Donaldson, Miss Alice B. Jones and Miss Myrtle Ducret.

HOSHYARPUR: about 95 miles east of Lahore; Station begun 1867. Missionaries—Miss Caroline C. Downs and Miss Margaret M. Given, Rev. K. C. Chatterjee and Mrs. Chatterjee.

FEROZEPUR: 50 miles a little to east of south of Lahore; Station begun 1882. Missionaries—Rev. C. W. Forman, M.D., and Mrs. Forman, Miss M. M. Allen, M.D., Miss Carrie R. Clark and Miss E. J. Jenks.

KHANNA: 125 miles southeast of Lahore. Missionaries—Rev. F. P. Newton and Mrs. Newton.

RUPAR: 120 miles east of Lahore; occupied as a Mission Station 1910. Missionaries—Rev. U. S. G. Jones and Mrs. Jones.

MOGA: 60 miles a little east of south of Lahore; occupied as a Mission Station 1911. Missionary—Rev. R. H. Carter.

TRANSFERS: Miss Jean E. James, from Dehra to Saharanpur; Rev. R. H. Carter, from Ferozepur to Moga; Rev. J. N. Hyde, from Ludhiana to Moga; Rev. R. D. Tracy, from Ludhiana to Sabathu; Rev. U. S. G. Jones and Mrs. Jones, from Ludhiana to Rupar.

RESIGNATION: Rev. R. D. Tracy.

DEATHS: Rev. F. J. Newton, M.D., and Rev. John N. Hyde.

FURLONGHS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. H. D. Griswold, Ph. D., and Mrs. Griswold, Rev. C. Borup and Mrs. Borup, Rev. J. N. Hyde, Rev. R. D. Tracy, Miss Sarah M. Wherry, Rev. F. B. McCuskey and Mrs. McCuskey, Miss Grace O. Woodside.

The Punjab Mission has lost during the Mission year and the month just following four missionaries—the Rev. F. J. Newton, M.D., who died at Jullundur, on April 28, 1911; the Rev. J. N. Hyde, who died in Northampton, Mass., on February 17, 1912; the Rev. Robert D. Tracy, who retired from the Mission at the end of the year, and Miss Jean E. James was obliged to lay aside her work on account of health. The Mission was reinforced during the year by the appointment of the Rev. Charles H. Rice, the Rev. Thomas G. Henry, the Rev. Joseph V. Barrows, Miss Caroline Newton and Mrs. E. D. Lucas.

LUDHIANA.

Dr. Wherry writes of the Literary Work:

The work of creating and publishing a Christian literature for the Evangelistic and Church work in India never assumed such proportions as at the present time. India has been undergoing a moral and religious change, so radical as to render it necessary to address a new constituency and to consider the problem of evangelization from a new standpoint. The influence of education has swept away superstition and old-fashioned idolatry. These young men have lost the old faith without finding another, unless it has been some cult unsatisfying to the heart and conscience. Many have been carried away by theosophical and agnostic teachings. Some have been influenced by the reforms of the old faith as voiced in the teaching of the Arya-Samaj or the rationalism of the Ahmadiya Movement. The unrest in India is largely a spiritual unrest.

It was because of these conditions that we began so long ago as 1899 to prepare a new literature.

The publication which exercises the widest influence of all our publications is the weekly newspaper, the Nur Afshan, now about to pass its thirty-ninth milestone.

Through the advertisements in the Nur Afshan we have been able to send our books by post, as by the railway, to all parts of India. Orders have been filled and sent to missionaries in the Fiji Islands, West Indies, British Guiana, the Soudan. And this year two consignments were sent to Brussels.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Ludhiana City.

An important work was done last year among the sweepers in Ludhiana; efforts were made to start several centres among them where they might be taught to read and write. Two or three schools were opened for the children. The pastoral duty was given to Mr. Chanan Khan, and a teacher was employed. The occupations of this class, together with their indifference in regard to education, make it almost impossible to conduct the schools in the ordinary way. Their low moral and religious lives make frequent lapses into idolatrous customs an ordinary occurrence. The pastor is obliged sometimes to become an iconoclast and to break the idols or dig down the altars. With all drawbacks, each year shows some advance in Christian knowledge.

The attendance has been excellent, surpassing even that of last year, which we believe to have been a record one.

Of the Village Work, Mr. Gould reports:

About 140 villages were visited during a three months' tour last winter, and in most of them the Gospel was preached first to the high-caste people and then to the low-caste, both among the men and the women.

It is not only converts from the high-castes that are subject to persecution. The low-caste people frequently say that if they become Christians they will not be able to get their children married off. And in India this is regarded as an unspeakable calamity by all classes. In addition to excommunication affecting the taking of food, drawing of water, and smoking the "huqqa" (pipe), from his own co-religionists, the low-caste convert may suffer a good deal at the hands of his employer, who is usually a farmer. A common way is to bring a false charge of theft of grain or cattle. Just now we are trying to get back the child of one of our recent converts. The father had placed the boy in one of our Mission Boarding Schools. Not many days after a non-Christian relative came without the father's knowledge and, under false pretences, removed the child and took him away to his own home in a distant village, and now refuses to give him up.

In spite of such persecution, some 75 persons have been baptized during the year.

The field to be worked has a population of 405,000 in 627 villages, spread over an area of 11,000 square miles.

This year a new weekly mela was started at a village four miles away from Ludhiana, at the tomb of a Mohammedan saint called Gahi Shah. On hearing of the new mela in April I drove out to investigate. I found a plain brick-covered grave in the midst of a sandy desolate plot containing a few scrubby trees. One of the leading men of the village near by had with a few faqirs been taking charge of the offerings. He seemed friendly, so I plied him with questions, but, to my disappointment, he could only tell me that many, many years ago, nobody knew just when, a very, very holy man had been buried there and that lately, nobody knew just how, he had begun to perform miracles of healing. Certainly there was no lack of evidence that the common people were beginning to believe in the reported healing power of the dead saint, for they came every Saturday by thousands to worship the tomb.

It was pitiful to see the crowd of lame and halt and blind eager to get within reach of the tomb that they might but touch it or take up the earth near it to rub on their deformed limbs, or in their eyeless sockets, in the yearning and desperate hope that they might be healed. Truly they were "like sheep without a shepherd." A party of six or eight of us went out to this mêla every week for about four months.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—City High School.

The attendance has been excellent, surpassing even that of last year, which we believe to have been a record year.

The Sabbath-school for non-Christian boys is an interesting feature of the work of this school. The attendance varies, but the average for the year has been about 250, while recently it has been standing at about 400. Bible instruction is regularly given to all the classes, and in addition to this there is the daily assemblage of all the students and masters for prayers.

Christian Boys' Boarding School.

The attendance of this school for the year has been excellent, and shows that it is appreciated by the Christian community.

Jagraon Boarding School.—Miss Helm reports:

We regret to have to report a falling off in the number of children this year. Last year, at this time, we had 62 enrolled, but now there are only 52.

The spiritual outlook for the year has been hopeful. Eleven children united with the Church on confession of faith, and gave evidence in their lives that they were really trying to lead Christian lives. The older ones are learning to read their Bible for the pleasure of it. Each class has to commit to memory a certain number of chapters in the Bible, and they are all taught the Catechism in addition to the Sunday-school lessons.

The children have done a good deal toward earning their own clothes this year—the girls by making handkerchiefs and the boys in various ways. Miss Wherry taught them book-binding, and they have bound all the school-books. Then they have helped in the garden, and many of them have done coolies' work on the building and repairs going on. They are all most eager to earn things for themselves, and it is such a help in discipline, independence, and, in fact, every way, that one wishes one could do more; but it is so hard to find any industry, the products of which can be sold, especially for girls.

LUDHIANA PRESBYTERY.—The Ludhiana Presbytery has continued its Home Missionwork at six centres.

During the year three large mêlas (fairs) were held in the field, and in each was the Gospel preached. The largest fair of all was held at Thanesar in October last. Between three and four lakhs of pilgrims came to have their sins washed away in the sacred tank of Kuru Kshetra. All our workers came here on the occasion, and for eight days was the Gospel preached from 8 in the morning to 10 or 11 at night—the preachers allowing themselves no rest except for two hours at midday. There were preachers from three other Missions. All worked together harmoniously. Many books were sold and a large number of tracts and handbills distributed.

REV. R. H. TRACY AND SCHOOL, LUDHIANA, INDIA.

MOGA.

Moga has only recently been made a Mission Station owing to the need of a resident missionary to look after the Training School for village teachers and preachers, transferred from Ferozepore. In area the district is about the size of Rhode Island, with a population of 500,000 living in over 600 villages. It is purely a rural community with no towns of more than 5,000. To the north, along the River Sutlej, the population is mostly Mohammedan, while the rest of the district is peopled by the finest race in India—the Sikhs, strong, stalwart men, rude and uncultured, yet lovable withal, furnishing the picked men of the Sikh regiments. But little impression has as yet been made on them as a class. Their concern is for their fields and their constant quarrels and lawsuits, and but little thought is given to religion of any kind. The new converts are from the Chuhras (called sweepers), who do the menial work on the farms. They now number more than 1,800 in the Moga district, of whom two-thirds have been added in the last two years. This rapid ingathering has placed upon us a heavy responsibility, and our effort must be to make the life of these people so wholesome and clean and true, that credit will be reflected on the name they bear.

Training School.—

To meet the increase of the Christian community throughout the whole Mission, to instruct and edify the great numbers who have come to the Church out of the deepest ignorance, the Training School is trying to create a body of men and women who will be pastors and teachers to their own people. From a very modest beginning a few years ago, the school has grown until now there are 31 students on the roll. Of these, eight are married and their wives are also in training to share in the work. To class work is added practical field training. Though the school has been in Moga but a few months, there is already a branch school in a near-by village, taught daily by some of the older students, and another is about to be opened. Every Sunday, eight bands go to neighboring villages and conduct Sunday-schools under the direction of the school staff.

SAHARANPUR.Theological Seminary.—

This institution was founded by the Punjab and North India Missions in 1885, and while still depending on these Missions for its financial support, it has become one of the recognized institutions of "the Presbyterian Church in India." Its doors are open to students not only of all Presbyterian Missions, but of other Protestant Missions as well.

The field of the seminary extends from Lahore to Allahabad, and from the Himalayas to and beyond Ajmere. Saharanpur is situated well within the centre of this extensive region containing a population of 75,000,000. It is a field in which a great door and effectual has been opened for the missionary, and where also there are many adversaries. It is the region of the great mass movement which has brought thousands into the Church, but which has as yet only begun. As a result of this movement the Christian community in the Punjab, the northern portion of this field, has increased within the last ten years from 70,000 to 200,000; that is nearly threefold.

The total enrollment of students during the past year, which is the largest on record, is as follows:

	Licentiate Classes.	Village Pastors' Classes.	Totals.
North India Mission	13	23	36
Punjab Mission	10	3	13
Rajputana Mission	7	..	7
Other Missions	3	..	3
	33	26	59

Industrial School and Orphanage.—

The place that our Industrial School and Orphanage fills in the general missionary plan of the Christian Church cannot be overestimated. Boys are continually coming to us who have no one to care for them. Every boy sent to us receives, besides food and clothing, medical care. He is also taught the elementary branches. After the age of 14 or 15 most of the boys learn some trade. Our carpenters, shoemakers, and blacksmiths find ready employment. The government of India, and the Indians themselves, approve of the industrial work done by us.

About one-fourth of our expenses are met by the income from our industrial work.

Hindustani Church.—

Our Christian community continues to grow steadily, and including both city and district, now represents a total of 1,116 persons. Only a small proportion of these, however, are full communicants. To teach them and prepare them for full membership is one of the tasks set before us, and it is a most difficult task.

The lepers in the Asylum, nearly all of whom have become Christians, have also received our constant attention.

District Evangelization.—

Since the census of 1901 the population of the Saharanpur District has decreased by 60,000, that of the city by 6,000; the decrease being due chiefly to the prevalence of plague and malaria. We now have a population of 986,359, instead of over 1,000,000 ten years ago, out of whom, including Europeans as well as Indians, less than 10,000 are Christians, that is to say, less than 1 per cent. of the total population. And so 99 out of every 100 people still remain to be evangelized.

Many thousands of pilgrims on their way to Hardwar, one of the holiest places in India, situated at the eastern extremity of our district, pass through Saharanpur every month, and this gives a rare opportunity for work to the students and to our colporteur.

Work among the Women.—

Education of the girls in the city is advancing. two rival schools having been opened recently, but our school with its 60 or more pupils continues to hold its own. High and low, Mohammedan and Hindu and Christian, read side by side and are all learning something of the love of the one true God as shown in Jesus Christ.

The Saharanpur report ends:

I think if there were some Indian Paul to blow these embers into a flame, he would start such a revival in India as to fill the world with praise.

SABATHU.

During Dr. Carleton's absence on furlough, the Mission considered the possibility of transferring the Station with its leper work to the Baptist Mission. It finally decided to retain it, in view of Dr. Carleton's ability to return.

Substantial buildings on a new site are being erected by government and the Mission to Lepers jointly for about Rs. 25,000. It is hoped they will be ready for occupation in May or June next, before the rainy season begins.

JULLUNDUR.

The work of itineration has been prosecuted as vigorously as possible. Special effort was made to meet all Christians, residing in many scattered villages, for instruction in doctrine and practical living, and encouragement to patience in the midst of trials and troubles. In several places the Christians have been threatened and abused, and in two places they have been severely persecuted and beaten, by the land-holders of the village, who regard themselves as masters and the low-castes as serfs. They are afraid that if the Churas become Christians, they will seek emancipation, will find avenues of employment where they can earn an independent livelihood, and thus will eventually slip out of their clutches. We are careful to instruct Christian converts that they should work faithfully for their employers and should not be in a hurry to cut loose from their old hereditary occupations. But it is inevitable that Christian converts, as they become more enlightened and intelligent, will seek to escape from this semi-feudal system of serfdom, and it will be incumbent upon us in a legitimate way to help them to a larger and freer life. So far the Christians have stood firm under heavy persecution, and it is a fact that low-caste converts are remarkably staunch and loyal to their profession of faith. We are glad to find that they are gradually growing in knowledge and improving in moral character.

Dr. Orbison has a "traveling dispensary" with him wherever he goes, and at every halting place numbers come for treatment. Medical work is found to be the most valuable adjunct to preaching. In fact it is the Gospel, exhibited in a concrete practical way that appeals to all, and disarms prejudice.

The medical missionary takes the place of the old medicine-man, who was regarded with reverence as possessing preternatural power, and does indeed possess the magic key for unlocking men's hearts. As a practical illustration of this, it may be mentioned that in two places we were offered land for mission work by Mohammedans who had become friends largely through medical treatment of their families.

During the year there have been 234 baptisms among the "depressed" or "untouchables." Besides these, one Mohammedan was baptized, and another who had apostatized was reclaimed. A third was baptized, a Hindu Sâdhu or "holy" man learned in Sanskrit, but he did not turn out satisfactorily. The Sikh and his wife baptized last year are doing very well. We hear of inquirers in every direction and meet many such, and it appears that there is increasing interest in the Gospel all over the country.

Mission High School.—

The average attendance of pupils is 589 in the main school. The result of the University examination was above the average for the Province. There has been a great deal of interest shown in the daily chapel exercises conducted by Dr. C. B. Newton, Rev. Ralla Ram, the manager, or the headmaster. The same is the case in the work of the daily Bible lesson, in which the various classes are taught by different Christian teachers. Four hundred and forty pupils study the International Sunday-school lesson, and a large number went up for the All-India Sunday-school examination in July. The increasing enlightenment and broadening of the minds of the pupils is evidenced by Hindus and Mohammedans eating together, and also with Christians, on several occasions; but especially by the fact that the other boys are willing to sit in class alongside of Christian boys of low-caste origin.

The Girls' School and Zenana Work has been continued, as usual, by the ladies of the Station.

Mr. J. C. Newton reports that during the past year he has sold 12 Bibles, 54 New Testaments, 813 Scripture portions, and 2,256 Tracts and other books, realizing Rs. 125. He goes through the city streets, and to the courts of law where men from the district congregate. He also visits the sweepers' quarters regularly. On Sundays he holds services for beggars from the city.

LAHORE.

*Forman Christian College.—*Dr. Ewing reports:

This year that we now complete in the Forman Christian College has been marked by two circumstances of great interest and importance.

The first was the celebration of its 25th anniversary, and the other the completion of a commodious building for the use of our Science Department.

Of the 490 students, 247 are Hindus, 155 Mohammedans, 61 Sikhs, 25 Christians, and two others.

Our purpose is the same as that with which the College was begun. We do not believe that any rapid changes in conditions, such as India is witnessing, could ever justify any departure from the idea that this institution must remain distinctly and aggressively Christian and evangelistic in its character. It is our aim to bring before every man who enters the college the claims of Jesus Christ. This is being done with much labor and prayer. Results that admit of tabulation are few. But apart from these, we daily see most striking evidences of the influence of our period of Bible study and of the lives of these Christian men who teach. We know of no way of reaching this class of the people with the message of the Gospel other than this, and we are profoundly convinced that in pursuing it we are justified in asking and expecting from the Church in America the fullest sympathy and co-operation.

In some respects the most important feature of our work has been the education of Christian young men who are ambitious to advance to the degrees of the University.

The headmasters of our High Schools at Ambala, Ludhiana, and Jullundur are graduates of this College, and the bulk of our Christian teachers of the higher grade in all of our schools have been students here. Four of the professors of the College itself are our graduates. We might also mention with thankfulness the relation of our Christian graduates to the National Missionary Society. The first missionary appointed by that society was a Christian graduate of our class of 1903. Since then he has been joined by two other of our students. One of our present students has been accepted by the society for work, to begin when he completes his course. Then the Honorary Secretary and six of the eight members of the Provincial Committee are graduates of Forman College.

Mr. Fleming writes of his daily Bible period and his supervision of the non-Christian students. With reference to the former:

I may say that I feel the interest is very real, and I have not personally at any other time known more men willing to read individually. Many men show a willingness to borrow or to buy distinctly Christian books. Newton Hall, with its 160 non-Christian boarders, is a place affording manifold opportunities—all too many for the time one can give it. Here I have tried to establish a good common room, furnish lectures, arrange for hall entertainments, etc., all with the intention of making the tone healthy and high, so that the soil, so to speak, for the Bible period, would be in better condition. I think that the introduction of games has been a distinct gain to the hall.

Rang Mahal High School.—Mr. McKee reports:

We now have 14 Christian teachers, an increase of eight over last year's figures. They constitute 36 per cent. of the staff. They take all the Bible work of the school, no extra Bible teacher being required.

These teachers continue to meet twenty minutes of each day.

A very encouraging thing in the Bible work this year has been a general desire, especially on the part of the older boys, to put into practice some of the teachings and principles of Christ.

Here are two or three illustrations. On a Hindu festival day the boys took up a collection among themselves, and set up a refreshment stand in front of the school, and supplied food and drink to passers-by of all classes—not only Brahmins, as formerly, but to sweepers and Mohammedans as well. They were somewhat jeered at, but stuck to their benevolent work and did their duty nobly. Again by way of celebrating Coronation Day, they started a fund to help their poorer fellow-pupils to books, fees and clothing. This fund is growing steadily. It is administered by a committee consisting of four students, the headmaster, and the principal. Again, on the Dewali festival, the 5th class promised to do all they could to stop gambling in their own families and neighborhood. They also induced the boys to fast the day before, and with the money so saved, they gave a feast to 34 boys from the Hindu and Mohammedan Orphanages and ten Christians from the school for the blind.

The Sabbath-school, attendance on which is optional, has maintained an average of 209 for the year. The maximum attendance of any Sabbath was 327.

In our school this year, on October 1, we had 1,038 pupils, 697 of whom are in the Main School and 341 in the three Branch Schools.

Last year we had 1,137 pupils, a decrease in attendance this year of about 100, this being due to the closing of one of our Branch Schools, and to the boys who left the school, when the number of Christian teachers was increased.

School for Mohammedan Girls.—Mrs. Ewing reports:

We have had 130 girls on the roll at most, and never less than 100, the actual attendance fluctuating with the seasons and the number of Mohammedan weddings in the neighborhood.

Hindu Girls' School.—Miss MacDonald writes:

Two other Hindu schools opened near us have taken away a number of our girls, but we still have 150 on our roll.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Dr. Griswold reports:

As an elder of the Hira Mandi Church and a member of the Presbyterian Committee which visited the work in the Sharakpur Tahsil, I have had opportunities of coming into fairly close touch with the problems of the mass movement.

1. I have been impressed with the great difference between city Christians and village Christians coming from the same Chuhra community. There is a striking difference in quality and physique. Men and women in the villages are strong, stalwart, independent specimens of humanity, good raw material out of which to build saints. Whereas the city people of the same class are undersized, weak, and inclined many of them to tuberculosis. They are also weaker in moral fibre.

2. There is, in my opinion, great need of emphasizing the Church as the centre of Christian life, activity and sacrifice. And of the three fundamentally important things, namely self-support, self-government and self-propagation, the one which perhaps needs the supreme emphasis just now is self-support. We surely need a definite policy and definite instruction on the subject of Christian giving.

In the Sharakpur Tahsil, Dr. Griswold writes:

Out of 409 villages in the Sharakpur Tahsil 130 come within the nine circuits, and among the 130 villages work is done in 61. There are Christians in 31 villages.

The number baptized during the year was 256, i. e., 74 men, 48 women, and 134 children. The loss during the year was 173. Of these 54 had been baptized by mistake at Mange, in Methodist territory, and so were handed over to the care of the Methodists. Forty-six apostatized, because of the pressure brought to bear by the landlords; and the remainder, namely 73, have either migrated in search of work or have died. The net gain this year, then, amounts to 256, less 173 equals 83.

The better class women are reached in the zenanas. Of the work among the humbler classes of women, Miss MacDonald reports:

Never was there such a career of ups and downs as the missionary amongst sweeper women has to face. One month, or part of a month, she may have as many as 15 or 20 women reading regularly, going to church, and apparently, in every way, rapidly qualifying for canonization. Then one day she goes and finds no one about.

MEDICAL WORK.—The Delhi Gate Dispensary.—Mrs. Clark writes:

As to the Bible teaching, there is almost never a word of opposition or even a spirit of indifference shown. Many women come only to listen to the Bible and stay on three or four hours, hearing the Bible woman talk and sing, or talking with her privately.

There are many who would be glad to make an open confession of Christ, if it were possible. A Kashmiri Punditani says that she and her husband are reading the Bible every day in their house and praying for guidance and help to follow Christ.

There have been 9,641 patients this past year, mostly from the city, but also from many villages, as there are often women from 20 or 25 villages present in one day, and these village women are usually very much interested in hearing the Gospel.

At Wagah, Miss Thiede has resided many years and carried on a successful Mission to the out-casts.

There have been 252 converts, of whom 65 have died and others have moved away, leaving at present only 75.

There is also a dispensary in which Miss Thiede treats patients (5,100 this year) from the villages around.

AMBALA.

City High School.—

The school is increasingly popular and has had a steady growth. On September 30, 1910, the roll stood at 578; on September 23, 1911, 624. This growth has made more acute than ever the problem of inadequate accommodation both in our boarding house and in our school premises.

We feel much encouraged over the religious side of our work. There is an extremely good spirit, very little hostility that can be seen, and a general readiness to acquiesce with much that is taught.

Girls' School for Non-Christians.—

Plague in various ways reduced our numbers, so that our year closed with 105 on the rolls.

The Bible study has been a source of pleasure to the older pupils and, it is to be hoped, of definite profit to both teachers and pupils. So one who sees the girls come in from their non-Christian homes, rough and noisy, and again as they are leaving a few years later, their intelligent faces, their quiet obedience, has proof beyond doubt of the wonderful influence Christian teaching has had on mind and heart. The sewing of the girls has again won the commendation of the Inspectress.

The great fair of the Punjab, frontier Provinces and Kashmir awarded the Ambala School the first prize for fine needlework. This year we have received a fine bronze medal for it. The girls have also received at three different times a first prize and a money prize of Rs. 18 from the Ambala Agricultural Fair for fine sewing. Better even than the prize is the fact that our exhibit has been an incentive to schools throughout the district.

MEDICAL WORK.—

The "Mary N. Thorpe Memorial Ward" is now ready and will add an interesting element to the hospital. It is very well built in all its details and is embowered in trees, especially the courts of the women. There are four suites of rooms and a stable.

The Leper Asylum Dispensary has been reopened after many years. There are some of them there with interesting histories.

Hospital Statistics are as follows:

New cases	11,658
New cases and repeated visits	20,992
In-patients	582
Midwifery cases—outside and inside cases	243

DISTRICT WORK.—There are five out-stations in the district.

At Mubarakpur and the vicinity, the work is carried on in about 50 villages, in 15 of which there are Christians. The exceeding severity of the plague in this part of the district removed many of our hopeful inquirers.

There is an interesting little group of about a dozen men who walked into the Cantonment some ten miles seeking baptism and further instruction in Christian teaching. One or two of them had been away on a visit to friends near Rupar in connection with a marriage and, while there, had become interested in Christianity through what he had heard from one of our workers there. They had spread what they heard, and this little group seeking further light was the result; veritable Greeks seeking Jesus. Arrangements are being made for instruction with a view to baptism, and if possible for a worker at this place called Sandhoki.

AMBALA CANTONMENT STATION.—Mr. Uppal reports of the church and Christian community:

There are about 40 families under our care and there are signs of spiritual life; for family worship is practised among many, and a desire is shown to spread the Gospel, while liberal contributions are also made for the poor.

The Sunday collections are more than double what they were before, and this encourages us to hope soon to make our church self-supporting.

A community of 25 Christians baptized by Dr. Thackwell and myself, attached to the 23d Native Pioneer Mazhabi Regiment, had been greatly out of touch with us and neglected their religious duties. We brought them under our care and control and now some of them are living Christians.

DEHRA.

The Dehra Church has 57 communicants, but with Sunday audiences of about 200, 125 of whom are the pupils of the Girls' High School.

In the City Boys' High School there are 344 on the roll.

Girls' High School.—Miss Donaldson reports:

The government examinations, held near the beginning of the year, resulted in success for every one of our 13 candidates, 7 of whom were awarded scholarships. Although interest in Bible study throughout the year has been well sustained in all the classes, the practical outcome in unselfish living and generous giving for a time was not so marked; and we felt strongly the need of a special spiritual awakening among our pupils. This desire was gratified during a series of meetings in our Hindustani Church, arranged for by our pastor early in October. Rev. Chitambar, of the M. E. Mission; Rev. W. B. Anderson, of the U. P. Mission, and our own Rev. J. Forman, came to us with messages, which seemed like showers, and sunshine on a soil prepared and seeded; so ready were the hearers to respond to their calls for more earnest consecration.

Training classes for teachers is a need crying loudly enough, it seems to us, for the sound to reach across the sea.

Women's Work.—About 45 girls and 21 women are taught, in school, as well as 24 in zenanas.

HOSHYARPUR.

Dr. Chatterjee writes:

The most important event in connection with this Station was the opening of the new church. It was erected by Dr. D. N. P. Datta, in memory of his deceased wife, at a cost of Rs. 8,500 and was called after her, "Mona Memorial Church." The dedication service took place on December 28 and was presided over by Dr. Ewing, the Moderator of the Lahore Presbytery. It was attended by all the Christian residents of the Station, and the leading Indian Christians of the district. It is a beautiful building, with lots of light and air, and sufficiently commodious for the congregation for the present and for many years to come.

The work has been continued in the Reading Room and Book Depository and the Girls' Orphanage and Boarding School, with 57 pupils, seven of whom joined the church during the year, and in the Denny Hospital for Women and Children.

This institution has been in charge of Miss M. Ghose, a graduate of the North India School of Medicines at Ludhiana. The hospital has only ten beds for in-patients, and a dispensary for out-patients. The average attendance has been 120 patients a day. In-door patients numbered 150. New out-door patients 10,780 and repeated visits 16,570.

The number of operations performed was 590.

Of the Village Field, Dr. Chatterjee writes:

Besides work for Christians as described, evangelistic work has also been carried on in all these out-stations. There have been altogether 304 baptisms, 140 being those of adults. The baptized community of the district contains 3,522 souls in 132 villages, of whom 1,994 are communicants. They are divided into 5 organized churches, each having a pastor and bench of elders.

Miss Given and Miss Downs write of their work in the villages.

When the statement is made that there are over 3,000 Christians, principally from the Chuhra class, in the Hoshiarpur district, it gives an idea of the great number of women and children, baptized and unbaptized, who need instruction.

The year's work has brought to light these facts:

1. In the villages where men have been baptized, but no women, the women come as readily to be taught as in the villages where they have been baptized.

2. In every village visited we were well received and the women were pleased to have special instruction.

3. Wherever there is a place set aside for worship, it is remarkable the good influence it has upon their conduct. They come in quietly and listen reverently. It is a striking contrast to a gathering in a Behra, where gambling is going on, and there are other distractions.

4. Wherever the entire Chuhra community has been baptized there is a marked improvement in appearance and intelligence.

5. Christian marriages are coming more into favor.

More women of all classes and conditions are met in one day than in a week or two of house-to-house visitation.

Those who come frequently become very friendly, and in every case the attention, and impression made, seem wonderful. The greater number have never heard of Christ, and more than one was touched even to tears.

FEROZEPORE.

The Ferozepore Station was opened by Dr. F. J. Newton, who labored here for thirty-one years in Christ-like zeal and self-forgetfulness.

Since his death Dr. Forman of Kasur has had the oversight of the men's dispensary and the village preachers. This report therefore concerns the work carried on by the ladies of the Station only.

While direct opposition to the Gospel is decreasing, the persecution of the Chuhra Christians is on the increase. The landholders, who have looked for generations on the low-castes as slaves, do not calmly view this revolution, religious and economic, leading to the uplift of the Chuhras through Christianity. Last February a family in Boianwala became Christians. Shortly after, a case against one of the sons was lodged in court. He was accused of having poisoned an ox belonging to the farmer for whom he worked. The ox had died several months before the baptism took place and never, up to this time, had there been a hint of blame. Of course it was recognized as a piece of spite work, and the judge dismissed the case. Then his brother, at harvest time, was refused his rightful share of the crops he had helped to cultivate. He received less than one-fourth of his year's wages.

City School for Mohammedan Girls.—

There have been 50 children in attendance during the year, but the monthly attendance has remained about 35. As a rule the children all join gladly in the singing of psalms and hymns and the Lord's Prayer. The older class have read all the New Testament stories and know the larger part of Mr. Velte's Catechism for village Christians and many Bible verses.

Concerning the Women's Hospital, Dr. Allen writes as follows:

"FRANCES NEWTON HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN" is the inscription on the very handsome tablet presented last year by the ladies of the Falling Springs Presbyterian Church of Chambersburg, Pa. But it should read "Hospital, Orphanage, Widows' and Converts' Home." Babies, widows and converts can't be turned out in the street, and as there are no homes for them in the Punjab, the hospitals have to open their doors and be a general refuge. It occurred to me one day that I would count up and see what I had had during the year. This is the list I made: Three converts, all baptized from the hospital last year. One inquirer sent from another Station (stole forty rupees and escaped). Eight Christian widows, not counting the three converts who were also widows, with seven children. One Brahmin widow came to learn midwifery. Two Mohammedan widows who also came to study the same subject at their own expense. One is in the Government Hospital here and the other goes up for her examination in March. Two Hindu women (with a little niece), who had with their father and two brothers become Mohammedans. The younger was given over to my keeping by the courts until the Chief Court should decide the case. Ten orphan children, too small to be in school, and six Hindu children, all babies but one. These are all paid for and are left only for a time. In some cases the mother has died, in two cases the mother was unable to raise the children. Two teachers and six girls who had no home to go to, spent their vacation with me. This has made quite a little family to look after, but it has been a pleasure to do it and there have been only one or two cases that I have regretted taking. Eight women and girls I refused to take.

KASUR.

Dr. Forman reports:

The work of this Station lies largely out in the district, but the dispensary in Kasur is open all the year, meeting the needs of the poor and representing the spirit of the Gospel. It also serves to gather at our very door an audience of people who listen to the opening discourse with an attentive demeanor.

There is interesting work in a cluster of villages all bearing the name of Mari.

In two of these we have large flocks, and it is at this spot that we feel so very sorely the need of a rest-house. We certainly seem here to be beyond the limits of civilization, and not a tree can be found under which we can shelter ourselves from the fierce rays of the sun, nor where we can pitch our tents. The great friendliness of the people compensates for this in some measure.

The preachers at the various centres have visited a number of villages within a few miles of their home, while the Christians themselves, who are constantly on the move, attending weddings or visiting their numerous relatives, help to spread the seed broadcast. It is not at all unusual to have an inquirer reply to your question as to where he first heard of Christ, that one of his relatives, who is a Christian, had told him. One family who moved to another part of the district has been the means of many coming into the Church.

There have been 434 baptisms during the past year and the total number of Christians now is over 2,000.

There are six village schools for boys, with 122 pupils.

There are five Sunday-schools in all, with 148 pupils.

KHANNA.

Dr. E. P. Newton reports:

One of our evangelistic workers, Baryam Singh, a convert of this district, and a man who gives promise of considerable usefulness, has been supported while under training, entirely by our congregation.

Khanna Boarding School:

In this school, which is meant to give a primary education to the sons of village Christians, are gathered pupils both from our own district and from seven others. The number in attendance at the end of September was 40 boarders and 4 day-scholars.

The industrial work proceeds as formerly. Several boys are engaged at the looms who last year were employed in reeling yarn, preparing bobbins, etc. We have six looms and need two more, which could be erected at a cost of about Rs. 60.

LANDOUR.

Woodstock College.—Thanks to generous gifts by Mrs. John S. Kennedy and Mrs. C. P. Turner, the Woodstock School has been able to acquire a beautiful large property adjoining its present grounds and to begin the erection thereon of a college building to be a memorial to Mrs. Thorpe, for many years President of the Philadelphia Women's Board. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews report that this has been one of the best years in the history of Woodstock, with an enrollment of 149, and an attendance of 137.

One special event of the year, which is a "milestone" in the history of Woodstock College, is the presentation of our first candidate for the Bachelor of Arts degree. The name of this first candidate should be recorded in the annals of the College, for Miss Ella Grace Florence McKenzie won the high distinction of standing second in order of merit, among 900 candidates who appeared for that examination.

We feel that it will be an interesting fact to note that we have had this year 63 children of missionary workers on the rolls of Woodstock as students. Of these 14 are children of our own Mission, 16 of the United Presbyterian Mission, 7 of the Methodist Episcopal Mission, 7 of the English Baptist Mission, 3 of the Alliance Mission, 4 of the Lutheran Mission, 2 of the London Missionary Society (Congregational), 4 of the Christian Mission, 5 of the Church Missionary Society, and 1 of the Tehri Border Mission (Independent).

The Normal Teachers' Training Department is under the patronage of government, and each year its graduates are eagerly sought for by many schools.

With all these facts in view the missionary, of whatever Mission, should take advantage of the superior facilities offered by Woodstock, as many already do, and keep their children in India longer than they have heretofore felt it possible to do.

We can take a child from the Kindergarten stage of education to the B.A. examination of the University, we can give her a thorough preparation for the profession of a teacher, or we can fit her for general mission work, and she will be as well prepared as she could be in schools at home.

RUPAR.

Mr. and Mrs. Uppal, after nineteen years of service in this district, were transferred to Ambala Cantonments, and Mr. and Mrs. Jones have taken charge of the field. Mr. Jones reports:

After all these years of faithful work, Mr. Uppal had seen the number of baptized converts grow from a mere handful to over a thousand.

The work of this Station and district is almost entirely evangelistic. There are about 1,200 Christians scattered over 130 villages, who are shepherded by 12 workers, three of whom are more specially teachers of small day-schools. In three villages, day-schools are held, in which 26 boys have been enrolled, 20 Christians and 6 Chamars. These are taught to read and write, a little arithmetic, a simple Catechism, and hymns and bhajans. These day-schools are not very satisfactory, as the parents oblige the boys to work, being desperately poor.

About 8 per cent. of the community may be considered literate, comprising 27 men, 17 women, 33 boys and 10 girls.

There are only two organized churches in this district, the Rupar and Chamkaur Churches, with 67 and 43 communicants respectively.

PHILOUR.

This Station is under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Goloknath.

It has been a year of progress not only in tabulated results, but in the quality of those baptized. There have been 75 baptisms. Women, too, have been baptized with their husbands. The new batch baptized in villages is very much better than the old batch baptized in towns. The town converts have contracted from old some vices such as gambling, charas smoking, and extravagance, which still adhere to them. They get plenty of food to eat through wives who do the scouring work in streets and mahallas, but coin, no sooner it comes in one hand, goes out of the other. The men generally are listless and indolent, and waste money either in gambling or riotous living.

The village converts are a better class of men. They are industrious, steady, more or less honest, and some of them are men of some means. They make better congregations, their children are more willing to learn, are docile and make good Sunday school scholars.

GWALIOR: about 215 miles northwest of Allahabad; Station begun 1874. Occupied as a Mission Station 1911. Rev. Henry Forman and Mrs. Forman, Rev. Sulch Pal.

ETAH: capital of Etah Province, about 240 miles northwest of Allahabad; Station begun 1900. Missionaries—Rev. A. G. McGaw and Mrs. McGaw, Miss M. J. Morrow, and Rev. Alfred W. Moore.

LANDOUR: in district of Dehra Dun, some 400 miles northwest of Allahabad. Rev. Jas. F. Holcomb and Mrs. Holcomb.

KASGANJ: 245 miles northwest of Allahabad; occupied as a Mission Station 1911. Rev. J. H. Laurence and Mrs. Laurence.

CAWNPORE: about 120 miles northwest of Allahabad.

SAHARANPUR: Rev. W. F. Johnson, D.D., representing the work of the Mission in the Theological Seminary, and Miss Mary E. Johnson.

TRANSFERS: Rev. S. M. Gillam and Mrs. Gillam, from Cawnpore to Fatehgarh; Rev. Henry Forman and Mrs. Forman, from Jhansi to Gwalior.

FURLONGS DURING THE YEAR: Miss Mary Fullerton.

The North India Mission was strongly reinforced during the year by the addition of Mr. and Mrs. Hezlep, Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge, the Rev. Alfred W. Moore, Miss Louise M. Keach, and Miss Mary Lovett.

ALLAHABAD STATION.

Seventy-five years ago when ten Americans were making the slow journey up the river from Calcutta during the rainy season their luggage boat was upset in a severe squall. The Mission library was lost and a box containing parts of the Mission press disappeared in the waters of India's holy river. The trip was continued to Cawnpore, but the Rev. James McEwen came back the 150 miles to Allahabad to try to have the necessary parts of the press made and to secure a printer. He went out to search and was rewarded with the discovery of a field which he considered to be one of great opportunity. Allahabad has since then been on the American Presbyterian missionary map.

In place of that small beginning, there are now some splendid institutions, and 21 of our members are carrying on the work begun three-quarters of a century ago in this great city, which was considered to be one of the holiest places of Hinduism long before the birth of our Lord and which is the goal of many a pilgrimage on the part of the devout Hindu still. As the traveler completes his 500-mile railway journey from Calcutta to this city, the first sight that will greet his eyes before the Jumna River bridge is crossed will be the 200 acres of picturesque and fertile land now owned by the Agricultural Department of the college. Across the river he sees the tower of the college and the tops of the hostels showing above the beautiful trees of the campus. Further away in the compound may be seen the Christian Boys' Boarding House, with a village nestling at the western boundary, showing the High School, the Jumna Church (a mutiny relic), and the bungalows of the missionaries. Across the city is Katra, from where, as a centre, Dr. J. J. Lucas conducts his evangelistic work, and by his residence is a boys' school and the church of the Christian community. Across the road is the Mary Wanamaker Girls' High School, a splendid brick building, in which four of the American ladies and some 136 Indian Christian girls live.

In the very centre of the bazaar life of the city stands the Mission church near mosque and temple and here evening preaching of the Gospel is heard. In the vicinity, in a sheltered compound full of the foliage of the Orient, is the Sara Seward Hospital for women and children. Elsewhere are the homes for the lepers and the asylum for the blind and poor, which, although not financed by our Mission, are superintended by our members.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The Jumna Church in the compound on the bank of the Jumna River is an historic building, being erected in 1847 by the Rev. J. E. Freeman, who gave his life ten years later as a testimony for his faith in the Cawnpore massacre of the Indian mutiny. The church building here is thus crowded with associations. It was pillaged during the mutiny itself, and its bell, which is now preserved, was thrown down a well and broken.

The services have been well attended, the average of 150 being higher than the previous year. The Christian students of school and college worship here. All services are carried on in Hindustani.

The other church of our Christian community is three miles distant from the Jumna in the Katra compound. The building is of beautiful architecture and modern material.

Since the resignation of Mr. Fieldbrave, elders have cared for the service. The girls of the nearby Mary Wanamaker High School worship here. There are 86 active members, 15 of whom have been added during the year. The total church membership is 300.

City evangelistic work has been carried on in three centres.

1. The church in the centre of Allahabad City. Those who have preached much in the streets or in bazaar know what a great advantage it is to have a building like the city church in which to preach and meet inquirers. One of the Christian teachers in the Katra Boys' School, a few years ago when a teacher in a Moslem school, was attracted by the preaching in this city church and thus brought into touch with us. Even the very stones of this building speak, for between and over the doors are slabs on which verses from the Gospel are cut. This last summer a Sadhu read these verses and asked to see the missionary in charge of the church. He found Mr. Weld, who sent him on to the missionary in charge with a note of commendation, and this led to his baptism.

2. Another centre of evangelistic work during the year has been the mela at the junction of the rivers. This is one of the holy places in India and hundreds of thousands of pilgrims come here to bathe during January and February. As we had a big tent near the Mela grounds, nearly every day the preachers held evangelistic services, the men of the C. M. S. in an adjoining tent often uniting in preaching, singing and distributing tracts. This great gathering of people from all parts of India gives a unique opportunity of preaching, selling and giving away books and tracts.

3. Katra is another centre of our evangelistic work. At Katra, the Rev. Dharam Singh is working.

His gift is quiet controversy, with an audience of one or two, provided that the audience is ready to listen and patiently, as he pours out commentaries on Hinduism, the accumulation of years of study and controversy. Just now he is trying to win to Christ a Kabir Panthi who is the cook of a high official and seems to have leisure to compare the teaching of Kabir and Christ. It is quiet and patient controversy of this kind, with one here and another there, which is doing much to change the thought of multitudes in India and turn them to the Lord Jesus. Our lament is that while so many of this class are giving up the teaching of their Hindu Gurus, yet they halt at the very door of the church, and often turn aside into one of the reforming sects which are springing up here and there. So often we meet Hindus who seem able to accept the teaching of Christ and at the same time refuse to acknowledge Him openly in the way of baptism.

There are four centres of evangelistic work among the 350,000 people living south of the Jumna River in the Allahabad District.

At Sirsa, at the beginning of the year, we had about 60 names on the register of Christians as baptized during the last few years.

During the winter the census officers, Hindus, were busy gathering minute information concerning the caste and religion of every man and woman at Sirsa, and this led to such persecutions of the Christians that many of them were forced to have their names changed from the original entry as Christians to the old caste name, and this in spite of personal interviews by the missionary with the census enumerator. The Hindus and especially the Aryas at Sirsa are bitter and determined in their opposition.

Other centres are Bharat Ganj, 40 miles from Allahabad, and Karma, a large market town.

This is the forty-fifth year since the establishment by the Mission of the Makhzan-i-Masihi. It was begun to build up and strengthen the church in India. This is still its aim. Perhaps this is why it has lived so long. The number of subscribers is not large, but it was never so large as now, and, in comparison with religious papers in India, its subscription list is a good one.

EDUCATIONAL WORK. Mary Wanamaker Girls' School.—

The school is full to overflowing. There are 137 boarders and 15 day-scholars. Two of the girls united with the Katra Church during the year, and 6 with other churches. The Bible is taught daily to every class.

Jumna Mission Boys' High School.—

This school continues to be popular with parents and guardians. The number enrolled at the end of September was 749, of which 102 were Christians.

The number of teachers in the school, including Mrs. Ewing, Mrs. Weld and Mrs. Slater, is 44. Of this number 26 are Christians and 18 non-Christians. The school is divided into 26 Bible classes.

The proportion of Christian students this year is very gratifying, almost one in seven. Two non-Christian students were baptized last year, but did not stand firm. They have gone back to their families.

In the Christian boys' boarding house connected with the school, the present number of boarders is about 85, which is about 10 more than the average number of last session. We have generally refused applicants belonging to the higher classes, preferring to take young boys, and let them grow up under our care, hoping that they will grow in the way we wish.

Katra Boys' School.—

On the roll are 123 boys, 71 of them Hindus, 41 Moslems and 12 Christians.

So much for the numbers of the school. What of the spiritual? Is it fulfilling its purpose? If that purpose is to pour the Word of God into the minds and hearts of the boys, then there can be but one answer, a decided Yes. Every class is taught a portion of Scripture, or the Catechism, every day by a Christian teacher. The whole school gathers for an exposition of a verse or passage of Scripture at the opening of the school, and this is an opportunity for twenty minutes or half an hour to pour in the words of Christ and prophets and apostles into the hearts of these boys, ranging in age from 10 to 20, which a missionary may well count the best half of the day; nor is he without evidence that the words are full of spirit and life. This last year the boy who stood highest in the school came often asking for baptism, but as he was a minor, he could not be baptized without the consent of his father, and under all the circumstances it was not thought best to send him to another Station secretly as he wished, as is often done, sometimes wisely and sometimes with disastrous results. This shows how impossible it is to test our school-work by the number of baptisms of the students while in school.

Allahabad Christian College.—

The number of students at present enrolled is 302; of these 19 are Christians. This is a few more than last year and is as large a number as we are now prepared to take care of. The college fee has been raised this year, but that has not seemed to make much difference. Our First Year Class is much larger than ever before.

During the college year, which ended April 29, 1911, there was a good deal of difficulty with students. Displeased at things that were said which they chose to view as an attack upon their religion, the Hindu students boycotted all voluntary activities of the college life, even down to athletics in some cases. After the baptism of S. Talib Hussain in November, the Mohammedan students united with the Hindus and the relationship between the staff and students was in a measure "strained" down to the end of the year.

This year before admitting students we required every one to fill up and sign a form of application. The last item on this form runs thus:

"It is my desire to become a full member of the Allahabad Christian College, and, so long as I shall continue to be a member, my purpose is to observe in all things the discipline of the college and to take my proper share in its various voluntary and assigned activities."

Our Bible classes are places of great opportunity, and the attention paid to the presentation of Christ and spiritual truth is very satisfactory.

Just before the close of the year under report, the agreement between government and the college in the matter of the acquisition of 200 acres of land for the College for its Agricultural Department was signed.

Of the 300 students of the Allahabad Christian College, only about a third, or 111, are in residence within the two compounds in our three large hostels and two bungalows. Of these 65 are Hindus, 30 Mohammedans and 14 Christians.

The last year has witnessed the first graduations from the Engineering Department. There are now 25 in the Manual Training Class.

MEDICAL WORK.—Sara Seward Hospital.—Dr. Swezey has now taken charge of the hospital. She reports:

Dispensary:

New patients	5,007
Old patients	9,160

-------------	--------

Hospital patients	57
Operations, total	147

Since August 28, the hospital staff has held a short meeting for Bible reading and prayer before work each morning. Then the Bible woman goes to the waiting room, meets the patients, tells them Bible stories and sings hymns to them until their turn comes to be treated.

Naini Leper Asylum.—

The Naini Leper Asylum is located directly across from the college on the opposite bank of the Jumna River, at some distance back from it. Near the river is the untainted children's home where the children of lepers are segregated and saved from the disease. They walk over across the half mile bridge every day for a veranda school on a bungalow in the compound. The brick building of the home will be near our new Agricultural Department's farm. The main establishment has a large compound with a good church, a hospital, and barracks for the men and women. There is ground for the lepers to till, on which they raise vegetables.

In the asylum at present there are 215 lepers. A few over a hundred are Christians. Among these Christians are some beautiful spirits who bear their cross in a way which teaches us all a great lesson.

Asylum for the Blind and the Poor.—

This institution is supported by the Allahabad Charitable Association, mainly by a grant from the Municipal Board.

It has been under the superintendence of the missionaries at the Jumna Station for many years.

The non-Christian members of the Municipal Board are somewhat exercised over what has been called "proselytizing." A "visiting committee" of one Hindu and one Mohammedan has been proposed.

ETAWAH STATION.

The Station has continued under the care of Mr. Fitch, the Mission not having had a sufficient staff of foreign missionaries to cover adequately all the Stations. Mr. Fitch reports:

In my last report I referred to the Mohammedan, Hindu, Jaini and Arya Conventions held at Etawah and how these conventions helped to bind the members of the respective religions together. During the last year their religious fervor has advanced with rapid strides. Animosity against the Mohammedans has made all the rest to join hands in one good thing—the dismissal of the nautch (dancing) girl from their social and religious festive occasions—simply because the nautch girl, as a rule, is a Mohammedan.

Their religious fervor sometimes verged on the ludicrous. A temple-bull that died in the bazaar received the honors of a royal burial in the Jumna. The horns of the bull were decorated with gold leaves, and the body was covered with a silk shawl. The carcass was very reverently placed on a vehicle drawn by men, while all followed the bier barefoot and barehead, the Mahajans throwing paisas over the body and the Brahmans sprinkling red powder on all, along the procession which was the largest seen in Etawah for a funeral.

Itinerating Tour.—

At Bateswar, during the big horse-fair, we preached daily for eleven hours continuously for three days, along with the Rev. P. Webber, of the Church Missionary Society, and his workers, to several hundreds at a time.

At Doba Mela, the Methodist brethren joined us, and we preached for another three days to hundreds. During our tour we were glad to notice a spirit of expectancy on the part of the village Christians. In some places the clean walls and floors and the clean clothes they had put on showed the preparation they had made for our visit.

During this tour, we followed the same programme that we had last year. In the mornings, the adjoining villages where Christians lived were visited. The midday was always open for a visit either from or to the Christians. The afternoons were devoted to bazaar preaching, and the evenings to magic-lantern meetings among the Christians. One evening at every centre was, however, devoted to the non-Christians, and Christ's triumphal entry was of necessity one of the slides shown, as the Aryas had distributed broadcast their tract "Yisu Charitra" (Life of Christ), with a caricature of Christ on the cross for a frontispiece, in which Christ is charged with having stolen the ass on which he rode. The ordinary objection in a village bazaar to accepting Christ is that he was an ass stealer. How great a necessity exists to spread the truth!

The Christians in most of the villages have given up observing "Rakhi" and "Holi" festivals. The Hindus have so woven their social and religious customs together, that when the Christians give up the religions, they are obliged, perforce, to give up the social, too, as both are inseparable. They have to make sacrifice in this respect, and need great moral strength to withstand, as they live in the midst of Hindus who knew them as Hindus from their infancy.

We have now 7 Christian Endeavor Societies in the city and in the district, and one of them is a Junior Society.

We have now 35 Sunday-schools and 543 pupils as against the 15 schools and 313 pupils reported last year.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—

Etawah has now in the Training School at Mainpuri 9 students and 3 in the seminary at Saharanpur.

We have four day-schools in good working order, with 48 students on the roll. The students are hard at work in one of the schools, while the rest are struggling between tending pigs and study.

Mr. Fitch adds in closing:

The Gospel is preached in eleven different places to the non-Christians, in some places twice a week. In the city bazaar for five days in the week for six months of this year.

There are seven centres where village Christians gather together for worship on Sundays.

We were able to baptize 274 this year. There is a total membership of 1,465 in the district, 12 having died.

There are about 230 under instruction who may be called catechumens. The number of adherents is 1,695.

A village liturgy is badly needed for the guidance of the village preachers and others.

FATEHGARH STATION.

Mr. Hemphill, reporting for the Station, says:

In a sense, almost all our work has been educational. Even in the evangelistic work the effort nowadays is being made to educate and build up the mass of Christians, rather than to baptize hundreds more. But in a very real sense all our educational work is thoroughly imbued with the evangelistic spirit. The efforts of the two boarding schools, the Industrial School and the High School all converge on the aim of building up a strong Christian community, and adding to it through the witnessing of those who are educated in our schools.

We are thankful for the numerous co-workers we have. The burden of the actual work falls upon their shoulders, and what has been accomplished has been due to their loyal co-operation and fidelity. When we compare our situation with that of the missionaries who came to India only twenty-five years ago, we thank God and take courage because of the great number of Indian co-workers whom He has raised up to do the work.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Mr. Bandy reports:

The evangelistic work of the district does not show the progress of some other years. Including 99 children of Christians who have been baptized, there has been a total of 203 baptisms recorded, which a little more than makes good the losses from all causes as death, discipline, disappearance, backsliding, etc. One hundred and nineteen have united with our village churches.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Rakha Christian Girls' Boarding School.—

Besides the regular school studies, we teach the girls sewing, sweeping and cooking, because we believe that neat, happy homes will do much for the glory of Christ.

Recently 15 girls united with the church and showed a commendable knowledge of Christian truth. It is strange how the new national spirit of India is beginning to stir even these isolated girls. They give their pice more eagerly to the National Missionary Society than to any other cause. One Sunday they got very angry with the preacher because he made a comparison between conditions in Christian America and non-Christian India, which was not complimentary to India.

Barphur Christian Boys' Boarding School.—

Of the 109 boys in the school, 38 are in the City School, 27 are in the Industrial School, and the rest are in the Primary School.

We are making a constant fight for clean living and high thinking, and we feel that the character of the boys is on the whole, good, though we are often distressed by a violent outbreak of the old Adam in them.

Industrial School.—

The Industrial School has made the iron beds and the bins for the boarding school. There has been a continued stream of trade in the shoe shop. The windows and doors for our new building are being made in the iron and wood shop. We desire to make this a school in the most thoroughgoing sense.

The High School.—

Three of the teachers are our own boarding school boys who have been educated in our High School.

We have put all the Christian teachers at work teaching the Bible, instead of leaving it all to any one man, and we believe it to be a far better plan.

There is some hostility to the school on the part of the Hindu teachers we have dismissed, and some uneasiness among those who have remained with us, because they do not know when their turn to be discharged will come.

City Girls' School.—

Each pupil is given a daily Bible lesson in regular class besides the regular lesson given in the closing exercises.

We are sorry not to be able to report any out-and-out confessions among our girls. Yet when we think of the influence that these 300 or more girls will have in the heathen homes of India, we feel our work is not in vain.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Young reports:

At first the attendance at the dispensary naturally fell off when Dr. Fullerton went home. But now the women are coming in great numbers. The doctor has also taken care of the health of the two boarding schools and is happy to say that both schools were saved from the ravages of the plague.

FATEHPUR STATION.

Mr. Smith, who is now in charge of Fatehpur Station, is seeking to develop aggressively its evangelistic work, and to do so with a view to schooling the church in ideas of self-propagation and self-supporting from the beginning. He writes:

There has been no educational work of a regular nature. The children of school age are all in the Fatehgarh boarding schools.

For some months of last year Bihari Lall was located in Asothar. He has continued here throughout the year and is working Malal, among the sailors. These people are no longer following their old occupation, but are tilling the soil or working as laborers for others. They have, however, refused to accept the absolute domination of the higher-caste people, and, in order to avoid too intimate contact, often live in little villages to themselves. No class of people in the district hear with greater attention or manifest greater interest in the messenger and his message. Their brotherhood is, however, strong. Their moral standards seem high in comparison with many other castes, and the discipline of the brotherhood is in this respect wholesome. The caste is neither high nor low. At present there is a small school among them.

The Fatehpur Church has made progress in many ways. At the opening of the year the finances were quite demoralized. An excellent system had been allowed to fall into disuse. There were strong suspicions regarding the disbursement of the funds, and the treasury was reported bankrupt. This has all been remedied, confidence has been restored, and the people, while not giving in every case as much as they ought, are nearly all contributing.

One of the characteristics of the church attendance has been the number of Hindus and Mohammedans. Several of the latter have been attending with much regularity, and two weeks ago one professed faith in Christ openly. His doing so has not seemed to interfere with the continued coming of others.

Some attempts have been made to restart work near Fatehpur that in previous years had a hopeful beginning. There are a considerable number of people who have been readmitted to their old caste affiliations after having been baptized. But thus far these attempts have not been fruitful.

JHANSI STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Dr. Forman reports:

The work of our two churches and pastors in Jhansi is growing very much in importance. Christians are constantly coming into the Station from other places, since Jhansi is a great railway centre.

Our Mission has a door of great usefulness open to it in its work for Christians. If it presses forward now it will buy up an opportunity of great value.

One finds on looking up Christians, who, on leaving their old homes, have come and settled among Hindus and Mohammedans, how sadly many of them fall away from the Christian life. Pastoral work here is of the greatest importance. The pastor of our city church notes seven spheres of activity for the pastor, among them: (1) Securing employment for Christian brethren and helping the destitute and strangers. (2) Securing the open confession of Christians who among heathen neighbors have hidden their Christianity. (3) Advising earnestly husband and wife to become Christian, both of them, and not one only. (4) Not to allow the husband and wife to spend their lives without being married.

This list shows something of the seamy side of life, and the need for the pastor and the church.

The Church in Sipri Bazaar has had a good year on the whole, but with ups and downs. This church is the most centrally situated for the Indian Christian community of any in Jhansi, and hence is the place for all general meetings. It is good to see the gatherings of Indian Christians of the different denominations at times here. The church has grown during the year from 10 communicants and 7 adherents to 34 communicants and 15 adherents. The church is trying to weld parts of a most heterogeneous community into a homogeneous body.

Miss Tresham reports for the Evangelistic Work among Women:

Through the year I have had 55 women reading; some were most irregular and had to be dropped.

The field is a hard one and there are apparently no results after the many years of zenana work. One here and another there says she believes in Christ and is trusting Him for salvation, but most of them are hard, careless and heedless, and only remember the Bible lesson because they are required to do so. I have a growing suspicion that the drug habit is increasing. Many of my women are very bright and responsive at the beginning of the lesson and after 15 minutes or so their minds become blank and they can neither read nor understand what is said.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—There is a Girls' School with 56 on the roll. There are 80 boys in the Anglo-Vernacular Boys' School. Dr. Forman writes:

I cannot too strongly emphasize the need for pressing forward our school and church work in Jhansi. The field is unquestionably a unique one that is rapidly growing into importance. While every other large city in the United Provinces either stood still or actually lost in population during the last ten years, the census showed Jhansi to have grown from 55,700 to 70,200, an increase of 26 per cent. A retired government officer, of intimate knowledge of the country, declared a few days ago that Jhansi is sure to be to Central India what Lucknow and Meerut are to the Northern. The military cantonments have again been increased during the past year, while on the civil side Jhansi has been made the head station of a commissionership, and railway workshops have been enlarged so that they now employ over 3,000 workmen. The Roman Catholic priest tells me that the Pope has now before him proposals to make Jhansi the seat of a bishopric and to appoint a bishop, and to establish a Roman Catholic college here. It is a good thing to be well established in this growing community, our Mission enjoying in a marked degree the confidence of the people, and possessing the very best sites in the Station for its work.

Out-stations.—

The nearest out-station is Barwatagar, 13 miles east of us, where a small fort and lofty old palace, now used as a Dak Bungalow, stand on the bank of a small artificial lake. The country about is a wild jungle, with occasional villages scattered through it, some in British, some in native territory. Barwa Sagar, the town itself, is a fairly large town. Daud baptized over 100 men and women in this region last year. Early in this year a senseless scare was spread on the ground of the census operations that those baptized were to be sent to Demarara. The distrust was founded by our opponents, and much harm done. We are pretty well rid of all that now, but the year has been one of little progress.

GWALIOR STATION.

Dr. Forman is removing from Jhansi to the Gwalior field, to occupy once more this important and difficult State, which has been opened for Mission work only to the members of the Presbyterian Mission. Meanwhile, Babu Kishori Lal has been looking after the work, and Dr. Forman writes:

Though a man of humble extraction and little education, he is much in earnest and endowed with a good share of ability, and moreover has a definiteness of purpose in his work that makes wonderfully for success.

He regularly works in eight towns, including the city of Lashkar, in which he has worked in five wards of the city. He preaches to groups of people and sits and talks with individuals, and is always at it. One Mohammedan, a young man of education and opposition, was much impressed, and long expressed his purpose to be baptized, but finally left Gwalior for Agra without having received baptism. He, however, before he left, talked earnestly with two of his Mohammedan friends and brought them to Kishori Lal. Both of these young men went further than their leader and were baptized. One of them is a teacher in a municipal school, the other a compositor in a press. Both have suffered a good deal of petty persecution, and it was reported that the compositor recanted, but this may not be true. A Hindu young man, in the medical employ of the State, has also been led to believe in and avow his belief in Christ, but has not yet been baptized owing to family complications.

Kishori Lal is oppressed with the sense of his aloneness in the midst of the multitudes about him. As he says plaintively in his appeal to the Mission to send at least three more workers at once. "Your presences know that there are hundreds of thousands of people and among them only one Kishori Lal; and the proverb is true, a cummin seed in the mouth of a camel!"

So much for the work of this man of humble attainments, taken from the lowest stratum of society in India, with little education, but with an earnest mind hungry for knowledge, knowing and with all his heart trusting and following Christ, and changed by that Christ from being nobody among scavengers to being a comfort and co-guide to his fellow-Christians, and a man whom the educated and often proud Hindu and Mohammedan freely come to for guidance in the things that pertain to God and to their salvation. I have repeatedly dwelt on it in my thoughts and found comfort and help in it. Surely the Christ who made apostles of fishermen is still in our midst.

MAINPURI STATION.

Mr. Mitchell writes of the large field accessible from Mainpuri, with many centres of work:

Good macadamized roads lead to all of these centres from Mainpuri. In fact there are some 240 miles of these splendid roads in the district.

There are in round numbers 2,900 villages in the district. We have baptized people in 190 of them. There are 830,000 inhabitants in the district; 2,300 is our baptized community.

Of Evangelistic Work through this district, on long tours, Mr. Mitchell writes:

We visited from 3 to 5 villages daily. We could only go to those where we have baptized people. We had to pass by many others where we would have been glad to stop and preach and teach had we the time and strength.

In some places we found very little of progress on the part of baptized people. They still hold to some forms of idolatry, especially at the time of weddings and after the death of relatives. And one of the worst things about them is the way they lie about these things when caught in the very act. It is very hard to see any difference between such people and their non-Christian neighbors. And yet there is a difference.

One great trouble is that we have not been able to give them the attention they require. We have not enough teachers to be able to place one in their vicinity and we have only been able to visit them once a year. Then they have centuries of heathen ideas and superstitions to struggle against and they are surrounded by non-Christians.

At another village one Brahman boy is being regularly taught by one of our teachers, who a few years ago was looked upon as unclean. He also teaches children of sweeper Christians in the same village.

We read Matt. 8 : 1-4 before one man and two boys of 15 and 17 years of age. We asked them what had been read. They did not know. We then read again and the Indian minister explained to them, and we again asked them what we had read. They could not tell. We read it again and again and explained it and asked questions until the youngest boy could tell the story haltingly. These same people could repeat several Hindu stories of mythology. The Bible is a new book to them. The great mass of the people have no desire to know its truths, and even less do they wish to obey it. Many have worshiped idols until their minds are like the idols they worship. They are not burdened with a sense of sin and are not anxious to have the Christian missionary teach them the way of salvation. The mass of them are proud and self-satisfied.

The government took the census of the whole of India on the 10th of March. A great deal of preliminary work had been done before that date. All names and castes had been entered; but the final count was taken the night of the 10th of March. A great effort was made to get a correct return of all religions. We, too, were anxious to get a full return of our Christians. This was hard to do. The enumerators often refused to go to the houses of our people, but called one person and inquired from him for the whole community. He sometimes was indifferent or afraid and when asked what caste, replied, Sweepers. Some were told by Hindus that if they reported themselves as Christians that they would be compelled to leave the village. Others report that when they asked to be classed as Christians they were written down as Hindus. We gave the official in charge in this district the names of all villages where we have baptized people, with the number in each. We also tried to get our people to report properly and supplied them with printed forms for the enumerators.

The cultivation of opium has been stopped in this district. This loses us the opportunity to preach at the weighments, but the action of government is better than the results we could hope for from our preaching.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Central Training School.—
The Rev. John N. Forman reports:

In the Men's Department there has been an average on the rolls of 42 and the present number is 43. In the Women's School the average for the year is 20 and the present number is 23.

Of the women's work in Training School and Zenana, Mrs. Mitchell writes:

By the end of April plague was very bad all through the city and a good part of it was deserted. People moved out into huts in the open fields or fled to other places. We kept up our work in the zenanas as long as we could find our pupils, even though there was not much book-teaching done in those last dreadful weeks, but we never had people listen to the Gospel message as they did during that reign of terror, and on all our hearts was the burden laid heavily, for so many never heard it again. So many of our acquaintances died and a number of our pupils that by May things were so demoralized we had to stop work.

At present we have 113 pupils who are being regularly taught in Mainpuri and 18 in Shikohabad.

Twenty-four small boys were gathered into a Boys' School.

In the High School there is now a good staff of 20 teachers. The number of Christian teachers has been increased and Mr. Mitchell writes:

We now have ten Christian teachers and ten non-Christian teachers on our staff. We reopened school July 8. Because we were strict in promoting boys and because of the growing number and influence of our Christian teachers our attendance was only a little over half of the normal. The numbers, however, rapidly increased and we now have our normal attendance and have refused admission to a score or more.

ETAH STATION.

Mr. McGaw reports:

The Task set before us in this respect is to give the knowledge of Christ to 860,000 people and to give it more fully to 6,000 others.

It is one of our aims to make this 6,000—the most depressed and despised caste—winsome witnesses for Christ among all castes, to produce self-supporting, self-propagating churches.

The Organization by which this task is being undertaken consists of 94 Indian and American workers, seconded to some extent by the voluntary efforts of others.

The Churches.—While 126 have been added to the communicant list of all the churches, yet we are not able to report a satisfactory state in some of them. For the pastoral work of 17 churches there are but 5 ordained men.

The Etah Church is the only one on self-support and the only one with a pastor. There are two churches reporting a larger membership, but their numbers live in so many villages that a unified congregation is impossible.

Apparently, the missionary activity of this church has declined. There is a spirit of faction and dissatisfaction in the church. There is not that harmony among the officers which inspires hope and confidence.

Occasional lapses into the observance of idolatrous customs on the part of village congregations is scarcely more disheartening than this state of the central church.

The Educational Work of the district has grown materially.

The Girls' Boarding School.—In this there has been a steady growth in numbers. The present number in the school is 47, 7 of whom are widows. The school has gone on regularly throughout the year. Our present enrollment is 61, 14 of whom are in the training and 3 are irregular, coming in especially for Bible lessons. Besides these, 6 of the 9 teachers are also studying.

At present we have 7 widows and during the year shelter and home has been given to several others for various periods of time.

The Horace Cleland Memorial Boarding School for Boys is a workshop of large possibilities. Two years ago, September 30, 1909, there were just 40 boys in the school. With few exceptions those boys are in the boarding school today and besides them 40 others. The present attendance is over 80.

The Training School has not been pushed this year quite as vigorously as formerly. At present there are 9 young men in the class in Etah and 14 young women, while 9 others with their wives have been sent to the Central Training School in Mainpuri and 8 other couples are pursuing their theological studies at Saharanpur. For the village work we are expecting that these men, by the time they finish their four terms at Saharanpur, interspersed with practical work, will be very efficient and do great things for the Master.

We are trying to revolutionize this old plan of Village Schools, so that, instead of a teacher running after a few children in a half dozen villages, all those children who wish to read must come to a given centre at an appointed time.

Boys are troublesome at times, and yet we are very glad to have to strive for boys rather than those objects for which other people are striving in Etah.

Every few days there may be seen in our compound an old man with long white beard and bent form, stopping at intervals in the compound, along the road, and in the next compound and dropping a pinch of meal on ant-hills. This is an old enterprise, but during this year a new one has been undertaken in Etah. It is a home for cows. Anyone compelled by force of circumstances to sell his cow need not now sell it to the butcher—the management of the Cow Home will buy it. They are also ready to take in any cow, however decrepit and useless. A long building is being erected on a fine site in which to care for these cows. It looks as though it might become a dormitory for boys, but it is in fact for cows only.

We think boy-nurture is more interesting and profitable than these efforts of our Hindu neighbors.

It is interesting to get the impressions made on a newcomer, on one of considerable experience in India, by these Christian communities.

Miss Ashby who spent about 4 months last winter in the district has given the following report:

"Last year, on coming down from the hills, I had a strict order from an eye specialist not to remain any longer in the Punjab. So I very gratefully accepted an invitation from Dr. Young to spend part of the winter with her in camp. I came and stayed through the winter, and am very grateful for the consent of the Etah missionaries to throw in my lot with them again this year, in this most interesting, most repaying and most promising work that is at present being accomplished in India—that is to say, work among the low castes. I had the privilege of visiting in the districts of Babus Ajodhya Pershad, Gulzari Lal, Bhagwan Das Wilson and Padri Janki Pershad. If these men alone were trophies won in this field, surely the workers among the low castes might have just cause for rejoicing: but as I write the names of numbers of just as earnest men come to my mind, though perhaps they may never be well known outside the radius of their own village districts. Among these might be mentioned the Christian chowdhries whose lives and conduct will, we believe, do great things in their villages.

In the February, 1911, conference of workers held in Etah, it was decided that a code should be made out and be strictly kept to, in order to be sure that the children, the most ignorant amongst the women, especially those who have become Christians late in life, and the new converts, should know the simple truths. It was decided that first of all John 3 : 16 should be taught so as to be memorized, and then simple stories of the birth, life and death and resurrection of our Lord; a short prayer, an account of the Fall, the Ten Commandments and the Lord's Prayer should be taught within six months by the teachers in their villages. I kept to that code of teaching, but as I never stayed for many days in one place, I never got beyond teaching the first three items. I must have taught and explained John 3 : 16 to several hundred people. I found that when they had memorized that one verse, the rest was easily grasped.

Never shall I forget in the midst of a heathen village coming upon a house with a sign of the cross on one side of the door, and written underneath the words, "Main kuchh janun na krus siwae" (I know nothing but the cross)."

For the carrying on of the distinctly village work there are now 34 teachers, supervised by seven preachers and men of higher grade.

We are making some progress in developing in the older men in the villages a sense of responsibility concerning the work.

Discussions against non-Christian marriages and other old customs, about the weakness of certain workers, or the irregularity of particular communities, are of great educative value for these men. We have had 5 or 6 conferences this year.

All the workers and Christians need grace to walk circumspectly and wisely. Some communities are in high favor and are in danger of being puffed up by it. Others, who suffer gross injustices, if helped in their troubles are in danger of relying on such help and on the basis of that of becoming a cause of trouble in the village.

CAWNPORE STATION.

Cawnpore Station has also been under the care of an Indian worker, the Rev. M. C. David, who has maintained the activities of the Station, but has been unable to make any long country tours, and who appeals for the establishment of a foreign missionary at Cawnpore, with at least six more evangelistic workers.

WESTERN INDIA MISSION.

KOLHAPUR: 200 miles southeast of Bombay; 45,000 inhabitants; Station begun 1853; taken under care of the Board 1870. Missionaries—Rev. A. W. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, Rev. E. W. Simpson and Mrs. Simpson, Miss Esther Patton, Miss A. A. Brown, Rev. D. B. Updegraff, Miss Clara L. Seiler, Miss Elizabeth A. Foster, Dr. Victoria E. MacArthur, Rev. J. P. Graham and Mrs. Graham.

RATNAGIRI: 82 miles northwest of Kolhapur and 125 south of Bombay; Station begun 1873. Missionaries—Rev. A. L. Wiley, D.D., and Mrs. Wiley, Miss Emily T. Minor, Miss Amanda M. Jefferson.

KODOLI: 12 miles north of Kolhapur; Station begun 1877. Missionaries—Dr. A. S. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, Rev. Henry G. Howard and Mrs. Howard, Rev. L. B. Tedford and Mrs. Tedford, and Miss Sybil G. Brown.

SANGLI: 30 miles east of Kolhapur; Station begun 1884. Missionaries—Rev. Edgar M. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, Miss Grace Enright, Miss Marie L. Gauthey, Mr. J. L. Goheen and Mrs. Goheen, Miss Mabel I. Skilton.

MIRAJ: About 25 miles a little north of east of Kolhapur and 6 miles south of Sangli; Station begun 1892. Missionaries—William J. Wanless, M.D., and Mrs. Wanless, Rev. R. C. Richardson and Mrs. Richardson, Miss M. E. Patterson, Dr. Chas. E. Vail.

VENGURLE: About 70 miles southwest of Kolhapur; Station begun 1900. Missionaries—Rev. W. H. Hannum and Mrs. Hannum, Dr. R. N. Goheen and Mrs. Goheen, Miss M. C. Rebentisch.

TRANSFERS: Rev. J. P. Graham and Mrs. Graham, from Miraj to Kolhapur; Miss Mabel I. Skilton, from Ratnagiri to Sangli.

DEATH: Miss Grace Wilder.

FURLOUGHS DURING THE YEAR: Dr. R. H. Goheen and Mrs. Goheen, Dr. Alex. S. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, Miss A. M. Jefferson, Rev. E. W. Simpson and Mrs. Simpson.

KOLHAPUR STATION.

Miss Wilder.—It is with sorrow that we record the death of Miss Grace E. Wilder. She died suddenly at Islampur on April 18, 1911, and her body now rests by that of her sainted mother in the Mission Cemetery at Kolhapur.

The Church.—The pastor of the church records his thanksgiving for God's good guidance throughout the year. Two hundred and five communicants appear on the rolls. Additions were: 17 by letter and 51, mainly school girls, on examination and confession of faith. Eighteen were dismissed by letter and 42 are on the absent roll. The baptized children number 85.

The treasurer reports a better financial status than for a long time past, there being a balance of 112 rupees on hand, and this notwithstanding the fact that the missionaries have resolutely pared their subscriptions, sometimes in half.

Sunday-school.—In the Sunday-school examination for all India, two medals were won by our scholars, both girls, the first girl winners we have had.

The Station personnel has changed considerably. There have been no casualties. Rev. and Mrs. Simpson are on furlough in America, and Miss Patton and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall are back at work after their rest. Misses Foster and MacArthur are at the Mary Wanless Hospital.

EDUCATIONAL.—What principally meets the eye in our Station is the group of buildings constituting the large Girls' School. An interesting bit of history occurs in Miss Patton's report.

Thirty-three years ago, in the famine of 1877-78, some boys and girls were taken by the Kolhapur missionaries and sheltered in the house now occupied by the Bible woman. These orphans went to school with the Indian Christian children in the building we now call Morningside. This building had been used as a day-school for girls from the city and from the Mahar and Mang settlements. Each caste occupied a corner of the building: the Marathas, Mahars and Mangs took three corners and the then-very-much-despised Christians had the fourth corner. The girls were given a pice a day for coming to school. When the giving of pice stopped, all but the Christians left school. The school was reorganized as a school for Indian Christian children and orphan boys and girls.

In 1887 Mr. and Mrs. Goheen obtained money and built the small schoolhouse and a small dormitory on the Mission compound. In 1888 the girls were moved to their new quarters and the boys were moved out to their new home and school in Sangli.

When the girls came to their new home, there were only seven of them; it seemed as if the buildings were far too large; but in 1896 the dormitory had to be enlarged, and again in 1901 and 1902 two more dormitories and the large schoolhouse were built.

Mrs. Goheen was the principal of the Christian Girls' Boarding School from 1888 till 1892, and she laid the foundation upon which the school has been built. The aim is "so to train native girls that they will become good and practical women, and as Christians, exemplary and useful in the native communities where they may reside; and also that we may train up Christian helpers, especially teachers for our schools.

There are now 180 girls in the three houses, and at least 500 girls have "had a chance" for a longer or shorter period in the school and home.

There has been among the girls something of the unrest and insubordination that seem abroad in the land, but the girls are trying to answer their own prayers that our Father may give them grace to live at peace "like the children of one mother." Another striking expression in their prayers is that they may not let Satan into their hearts nor give him a chair to sit down there.

The Mahar School for Boys is now under Miss Browne's efficient direction.

The Somvar School register contained 64 names in July, but only 40 for September, the attendance being interfered with by the numerous feast days and fast days to be observed by either Mohammedan or Hindu families.

The missionary reports:

On a recent visit, my Third Standard thirteen-year-old pupil handed me the catechism to hear her recite. When she had gone through fifty questions I suggested that that was enough for one day, but she said she was going to recite the whole book, which she did. The book contains 148 questions, many of them with long answers, covering the whole ground from the Creation, etc., to the Judgment.

In the school in Porale there seems to be a pronounced break with the past and an avowed intention on the part of many to become Christians. Nine men and boys baptized during the rains are the pledges for more in the future. The village leaders, though not yet baptized, have led this movement, and have asserted their own intention of forsaking Hinduism.

MEDICAL.—Dr. MacArthur not being able to open the hospital for lack of funds, went out touring with Miss Foster. The Station granted 100 rupees for medicines. From this amount over 1,000 persons received medicine and many thousands heard the Gospel message.

Since the first of April there have been treated in the dispensary, which was then opened, 1,877 new patients and 1,663 returning patients, a total of 3,540. This averages 590 per month, and quite double that number have heard the Gospel message which is given daily in the dispensary.

Thanks to the ladies of the Southwest Board, and especially the Ladies' Missionary Society of the Compton Avenue Presbyterian Church of St. Louis, who sent a special gift of $1,000 for equipment, patients will soon be taken into the hospital.

Miss Browne has made fifteen visits to villages. A crowd of 20 women can sit contentedly in a room just big enough for six.

WOMEN'S WORK.—Miss Browne says:

The four Bible women have done faithful service. This year the work was not stopped on account of plague. A long illness of Poonabai's made us appreciate anew the value of her beautiful life. Thirty new homes have been opened during the year, and altogether at least 100 are included in their lists. Four statements from the Bible Women's annual report are significant of the trend of things in India. First: "Men have begun to think that a woman is not like an animal, but that both men and women have the right to think about religion, and that both must give account to God." Again: "The women who have heard of Christ beg others who have not heard to listen." Third: "With some, pride of caste is gone, and belief in goblins, charms and sorcery is taking its flight." Fourth: "In some districts the women seem hungry for salvation. They begged us to come again and tell this same story."

Another scene of Miss Browne's varied activity is the Alice Home and Nursery.

Alice Home is a place where women who want to work are welcome. We work for ourselves, and we work for the babies in the nursery, and we work for the girls in the boarding school. Three are teachers; two are Bible women. These last two are only loaned and will be leaving this year. Fifteen began the year with us; 21 are finishing the year. One woman has been received into the communion of the church, and two are under the care of the Session, hoping to be received. Twelve are widows, four unmarried, and five deserted wives. Besides these, during the year five others came and stayed for a few months only. Two of these returned to Ayah's work; one was restored to her husband; one went to her brother, and one ran away rather than return to her husband.

RATNAGIRI STATION.

Early in December Miss Minor returned from furlough. The latter part of February Miss Jefferson left for a rest in America. Miss Gauthey was transferred to the Station temporarily. She toured in the districts, visited in the villages and helped in the schools. Miss Skilton's illness deprived the Station of her help for part of the time.

The Church.—Dr. Wiley writes:

The preaching on Sabbath has been by the missionary in charge, and in his absence by the elders in turn.

The Sabbath-school has a membership of 110. About 60 sat for the examination on the first six months' lessons given July 29 by the Indian Sunday-school Union. A teachers' class has been held regularly on Saturday morning.

The total Indian contributions for the year are $92. The church is paying $40 a year toward the support of an evangelist in the district.

The envelope system of contributing has been in operation for five years, and every member, even to the youngest child, is contributing on the weekly plan. The introduction of the system has resulted in a distinct advance in systematic giving and in the total contributions, but as yet no one has joined the "Tenth Legion."

Young Men's Christian Association.—The Bible, Church History and Missions have been systematically studied this year. The reading room in the town has been kept open most of the year. There has been a fair attendance of non-Christians, mostly students from the Government High School.

The Association has 24 active and 11 associate members. Of the associate members, 8 are Hindus and 3 are Mohammedans—all young men.

Young Women's Christian Association.—The Young Women's Christian Association has met as usual this year on Tuesday evenings. The members conduct the meetings in turn. The Society gave this year to the National Missionary Society about $2.50. There are 32 members.

Ananda Sadan (Happy Home).—Mrs. Wiley writes:

We are simply children in a home. Just after we wrote our report last year, a poor little baby girl of low caste was brought to us. The mother had died when the baby was only a few days old. The father was too poor to buy milk and a bottle for her, so he had fed her rice porridge with a shell picked up from the seashore. We took her in and did all we could, but after four months we laid her to rest.

A few days later, when we got up in the morning, a high-caste woman was sitting at our gate and in her arms was a most beautiful baby boy. One of our elder sisters was waiting when he was carried in to ask that she might care for him. She has taken care of four baby boys and just loves them all. We decided that since bottles were such a care and milk so hard to obtain, we would get a goat. We found a good one and she has given him good milk and nursed him just as she loves to nurse her own little ones. When Shantawan would cry, his mother goat would march around his cradle until some one would come to take him. When we went to church, the goat often followed us. Very often when Rhoda sat down with the baby on her knee, the goat would lie down at her side. Shantawan is now almost a year old and we all love him very much.

Widows' Home.—The widows are soon to have a new home in which there will be room and to spare. There will be a separate room for the sewing and Bible study, and each woman will have a corner to herself. Heretofore the lack of corners has been a means of developing many sharp corners in their dispositions.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Theodore Carter Memorial School.—The school year began in the old building, but now the new school has been opened. It is airy and convenient. The new American desks, provided through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carter, reached us from home. The report says:

As usual, the school year opened with a day of prayer. This was followed by a day of such gladness because of a number of children who came in. A very bright Mohammedan boy was the first to come. He soon took the lead in his class and was especially good in the Bible. Some weeks later two Mohammedan gentlemen called and we spoke of this boy as such an interesting child. He has not been in school since.

In the school this year there have been Protestants, Roman Catholics, Mohammedans and Hindus from the Barber, Oil and Mahar castes.

The kindergarten and the first three grades of the primary school are still in the old building, but the larger rooms only are used.

Twelve of the school-girls have been in Miss Jefferson's class for Bible women and have taken the second year's examination.

The enrollment is as follows:

Primary School.....	42
Middle School.....	27
High School.....	7
Total.....	76

Bazar School.—Miss Skilton writes:

I can give only a few glimpses of the school life. Christmas in the Girls' School was a very happy time. There were about 80 on the Christmas program, and in the weeks of practice beforehand their interest and enthusiasm were unbounded. I shall never forget the inspiration of their singing nor how they entered into the spirit of "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing."

Despite the small quarters, the Christians were well represented at the Christmas exercises. The masters and their families, the boys from the Mission School and the missionaries were present. The children did their very best in singing, reciting and in their games. Afterwards they came forward for their gifts and for the native sweets and chumuri, which is like puffed rice at home.

The women's sewing class that meets in the school on Saturday was not held very regularly, but it was a joy to see how the women remembered the verses learned and how they enjoyed singing the hymns.

Bible Study.—Until Miss Jefferson left on furlough, she conducted a class for Bible study through the second year of the Bible woman's course. The class was examined by Dr. Wiley. The 14 members passed with good marks, three having 100%.

Miss Minor writes:

Our bungalow verandas certainly deserve a paragraph in the Annual Report, for they play an important part in the work of the Station. From 6.30 A.M. until 5 P.M. they are in use by a varying company. The one who might be inclined to sleep late in the morning would be likely to be under observation by the seven boys, who come as soon as it is daylight to observe study hours. Some such sounds are heard as S-t-i-c-k, B-a-c-k. (One hopes there is no connection between these two.) Or the sounds of Bible study or arithmetic problems come floating through the window. A bell from the Mission compound calls them away to school. Their places are soon filled by the women who come to do their drawn-thread work for their handkerchief industry. There they sit until 11 o'clock. If the missionary is supposed to be out, the conversation gets animated at times, and other people sometimes stop a few minutes for a bit of friendly gossip.

When the women leave for their noon meal, the boys return, have their lunch there, and again the school work goes on, and the places alternate between boys and women until 5 at night.

But the veranda has other uses. Here requests are granted, such as, "Please give me some worm medicine, itch ointment or castor oil."

The school cupboard is here, and here school books, chalk and pencils are given out as needed.

Occasionally an offender gets some punishment in a quiet corner or a reproof is given.

The sewing man has his particular place to carry on his work, and one part is used as the family dining-room, where the inevitable meat safe has to have a place near by.

The morning hour on the veranda is helpful, where, as a Christian family, all the people on the compound meet for reading the Word, singing and prayer, and this is followed by the half-hour of Bible study, when two companies with Kondubai and Malanbai as teachers are taking up the first year of Bible woman's course. These women do not read, so must be taught. At a recent examination in the Book of Genesis, several women showed considerable knowledge of the book, and they are going on enthusiastically in Exodus.

A woman trying to learn to read comes to the veranda and spells out her words slowly. She is persistent and ambitious, and one day she will be heard reading fluently.

Night throws a veil over the people who find the veranda a cool place for sleeping. The missionaries enjoy it; and here and there a number of people, large and small, lie rolled up in separate packages. They sleep quietly for the most part, and at daybreak, like the Arabs, "fold their tents and silently steal away."

The new bungalow being built has wide verandas nearly all the way around it. What lines of work and what opportunities may open for the use of these the future will make clear. We emphasize, What could we do without the veranda!

EVANGELISTIC.—Touring.—In the cold season a short evangelistic tour was made in the villages about Pali. The missionary writes:

In January I had an opportunity to see the influence of the Bazar School in the villages. In one place we were given a hearty welcome. We had scarcely entered the open ground under the booth before the doors, when stools and blankets were placed for us, and we were asked to sit. The people, relatives of some of the school children, seemed genuinely glad to see us and listened very attentively to the hymns and the message. This was in great contrast with the cold reception we were given in some places, so that we could not help but realize anew the importance of the school in opening hearts and homes.

In one village the Bible woman and I were driven from every place where we tried to speak, and the tracts were torn in pieces, but more often there are listeners and some are friendly. One's spirit gets plenty of ups and downs, and if the "ups" are plenty in one day, there is great rejoicing.

Kondubai has visited regularly among the women, accompanying me to Ambe Seta, Paratavanc and various parts of the town with the Gospel message. Much visiting has been done among the Mahar (out-caste) people of Ambe Seta and Paratavanc. Some of the people listen well, are interested in the Gospel stories and believe in prayer, while others are indifferent. One man has apparently gone over to the enemy, for he was recently made a "holy man," has had long holy garments made and with his bag goes about begging. He owns that he has no peace of mind, and this is no doubt true for he knows well the true way.

The Gospel story has been told in homes of Mohammedans, Brahmans, and the various castes. The caste people of Ambe Seta are specially friendly, and one longs for more time and a less difficult route, that they might be visited oftener.

Out-stations.—Work has been carried on at Pali, Ambe Seta and Paratavanc. In Pali, because of an opposition school which was started, the work has been confined to the low-caste Mahars. There are 19 names on the roll, 17 of whom are Mahars and 2 are the children of the Christian master.

In Ambe Seta the school is remarkable in that the master has persuaded the caste people to send their children to this school in the Maharvada, which is also attended by Mahars. This work was carried on by Miss Jefferson and now shows no signs of decrease, for the caste children, numbering over 30, far outnumber the Mahars.

The Paratavanc schoolhouse has been removed from a low, bad-smelling locality into an airy place on the hill, and the university, as Miss Jefferson calls it, is flourishing. The children of the shoemaker caste have been persuaded to come to school with the Mahars, as they would no longer be defiled by going to the other building.

There have been no additions to the church as a direct result of the work carried on in these out-stations for the past six years. These years have been years of sowing mostly by the Indian Christians, preachers and teachers. The reaping will come in due time. The Indian Church is largely made up of those who in the past received Christian training in such out-station and other mission schools.

KODOLI STATION.

Station Personnel.—Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Tedford from December 9; Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Wilson, absent on sick-leave; Miss E. A. Foster to December 7; Miss S. G. Brown, Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Howard.

EVANGELISTIC.—Kodoli Church.—At the annual meeting a year ago increased giving was urged, and it was decided to have a special sermon on giving. The treasurer's report this year showed increased receipts in every fund, a very encouraging result. An instance may be cited to show the new spirit of giving.

At a Tuesday evening prayer meeting several of the teachers read translations they had made of tracts on the work of the Bible Society. It was an interesting presentation. Then some one suggested that a subscription be taken for the work. In a few minutes $1.11 was subscribed, practically all of which has since been paid and more added, too. This was in addition to what the missionaries promised to give. When it is noted that a man's daily wages are 6 cents, a carpenter's 12 to 16 cents, and the teachers in the school receive from $2.24 to $8 a month, the relative value of the subscription of $1.11 will be seen.

Sabbath-school.—The Sabbath-school has an average attendance of 150 to 160, sometimes there are over 190 present. The men's class is especially interesting, often 25 or 30 men are present. Add to this the young men and the teachers, and the attendance of men amounts to 45 or 50.

The church has a membership of about 300 (at the beginning of the year 294; now 309); there were this year 29 infants baptized. Compare this with the number of infants baptized in a church of the same size in America. The following figures are taken from a page selected at random in the Minutes of the General Assembly of 1911:

Church membership.....	367	Infants baptized.....	1
“ “	296	“ “	7
“ “	325	“ “	2
“ “	304	“ “	7

Evidently there is material for the future Sabbath-school and church.

The material condition of the Christians of Kodoli district may be judged from the following information recently collected. Three hundred and forty Christians own 61 acres of land, 29½ of that being fertile soil and 31½ pasture land. The 61 acres were acquired as follows: Four men purchased ten acres of fertile soil and three men 27 acres of pasture land; the remaining 24 acres were inherited from the government by 87 men.

In the town of Kodoli, where most of the members live, six and a half acres of land are divided among 49 persons. The Christians own 34 ordinary Indian houses and 24 shacks (booths or sheds). With the exception of some of the Mission agents and the missionaries' servants who live on Mission property, and with the exception of the 100 children in the dormitories, the whole number of adults and children, 607, live in the quarters indicated.

There are many discouraging features about the way in which the people live, but there is this encouraging fact, that all are beginning to think. An Indian preacher tells of meeting a religious teacher, or "holy man." He said to the preacher, "Why are you starting out to put your foot on my stomach?" (i.e., interfere with my making a living). "How am I doing that?" asked the preacher. "You, yourself, do not; but, on account of your preaching, people do not give me alms nor let me blow into their children's ears" (saying, "Sacrifice body, mind and wealth to the religious teacher"). "Formerly I was granted privileges and honor, but not now. My followers once rewarded, honored and served me, but now, on account of your preaching, my influence is gone. Not only so, but in order to make a living I have to follow and beseech the people. I am afraid that in a few days I shall have to cast aside all this sham." The preacher answered, "That will be very fine." "Oh," said the "holy man," "to you it is a matter of rejoicing, but to me of grief."

The pastor relates a conversation with a man who had placed his child on some thorny cactus and was dragging him about to show the people and to get all the offerings they made to this "holy" person. The man acknowledged that he was doing this for a living.

Work Among the Women.—

The four Bible women have been interested in their work and faithful in carrying it on according to their strength and ability.

Sumatibai and Balabai have visited mostly in the neighboring villages, sometimes going in the morning and returning in the evening. They have been to 20 villages near Kodoli, to most of them many times. Usually they have been well received, though occasionally they have met with opposition. In one town the people said the Christians were responsible for the plague that has appeared again, and so the women ran away into their houses and shut the doors against the bringers of pestilence.

The women's weekly prayer meeting has been kept up, the pastor's wife appointing the leaders.

At one of the meetings Balabai handed in a rupee which a former famine child had sent from her village for "God's work." Her mother had given it to her for a little jacket, but she preferred to give it to the Lord.

Local Option at Aitavide.—The question of local option came up in this town. The government official, a Brahman, when asked, admitted that he was between two fires—his own religion forbidding the use of liquor and the government wishing an increase of revenue. However, a meeting was held in the town to test the question; a large crowd gathered and the Christians brought the petition they had prepared. According to a suggestion made by the officer, the names of many of the most influential men of the place were added below those of the Christians. As a result, the saloon was prohibited from coming.

Itinerating.—In January, a month was spent by the missionaries in touring in the villages within ten miles of Kodoli. About two dozen villages were visited. Magic-lantern pictures were shown 28 times. The missionary reports:

In one village a man said, "Come three or four times a year and show us these pictures. You come only once and we forget." In another place a village officer, after hearing the contrast between the holy Christ and the wicked Krishna, said, "Yes, all you say is true; but we like our Krishna." "Men love the darkness rather than the light, for their works are evil." While walking to camp one day, a man joined the party. He said he was a believer in Christ. "Then why do you wear that necklace of wooden beads?" he was asked. "The necklace is a sign that you are a worshiper of Vithoba; so you are acting a lie." After some conversation, he said he intended to make a final visit to the god, when he would give the necklace to him as a votive offering. Later on, however, he took the necklace off of his own accord and brought it to the missionary. Some months later, when he came asking for baptism, he agreed to cut off the tuft of hair that is such a characteristic sign of Hinduism. He has known of Christian teaching for many years. He has not yet been baptized.

In one of the villages visited is a woman who for years has been the only Christian there. She has taught a school and has done faithful work. About two years ago the Hindu to whom she was married in childhood came to live with her. She began at once to teach him, and this year she has had the joy of seeing him baptized after publicly confessing his faith in Christ. He has not yet been received into full membership in the Church.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Station School.—The account of the school emphasizes the importance and responsibility of training the new generation. The children must be taught to read and write, and they must be taught the Bible from their childhood, if there is to be real progress in the Christian community.

An Interesting Sign of the Influence of Christianity.—According to Hinduism, there is great merit in pronouncing the name of a god; for that reason they name their children after the gods, so that they are continually acquiring merit. There was once a man, so they say, who hated the gods very much. So intense was his enmity to them that he would never mention any of their names. He called his children Wood, Stone and so forth, so he would never even unintentionally tionally use a god's name. He was very wicked in many respects. One day, while uttering an oath, he accidentally pronounced a god's name. At once all the sins he had ever committed were forgiven! No wonder, then, that children are named after the gods.

When you find two brothers, the elder named Maruti and the younger David, you have at once a little history of the change that has taken place in the parents' lives. With this thought in mind, a glance at the names in the A, B, C and the second-year classes of this session will prove both interesting and instructive. Here are some of them copied from the roll book: Grace, Mercy, Peace, Joy—names that surely reflect the desires of the heart; and Martha, Lazarus, Esther, Elisha, Paul, David, Ebenezer, Abraham, Jacob, Joseph—names that show the place the Bible is taking in the lives of the people.

Industrial Department.—The Sloyd School.—All the boys receive instruction in Sloyd work, four hours a week being given to each class.

The Boys' Dormitory.—The only hope for the children of the Mahars is to get them away from their home surroundings and to put them into Christian dormitories. The Mahar quarter corresponds in vice and filth to the slums of a large city. Accordingly, the boarding department of the school is very important.

There are 60 boys in the Boys' dormitory. That they may learn to be industrious and that they may not get the notion that because they have been to school they are too good to do ordinary work, they are given daily tasks in the life of the school, sweeping, drawing water, carrying wood, grinding grain, cutting weeds, washing clothes and so forth.

The Girls' Dormitory.—Eight girls remained in the dormitory during the summer vacation, part of the time nine. Early in June they began to gather in, and during the first week of the term—which began June 7—nearly all the old pupils returned. Two girls who had been out for some months came in later, and six new names have been added to the list, making the number an even 40.

The girls do the work of the house, under the direction of a matron, except bringing water and washing their clothes, and would do it all if water were near enough and plentiful enough.

Village Schools.—If the Station School, in addition to its work for the children of the Christian community, is to influence others, it must be fed by village and out-station schools.

The Mang School.—There are 60 names enrolled, but many festivals and playdays keep the children away, and when the weather is suitable for working in the fields, crowds of them have to go and lend a helping hand in weeding or gathering in the ripened crop. The highest attendance has been 47, the lowest 6. May the Saviour who loves the children make them His own!

MEDICAL.—The dispensary has been kept open, the work being carried on by an Indian assistant. Many times has the need of a resident physician been forced upon the attention of the missionaries. One of the missionaries has had to give a great deal of her time to helping those in pain and suffering, and on one occasion Dr. McArthur and Miss Foster had to be called from Kolhapur only to find that it was too late to save the life that hung in the balance. The average attendance at the dispensary the last few months has been 250 new and 140 old per month.

SANGLI STATION.

Missionary Force.—The missionary force of the Station during the year has consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Miss Gauthey, Miss Enright being absent on furlough, Mr. Wilson has had charge of the Industrial School, the Sabbath-school in the compound, the Sangli Wadi School, and the voluntary evangelistic work of the young men. Mrs. Wilson has had charge of the boys' sewing class, the woman's prayer meeting and the women's Bible classes. Miss Gauthey has had charge of the Mang Wada School, the woman's class in the Sabbath-school, a week-day children's class, and has engaged in evangelistic work in the town and villages.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The Town.—

The town work this year has not had as much attention as in past years. However, there have been some very unusual experiences and privileges which the missionaries report as follows: For more than two weeks every day we were allowed to visit a Mohammedan woman who is dying of consumption. She heard the Gospel gladly. She even tried to learn to say, "God be merciful to me a sinner." But alas, our visits were cut short when the husband went to make arrangements for another wife.

Going through the town these days one meets with such questions, "According to your religion, when is rain coming?" "Tell us, will there be any more rain this year?" "In your country do you ever have such times of dryness?" Everywhere this year one sees the people paying more attention to the worship of idols. This is in the hope of getting rain. A man sat down by the riverside for six days prophesying that rain would come. Another garu or holy man undertook to fast until rain came. The climax was reached in the early part of October, when the shepherd people took their idol Biruba in a great procession with drums and tom toms and placed him in another temple on the other side of the town in hopes he would make rain come. The Marathi people took Sangoba, their idol, and did the same. Women in this procession took water pots on their heads. These hundreds of men and women danced in time with the music of the drums. Just as the clouds were darkening these people passed our compounds, and soon when the shower came we heard their screams and yells. The people remained outside in the fields all through the shower. They had hopes of more showers.

An encouraging feature of the work in the town has been the voluntary evangelistic work done by about a dozen of the teachers, shop masters and others, assisted by some of the older school-boys. For a large part of the year they have gone out in groups of two to four after the church service on Sunday evening. There were four or five regular places of meeting. These were visited by each group in rotation and a service of half an hour or more held in each place.

The Villages.—Some of the villages around Sangli have been visited again this year. In this work the Bible woman and some others of the Christian women have assisted. Amongst the 21 villages in this vicinity, one has become extremely friendly. Where once the missionaries could not find any welcome, now every one seems glad to see them. This change has come to pass because of a Brahman teacher who was formerly a teacher under the Salvation Army at Satara. He has his school decorated with Christian mottoes. He teaches his boys brotherly love.

The Church.—Services have been continued as usual during the year.

Sabbath-schools.—Three Sabbath-schools are regularly held, one on the compound for the Boarding School boys and others, and two in connection with day-schools. In the compound Sabbath-school a special effort has been made this year to have every one own a Bible, bring it to the service and use it. The result has been an increased interest in the Bible. An infant class in this school has been started during the rainy season.

The Sabbath-school in the Mang Wada has been very good. The average attendance has been over 40. One morning the women's class was almost filled with men. The reason for it was that a feast was in progress. The women were cooking, so the men who had come from other villages came to visit the Sabbath-school.

Work for Women.—There have been Bible study classes for Christian women most of the year. Most of these young women were former pupils in our Girls' Boarding School in Kolhapur, and their intelligent answers show that they have not forgotten the good lessons they learned in school. Their clean lives in contrast to many of the heathen around is notable. There is also a great difference in their lives from those of the heathen—purer lives and real home life among them. The report states;

A month or so ago on the Mang Wada a woman came with a little baby about six months old. Its eyelids were badly swollen and puffed out like marbles. They were covered with a kind of paste. When asked what she had put on the baby's eyes, the woman said, "Ground ginger." No wonder the little mite was suffering so much. These things may seem strange to people in a civilized land, but they frequently happen in this country.

EDUCATIONAL.—Day-schools.—Mang Wada.—Though the school life in the Mang Wada has had many interruptions, yet the number on the roll has increased, and some of the children are doing good work. Some of the little ones who have started to come this year are learning to attend regularly. These are learning the hymns and Bible verses faster than they learn the alphabet. Some of the older boys and girls come very irregularly owing to the hard times. They go to the quarry to work or to beg in the town.

Sangli Wadi School.—This school has had a prosperous year. The enrollment at the close is 31. A government resolution to the effect that all children between certain ages must attend school or pay a fine has greatly stimulated the attendance. The school is the centre of intellectual and spiritual life for the low-caste community in which it is planted. It is greatly in need of a new building. The present one is quite inadequate. Two boys from this school have just been admitted into the Boarding School.

The Industrial School.—The number of boys in the Industrial School at the close of the year is as follows:

Sixth Standard.....	6
Fifth Standard.....	5
Fourth Standard.....	3
Total High School.....	14
Third Standard.....	7
Second Standard.....	19
First Standard.....	19
Total Middle School.....	45
Total Anglo-Vernacular.....	59
Vernacular—Mar. 3 stand.....	5
Total.....	64

Classified by trades they are as follows:

Carpentry.....	35
Masonry.....	6
Sewing.....	16
Brass work.....	3
Others.....	4
Total.....	64

Some time since, by the kindness of a friend from Kodoli, the missionaries received a list of former students of Sangli School who now live in the vicinity of Kodoli. The present employment of each was given. The list numbered 63. Of these 15 were not found in our records, or had left school previous to 1902, when the industrial classes were opened. This leaves 48. Of these, 3 were in school two years or less after 1902. Of the remaining 45, 11 are now following their trades; 7 have taken up farming; 22 have become day-laborers. The 5 remaining include one farmer, 2 laborers, 1 cartman and 1 member of a players' company. Of the 11 who are following their trades, 3 are carpenters, 4 are tailors, 3 are masons, and 1 is a brass worker.

The need of instruction in agriculture is quite evident. Probably the seven boys who have taken up farming never had any intention of following the trades they pursued at school. If a course of instruction in agriculture had been available, it would have been of great benefit to them and would probably have resulted in a number of those who are now day-laborers becoming farmers.

MIRAJ STATION.

Personnel of the Station.—Dr. and Mrs. Graham, Miss Patterson, Miss Thompson and Dr. Vail have continued in the work of the Station during the year. On March 19 Dr. and Mrs. Wanless were welcomed back.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Church.—Regular church services have been held in the Hospital Dispensary, as usual, and with but few exceptions were conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Anandrao Padgholmal. The attendance at the Sunday-school service has been good. The Christian community numbers 92, of which 49 are church members, baptized children 42, and 1 adult. The financial year closed without debt.

The pastor superintends the church Sunday-school, which has an average attendance of 40. Many friends of the hospital patients, attracted by the children's singing, find their way into this school. Dr. Graham has charge of four Sunday-schools, two in different parts of Miraj town, one at the Leper Asylum and one at the out-station Vita. The average attendance of scholars in these schools is 235, and with the exception of a few Christians (at the Leper Asylum) are mostly Hindus. The hospital Sunday-school is conducted by Dr. Wanless. An average attendance of 90 more than fills the men's surgical ward, where the opening and closing exercises are held. Regular classes are taught in the different wards by missionaries, nurses and medical students.

Work Among Women.—Work among the Christian women of the Station has been conducted by Mrs. Graham. She has also superintended the Biblical instruction of the women at the Leper Asylum.

WOMEN'S WORK.—The Dorcas Society.—The Dorcas Society organized by Mrs. Richardson meets monthly. The women make garments for the Christian community, charging only the cost of material and giving their work free to those who are too busy to sew for themselves.

Nursing.—The spiritual value of the work of nursing is illustrated in the following incident:

A few weeks ago Miss Thompson, with two of the pupil nurses, visited a village. At first they seemed to be unknown, but after a short time a young woman came and threw her arms around one of the nurses, giving her a real Indian greeting. The crowd of women standing by inquired, "Who are they?" The young woman, with beaming face and flashing eyes, quickly explained that they were from the Padre Doctor Sahib's Hospital. She then related to all present the wonderful cure of her father, and gave a touching testimony to the kindness she had received from this particular nurse. The young woman had been with her father in the hospital during the time of his operation some months ago. He is now quite well and able to work. "He had received a new life," as she expressed it. This gave a text to speak to them of Him who had come to give eternal life to all.

Seven young women have entered the nurses' class during the year. One, a former patient, is the little Sundra of the "Bluestocking in India."

EDUCATIONAL.—Dr. Graham has charge of five schools in the Miraj field. Three of them are in the town of Miraj, one in the Leper Asylum, and the other is at Vita, an out-station. That at Vita is the largest. It has an enrollment of 52 and an average attendance of 28. The school in the ward of Miraj, assigned to the Mahars, has an enrollment of 24, with an average attendance of 17. The Mang Wada school has an enrollment of 21, with an average attendance of 10. The school for caste boys has an enrollment of 43, with an average attendance of 15. In the Leper Asylum school there are eight pupils. All of these schools are of the primary grade, although a good many pupils in them have gone considerably beyond the course of study prescribed for primary schools.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Vail carried on the work of the hospital single-handed until the return from furlough of Dr. Wanless in March. The two physicians, by dividing the work, find the professional burdens lightened. Both have been able to answer calls to outside stations. The Indian helpers have on the whole done useful and satisfactory work. The record is the largest in the number of in-patients treated in a single year since the hospital was established. There were 1,668 admissions to the hospital and 9,757 new outdoor patients in the dispensary. The total outdoor attendance was 23,231. Including the two branch dispensaries, there were 15,282 new patients treated, making a grand total of 17,039 outdoor and indoor patients. The total attendance in the hospital and three dispensaries was 38,572. Surgical operations numbered 2,588 in the hospital and dispensary at Miraj; 295 operations were performed at the two out-stations, making a total of 2,883 operations.

Medical School.—Thirteen men have just graduated from the Medical School, after a four years' course of study. All but one of them were Christians. Five of these have for the present been retained in the hospital; one was sent to Vengurle, one to Vita to replace our senior assistant, Dr. J. S. Powar, who recently resigned. Two reverted to their own mission, the United Presbyterian Mission in the Punjab, two to the Basil Mission in Malabar, and one is employed by the Church Missionary Society Mission at Quetta.

Out-station Dispensaries.—The out-station dispensaries at Vita and Ashta are making satisfactory progress. On a recent visit to Vita Dr. Wanless had a large audience of patients and other friends to preach to. Hitherto it has been difficult to get the people together in numbers large enough for a preaching service. At Ashta it is reported that some 40 families sold their family idols.

FINANCIAL.—Each patient who is able pays something, all of which they understand goes directly into the work. No fees are taken from hopeless cases, and the poorest patient receives just as much attention and just as good treatment as the richest. The people have been very grateful and ready to pay what they can, shown by the fact that out of 21,600 rupees expenses, the Board was called upon to pay 4,900 rupees only. Quite a number of Parsees have been accommodated in the hospital this year. They are usually well-to-do, and pay for treatment. With more accommodation for this class and for high-class Hindus, the hospital could be made entirely self-supporting, exclusive of missionaries' salaries.

NEW BUILDINGS.—The Washington Home for Nurses, the gift of Presbyterian ladies of Washington City Presbyterian Society, through the Philadelphia Board, is now in course of erection; also a cottage containing a suite of rooms for European patients is nearing completion. A much-needed ward for septic cases will shortly be added to the main hospital, the funds being raised in India from grateful patients and their friends.

LEPER ASYLUM.—Dr. and Mrs. Graham have been in charge of the Miraj Leper Asylum, an institution carried on by our Mission for the benefit of this unfortunate class of people, but supported with funds from the Mission to Lepers in India and the East. The average number of inmates for the year was 49. There are only three Christians among them, yet as a general thing, they all join in reverently respecting the Lord's Prayer with which their regular Sunday service closes. A number of them read; they have daily prayers, Sunday-school and divine service. The high-school man is teaching others to read. At Christmas time they prepared a drama of the life of Joseph and put it on the stage. It was well done and appreciated by a large audience, the most of whom were not lepers.

ISLAMPUR.—Since the death of Miss Wilder in April last, the work at Islampur has been in charge of Dr. and Mrs. Graham. Islampur is 39 miles from Miraj, 29 by rail to Takari, a station on the Madras & Southern Maratha Railway, and then 10 miles across country by tonga (a two-wheeled conveyance drawn by ponies). We have made monthly visits to Islampur, sometimes remaining for two or three days only, and again staying for a longer period, at one time for a full fortnight.

There are two schools at Islampur, one in the town itself, the other at an out-station Kapuskhed. The Mission has made arrangements for the permanent occupation of Islampur as a mission station.

VENGURLE STATION.

Missionaries.—Rev. and Mrs. William Hamilton Hannum, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Harold Hull Goheen and Miss Mathilde Catherina Rebentisch.

The work at Vengurle has been marked by increased receptivity on the part of the people. The report speaks of this as follows:

The Brahman, proud and cold, and nearly as hard to convince as ever, has changed his attitude toward what he might call the depressed classes if he talks English, or the untouchables if he speaks only the vernacular, with no more love in his heart, but more toleration. And so, as the tide pushes on, he comes to hate with less aggressiveness the missionary and his message. The man with the Gospel and the hymn-book may give his message uninterrupted, and the Brahman may or may not listen, as the mood strikes him. The Brahman's attitude affects the lower classes, and when they see that he does not break up the preaching, as he used to do, they listen with less and less contempt, and so on down to the lowest out-caste. Whether the present toleration means more to the spread of the Kingdom of God in Vengurle in the immediate future or not, we cannot say, but it seems almost as hard for a man to renounce all for the Master as it ever was. Again and again one and another have been about to take a stand for Christ and have changed when the time came. Did our faith fail for them, or were they not ready? We know not.

In order to reach the more influential class of people, Mr. Hannum arranged for special meetings in Vengurle from the 9th to the 13th of November, 1910, in which Rev. Messrs. H. G. Bissell, of Ahmadnagar, and Sivaramaji Masoji, of Kolhapur, were the chief speakers. These are both Spirit-filled men, and their message was delivered to appreciative hearers.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Church.—The church reports at the close of the year 35 communicant members, and a total enrollment of 77. Mr. Hannum has had charge of the services. It is hoped that before long a native pastor may be secured.

Sunday-schools.—The main Sunday-school of the church has met each Sunday morning in the Bhatavadi schoolhouse. In most of the homes of the Christian community there are little babies, and this makes it difficult for the mothers to get to Sunday-school by 8.30 in the morning, but some have been faithful among the women notwithstanding, and the men have been quite regular. The average attendance for the year has been 30.

Women's Classes.—Mrs. Goheen has taught a class of five women the first part of the year in Acts, and another class of four women in the second year's Bible course in the latter part of the year. At the close of the time each class was examined, and the women with one exception passed with excellent grades.

Street Preaching.—Mr. Hannum and the preachers and sometimes one or more school-teachers have preached in every neighborhood in Vengurle and in most of the near villages. They have had many interesting debates with shop-keepers and others on religious matters. The preachers have reached thousands of people in our district this year. A number of times men have asked why the preachers did not come oftener, and Tukaramaji believes this to show that the message is becoming sweeter and more acceptable to them.

Village Touring.—The first tour of the year was made in November, to the east, with headquarters at Kudal, a place both geographically and socially accessible. Mr. and Mrs. Hannum and little Florence, the two preachers and the cook made up the party. About 20 villages and hamlets were visited. Mr. Hannum also preached in the great bazar, when between 4,000 and 5,000 people were present, buying and selling the various products of field, loom, potter's wheel and hammer.

The second tour in December was to the southeast and east through the native state of Savantavadi into Goa. The great Roman Catholic pilgrimage held once in 20 years, on the exposition of the body of Saint Francis Xavier in the great church of Bom Jesu, in the old city of Goa, was in progress, and the touring party went there and observed the crowds at their height. The pretense and pomp of it all were in sad contrast to the spirit that is known to have animated Saint Francis in his earlier years.

In these and other tours hundreds of tracts were distributed, and the colporteur reports over 500 portions of Scripture sold during the six months of the year he was on duty.

MEDICAL WORK.—The Medical Staff consists of one missionary physician in charge, one missionary superintendent of nurses, two hospital assistants, two compounders, two nurses; one each, ward-boy, watchman, cook, gardener, sweeper (who became a Christian) and washerman.

The writer of the report in analyzing the figures says:

The question naturally arises, why so much greater increase in the cost of operation than in the increase of the work. There are several explanations. One of them is largely contained in the word plague. Drugs were purchased in advance and a large staff of workers maintained, while for nearly three months the town of Vengurle was abandoned on account of the dread scourge. As has been stated in previous reports, our hospital and dispensary draw patients principally from the surrounding villages. When the central bazar town, such as Vengurle is, is vacated and the bazar virtually closed, people from outside cease to come, and are justly afraid to come to the town. Paradoxical though it may seem, medical work greatly lags during an epidemic of plague. During the previous year there was no plague.

The diseases most prevalent in this district, it must be kept in mind, are principally of a medical nature. Surgical conditions, such as cataract, stone, guinea-worm and elephantiasis, so prevalent in other parts of our own Mission and in other parts of India, are exceedingly rare here. Of the medical diseases, tuberculosis is becoming more and more prominent as the "Captain of the Men of Death." This is accounted for largely by the vast numbers of men who, leaving their homes and free life in the open air, go to Bombay and Karachi to work in mills in offices. There a dusty and smoky atmosphere, crowded quarters, drunkenness and debauch unite to undermine health. As the Konkan does not, I will not say cannot, support its population by its agricultural produce, these men must needs go elsewhere to earn a livelihood for themselves and for their families, but many of them pay the heavy price indicated above, and the common people remain poor as the result. To do our little part to counteract the spread of tuberculosis, a small tract on this subject has been prepared and is given free to every suspected case. Only a thorough solution of agricultural and industrial problems in such districts as ours will ever counteract some of the evils mentioned above. Those problems face us as Christian missionaries and as a Christian Church of the twentieth century. The needs and the opportunities are unique. Education is necessary, but mere addition, subtraction and the shorter catechism are not sufficient. We ourselves should indeed deserve to lose even that which we have, the superior knowledge with all its benefits, if we fail to use it in advancing the kingdom of God by passing on what we have received.

There was a young Vani (or grocer) who came from a distant village and insisted upon a private room for himself, not that he could well afford it, but to be as little "contaminated" as possible by his stay with us! A sullen fellow he was, and evidently suspicious of our supposed evil intentions, but days passed and he began to come to the ward services, and so the sullenness and suspicion slowly began to disappear from his face and manners. After a month or so, one of our Christian women, a ward patient, suddenly needed a private room because of a complication that had developed. Imagine, then, the grateful surprise to us when this young man came forward voluntarily, and offered his room for her, saying, that he would gladly stay in the ward. Time passed and the day came when, just before leaving for home, he confessed privately his belief in the Lord Jesus. Only family ties, especially love for his mother, prevented him from becoming a professing Christian. There were gospels in his pockets as he went away. He has since revisited the hospital more than once, and, like Andrew, once brought his brother to see and to be treated.

SCHOOLS.—Four primary schools have been maintained, as well as the first two Anglo-vernacular standards opened in connection with the Bhatavadi School, throughout the year. Mr. Hannum has had charge of three of these schools as well as of our out-station, Anasur. A school that had been taken under our care in the preceding year was given up on account of the prejudice of the people against the required Christian teaching, though we believe that if we had been able to place there a Christian teacher of discretion and ability, we could still have kept the school and given the Christian instruction.

Anasur.—The school in the village of Anasur began the year with 36 children on the roll. There were 28 new children added during the year. At the annual examination 33 children were examined by Mr. Hannum in the religious subjects and then by the government educational inspector in the secular subjects, and of these 27 passed into higher grades.

Parabhavada School.—At the beginning of the year there were 43 children on the roll, and 21 new names were added. Of these 40 appeared for the religious and secular examinations and 20 passed.

Bhatavadi School.—There are 91 children enrolled now; 65 appeared for examination in religious and secular subjects and 48 passed into higher standards.

JAPAN MISSION.

YOKOHAMA: on Yedo Bay, 20 miles below Tokyo; Mission begun 1859.

TOKYO: the capital of Japan, on the island of Hondo, at head of Bay of Yedo; Station occupied 1869. Missionaries—Rev. David Thompson, D.D., and Mrs. Thompson, Rev. William Imbrie, D.D., and Mrs. Imbrie, Mrs. J. M. McCauley, Rev. H. M. Landis and Mrs. Landis, Rev. Theodore M. MacNair and Mrs. MacNair, Mr. J. C. Ballagh and Mrs. Ballagh, Rev. A. K. Reischauer and Mrs. Reischauer, Miss Annie B. West, Miss Elizabeth T. Milliken, Miss Lida S. Halsey, Miss Matilda H. London, Miss I. M. Ward and Miss Mary D. McDonald.

HOKKAIDO: Sapporo—Sapporo is the capital of the Hokkaido (Yezzo), 550 miles north of Tokyo; Station occupied 1887. Missionaries—Miss S. C. Smith, Miss Alice M. Monk, Rev. Weston T. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, and Miss Elizabeth M. Evans. Otaru: 18 miles northwest of Sapporo—Miss C. H. Rose. Asahigawa: about 100 miles northeast of Sapporo—Rev. George P. Pierson and Mrs. Pierson.

KANAZAWA: on the west coast of the main island, about 300 miles by rail northwest of Tokyo; Station occupied 1879. Missionaries—Rev. J. G. Dunlop and Mrs. Dunlop, Miss K. Anna Gibbons, Miss Janet M. Johnston, and Miss L. B. Monday.

OSAKA: a seaport on the main island, about 350 miles west of Tokyo; Station occupied 1881. Missionaries—Rev. A. D. Hail, D.D., and Mrs. Hail, Rev. G. W. Van Horn and Mrs. Van Horn, Rev. G. W. Fulton, D.D., and Mrs. Fulton, Miss Agnes E. Morgan, Miss Mary Ransom, Miss Sallie Alexander, and Miss Evelyn Maguet.

HIROSHIMA-KURE: on the main island, on northern coast of the Inland Sea, about 550 miles southwest of Tokyo; Station occupied 1887. Missionaries—Rev. Harvey Brokaw and Mrs. Brokaw, Miss Ann E. Garvin, Rev. W. F. Hereford and Mrs. Hereford.

KYOTO: 300 miles west of Tokyo on Lake Biwako; Station occupied 1890. Missionaries—Rev. R. P. Gorhold and Mrs. Gornold, and Miss F. E. Porter.

YAMAGUCHI: about 650 miles southwest of Tokyo; occupied 1891. Missionaries—Rev. J. B. Ayres and Mrs. Ayres, Miss Gertrude Bigelow, Miss Lillian A. Wells and Miss Florence Bigelow.

DAIREN, MANCHURIA (formerly DALNY): Missionaries—Rev. T. C. Winn and Mrs. Winn.

PORT ARTHUR, MANCHURIA: occupied 1907. Missionaries—Rev. A. V. Bryan and Mrs. Bryan.

KOREA: Work among Japanese; begun in 1907. Missionaries—Rev. F. S. Curtis and Mrs. Curtis, and Miss Ida R. Luther.

YAMADA: on island of Hondo near Gulf of Ise, 200 miles southwest of Tokyo. Missionaries—Rev. James E. Detweiler and Mrs. Detweiler, Miss Jessie Riker.

WAKAYAMA: on the east coast of Inland Sea, 270 miles southwest of Tokyo. Missionaries—Rev. J. B. Hail, D.D., and Mrs. Hail.

TANABE: out-post of Wakayama, on the southern coast of the province, 70 miles from Wakayama. Missionaries—Miss Julia Leavitt and Miss Elva Robertson.

TSU: on west coast of Gulf of Ise, about 250 miles southwest of Tokyo. Missionaries—Mrs. John E. Hail, Miss Mary B. Sherman, Rev. D. A. Murray and Mrs. Murray.

MATSUYAMA: on the west coast of the island of Shikoku, 50 miles southeast of Hiroshima. Missionaries—Rev. J. C. Worley and Mrs. Worley.

TRANSFERS: Rev. D. A. Murray, D.D., and Mrs. Murray, from Osaka to Tsu; Rev. W. F. Hereford and Mrs. Hereford, from Yamada to Hiroshimo-Kure.

DEATHS: Dr. J. C. Hepburn and the Rev. John E. Hail.

RESIGNATION: Miss Annie Hail.

FURLOUGHS DURING THE YEAR: Miss A. E. Garvin, Miss Mary B. Sherman, Miss Lila S. Halsey, Rev. F. S. Curtis and Mrs. Curtis, Rev. R. P. Gorbald and Mrs. Gorbald, Miss Ida R. Luther, and Rev. Theodore MacNair and Mrs. MacNair.

The former East and West Japan Missions have been very happily consolidated into one Mission during the past year. The union will not only facilitate administration both in the home offices and on the field, but is expected otherwise to increase vitality in all departments of the work.

The Mission has received as recruits the Rev. J. E. Detweiler and Mrs. Detweiler in October, 1910, and three young women—the Misses McDonald, Monday and Evans—a year later. On the other hand, it has been solemnized by the removal of some of its oldest and best. Miss Youngman, in Japan from 1873, founder of a number of thriving institutions of the Mission, was called from earthly service in September, 1910. A year later Dr. J. C. Hepburn was called home. Of him one of the missionaries writes: "Dr. Hepburn, too, has gone on to higher service, but for him we do not mourn. We regard his lifetime of 96 years, and his glorious missionary career, extending from 1840, and his final homegoing, as one grand triumph."

The most staggering loss was that of the Rev. John E. Hail, one of the most devoted, able and best loved workers in Japan, killed by a volcano eruption on Mt. Asama on August 15, 1911. The tragedy on Mount Asama cut off one of such magnificent manhood that at 38 he looked as if he were, like Dr. Hepburn himself, good for 60 years to come. A missionary writes:

MISS MILLIKEN'S SCHOOL—TOKYO, JOSHI GAKUIN.

For a week or two we went around half dazed, hardly able to believe that John Hail's powerful life had really been crushed out on that dreadful morning on the volcano, and feeling that we could never again look on the red old mountain except as a grim and gory murderer. The Rev. J. E. Detweiler, terribly burnt and bruised in the same eruption, is only slowly recovering from his injuries.

Missions in Japan are feeling a strong impact from the Edinburgh World Missionary Conference of 1910. On the evangelistic side the force communicated has attained corporeity in a strong Committee on Distribution of Forces, of which a member of our Mission, Dr. G. W. Fulton, has the distinction of being chairman. This central committee divided the country into twelve districts and planned district conferences for a general stock-taking on condition of field, present forces, and respective responsibility. In some districts actual delimitation by towns or counties has been possible, and in all there has been at least a fuller and clearer comprehension of the problem, the means at hand and the means further needed for its solving, and the machinery has been provided for a more perfect comity and coöperation in the future among the different missionary bodies.

On the educational side the Edinburgh spirit is manifest in the proposal for denominational coöperation in a Christian University and in a higher grade of Bible Training School work. These plans are still in their incipency. The "man for the hour" and the material means are entirely lacking, and the movements are yet only missionary, the Japanese Church, with the exception of a few leaders, showing thus far little or no interest. This, however, is no condemnation of these high educational schemes. The Church in Japan is experiencing high seas and a stormy sky, and in the battle with the elements has little leisure for problems of a future day of better sailing weather.

This reaction against Christian work in Japan, of which we began to hear about three years ago, has been felt in varying degrees of intensity in different sections during the past year. It is strongest in those sections which contributed members of the Anarchist band of twenty-six who were tried, and half of whom paid with their own lives, for a plot against the life of the emperor. In the difficulties which they are opposing to the work of the church and missions the Japanese authorities are displaying a fit of "nerves" like that which afflicted the Russian Baltic fleet when it fired on innocent British fishermen in the North Sea. They are firing on the wrong parties.

On this subject Dr. A. D. Hail writes:

The conditions are difficult of description. It is a change which can be felt rather than fully described. At times and in certain neighborhoods it has assumed the form of overt antagonism, and in other places an atmosphere of aloofness, most apparent in educational and military circles and in the non-progressive constituency of the old faiths. One compensative result is the quickening of a spirit of courage upon the part of Christian leaders and of a very intelligent and independent class in other circles.

Sooner or later the question of the true seat and source of holiness must be met squarely in Japan and the nation, high and low, like Isaiah in the year that King Uzziah died, must see the Lord high and lifted up and the seraphim crying, "Holy, holy, holy is Jehovah of hosts; the whole earth is full of His glory." Instead of this soul-humbling but life-giving doctrine, there is systematically propagated in Japan—in schools and army and navy and among the common people—a legend of a sacrosanct emperor and another of a transcendently valorous and virtuous nation as far above the common run of western nations as the emperor is above the common run of kings and presidents. Professor B. H. Chamberlain, writing on this subject lately, quoted a Japanese official as saying, "We believe in it, although we know that it is not true." That is, this fiction so pleasing to national vanity and already half accepted in the West, though not believed by Japanese officials and educators, is believed in by them as "a means of uniting all the scattered elements of national feeling into one focus" and carrying out national aims. But nothing lasting was ever builded on such a foundation, and Japan must become willing to take her chances with Truth, even "on the scaffold"—and learn that,

"behind the dim unknown, Standeth God within the shadow, keeping watch above His own."

The Church in Japan has wisely ignored questions of this kind up to the present, but official aggression—insistence on Shinto worship in all schools, and even by Christian pupils—is causing a change of attitude. The Synod of the Church of Christ in Japan this year put itself on record as protesting against the action of the Educational Department in ordering ceremonies closely analogous to religious worship, such action being an infringement of the religious freedom guaranteed in the Constitution.

The reports will show that suspicions and obstructions, though they have saddened and embarrassed our workers, have if anything only increased their activities, and the year has not been by any means a barren one. The Church of Christ also, while reporting many of its congregations having a hard struggle to maintain independence and some of them actually slipping back into partial dependence on the Missions, shows a substantial increase of membership this year and considerably increased givings over the previous year. The total membership of the Church of Christ was reported as 21,177, an increase of 1,339; and the total contributions 107,399 yen, an increase of 20,313 yen. The number of entirely self-supporting congregations is now 64, assisted churches 125, and about an equal number of unorganized groups of believers.

As to our Mission's share in this work, the extracts from Station reports will speak for themselves.

TOKYO.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The general evangelistic work of the Tokyo Station includes work in the city of Tokyo and in Chiba and Tochigi prefectures. Eight ministers or evangelists are engaged and one evangelist at large.

Dr. Imbrie makes also the following statement:

Last year the population of Tokyo was increased by 50,000 from other parts of Japan. These new residents afford peculiar opportunities for endeavor, for it is the common experience that those who have broken their old connections constitute a class more open-minded than others. The electric car system is filling the suburbs with new communities, and it is recognized by all that these communities are the most promising centres for Christian work.

Tokyo is fast becoming a manufacturing city. Across the river, in the eastern part of the city, factories are multiplying, with crowds of workmen, and in that whole district practically no Christian work is done by any church or any Mission.

Tokyo Presbytery at its spring meeting adopted a resolution urging the Mission to extend its evangelistic work in Tokyo and the vicinity with due energy.

Dr. Thompson, the veteran of the Mission, after his half century in Japan, still takes an active part in the work at two preaching stations in the city and one in the country, writes tracts, translates from the Japanese religious press an article every month for the Japan Evangelist, is an active member of the Kozensha, a society organized by the late Miss Youngman to care for lepers, visits and preaches to the lepers in Meguro Hospital, the first established by missionaries, and also in the government hospital for the same unfortunate class, more recently established. Dr. Thompson writes:

During the greater part of the year, when weather permits, I, with Japanese preachers and helpers, conduct open-air services in Ueno Park, near at hand, where a convenient site has long been granted. Audiences range from a dozen to 250 or 300, and are uniformly friendly and attentive.

Work in Formosa is also carried on by the Tokyo Station, under a special committee of coöperation. The work was initiated with funds contributed by the late Mr. John H. Converse. The extensive operations planned have of necessity been postponed since Mr. Converse's death; only the great sugar-exporting port of Takao, in the south of the island, is being worked. The evangelist visits a number of other points. The membership at Takao is 36. It is hoped that the means will be forthcoming for a more extensive work in Formosa.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The Meiji Gakuin Theological Department.—There have been 25 students in the Theological Department, 14 taking the regular, and 11 the special course. There are also in the Higher Department of the Meiji Gakuin 17 students in preparation for the ministry. The students do practical work in connection with the churches and Missions, and most of them also have summer vacation work.

Dr. Imbrie writes:

In the month of June, after the students in the Theological Department had left Tokyo for their summer work, a summer school was held for 8 days. There were present from a distance 22, and these together with those in Tokyo and the vicinity made an attendance of from 35 to 40. Among the subjects were the following: The Virgin Birth of Christ, the Ascended Christ, the Ethics of Christianity as compared with those dominant in Japan, the Constitutional History of the Church of Christ in Japan, Christianity and Socialism, the Life of Theodore Cuyler, Modernism in the Roman Catholic Church, the Higher Criticism of the New Testament. In the afternoons, conferences were held on subjects related to pastoral work—the Work of the Pastor, Experiences in Conversion, the Pastor and His Health, the Pastor and His Reading, Methods in Evangelism.

It was pathetic to hear so many say that they had never before had the same sense of fellowship.

The Meiji Gakuin Academic Department.—The school mourns the death of Dr. M. N. Wyckoff, representative of the Reformed Mission in the faculty. At commencement in April, 1911, there were 60 graduates from the Middle School course and 3 from the higher course. The school is enjoying its new Recitation Hall, "one of the finest and most convenient school buildings in all Japan." On the other hand, a temporary set-back has been experienced in the loss by fire of Hepburn Hall and Harris Hall, on the very day on which Dr. Hepburn died.

Dr. Imbrie writes:

Of the 60 graduates from the Middle School course only 4 remain with us. Many, of course, do not pursue their studies further; and a number have entered the Higher School, Higher Commercial School, or other government institutions, availing themselves of the new privilege recently granted to "recognized" private schools under which graduates specially recommended by their faculties are allowed to enter the higher government institutions without examination—a privilege hitherto granted to government schools only.

The Joshi Gakuin.—The Misses Milliken, Halsey, London and Ward and a staff of 20 Japanese teachers, some, however, employed for but a few hours a week, have continued the work of Joshi Gakuin during the year. The missionary ladies also assist in the work of the city churches, and Miss Milliken especially does an extensive and valuable work in visiting the homes of Joshi Gakuin pupils. The number of girls in attendance is 247. Of these 44 are in the Higher and 203 in the Lower Department. At the Commencement in April, Count Okuma was present and made an address. There were 13 graduates from the Higher and 63 from the Lower Department. The girls come from all parts of Japan and from almost every class of society. About one-third come from Christian families, and about the same number are evidently friendly to Christianity. The rest are either earnest Buddhists or quite indifferent to religion. There are 84 church members, 9 of whom were baptized during the year. Twenty-six teach and help in the music in 16 Sunday-schools in the city. During the year Miss Milliken made more than 250 calls. She has also formed a little club, composed of the friends she has made in this way, who meet at the school once a month for prayer, addresses by ministers and Christian ladies of note (including this year, Mrs. O'Brien, wife of Ambassador O'Brien), tea, music, and conversation. The attendance has increased from 20 to more than 50.

The Bible Training School.—The school has continued its good work now for 22 years. It is under the care of Mrs. MacNair and Miss West. In all 82 women have graduated or have remained till within a few months of graduation; and 8 wives of pastors have come for special training for a year or less. Besides these 90, the chief fruit of the work of the school, 20 or more others were students for one or two years, and some of these are now useful women in the church and in private life. Of the first graduate, Mrs. Kosugi, Miss West writes:

After 21 years of service, and 60 years of age, she is still indefatigable in her work; a woman of rare common sense, tact and spirituality, whose chief desire is to lead others to Jesus Christ. For more than ten years she has spent one day every week at the Red Cross Hospital, where she is beloved by both nurses and patients. She has comforted many at the entrance to the Valley of Shadows, and followed many who have left the hospital with letters, visits and prayers. Her favorite hymn is "One More Day's Work for Jesus." At the school she is called our Bible woman at large.

On Sunday afternoons Miss West goes to the Red Cross Hospital, as has been her custom for 17 years. The influence of the visits has extended beyond the wards of the hospital. On Thursday afternoons Miss West is "at home," and these receptions are often marked by experiences of interest. She relates one:

A friend had brought a Christian girl who is blind and her sister. The call had just begun when a young noblewoman, the daughter of the former feudal lord of the friend, came in. The young lady learned who the others were and was deeply interested in the blind girl and her sister. As they had all come for a Christian call, a hymn was proposed, and the young lady suggested that they sing Fanny Crosby's hymn, "Some Day the Silver Cord Will Break," whose chorus in English is,

"And I shall see Him face to face
And tell the story, Saved by Grace."

I noticed that the man was deeply affected and supposed that he was thinking what the words written by a blind woman must mean to the blind girl listening to them for the first time. But it was not so. When the young lady had gone he said, "I am deeply moved by to-day's meeting. In the old time I could not have come into the presence of the daughter of my feudal lord, or looked upon her beautiful face; but to-day I have seen her 'face to face,' and joined with her in singing hymns of praise to Christ. The love of Christ has made us both children of God. What will it be when Him I shall see face to face?"

Miss West, in Mrs. MacNair's absence, also has charge of the Shinagawa kindergarten, 55 pupils, in connection with which a monthly meeting for mothers is held. A young girl, now a helper in the kindergarten, was the first of five children from one family to enter the kindergarten; and through the influence of the institution the whole family has become Christian.

Day-schools.—The two primary schools in Tokyo, the one in Tsukiji and the other in Shiba, with a kindergarten also in Shiba, are in Mrs. McCauley's care. The total number of pupils in these three institutions is 413. Mrs. McCauley writes:

The 413 children represent about 400 families. Of those represented in the Shiba school only 10 are Christian, and of those in the Tsukiji only 2. To these non-Christian homes the children, who themselves are taught the daily Bible lesson, carry the weekly Sunday-school leaflet and the monthly temperance paper. Once a year a meeting for parents is held for which personal invitations are sent to all. Nine-tenths of the parents come to the meeting held in connection with the Shiba schools, but it has not been found possible to secure such an attendance in Tsukiji.

Mrs. McCauley has also worked for the Kozensha—the organization which carries on work among lepers—and has also continued in charge of the Florence Crittenden Rescue Home. For a longer or shorter time there have been during the year 23 young women in the Home. It is recognized by the government as an "approved charity," and as such has received a gift of 150 yen. The Meguro Home for Lepers has received a similar grant, but larger—700 yen—which will be used for the erection of a building.

HOKKAIDO.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—“The Hokkaido Station is an island as large as New York State,” writes Mrs. Pierson. It is nearly a quarter of the empire of Japan. Its population, however, is less than that of Tokyo, being only a little over 1,500,000. The Protestant population in the island is about 3,000. Presbyterian work began in 1884. The Presbytery reports 821 adult Christians, 4 self-supporting churches, 14 chapels, Presbyterian work in 34 places, in 8 of the 10 provinces of the island.

Mr. Johnson reports a gratifying condition in the out-stations under his care and the independent church in Sapporo growing steadily. He writes of personal work in the hospital for the poor in Sapporo as follows:

On the first day of the year we went to the hospital and made the acquaintance of the superintendent, from whom I received permission to hold services among the patients. The interest soon grew until the superintendent had one of the larger rooms cleaned up for the meetings.

Mr. Pierson writes:

The magnitude of our effort may be imagined geographically by translating the island in terms of the State of New York, with which it agrees in area and climate. I have then four men: one on the St. Lawrence, one in Rochester, one in Buffalo and one in Saratoga. Mr. Johnson has three: one in Albany, one in Orange County and one in New York City. Historically we are where New York State was in, say, the thirties, and morally I sometimes fear where the world was in the age of Abraham.

Our men work well: they stand up against a society busy by day in works of construction, and busy by night in works of destruction, whose consciences meanwhile are uneasy and seeking a way of peace.

Mrs. Pierson writes as follows of a condemned criminal's conversion:

Mr. Sakamoto, at Mr. Pierson's request, visited a remarkable criminal in the Hakodate prison, who was converted about six months ago solely by reading a copy of the New Testament. Since then he has been in close correspondence with Mr. Pierson, who baptized him in June, and his letters read almost like inspired and apostolic epistles. Now that he has been condemned to death he is allowed to correspond freely, and he no longer wears the penal red kimono, but has assumed his own dress. Mr. Sakamoto writes: “After a few moments N. stood before me, wearing a fine black silk outer garment with his crest. He has a round, full face, a strong constitution and large black eyes. He bent his head in reverence to me. I addressed him briefly on Matt. 10:28-31: ‘Fear not them that kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul,’ and exhorted him to endure to the end. After my prayer he was much moved, and he prayed, too, choking, with his face down on the table; but when he rose up from his prayer, his countenance seemed very cheerful. I think he will face death with peace, through our mighty and gracious Lord.”

Mr. Pierson made 36 country trips during the year, making a total of 67 visits at 46 different towns or villages. Mrs.

Pierson took part with him in many of these tours and labors. She took a leading part also in a signature-collecting campaign for a petition for the abolition of the System of Licensed Prostitution.

We collected 2,282 signatures in all. It was very hard work physically, and we could not have undertaken it or carried it through if it had not been for the daily prayer meeting in which the movement was born.

Mrs. Pierson gives a most graphic account of a North Hokkaido trip in winter:

Altogether we traveled 225 miles by sleigh in ten days and 200 miles by railway in three. We held 48 meetings in 22 places in 25 days, attended by 2,025 people, of whom 319 joined the Pocket Testament League, 143 partook of the Lord's Supper, and 17 were baptized.

We left Nayoro on February 6, our two sleighs jingling merrily along, ten feet of snow packed in the streets of that half-buried town, icicles 15 feet long dangling from the eaves. It was cold, you see, but not out of doors, in the sunshine, wrapped up in a sleigh, but in the houses, at meetings, in bed, and above all during that agonizing process of dressing and undressing with the mercury 30 below zero Fahr. and only a few red coals in a futile brazier to remind you that there really is such a thing as fire somewhere in this cold world.

At Mombetsu, on the Kitami coast, Mr. and Mrs. Pierson, with local Christians, held two night meetings in a floorless theatre-barn, the meetings continuing from 6 P.M. to midnight on each occasion, with three hours of prayer with the Christians during the day intervening. The preaching the first night and the early part of the second had to struggle against violent interruptions and almost incredible disorder, but in the end a quiet hearing was given and at least one soul came under conviction. At midnight a man waited on the missionaries at their hotel and told how he had prayed during the meeting for the forgiveness of his sins and believed they were truly forgiven; and six weeks later the same man wrote that he had received salvation through Jesus. "I am getting daily nearer to the Lord Jesus Christ."

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—There are only three Mission schools in Hokkaido, and two of them are ours—the Sapporo Girls' School, in Miss Smith's care, and the Otaru Girls' School, in charge of Miss Rose. The schools are close together geographically, Otaru being only 18 miles from Sapporo, but they have quite distinct characters, aims and constituencies.

Miss Smith writes:

Our school did not open so well this year as last, and not so well last as the year before. The falling off is in day-scholars, for which there is a very natural cause. After the Department of Education advised, two years ago, that less attention should be given to the higher education of girls and more to sewing, cooking and the like, not only the Buddhists, but the government itself opened special schools for teaching these branches. These schools are filled to overflowing, while the government high schools for girls as well as our own have fallen off. We have added a similar course, but have had few applications for it thus far.

Last year (1910-11) we entered 139 students. Between 30 and 40 of these were baptized Christians and nearly all of the remainder professed belief and desire, while 21 were added to the different churches during the year. We had 60 in the boarding hall, which is about the present number.

The school furnishes two teachers for the church Sunday-school and an organist and 11 teachers for the 3 Sunday-schools connected with the evangelistic work of Miss Monk and myself. In these Sunday-schools the average attendance is about 205 each Sunday.

In the Otaru Girls' School there are 45 pupils, 13 of them Christians, 11 having become Christians this year. A kindergarten is attached, with about 60 pupils. Miss Rose writes:

Our school is a sort of "Matrimonial Bureau," and we cannot supply the demand for wives. Hokkaido is full of young men and we are glad to educate Christian wives for them. We train our graduates in house-keeping and home-making, sewing, cooking and other useful arts for women.

KANAZAWA.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The general evangelistic work is carried on by Mr. Dunlop, one Janapese minister and three evangelists. The latter are stationed one each in the cities of Kanazawa, Toyama, and Takaoka, and the town of Komatsu, and three of them have regular work in other near-by towns as well. Mr. Dunlop writes:

Takaoka (34,000) continues a good field for sowing the Word. Our chapel, a rented one, is finely located.

In Komatsu (15,000), 20 miles west of Kanazawa, our sole activity is the teaching of a Bible class for Middle School boys once a week. It takes a half-day or more every week, but is well worth while. Attendance varies from 5 to 15, according to distractions, but sometimes we have the best sessions of the class when attendance is smallest, for then we invariably have the best students and the best boys in the school. I was delighted one day to find that among a dozen students we had not only the one whose standing was highest in the whole school and who has since been sent abroad on a scholarship given him by Count Okuma, but we had also the head boys of two other classes.

Mr. Dunlop publishes the Bible study paper, Yako, long conducted by Drs. Jones and Fulton in succession. He says:

Almost every week we receive messages of appreciation, with small contributions of money from readers in the country or even in distant places. I have just received an application for the paper from a country young men's society in an out-of-the-way corner of this prefecture; and the other day a letter of thanks with 18 sen in stamps came from a non-commissioned officer in a garrison city in distant Kyushu.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Hokuriku Girls' School.—Miss Johnstone writes:

The great problem of our educational work at present is, How can we secure for our school properly qualified Christian teachers? We can report progress in the solution along two lines:

First, the Department of Education has given to the graduates of our school who have graduated or will graduate between the years 1902 and 1912 the privilege of taking the examinations for teachers' diplomas given by the Department of Education. This diploma is equal to that given to graduates of the Higher Normal School and the holders are recognized as being qualified to teach in a Girls' Higher School.

Our second bit of progress was in finding a way by which our students can qualify for the entrance examination to the Higher Normal School. Till now they have been barred to this by the regulations against private schools. Two of our girls, according to the regulations, sent in their applications to the Department of Education and were given the examination here in Kanazawa. Much to our joy, both were successful.

This year our school had 15 graduates from the regular course, and 2 girls graduated in English only. Of these 17 girls, 10 are baptized Christians and 5 others professed to be Christians and evidently were. The other 2 girls were from strict Buddhist homes and made no open profession of their faith.

Five of our students and 2 of our graduates have been baptized this year. Twenty-five new pupils have entered this year. There are 70 on the roll this term.

Kindergartens and Work for Women.—

Our kindergartens are very prosperous this year. We have educated our teachers for the kindergartens, so they are all earnest Christians and enter heartily into the spirit of the work. In our Kanazawa kindergarten we have 70 children enrolled and a number of names on our waiting list. In Toyama we have 34 children enrolled and more are to come in in the fall. Our graduates this year numbered 28 in Kanazawa and 8 in Toyama.

We feel that supplying teachers for the kindergartens is one way in which our girls' school is doing evangelistic work. Our three kindergartens on the west coast are being taught entirely by graduates from our school. These 9 teachers are teaching about 130 children and are thus influencing more or less almost that many homes.

Mothers' meetings have been held regularly in connection with our kindergarten in Kanazawa and are well attended.

The supplying of teachers for our Sunday-schools is another line of work that our school is doing. This year our pupils and graduates have been teaching 500 children.

FUKUI.

The Station is without missionaries at present. Mr. Dunlop, of the Kanazawa Station, has it in charge and keeps in close touch with the city and out-stations by frequent visits. He describes one of the Japanese evangelists thus:

In Takefu (18,000), 12 miles west of Fukui on the railway, Evangelist Sugioka is now in charge, having been transferred from Daishoji in the Kanazawa field last fall. He believes in prayer and practices it. He believes in Christian literature and uses it. He talks to people on the trains. He makes friends and attracts them to his preaching places.

True, he is a poor preacher, but preaching has little to do with it all in the first stage of the work in Japan. Although not a preacher, he will set out after breakfast to keep an evening preaching appointment at a place that can be reached in less than two hours, and he will spend the day going from house to house distributing notices of his meetings; or he will leave the train a station short of his appointment and walk through the little villages, hanging up a Scripture picture against a tree-trunk and preaching wherever he can get a group together to listen to him. When his supply of meeting notices, with selected Scripture passages and hymns added, is exhausted, and he cannot immediately secure money to print more, he and his wife will spend hours writing by hand notices to be later carried by the same hands from door to door. His wife is an experienced Bible woman, and together they are doing fine work, of which the fruit will undoubtedly appear in time.

In the city of Fukui a kindergarten was started in the chapel in January, 1910, and this, with the promise of a new site and chapel from the Kennedy Fund, added to the devotion of the evangelist in charge and the faithfulness and brotherliness of the Christians, has given the Fukui work a good impulse forward.

Throughout the whole west coast field the Methodist missionaries and ours have agreed upon a clear delimitation of territory by counties.

OSAKA.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Some statistics collected by Dr. A. D. Hail speak vividly of the size and character of Japan's greatest manufacturing city, Osaka. They are as follows:

Present population, 1,217,786—an increase of 120 per cent. in 20 years. Excess of males over females in 1909, 116,986. In factories, 118,505. Churches and chapels in the city, 41. Protestant Christians, 4,037—an increase of 120 per cent. in 10 years. Buddhist temples, 545. Children of school age, 101,161. Licensed houses of ill fame, 1,948. Licensed courtesans, 6,704. Geisha, 2,674.

Dr. Hail adds:

Increasing taxation, crop failures and other circumstances have greatly increased the prices of the necessities of life. This necessarily affects church finances. Yet the statistics of the year show an increase of contributions over last year. The increase in the 5 independent churches is 1,115 yen; in the 3 Missions churches, 186 yen, and in the chapels 237 yen.

Harbor enlargement, new railways, the new interurban electric lines and the commercial attractions of the place are both rapidly increasing and distributing the population. The average annual increase of new buildings for the last 4 years is 3,500. Last year's estimate of the redistribution of population from the city to its suburbs is placed at 10,000. Thus is being gradually created a downtown problem for our churches and chapels in the city.

Dr. G. W. Fulton has charge of the work in two large sections of Osaka City—Namba and Temma—and in Himeji, a city 55 miles west of Osaka, population 40,000, and is also making a beginning at village work near Osaka.

Mr. Van Horn, who has charge of another section of the Osaka field, writes:

Our field includes 12 points. There are 179 communicants; 283 children in Sunday-schools; there have been 45 additions to the church this year. During the latter part of the year our work throughout has suffered from the reactionary spirit that is manifesting itself among the people.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Wilmina Girls' School.—Miss A. E. Morgan, principal, reports a total enrollment of 209; average attendance, 178; new pupils, 76; regular graduates, 22; sewing graduates, 11; baptisms during the year, 15; total church members, 63. Miss Morgan writes:

Our experience in preparing for getting government recognition reveals the following difficulties: the difficulty of securing certificated teachers without some suitable compensation for the pension granted after 15 years of service; the difficulty of securing certificated teachers who are Christians, as the pension draws even these away; difficulty of securing the great amount of apparatus required, and of remodeling foreign-style buildings to suit Japanese models, which must be closely followed; danger of engaging certificated teachers whose influence proves subversive of healthful Christian life. But the new teachers are working well. They seem quickly to see and appreciate the warm relation between teacher and pupil, characteristic of Christian schools, and are adapting themselves to it as far as possible.

The school has supplied and trained in 3 normal classes, of 3 grades, some 23 primary Sunday-school workers in 6 churches, 6 out-stations and an orphanage. Another large contingent is being trained as assistants. Fully 500 children are thus reached.

Dr. Fulton reports on the work of the Doshikwan (Evangelists' Training School), of which he is principal, as follows:

We had 14 students till April. Two were graduated in April and were licensed by Presbytery, and are now in active work. The students now in the school are exceedingly good men, and have done very good work both in their studies and in the night evangelistic work in the chapels. They each have two preaching appointments during the week, besides Sunday work, and the total attendance at these night meetings through the year is estimated at from 12,000 to 15,000 people. Thus the school, at the same time that it is training young men for future work, is all the while doing an important evangelistic work.

WOMAN'S WORK.—Evangelistic work of various kinds has been carried on by all the women of the Station—Misses Alexander, Ransom, Morgan, Maguet, Hail, and Mrs. Hail, Mrs. Van Horn and Mrs. Fulton. Mrs. Hail writes:

The flower-lovers' Sunday-school, begun three years ago in a converted cow-stable with a band of intractable flower-stealing children as a nucleus, promises to become a very stable institution, and is blossoming out into increasing numbers and respectability. It has necessitated the calling to its aid of a student of the Doshikwan to take care of the Boys' Department that has been developed.

Mrs. Fulton writes:

Several large factories have been visited at different times by request. There is opportunity for much work among the many girls who are toiling day and night in these great mills.

One of our Christian girls in Namba is in great trouble, as her relatives, while attending her father's funeral, learned that she was a Christian and was going to a Christian school. They were very angry and have compelled her to give up her school, her church and her Christian friends. Her mother is almost losing her mind under the constant persecution of their relatives, but apparently she is completely under their control and can do nothing for her daughter. They even urged her to sell herself to a life of shame in order to help her mother, but in this she stood firm and refused to listen to their demands and she is seeking for work elsewhere.

The Stephen Bible Club is Miss Maguet's chief outside care, her main work being the teaching of music and English in Wilmina Girls' School.

Miss Ransom writes:

Instead of hoped-for results, we have reaped a harvest of hindrances. In January the Sunday-school at Tōndabayashi, which averaged 100, was suddenly reduced to 3. The principal of the primary school, on the plea that Sunday-school interfered with the scholarship of the pupils, forbade any of them attending Sunday-school. Last year there were 2 Christians and 3 inquirers among the school-teachers. The 2 Christians have been dismissed and the inquirers forbidden to attend any of our services. The principal is a Buddhist priest who has been planning for some months to break up the Sunday-school. He has the hearty sanction of the 8 sake-brewers of the place. The wave of opposition, resulting from the supposed connection of Christianity with anarchism, has affected all the work in South Kawachi.

KYOTO.

In the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Gorbald, the general evangelistic work has been under the care of Dr. A. D. Hail, of Osaka, and the kindergartens, Sunday-schools and woman's work in Miss Porter's care. Evangelists are stationed at points in the city and one in the Fushimi suburb. Good results and earnest inquirers are reported at all these places. Miss Porter writes:

During the year Kyoto has been the scene of much Buddhist activity. Anniversaries and centennials have been celebrated at the many temples, bringing tens of thousands of worshipers and much excitement to attract from our humble services and crowd our streets and cars until it was impossible to reach some of our meetings.

The kindergartens have kept up a full attendance, with many on the waiting list. Mothers' meetings in connection with them have been held and calls made in many homes. On Sundays the teachers are distributed among 6 Sunday-schools where the seed is being sown in the hearts of about 260 children. There are also week-day meetings for children, Bible classes for girls and women's meetings.

WAKAYAMA.

This Station is composed of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Hail in Wakayama City and Misses Leavitt and Robertson in the town of Tanabe, 60 miles southeast. Miss Leavitt has been on furlough during the year and Miss Robertson has bravely held the fort alone at a point a long day's journey from the railway and from any other Europeans. Dr. Hail writes:

This field is divided into 4 districts:

1. Tanabe.—Here there is a self-supporting church, membership 135. The Sunday-school has an average attendance of over 150. The church coöperates with the missionaries, the missionaries with the church, and the town with the church and the missionaries.

Miss Robertson has taught the Bible to classes of school-boys and school-teachers, and knitting to a large class of girls and young women, the attendance at the knitting class sometimes rising to 80.

The kindergarten, run in connection with the church and under the supervision of the pastor, is aided by the town to the extent of 200 yen per year. The enrollment is 103 pupils, but there are accommodations for only 80.

Seven villages are reached from Tanabe.

2. Iwasa.—This is the next field north of Tanabe. The town is one of over 10,000. In the village of Oda, there are 14 teachers in the public school who are all earnest inquirers.

3. Wakayama.—The city is the capital of Wakayama Prefecture. It has a self-supporting church with an enrolled membership of 203, perhaps half of them now resident in the city. The church raised 800 yen for all purposes.

During the year there has been an attempt on the part of the legislature and the city council to license houses of ill-fame in the city. This led to the formation of a women's reform society by the various churches. For the present the evil movement has been defeated.

In Ogura the village head and nearly all the teachers in the public school are Christians.

4. Kowawa.—This town is the centre from which a number of other towns and villages are reached. There has been a great falling off in attendance due to the arrest and execution of the anarchists.

Owing to the suspicions of the government and the forbidding of the children to attend Christian services, the results this year in the whole field have not been such as we could wish; but the faithfulness of the Christians and their patient continuance in well-doing have been most encouraging.

The wife of the Wakayama pastor has been for 25 years identified with our work in this city. She had a great influence with all classes. In the campaign against licensed vice this humble but brave woman made the long journey to Tokyo and there interviewed not only the editors of the leading newspapers of the capital, but also the Minister of the Interior. The Minister assured her that if the governor of the prefecture and the mayor of the city should veto the act of the legislature and the city council there would be no license. On her return she interviewed both governor and mayor and secured their promise that so long as they were in office there should be no license in the city.

YAMADA.

The Station consists of Miss Riker and the new missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. Detweiler. The latter have been engaged in language study, but Mr. Detweiler has helped with musical instruction and in English classes. Miss Riker writes:

Mr. Detweiler's first Japanese sermon—and it was understood—preached within 6 months after arrival—seems to me a good record.

Six evangelists are working in ten cities and villages, and five young men from this field are now preparing for the ministry.

The weddings of three Bible women from my home in three months made a strenuous and expensive season, but three young preachers are now properly balanced for an all-round ministry.

In the whole field there are 12 Sunday-schools, reaching about 600 children.

Night classes in English have reached about 20 young men. A class of about 15 girls has been taught the English language and the Bible in Japanese. Two hours a week have been given to teaching English in the city commercial school.

HIROSHIMA-KURE.

This Station occupies a territory stretching for 100 miles along the Inland Sea, on the main island, and extending 75 miles into the interior. The population is about 2,000,000, strong Buddhist. There are 2 independent churches, 2 aided churches, 5 preaching places, 9 Sunday-schools; and there have been 37 adult and 9 infant baptisms, 19 being baptized in the self-supporting churches. The missionaries are Mr. and Mrs. Brokaw at Kure and Miss Garvin at Hiroshima.

Mr. Worley (reporting for the whole Inland Sea district) writes:

There is an independent church at Kure, average attendance 50, a Sunday-school of 80. There have been 15 baptisms in this church during the year.

In the city of Hiroshima there is an independent church and one church aided by the Mission. The independent church has been prosperous in the past, but recently has been through great trials. A change of the eldership has brought some relief.

Mr. Brokaw has spent much time in visiting out-stations. Through the generosity of a friend in America, he will soon have a motor-cycle with which to prosecute his work in the interior, which will enable him to cover three or four times as much ground as at present. He has made much use of the magic lantern. He has also taught 4 regular classes at home and edited the Fukuin Geppo, which now has a circulation of 3,200 copies.

Mrs. Brokaw has trained the Kure Church in singing. She has secured gifts amounting to $800 for buying more land and rebuilding the church. Her principal work has been house-to-house visitation, especially calling on wives of naval officers. The children have been of great assistance in teaching English, thus securing the opening up of many families to Christian influence.

YAMAGUCHI.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Mr. Worley gives the following summary: independent churches, 3; aided churches, 9; preaching places, 2; Sunday-schools, 15; baptisms, 45—10 of these in independent churches.

Mr. Ayres has done a great deal of touring, and reports the country work encouraging in some places, but in others impeded by opposition in educational circles.

Miss Wells, of this Station, lives at Tokuyama, some distance from Yamaguchi. She has visited regularly 7 out-stations, holding women's meetings, cooking classes, and children's meetings. In Tokuyama she has assisted with the church music and organized a society for girls in the church.

Miss G. S. Bigelow and Miss F. J. Bigelow, besides the care of the Yamaguchi Girls' School and the Morning Star Kindergarten, have carried on work for children at Ogore and Yuda. Miss G. S. Bigelow reports:

The head man of Yuda (a suburb of Yamaguchi) has a bicycle repair shop and is an intimate friend of ours, so he lets us have the theatre rent free. There was no floor in the parquet until New Year's, when they put down a floor made from bicycle packing boxes, but in the rainy season they took it up to keep it dry as the roof is like a sieve. Now we have the children on the stage.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Yamaguchi Girls' School.—The school has had an enrollment of 36, and the graduating class numbered 14. All the graduates were Christians. Miss G. S. Bigelow writes:

Of the 63 graduates of this school, 52 were baptized while in school.

Our present building was never intended for anything but a temporary device, and with the passing of years and earthquakes it has settled in spots so that there are yawning crevices and it leans in an alarming manner. Three classes recite practically in one room, and all are so near together that when we had a good many pupils one had to walk sideways to get about. The wonder is that we have always had so many pupils.

The school is now to have a new and sufficient equipment in a better location at Shimonoseki on the Straits.

MATSUYAMA.

This is our one Station on the island of Shikoku. It covers Ehime Prefecture, population more than 1,000,000. Mr. and Mrs. Worley are the missionaries. There are 3 aided churches,

3 evangelists, 1 Bible woman, 6 preaching places, 9 Sunday-schools, 7 rural Bible classes. There have been 34 baptisms during the year. Mr. Worley writes:

In April and May a prefectural exhibition was held in Matsuyama. Advantage was taken of this to erect a booth on the grounds where preaching services were held every day and night. At the request of officials of the exhibition, four services were held in one of the exhibition buildings, showing the life of Christ in moving pictures, and explaining briefly some of the cardinal doctrines of Christianity. Fully 10,000 people heard something of the Gospel, about 5,000 tracts were distributed, and 225 New Testaments were sold.

An attempt has been made at the problem of rural evangelization with encouraging results. At first the plan of going into these villages and doing street preaching was tried, but it was found that the farmers, their wives and grown-up children were busy in the fields, and only the smaller children would gather to see what the queer foreigner wanted. Another plan was tried. The names of a number of Christians who were scattered throughout the province and living in the smaller villages were secured. Also a list of persons who had written for Christian literature was made out. It was determined to use these persons as nuclei around which to gather classes for regular Bible study.

First these Christians and inquirers were visited and asked to open their houses for Bible classes, and they were asked to invite others who wished to hear something about Christianity. These were not to be public preaching services, but quiet gatherings in the home, and in this way a personal touch could be secured with those really in sympathy with Christianity. Seven classes have been formed in as many different villages, each of which has been attended by from 10 to 40 people. As a rule, the same people attend each time.

There being no railroads in the prefecture, traveling has been a problem until the beginning of this year when, with the help of friends in America, a motor-cycle with side-car attached was secured.

DAIREN.

A Japanese pastor was called for the Dairen Church last summer and Dr. Winn was thus freed for other work. The church has suffered from the removal of several of its best families. There have not been so many baptisms in Dairen as in any one of the 3 preceding years.

Dr. Winn describes a Thanksgiving meeting for Dr. and Mrs. Winn's work, held on the Emperor's birthday:

The speeches were altogether too laudatory to suit us, but contained evidence of thankfulness and love toward us which could not be doubted. When these expressions of good-will were ended, the little lady who had spoken for the women brought from an adjoining room a solid silver tea set and presented it to us as the gift of the church! We were very thankful to God who had made such relations possible between a Japanese church and foreign missionaries. . . .

Our field continues to enlarge, three new places being added to those visited the year before. I have baptized 33 persons in places outside of Dairen. One family of 4—father, mother and 2 children—were baptized together. Their salvation was the result of the faith of a little boy who attended Sunday-school. His appeals to his parents during his last illness and the testimony he gave in his dying hours so moved them that they became earnest inquirers.

The pest suddenly made its appearance in January this year along the railway and even in Dairen. The Japanese system of dealing with the dreaded disease was so nearly perfect that it would have been difficult to improve upon it. Not a Chinese was allowed on the trains or on the railway. Freight was not allowed in, and the railway business was paralyzed. All entrances to stations were guarded. Disinfectants flowed freely. Not a public building could be entered without one's being sprayed with carbolic acid. Many of the guards on the railway platforms and elsewhere were covered from head to foot with huge cotton garments, with little holes cut to see out of, and then some wore goggles behind the holes, giving them a most ghost-like appearance.

Mrs. Winn writes:

We have held meetings in 21 places. As far as possible, I have had meetings for women and children in these places. I still have foreign cookery or fancy work to attract women who are not at first attracted by the Gospel, and I think it has given them happy, innocent diversion in the lonely places where many of them live.

Some of those who have made the great decision have given evidence of the great change it has wrought in their lives. In a small place, called Kyoto, which suddenly sprang into existence to accommodate the men engaged near by in building a great tunnel, the third church of Manchuria was built as reported last year. The two highest officials in charge are really Christian heroes, and both were led to give up lives of dissipation and become such noble Christians through the prayers and entreaties of their Christian wives. When the tunnel was opened several months ago, a great celebration was to be held, and according to custom intoxicating liquors and geisha should have been the principal features, but the master of ceremonies was one of these men just mentioned and he utterly refused to supply these terrible evils to his employees. But in their place he provided interesting Japanese sports, a fine feast and gifts, which all acknowledged were more satisfying and cost the company far less than the usual dissipation.

PORT ARTHUR.

Rev. A. V. Bryan writes:

We arrived in Port Arthur, April 7, and were immediately impressed with the continued rapid progress of both the Old and New Towns. Old buildings have been torn down and replaced by better ones; buildings devastated by the war are still being bought by the Japanese government, put in order and occupied, and out and out new buildings are so numerous that I have not been able to count them. Within a five minutes' walk of our house, toward the northeast, there are fully 100 families comfortably housed where there was no sign of a house when we went on furlough.

We have a fine Japanese pastor resident in the Old Town. Our residence is in the New Town. Sunday-schools, church services, and prayer meetings are conducted weekly in both the Old and New Towns.

We both teach English in the church, in a bank and in an academy for boys, and have Bible classes in connection with all our English work. Though we are confined to Port Arthur, it is like being on a constant evangelistic tour from Sapporo to Nagasaki—so constant is the shifting of the well-to-do, educated and official classes.

In all the years we have been on the field we have never before felt so completely inadequate to the work, because we have never before had so much opportunity among people far more open-hearted and willing to hear since cut off from their old temple connection and free from relatives who at home would oppose them in their desire to accept Christ.

THE KOREA MISSION.

SEOUL: the capital, near the west coast on the Han River, 26 miles from the port Chemulpo, with which it is connected by railroad; population about 300,000; Station opened 1884. Missionaries—Rev. H. G. Underwood, D.D., and Mrs. Underwood, M.D., Rev. J. S. Gale, D.D., and Mrs. Gale, O. R. Avison, M.D., and Mrs. Avison, Miss Helen Forsyth, Miss K. C. Wambold, Miss E. L. Shields, Rev. E. H. Miller and Mrs. Miller, Rev. C. A. Clark and Mrs. Clark, Rev. A. A. Pieters and Mrs. Pieters, J. W. Hirst, M.D., and Mrs. Hirst, Mr. John F. Genso and Mrs. Genso, Miss Margo Lewis, Miss Ruby B. Brownlee, Rev. J. U. S. Toms and Mrs. Toms, Roy K. Smith, M.D., and Mrs. Smith, Alfred I. Ludlow, M.D., and Mrs. Ludlow.

FUSAN: 210 miles southeast of Seoul; nearest port to Japan, terminus of Seoul-Fusan Railroad; Station opened 1893. Missionaries—Rev. W. E. Smith and Mrs. Smith, Miss Anna S. Doriss, Rev. George H. Winn and Mrs. Winn, Rev. R. E. Winn and Mrs. Winn, Miss Harriet E. Pollard, R. G. Mills, M.D., and Mrs. Mills.

PYENG YANG: ancient capital of the northern kingdom, 50 miles up Taitong River from Yellow Sea; 125 miles northwest of Seoul; largest church centre under the Board; population 60,000; Station opened 1894. Missionaries—Rev. S. A. Moffett, D.D., and Mrs. Moffet, M.D., Rev. W. M. Baird, Ph.D., and Mrs. Baird, Rev. Graham Lee, D.D., and Mrs. Lee, Rev. W. L. Swallen and Mrs. Swallen, J. H. Wells, M.D., and Mrs. Wells, Miss Margaret Best, Rev. C. F. Bernheisel and Mrs. Bernheisel, Miss V. L. Snook, Rev. W. N. Blair and Mrs. Blair, Miss A. M. Butts, Mr. Robert McMurtrie, Rev. Eli M. Mowry and Mrs. Mowry, Rev. James G. Holdcroft and Mrs. Holdcroft, Miss Lucille Campbell, Rev. Charles L. Phillips and Mrs. Phillips, Rev. Clarence S. Hoffman and Mrs. Hoffman.

TAIKU: population 60,000; 77 miles inland from Fusan, and 155 miles southeast of Seoul; Station opened in 1899; work doubling every year. Missionaries—Rev. J. E. Adams, A. G. Fletcher, M.D., W. O. Johnson, M.D., and Mrs. Johnson, Rev. H. M. Bruen and Mrs. Bruen, Rev. E. F. McFarland and Mrs. McFarland, Rev. W. C. Erdman and Mrs. Erdman, Miss A. R. Mills, Miss Ethel McGee, Rev. R. O. Reiner and Mrs. Reiner, Miss Martha Switzer and Rev. M. W. Greenfield.

SYEN CHUN: in the northwest of Korea, 50 miles from Yalu River, about 225 miles northwest of Seoul; Station opened 1901; work shows unprecedented growth. Missionaries—Rev. N. C. Whittemore and Mrs. Whittemore, Rev. Cyril Ross and Mrs. Ross, A. M. Sharrocks, M.D., and Mrs. Sharrocks, Miss Jane Samuel, Rev. S. L. Roberts and Mrs. Roberts, Rev. George S. McCune and Mrs. McCune, Miss H. Helstrom, Rev. H. W. Lampe and Mrs. Lampe and Miss Blanch I. Stevens.

CHAI RYONG: 140 miles northwest of Seoul, 60 miles southwest of Pyeng Yang; Station opened 1906. Missionaries—Rev. W. B. Hunt and Mrs. Hunt, Rev. C. E. Sharp and Mrs. Sharp, Rev. E. W. Koons and Mrs. Koons, Rev. H. C. Whiting, M.D., and Mrs. Whiting, Miss Katherine McCune, Rev. William C. Kerr and Miss Anna McKee.

KOREA MISSION

CHONG-JU: about 50 miles south of Seoul; opened 1907. Missionaries—Rev. F. S. Miller and Mrs. Miller, Rev. Edwin Kagin, W. C. Purviance, M.D., and Mrs. Purviance, Rev. Welling T. Cook and Mrs. Cook and Miss Grace L. Davis.

KANG KAI: about 250 miles north of Seoul; opened 1908. Missionaries—Rev. Harry A. Rhodes and Mrs. Rhodes, Rev. H. E. Blair and Mrs. Blair and John D. Bigger, M.D.

ANDONG: about 70 miles a little east of north of Taiku; opened 1910. Missionaries—Rev. A. G. Welbon and Mrs. Welbon, Rev. Edward A. Renich and Mrs. Renich, Rev. John Y. Crothers and Mrs. Crothers.

TRANSFERS: Rev. M. W. Greenfield, from Seoul to Taiku; Dr. A. G. Fletcher, from Andong to Taiku; Dr. and Mrs. Mills, from Kang Kai to Fusan.

RESIGNATION: Miss M. L. Chase.

FURLOUGHS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. J. E. Adams, Rev. W. C. Erdman and Mrs. Erdman, Rev. M. Willis Greenfield, Mrs. E. F. McFarland, Rev. A. A. Pieters and Mrs. Pieters, Miss Jane Samuel, Rev. W. L. Swallen and Mrs. Swallen, Dr. H. C. Whiting and Mrs. Whiting, Rev. C. F. Bernheisel and Mrs. Bernheisel, Miss Alice M. Butts, Rev. C. A. Clark and Mrs. Clark, Rev. G. Lee and Mrs. Lee, Rev. W. E. Smith and Mrs. Smith.

SEOUL STATION.

The year 1911 marks the completion of the whole Bible. This is the year three hundred and one for the King James Version, but the year one for our Korean Un-moon. Seoul Station deeply appreciates the honor that three of its members, Dr. Underwood, Dr. Gale and Mr. Pieters, have had a part in so great an undertaking.

Visitors of special note were Dr. W. W. White, Dr. Pierson and family, Dr. Paton, son of the famous missionary of the New Hebrides, and a large party of Christian workers from Australia, Mrs. Livingston Taylor, Mr. R. S. Brown, Dr. Marquis and family, Mr. William T. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Craighead (Mrs. Craighead is a daughter of Dr. Hunter Corbett, of China).

For material assistance we owe much to Mr. L. H. Severance, Mr. John T. Underwood, Mrs. Livingston Taylor, Dr. Arthur T. Pierson, Miss C. M. Babcock and to a number of churches and women's societies.

EVANGELISTIC.—City Churches.—The seven city churches are all doing well. The Sai Mun An Church, in charge of Dr. Underwood, has a new brick church with galleries. Its well-organized Sunday-school is the admiration of visitors from abroad.

The Yun Dong church, the largest in the city, is in charge of Dr. Gale. This church, like several others, has a separate Sunday-school for children of unbelievers. Three hundred children are taught.

Syeng Dong church is in charge of Mr. Toms, assisted by Mr. Genso, now an ordained elder. The S. F. Moore Memorial Church at Tong Mak, near the Han River, is in charge of Mr. Pieters and the South Gate Church is under Dr. Underwood's care ecclesiastically, but ably looked after by Dr. Avison and Dr. Hirst. The new building, of Korean architecture, is a joy to all beholders. Dr. Arthur T. Pierson assisted at the dedication, when there was present a congregation of 1,000. So An Dong church, a colony from the Syeng Dong church, is in charge of Han Moska. A fine new site has been secured; the old building has been enlarged to its utmost capacity. Many inquirers of the upper class attend. The church at Mwo Dong, a new organization this year, is under Mr. Miller's care. They have a comfortable new building of Korean architecture.

Bible Training Classes.—Bible training classes were held in many churches throughout the territory. The men's winter class had an attendance of 300.

For the women, 18 country classes were held by Miss Wambold during ten consecutive months. In addition to this, many classes were taught by Korean women trained in our normal class in Seoul. The February class for women numbered 450. Every woman in the Station taught in this class, and it was the best we have ever had. Two other classes for women were held in the autumn.

EDUCATIONAL.—Young Men's Academy.—

The John D. Wells Training School for Christian Workers, of which Dr. Underwood is principal and Mr. Miller vice-principal, closed the year with an attendance of 107. Six were graduated this summer. It has been a happy year, with no unrest, and good relations between faculty and students. The new school year began in April, in agreement with the government school system. There is a supply of teachers who have studied abroad—in Japan and elsewhere. Three of the teachers are former graduates of the school. Additional building has been completed and the grounds graded to give an athletic field.

Women's Academy.—

The past year's work has been most satisfactory. Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Genso, Mrs. Toms, Miss Lewis, have taught in the school. The school has not been large—only 51 girls enrolled—but it has been as many as we could care for in our present building. Seventeen of the lower school graduates entered our beginning class. Twelve girls graduated this year.

MEDICAL.—Severance Hospital.—Many-sided work has been carried on at the Severance Hospital during the year.

The great aim is to do all the work so as to exemplify the mind of Christ, produce Christians out of patients and Christian workers out of graduates. Almost the whole work of the public dispensary department has been done by one of the Korean graduate physicians. Through our pharmacy department we have been able to supply the Mission hospitals in other Stations with drugs at a gain and convenience to all concerned. The medical college building is making good progress toward completion. Comfortable temporary quarters have been provided for the Korean nurses. For the first time in the history of the Medical School, we had four grades of classes going on at the same time, with 56 students in all. The staff teaching medical subjects is as follows: Dr. Avison, Dr. Hirst, Dr. Eva Field Pieters, all of Seoul; Dr. Follwell, of Pyeng Yang; Dr.

Ried, of Song Do; Dr. Weir, of Chemulpo, and three graduates of the Severance Hospital, Dr. Kim, Dr. Hong and Dr. Pak.

Nurses' Training School.—

It is the aim that Korean women nurses may be trained in their work on the same scale of efficiency as the physicians. We have four graduate nurses. One, Miss Bessie Kim, is head nurse under Miss Shields' superintendency. Another has given satisfaction in Dr. Purviance's hospital in Chong Ju. Frequently calls come to the hospital for district nursing or for a nurse to assist the Korean physician. It is an encouraging sign of progress that we are a little nearer our ideal of having for all clean air, clean water, clean food, clean bodies, clean clothes, clean houses.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—

This includes the usual work of instructing dispensary patients from day to day, holding daily morning devotions for all, visiting patients in their homes, carrying on a regular church on the compound with all its departments. As the new church already mentioned is on Mission property and is intended as a college chapel as well as a meeting house, the Executive Committee decided to keep the building in the possession of the Mission. Mr. Severance, with his usual generosity, donated to the Mission the whole cost of the property. The total number of conversions in the hospital and dispensary was 626.

LITERARY WORK.—Important literary work has been done by Dr. and Mrs. Underwood, Dr. Gale, Mr. and Mrs. Pieters, Miss Wambold, Mr. Miller and Mrs. Hirst. Special reference should be made to the completion of Dr. Gale's Korean-English Dictionary, a monument of painstaking work, and to the periodical, "The Korea Mission Field," edited by Mrs. Underwood.

FUSAN STATION.

The Station has had a larger number of missionaries on the field than for a number of years. With the return from furlough of Mr. and Mrs. Smith and with the assignment of several new workers, the field will be more nearly adequately manned than it has ever been.

EVANGELISTIC.—Evangelistic work has been characterized by zealous preaching to unbelievers and much direct earnest personal work by hundreds of our Christians. This spirit was inspired by the special campaigns which began in Seoul in the early fall and reached to the farthestmost borders of Korea.

Special services began in Mil Yang, our large central town, October 30. All of our helpers and traveling evangelists, together with the leaders and other officers of a large number of our churches throughout the surrounding counties, gathered there and with the help of nearly all our Station members and Mr. Bruen and Mr. H. E. Blair from other Stations to superintend, the city and near-by villages were thoroughly canvassed, and probably almost every individual heard the Gospel from one to several times during that week.

Altogether the year shows an increase within our churches of 638 baptized members; 382 catechumens, and 25 baptized infants, besides the results from a Korean pastor's work which is not yet reported, but would increase those figures considerably.

The main winter Bible class for men was held in Kim Hai City for about one week and attended by over 300 men.

There were also several small classes which lasted four to five days each and were attended by from 35 to 50 men. The Helpers' Training Class was combined with Taiku's class and held there for two weeks in June, as was done last year.

WOMEN'S WORK.—For years the women of our great section of South Kyung Sang Province have had no foreign woman to visit them regularly. The only attention that it was possible has been one central Bible class of about a week's duration each year. With the addition of Miss Doriss to our force last year, systematic work for women was begun.

Women's Bible Classes.—Two Bible classes for women were held at Kal Chun and Oong Chun, respectively. Both classes were fairly well attended and the interest manifested by the women very encouraging. Miss Doriss and Mrs. George H. Winn, assisted by a Bible woman and two of the helpers, conducted both classes.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Girls' School at Fusan has had its first full school year. After Mrs. Irvin's resignation, March 23, Mrs. G. H. Winn was put in charge of the school.

The school was completely organized, the lower grades being discontinued because of the lack of sufficient teaching force to care for all and because we deemed it unwise to relieve the church of responsibility for primary school work. Only the girls of the upper classes and others over fourteen years old were retained, and we worked toward preparing them to enter academy. The academy work we hope to begin this fall, though we shall probably have girls in only the first grade this year. Our plan is to develop a thoroughly efficient girls' school with two years of preparatory work and three or four years' academy. We already have the finest and best equipped building for girls in the mission, but in order to be really effective and reach the fine type of girls that come from the country churches, we must have a dormitory to house them. The school closed its spring term in June with about thirty girls who showed splendid interest to the end.

MEDICAL.—The Junkin Memorial Hospital work was carried on as usual by Dr. Irvin until his departure. A capable evangelist did good work in the hospital by preaching to all the patients who came and by selling them Bibles or portions of Scripture. Owing to Dr. Irvin's departure, and the great scarcity of physicians in the Mission at the time, the hospital and dispensary had to be closed April 15. Dr. Mills has since been transferred from Kang Kei to Fusan and is now in charge.

LEPER WORK.—

The Leper Asylum, built and supported by the Society in Edinburgh, has had an average of 36 inmates for the year and for the latter months 54. Owing to the limited amount of funds, only the most pitiable cases and those who had no other means of support were admitted. Regular Sunday and midweek services are held in the Asylum led by a Korean Christian appointed for the work and there have been a number of recent confessions of belief in Christ.

PYENG YANG STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The year has been one of great blessing in evangelistic work. The itinerating missionary has found new groups which had never been visited by a missionary, and other groups that had not been visited by a missionary in a year and a half, in excellent condition.

The city churches have demanded considerable attention from the Station force.

The First, or Central Church, in charge of Pastor Kil, has a congregation of over 1,200, added by baptism 122 adults, sent a colporteur to Russia, and Pastor Kil gave three months to the revival services in Seoul and Kyeng Sang Province. The Second, or South Gate Church, in charge of Mr. Swallen until his furlough in February, is now in charge of Mr. Holdcroft. The congregation numbers about 400. During the year it became necessary to divide the congregation, and in consequence there has been organized another church in the southwestern part of the city, this being the seventh church of the city. It is gratifying to note that almost immediately after the division of the congregation the church was again filled with new inquirers. The Third, or North Church, in charge of Mr. Blair, has had a rapid growth. An addition was made to the building during the past year. The Fourth Church, under Dr. Baird's oversight, has a congregation of 500. Twenty new believers were baptized. The Fifth Church, under Dr. Moffet's oversight, meets in the Theological Seminary Auditorium, congregation 1,000. It contemplates erecting a building of its own. During the year there were baptized 76 adults. The other two churches are in their infancy. The Sixth is located in the extreme southwestern part of the city and is in charge of Dr. Baird and Mr. Mowry. The Seventh, in charge of Mr. Phillips. The seating capacity of the building is about 200, but that is already insufficient, and a building with a capacity of 400 is necessary to accommodate the rapidly growing congregation.

A cause of special satisfaction is the splendid oversight given by the Sessions of the churches to the instruction of baptized children. These children first commit the Child's Catechism and then the Shorter Catechism under the personal direction of the individual elders.

The evangelistic work in the country has been very gratifying. The missionaries report the work everywhere most encouraging.

Mr. Blair: Work everywhere most encouraging. More new groups the past year than in the five preceding years. Suck Chun reports new believers every Sunday, and over 300 attend services. The Anju new church is already overcrowded with 500 attending. Two other groups that I thought dead and buried have again come to life. Mr. Mowry: 189 baptisms and 288 catechumens received during the year; 22 churches with 800 baptized Christians and 500 catechumens in this circuit. Mr. Holdcroft (Dr. Lee's circuit): 90 churches, 2,430 baptized adults, 1,514 catechumens and 259 baptized children. During the year received by baptism 354 adults, 66 children and 729 catechumens. Five new groups started. Dr. Baird: Three churches with 250 baptized Christians; added by baptism, 43. Dr. Moffet: Circuit of 20 churches, 161 baptized during the year. Mr. Swallen: 49 churches, membership of 3,755 and 2,446 catechumens. 778 baptized during year and 1,153 received as catechumens. Mr. Blair: 33 churches, membership of 2,020 and 681 catechumens. During year 319 baptized and 303 received as catechumens. Mr. Bernheisel's circuit: 63 churches, membership of 2,368 and 1,167 catechumens. During year 441 baptized and 674 received as catechumens.

Bible Training classes were held in nearly every church. All of these classes were marked with excellent interest.

The Theological Seminary enrollment is the same as last year, 134. The number of graduates was 16. The part that the Seminary is taking, through its graduates, in the evangelization of Korea and the East may be seen in the fact that already it has its representatives in 11 of the 13 provinces of Korea, besides missionaries in Manchuria, Russia, and the Island of Quelpart. A fine addition to the equipment of the Seminary was the completion of the dormitory building.

The work among women was carried with unusual zeal. The total enrollment for the women's classes was 6,369.

THE FIRST "FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH" BUILDING, PYEONG YANG, KOREA. IN ROOM ON LEFT THE FIRST SEVEN MEN WERE BAPTIZED, JANUARY 8, 1884. THIS WAS THE CHURCH. THIS IS CHOI CHO SI, TAKEN ON THE FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF HIS BAPTISM (ONE OF THE FIRST TO BE BAPTIZED), NOW A LEADER IN THE CHURCH.

EDUCATIONAL.—The educational work of the country is one of the great problems that we have to face. It is demanding more and more careful thought.

Primary Schools.—Efforts have been made to strengthen the primary schools in the country districts. Dr. Moffett has been made chairman of the Presbyterian Committee on Primary Schools. There is a movement for uniting the primary schools as much as possible, thus making them stronger.

Union College and Academy.—Dr. W. M. Baird, president. This institution is a union of the Presbyterian and Methodist Missions. Steps have been taken to have the other Protestant Missions in Korea unite in the college work, thus making it a union college for all Korea. Indications are that some of them will unite.

Forty-nine students were enrolled in the College, of whom 43 were Presbyterians. There were 316 in the Academy, of whom 272 were Presbyterians. The largest class in the history of the Academy, 44, was graduated this year, and 6 from the College. Most of the Academy graduates enter the College next year. A new recitation hall is being built. Our thanks are due to Dr. Marquis for the purchase of a desirable field for dormitory sites, one of which will be built this summer.

The Anna Davis Industrial Department.—We are indebted to the liberal donor of the expenses of this department for making it possible almost to double the present building and to build another and provide more equipment. Forty-five boys were employed in this department.

The Woman's Union Academy (Miss Velma Snook, principal) is also a union school of the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches; enrollment, 177, of whom 132 were Presbyterians; 117 were unmarried, 16 widows and 44 married. There were in attendance girls from our most southern Station, Fusan, as well as from the most northern, Kang Kei.

Two new buildings are in the process of erection, one a dormitory (Presbyterian) and the other a recitation hall (Methodist). The school will be able to occupy its own buildings in the fall. February 15, a class of 12 were graduated; and May 31, another class of twelve.

School for Women.—

The School for Women, who are not able to take up work in the Woman's Academy, has had a very successful year under Mrs. Wells' instruction. It meets twice a week and has an enrollment of 45.

Normal Schools.—

Two normal schools were held as usual for the benefit of the country school teachers, each lasting a month. There were 53 in the Men's school and 45 in the Women's. Several normal classes were held in the country districts under the direction of Korean church officers.

MEDICAL.—The Caroline A. Ladd Hospital—Dr. Wells, superintendent; Miss Campbell, head nurse—has again been a powerful factor in our work. This year, 17,847 persons, one-third of them for the first time, came into direct touch with the hospital through their own or their friends' illness. There was an attendance at prayers each morning of from 20 to 30, one-half of whom were unbelievers, and over 300, so far we know, responded to the call of the Great Physician as presented by the Hospital staff.

Relations of the hospital with the government hospital have been cordial. Especially was this shown during the cholera epidemic in the autumn when our isolation wards were used as an official pest house. The provision made by Mr. W. M. Ladd for charity beds and the appropriation by the Board for water installation are great gains.

For all the work of the hospital but $1,504 has been expended, less than $1 per patient. Of this over two-thirds was raised in fees, etc., on the field, thus exhibiting the careful economy practiced.

TAIKU STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Conditions in the churches are satisfactory. Class work has been the most successful that we have ever held. Though we are unable to report any special number of new Christians as a result of the many revivals held last fall, the Christians were greatly benefited in their own lives by the efforts to save the unconverted.

Growth in the Taiku City church, Rev. J. E. Adams in charge, has been steady, the big new building being filled every Sunday with a congregation of between 1,200 and 1,500. Mr. Adams reports that the work in his circuits has also been very encouraging, Kyeng San circuit having undertaken the entire support of a helper and a Bible woman, and Ko Ryung circuit reporting three Bible classes for women, while the other circuits send in equally good reports.

Mr. Bruen reports for his Northwestern circuits as follows:

Churches, 63; communicants, 1,049; catechumens, 1,369. The churches under my care, while not showing remarkable advance, have made encouraging progress along some lines. There have been thirteen new church buildings erected and eight new groups. Special progress has been made in self-support.

Mr. McFarland's three circuits, Far East, South and We Sung, report: Churches, 65; communicants, 762; catechumens, 1,201. Mr. McFarland has had charge of 65 groups. All have been visited once and some twice during the year. Revivals were held in a large majority of the churches.

The winter Bible class for men was a marked success. The total attendance was over 500. The officers' class, consisting of 200 men, gathered for six days in May. The training class for evangelistic workers is held every June and has provided for the helpers and colporteurs a fine course of Bible study throughout the year.

It has been the banner year for women's work, big classes and little classes, city classes and country classes having been held in rapid succession.

The large yearly Bible class for all Christian women was held in April. Attendance was over 600.

EDUCATIONAL.—Boys' Academy.—Mr. Reiner has been made principal. He reports that a strong foundation for the school has been laid through the thorough administration of Mr. Adams in the past. Fifty-three boys have been enrolled. A fine class of 12 was graduated. Two of the graduates will enter Pyeng Yang College and others have been sought as teachers or secretaries.

The country schools have not had a very prosperous year, as teachers sufficiently well equipped to teach anything outside of Chinese are hard to secure.

Mr. Adams completed the two attractive dormitories of the Academy, which stand on each side of the big gateway leading to the main building. These two buildings accommodate 28 students each and cost $1,242.80 each.

Girls' Day and Middle School.—

Sixty girls attended and the school under the direction of Mrs. Bruen has done good work.

MEDICAL.—It was with great sorrow that we had to give up Miss McKenzie, our trained nurse, but health was such that she could no longer remain in Korea. The year's work has been much broken. Dr. Johnson was forced by ill health to ask transfer to evangelistic work, and Dr. Fletcher was assigned to the Hospital. Assistance that he had to give to An Dong Station prevented him from keeping the Hospital open most of the year. As there are so many free Japanese dispensaries in the city, established at the time of the annexation, unless the Mission Hospital is opened up for full work, we cannot hope to compete.

Evangelistic work in connection with the dispensary has been good. Every Sunday morning at church the names of six Christian men were read off and they were to give each a day's free preaching to the patients. It has proven a most excellent plan. The changing of doctors twice in the year and the new law established by the Japanese regarding medical college diplomas have been hard on the few medical assistants in the Hospital, but some of them plan to go to Seoul to study in our Mission Medical College.

The total expenses for the year were $886.48. Of this $492 was from the Board, the rest being raised on the field.

SYEN CHUN STATION.

All regret that Miss Chase has been compelled by ill health to relinquish the idea of returning to Korea for the present.

The Station plant has been enlarged during the year by the erection of a house for Mr. and Mrs. McCune and a group of dormitory buildings for the Boys' Academy. The new South Church in Syen Chyun City and an additional dormitory of ten rooms for the Girls' Academy are nearly completed.

EVANGELISTIC.—The special evangelistic campaign has been carried on very actively. After the central meetings in Syen Chyun, evangelistic services were held in ten of the twelve county centres and later in virtually all the churches. Many hundreds expressed a desire to become Christians. Thousands heard the Gospel, some for the first time, and the church was stirred to greater effort.

The event of the year in the local work was the setting off of the second congregation in Syen Chyun City. The stream running through town formed the natural division of the congregation. A new building is now partially up; it will accommodate about 1,200 and will cost yen 4,500, of which the people have raised already yen 2,300. The church numbers from 900 to 1,000 adherents; of the 289 communicants 51 have been baptized since the new church was set off. Mr. Whittemore is in charge.

The North Church, under Pastor Nyang, is steadily progressing, the membership being considerably larger than that of the South Church. The two churches unite in the support of an ordained pastor as a missionary in Manchuria, in addition to their support of their own pastors and elders. Every Sunday the Bible is studied by nearly 2,500 people in the seven Sunday-schools, three for men and boys and four for women and girls.

Women's Bible Study Conference.—The spring class for women brought women from all parts of our territory to Syen Chyun for eight days. The enrollment reached 1,283, some coming from churches several days' journey distant. There were two notable features of the class—first, the large number of old women studying (several over 80 years of age) and the large percentage of catechumens and baptized.

This is the largest class for women that we have yet held, but our women's work throughout the whole province has never been so large as at present. The Christian women and girls of our Syen Chyun field probably number 13,000, and we have but one woman to cover the entire field, Miss Samuel, who is now on furlough.

Local Bible Conference for Men.—

The annual winter Bible study conference for men had the splendid enrollment of 1,778, and above that over 200 who did not register were in attendance. After an address by Dr. Moffet on the Edinburgh Conference, the men were stirred with enthusiasm to preach the Gospel more zealously than before, and quietly, no one knowing what others were pledging, 6,687 days of preaching were pledged. The individual's name, his home, the place he promised to go and preach were written down. At the Lord's Supper 1,135 men communed.

At the close of the conference many having expressed a desire for further study, a Bible Institute was arranged for two weeks, in charge of Mr. Roberts, Mr. Ross and Mr. McCune.

Country Church Work.—The country work of the Station now embraces 148 groups and churches. Mr. Whittemore, Mr. Ross, Mr. McCune, Mr. Roberts and Mr. Lampe report a very encouraging year among the country churches.

One of Mr. Lampe's churches met with a sad loss during the year. A leader and deacon came down to attend the Syen Chyun men's Bible study conference and stayed to the Bible Institute held immediately afterward. On their way back they came to the foot of a high mountain pass toward evening. As it was Wednesday, they wanted to cross over and worship in a little gathering place that evening, so they attempted it. Night came on them, they lost their way and fell into a great snow bank where they perished. When they were found after the snows had melted, their bodies were in the attitude of prayer. Further investigation revealed the fact that they had left their inn without breakfast that morning as they had used up all their money, and their tired, weakened condition lessened their power of resistance.

EDUCATIONAL.—The educational work of the Station includes the Hugh O'Neill Jr. Academy, two other academies for boys and one for girls, the Normal Institute and the various primary schools.

The Hugh O'Neill Jr. Academy—Mr. McCune, principal—has had the best year of its history. In spite of the uncertainty and discouragement in the country this year of annexation and that last year was the climax of an abnormal enthusiasm with regard to things educational, there was a healthy increase in our Academy, the number enrolled more than doubling that of two years ago.

The enrollment of the year was 154, of whom 126 took the final examinations and 17 were graduated. These boys are all Christians. The school has grown spiritually; the students have enjoyed daily Bible study. The Students' Missionary Association decided to raise funds to send their own missionary to help in the new station in An Dong. He spent six months in the North Kyung Sang Province.

The Industrial department has not been what we had hoped for it, nevertheless many of our students would not have been with us except for this department. Sixty-two boys have received some help this year in this department.

During the year we have added somewhat to our Academy farm lands. We now have well over 200 acres valued at about 9,000 yen. Aside from this farm land we have invested funds somewhat as follows: Campus, 1,400 yen; main building and equipment, 11,200 yen, and dormitories, 5,200 yen.

There are two other academies for boys out in the country.

The one at Wi Ju enrolled 50 students and that of Nyong Chon 70.

The Girls' Academy opened with an enrollment of 28. Mrs. McCune was placed in charge, and in March Mrs. Whittemore took Mrs. McCune's place. We could accommodate more in our class rooms, but the dormitory has been overcrowded during the year, therefore we are rejoicing as we see the second dormitory under way.

The School for Young Married Women has been under Mrs. McCune, with two Korean teachers. The enrollment has run to 30, with 15 in actual attendance.

The primary schools of Syen Chyun County have been federated, so that the curriculum, examinations and teaching are under direct supervision of the principal of the Academy. There is a total of 545 pupils in the county.

The enrollment of men at the Normal Institute was 108 and of women 27. The former were with few exceptions men in actual charge of primary schools. One hundred and two men took the final examinations and 14 were given diplomas of graduation and most of the others were given certificates of promotion.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Sharrocks, in addition to many other duties, has continued to superintend the hospital and dispensary, assisted by Miss Helstrom, head nurse. The following are the statistics:

In-patients (average eight and a half days each).....	401
Visits into homes.....	390
New cases (in dispensary).....	5,935
Return cases.....	4,364
Total.....	11,090

Operations under complete anesthetic, 134.

The total expenses for the year were yen 4,264.12. Of this, yen 550 was from the Board, the rest being raised on the field.

CHAI RYUNG STATION.

The Station site was occupied November 1, 1905. Now we have five houses, the Hospital, and the site and timbers for the Bible Institute bought.

EVANGELISTIC.—The eight circuits of the Station field, with a population of 414,000, now have 16 churches, 131 groups, 4,960 adult communicants, 2,105 catechumens, 12,904 adherents, 69 schools. 13,937 yen were contributed by the people during the year and 775 persons were baptized.

City Church.—

All members of the Station have part in this work. The ladies of the Station have each had a special assignment for visiting in homes, and have given much time to it. Also the Bible women have done valuable service in this way.

The growth of the church has been small and cases of discipline numerous. Some of the Korean pastors have done very well, while others have needed close supervision. During the spring months the women fell off in their church attendance, which had been better than that of the men. The winter class was by far the best of its kind we have had.

This work of Training Classes in the city is increasing in importance. Mr. Sharp, whose special province it is, has spent over two months here in active teaching. The general class for men in December enrolled fewer men than in several years past, about 500 being present. The Bible Institute for men held its second session, with 84 and some special students.

The most satisfactory women's class was the spring class for women S. S. teachers, which took the place of the projected Bible Institute for women. Eighty-two studied, and women of the Station again provided a course for home study. The country women who were examined in last year's course as a rule had done faithful work.

Training Classes in the Country.—Nearly all the members of the Station have had a share in this work. Two of the itinerators held circuit classes in central points and reached practically every group in their territory.

More than half of those who even call themselves Christian, old and young, rich and poor, densely ignorant as well as those about to read, have been enrolled at one of the training classes and given from five days upward to earnest study of the Bible, always accompanied by rich devotional meetings and often with a time of special personal work.

MEDICAL.—The hospital and the general medical work is in charge of Dr. Whiting, assisted by Miss McGee as head nurse. The evangelist in the hospital has reported 451 who have professed conversion.

The figures for the Medical Work are as follows:

New patients.....	5,148
Return patients.....	3,263
Calls.....	544
Operations (under chloroform).....	35
In-patients.....	180
Total to date.....	9,170

EDUCATIONAL.—In May, the first class graduated from the academy—four fine lads. The school is in its third year and has 18 pupils. The expense for the current year will be about yen 605, of which more than half has been met from Korean sources, foreigners in the Station pledged 250, the Mission 33, and there will be no deficit.

The Kennedy bequest relieved a pressing need in furnishing yen 6,000 for a residence for single women. We are grateful also for yen 1,000 for a contagious ward at the hospital and for yen 3,000 from the same source for the Bible Institute which paid for the site.

CHUNG JU STATION.

Three years ago Chung Ju was an isolated city. An unkept road led through rice fields and up and down steep hills. Bridges were conspicuous by their absence.

To-day we have the telephone, telegraph and a splendid new road from Chochi to Chung Ju. Over this highway one may travel on a bicycle, a rickasha, a Korean chair or a Korean pony. The city is increasing in population and large numbers of buildings are in course of erection. Two new residences have been added to the Station compound, the Duncan Hospital has been completed and new roads have been constructed. The McClung Memorial, the Women's Bible Institute and additional Station site have been purchased.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Chung Ju City School for Boys has had a prosperous year. One grade has been added and it is now well on its way toward becoming a full-fledged grammar school. Four capable teachers have been in charge. The work and spirit of the pupils have been very gratifying. The enrollment was 57.

There are five primary schools for boys in the country which have secured government recognition. In addition to these there are a number of churches conducting schools, which cannot come up to the government standard because of lack of funds with which to employ a teacher. These we hope will be able to receive recognition as the churches grow and the contributions increase.

The girls' school is under Mrs. F. S. Miller. Twenty-three bright, clean little girls are in attendance. Their teacher is a graduate of the girls' school in Seoul and her mother was the first student received into that school and the first to graduate from it. This daughter is the fruit of the first Christian marriage in the Presbyterian Church in Korea.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Bible Classes for Women and Girls had a pleasant and commodious meeting place in the McClung Memorial building, given by Mr. and Mrs. McClung in memory of their two children. A night-school for women and girls was held for three months; attendance 30. It was one of the most helpful classes held. The winter Bible class had an enrollment of 158, the largest we have ever had.

The Sunday-school was under the supervision of Mrs. Miller until January, when Mrs. Purviance was assigned to the work. There are ten classes, nine of which are taught by Korean women. The average attendance is 134.

Classes for Men and Boys.—The July and August classes were for colporteurs and leaders of the city and country churches. Thirty were in attendance. The men's winter Bible class had an enrollment of 130, and great interest was manifest in the study of God's Word.

The Sabbath-school, in charge of Pastor Pak, made splendid progress. There are ten classes, all taught by Koreans; average attendance, 154.

Pal Chong Chon was ordained and given pastoral charge with Mr. Miller of the Chung Ju City church. The church has grown steadily. Forty were baptized during the year, making a membership of 145. Thirty-seven catechumens were received, making a total of 82 enrolled. Average attendance is 291, and the contribution for the year was $613.16 gold. The people have pledged $500 for a new church. The Evangelistic Society of the church has divided the city between its members, and they are doing systematic visiting and preaching.

The vice-governor of this Province, with his wife, has been transferred to the membership of Chung Ju church, from Yunmotkol church in Seoul. He sometimes occupies the pulpit as one of our lay-preachers, and proclaims to the people the plain Gospel truths.

In November special evangelistic meetings were held, contemporaneous with those held throughout Korea. Interest was very marked. Each afternoon 35 of the helpers went into the surrounding villages to hold evening services, returning to Chung Ju in time for a sunrise prayer meeting the next morning, while 35 helped to conduct the work in the city. After the Chung Ju meetings the two Korean pastors went out into the country and each conducted three revival meetings. Miss Davis spent twenty weeks in the country and conducted eleven classes. Miss Mills, of Taiku, assisted in one of these classes. A simple course in the Life of Christ and the native script were taught with much profit to the women. House-to-house visitation was made when possible and tracts were distributed freely. In the evenings evangelistic services were held for women, with lessons about faith, prayer, and Christ's commands. Besides these classes, services were held in fifteen other places, the stay in each place averaging from one to five days.

There are 19 groups in the Northern circuit, with a total of 83 members and 153 catechumens. Two new groups have been sent apart and new work has developed in four other places. Two of the groups built new churches this year and three established branch churches and are nursing them into independence. Ten classes were held with an attendance of 275. This territory has been visited by the voluntary workers and two regular colporteurs. One section of the field has undertaken the entire support of an additional helper.

Last year 25 groups and meeting places were reported in the Eastern circuit; this year 33. Last year the whole field had an average attendance of 335 at the Sabbath services; this year 373. The contributions for last year were $85 gold; this year $100 gold was contributed. Twenty-one were baptized, making a membership of 93. Fifty-seven catechumens were received, making a total of 122 enrolled.

The Southern district has but 18 baptized Christians in full standing and an adherency of 140. The short time since regular work has commenced in this territory has been a time of seed-sowing rather than of harvesting. The seed appears to be growing, as is shown in the increased numbers who are seeking instructions. There seems to be an awakening throughout nearly the whole territory, which has manifested itself in increased interest in Bible classes, faithfulness in preaching, as evidenced by new converts and the almost doubling of the roll of catechumens. The increase in contributions, the increasing numbers of those who seek instruction and the addition of three new groups also show this awakening.

MEDICAL.—This has been a year rich in blessing to the medical work. In April, 1910, the foundation for the Duncan Hospital was laid, and the building is now completed.

Patients at once crowded in. A Korean nurse, a graduate from the Severance Hospital Training School for Nurses, and two more helpers were added, making four helpers, a nurse, Bible woman and hospital evangelist. Mrs. John P. Duncan not only built, but equipped the hospital, including a well, water-works and a gatehouse.

The hospital and dispensary evangelists meet the patients in the waiting rooms, preach to them and give them Gospels and tracts. Many come from long distances and from villages where as yet Christ is not known. These carry the Gospel back to their relatives and friends, thus enabling the dispensary to reach out into the highways and hedges. All of the hospital helpers are Christians and each has his share in the evangelistic work.

The following statistics cover the work of seven months only, since the dispensary was closed for five months of the year on account of building, but we are glad to report as much accomplished in the seven months as there was in the twelve months preceding. Expenses were $442.73. Of this $283.13 was received from the Board, the rest being raised on the field.

KANG KEI STATION.

The ill-health of some members of the Station, troubles with contractors in building the new church edifice, dissensions among the Christians and some grievous cases of discipline made the year a peculiarly trying one. But still there have been encouragements as well as anxieties. We have an excellent Mission plant, with four good brick buildings, in as pretty a spot as ever gladdened the hearts of those who preach the Gospel of glad tidings upon the mountains. On the bluff looms up in white a new church building large enough to accommodate 1,200 people. In February revival fires were kindled, resulting in 400 decisions. New teachers from Pyeng Yang and Syen Chun brought invigorating influences; our Girls' School and Boys' Grammar Schools began to flourish; the church trouble had made men strong and a new election brought into office a better leadership than the church had ever known.

EVANGELISTIC.—In the country work there has been much to encourage.

The churches of Syen Chun territory sent an ordained man as missionary among our churches in Manchuria. The churches were enlisted in the campaign; new sections heard the Gospel. Winter Bible classes in county seats were largely attended. Nine people, including three women, walked 100 miles and back to one of these classes.

New groups have been springing up faster than they can be visited. Two men came 100 miles from a place in Manchuria and reported a new group of 100 Korean Christians. The year's statistics show more than a dozen new groups, 230 baptized, 210 catechumens received, and an increase of 1,100 adherents.

In the absence of single women missionaries and with but three wives who can give but part of their time to the work, and that almost entirely to the local church, the development of woman's work is a problem. The very existence of our high school is called in question.

Bible Institute Work.—

Because of the isolation of the Station, a great deal of attention must be given to Bible Institute work. Kang Kei is too far removed to avail itself of such opportunities in other Stations. Hence there was great rejoicing that $2,500 gold for the Potter Memorial Bible Institute building had been raised by the zealous California women of the Occidental Board. This gift is the fruition of many hopes and prayers and will prove a great blessing to the work.

According to government statistics, there is a population of 211,111 in the five counties of our Station field in Korea alone, plus an ever-increasing number in Manchuria, estimated at 100,000. Our Korean missionary (Kim Moksa) in Manchuria has traveled extensively, going 150 miles (English) into the interior, and estimates the population at 150,000. The Station has therefore at least 3,000,000 people in a territory a third larger than the State of Vermont, with a population not quite as great; or as large as Maryland, with one-fourth the population; or as large as New Jersey, Delaware and Rhode Island combined, with a population a third larger than Delaware. This looks like a pretty big field for two itinerating missionaries and a total of ten Korean helpers on salary.

MEDICAL.—The good effects of the Kennedy Hospital, which was opened in February, are already felt.

Patients came 100 miles. Dr. Mills began working wonders. Harelips disappeared, lives were saved in childbirth; Koreans who had never seen a hospital were quite willing to take the "sleeping medicine" and waken up minus an eye or a foot; some even begged to be operated upon whether they needed it or not. Much was done in the hospital to overcome the bitter feeling on the part of those who left the church. A wonderful cure did more than much preaching. Each unbeliever coming to the hospital was given a copy of the Gospel according to Mark and urged to become a Christian.

AN DONG STATION.

Building operations have been vigorously pushed and a Station plant is being rapidly developed. The pledge of a generous sum for a new hospital by Mrs. A. F. Schaufler, of New York, brings added joy and meets a great need. An Dong Station's territory comprises the northern third of North Kyung Sang Province. The whole province has over 1,500,000 people, which gives us 150,000 people per ordained missionary.

EVANGELISTIC.—

Last year we reported 54 groups and 56 prayer meeting places, in which there were 117 baptized, about 300 catechumens and an average attendance estimated at 2,500. This year we report 76 groups and 86 meeting places, with 196 baptized, 644 catechumens, 392 of whom were admitted during the year. The total number of adherents is 3,926, with the average attendance at the principal service on Sundays 3,266. The number of church buildings has increased from 42 to 61. Gifts increased from yen 708 last year to yen 2,014 this year. There are nine groups of over 100 each.

This year we report eight Bible classes—three taught entirely by Koreans—with a total attendance of 1,340. One of these was for women only, the first one in the territory.

City Church.—A year ago the local church was meeting in temporary quarters and had an average attendance of 50, which increased during the summer campaign to 100. After the erection of their church building they grew rapidly, and in the early spring the men's side was often uncomfortably crowded.

Women's Work.—A class has been held for the women of the local church, and a second class for younger married women and girls.

A Christian woman from Taiku has been with us since last fall and has spent much time in the country. One group, five months after her visit, reported nine of the new believers among the women as the direct result of her preaching there. More than twice as many demands come in for visits from this woman as can be granted. The Bible class, attended by 252 women, was a great impetus to the work.

EDUCATIONAL.—No local educational work has been commenced as yet, but the local church on its own initiative has undertaken to teach both boys and girls and has a few under instruction. The schools in the country have not grown as rapidly as the churches, and the lack of teachers properly equipped has kept us from being enthusiastic about starting new schools, though we by no means minimize the value of education.

MEDICAL.—Medical work has been somewhat interrupted by a change in doctors and also in quarters for the dispensary; but considering these difficulties, much has been accomplished. During the three months and a half which Dr. Johnson spent in the work 1,268 patients were treated.

During the four months of Dr. Fletcher's work 1,875 patients have been seen. He writes:

The physician of southern Korea soon realizes that India is not the only country which has its "open sore." On every side and in all stages lepers are to be seen. They occur principally among the poorer classes; those who live in the most unsanitary conditions, with dirty and insufficient food. Tuberculosis is also our next-door neighbor. We meet every day. Sometimes it is enlarged glands and suppurating sores of the neck; then again spitting of blood, sweats, an emaciated walking skeleton or the child with its large swollen painful joints to become a cripple for life. If we are to combat this dreaded disease, somewhat similar efforts to other countries must be put forth.

One of the most pleasant phases of our work is the way our new church here has lent its support by preaching to the patients. I am sure that on an average there are three of its members in our guest room every day. They come early and stay until all are gone, bringing their Bibles and hymn books and Gospel tracts. At any hour during the whole afternoon one will hear either the heart-to-heart earnest personal preaching or a volume of song and praise ascending from this room.

MEXICO CITY STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The supervision of the evangelistic work in the City of Mexico, and a portion of the work in the Federal District, was under the charge of the veteran pastor, the Rev. Arcadio Morales. Dr. Morales had under his care 13 congregations, 12 Sunday-schools, 7 C. E. Societies, 3 day-schools. These day-schools are in the slums of the city, and the work is rather evangelistic than educational. Dr. Morales is assisted by a group of fellow-workers, ministers and others, many of them being volunteer workers. They visit hospitals, jails, garrisons of troops, out-stations at Toluca and Coyoacan, and assist in many ways in the work of evangelization. The total offerings from the various churches were 2,823.73 Mexicans. Dr. Morales writes:

The work of missions is the particular object of our attention, as is proved by the number of our many colaborers, and the consecration of 700 pesos to the support of places of worship within and outside of the capital, instead of dedicating these sums to the ornamentation of our church buildings or similar objects, because we know the conversion of souls is the most precious thing in the eyes of our Heavenly Father, and ought to constitute the first duty of the Christian Church.

Federal District and State of Mexico.—Work in the adjoining towns of the Federal District and the State of Mexico is carried on under the supervision of the Rev. Wm. Wallace, D.D. We quote from his report:

Tizapan.—This is a factory town, and during the year many families have moved away on account of strikes and disturbances in industrial conditions.

Coyoacan.—A number of families have moved into the neighborhood, but most of them belong to other denominations. As usual, the students form the bulk of the congregation.

San Andres Toltepec.—This Indian congregation suffered much by quarrels which resulted in the withdrawal of one of its oldest members, an elder of the same. But through the judicious work of our students, better feeling was restored.

Ecatzingo.—This place has suffered much by assaults of the revolutionaries and burnings of houses by Federal troops. Miss Carlotta Reyes, a graduate of the Providencia Normal in Mexico City, started a small school without Mission aid and has gradually increased it. She is also superintendent of the Sunday-school and is leaving a deep impression in the community by her fine Christian life.

One of the by-products of Missions, of which many more could be given in Mexico, was the opening of a home for friendless street boys. It was the kind thought of Dr.

Wallace which suggested this most admirable charity. In his personal report he writes:

In August some talks I had with homeless street boys in the main plaza of the city, who pass entire nights huddled in some doorway and without any covering, led me to broach the subject of a home for the little scamps to several American and Mexican acquaintances of mine. Since the Revolution the number of waifs has notably increased, and the idea met with a spontaneous response. After many conferences, in October an organization was effected and subscriptions solicited. Over $600 are actually being paid in monthly by subscriptions among all classes, a house costing $300 rent monthly has been secured and one of our Presbyterian elders has been installed as Director of the Home.

The president of the association is also mayor of Mexico City and head of the School of Laws, and at the same time a strong Catholic. Dr. Monjaras, the vice-president and a very active director, has just completed a tour through South America, inspecting the Panama Canal, and is a member of the Sanitary Commission of the capital.

PRESS.—The Mission Press, located in Mexico City, is under the charge of the Rev. W. E. Vanderbilt and had a prosperous year. We give a few extracts from Mr. Vanderbilt's very valuable report:

Strictly speaking, there are three distinct departments in the work that has been generally considered as belonging to the Press Manager: (1) The Press. (2) The Periodical Literature. (3) Book Agency.

In our own work we have printed El Faro weekly in an edition varying from 2,350 to 2,500; the Cuaderno (Sunday-school Quarterly) in number from 6,000 to 6,200, and El Fanal in a monthly edition of 1,500 to 1,600.

A year ago I said, "Without doubt, the circulation of these Helps is more than double that of the publications of any of our sister Churches." I am now able to confirm that statement, as at the conference which was held with the two Methodist churches which resulted in an agreement to print union publications, the Northern Methodists reported their issue as 1,000 and the Southern Methodists theirs as 4,000.

We have also continued printing an edition of 1,000 of our little English magazine, Presbyterian Work in Mexico.

Due to the liberality of Mr. Luther D. Wishard, we were able to publish a Spanish edition of 1,000 of Dr. Trumbull's "Individual Work for Individuals."

In our work for others we have put through the presses 526 jobs (an increase of 63 over last year—13½ per cent. increase), varying in character from a simple card to a book of pages. In periodical literature we have been printing El Evangelista twice a month for the Southern Methodists; La Iglesia en Mexico, a monthly for the Episcopalians; La Salud, monthly, for Dr. Salmans, of the Northern Methodist Church; El Eco de Coyoacan, monthly, for the students of the College; Tabasco, monthly, for Mr. Palavicini; El Adalid Metodista, monthly, for a part of the year, for Mr. Amador, of the Northern Methodist Church.

As the circulation of our periodical literature has extended to foreign countries, the same orders are received with increasing frequency from Central and South America, West Indies, Spain and the Philippines. The sales for the year are the best in the history of our work, there having been an increase of 41 per cent. over the sales of last year, which had held the record previously, amounting to $2,871.32.

The Union Church secured during the year the pastoral services of the Rev. Sidney S. Conger. Under his efficient leadership the church has grown rapidly, and is one of the potent evangelistic forces in the City of Mexico. The members of the Mission have been of great assistance in the work of the church. Some idea of the prosperity of the church can be gained from the report of the Ladies' Aid Society, at the close of the fiscal year, showing a balance in the treasury of over $1,700.

COYOACAN FEDERAL DISTRICT.

EDUCATIONAL.—The College is under the care of Prof. Robert A. Brown. From his report we glean the following:

There were five instructors who gave their whole time to the College and Preparatory Departments, and four special teachers, two of whom taught music, another was loaned us by the Y. M. C. A. of the city to take charge of the athletics; and the fourth carried on the work of the English Department. Of the nine teachers, five were Mexicans, two were Americans, one was an Italian and one a Hondurian.

The College classes followed the new five-year curriculum as near as circumstances would permit. Partly because of this change in the course of study, there was no third-year class. The two years in the Preparatory department plus the five years in College make a long course for a boarding school to be responsible for, but the principal objection to such a course is its expense. For every young man who passes through the Preparatory department and the College, the institution must spend at least $1,260 Mex. This means a great drain on the Board's yearly budget. Of course, when one looks at the question from the standpoint of our boarding-schools at home, it seems almost incredible that a student's education, including board, room, light, laundry, books, all repairs, and the salaries of the teachers should cost per year only about $90 U. S. currency, but such is the case in "Coyoacan."

Attendance and Scholarship: The enrollment in the Preparatory department this year was 23; in the College, 34; making a total of 57, all of whom were boarders except 3. The father of one of our boys became lieutenant-colonel in the Army of Liberation and was thus enabled at a single payment to liquidate a debt for a whole year's tuition.

Self-support: As to self-support, this has been the banner year. There has been collected for tuitions for the College and the Preparatory department a total of $4,305.04. Adding to this the amount collected for the students of the Theological Seminary, which was $994.96, brings the grand total up to $5,300. This means that during the school year there has been paid into the treasury the sum of $588.88 every month.

The wife of the principal is a very important member of the Faculty, as this item taken from her personal report indicates:

When school began my troubles did, too as the cook whom we had engaged failed us at the last moment. Fortunately, I was able to secure a capable girl who, although not a cook, did very well for a while, but on and off until about the end of May I had to attend personally to the boys' dining-room. I also tried to be present during meals so as to help serve.

In June we were able to secure the services of a cook who remained until it was nearly time for school to be out. We were able to get the cost of board reduced to 14 cents U. S. currency per boy, per day, or 98 cents per week, including every expense connected with the kitchen and dining-room. Every Friday being market day, I have done the school marketing myself and have only missed a few times.

Coyoacan Seminary.—Rev. William Wallace, D.D., President of the Seminary, reports:

The Seminary opened March 1, and closed November 15, with the graduation of five young men, all of whom are actually engaged in work in different Mission fields. The Theological course is limited at present to two years, but only a few of those who come to the institution with the idea of studying for the ministry are able to reach the Seminary course. But those who do are generally thoroughly tested in their Christian character and capacity for Christian work before entering the Seminary.

The students were divided into two groups for practice in religious activities. During the first term half of them remained in Coyoacan to take charge of classes of younger boys in the Sunday-school, while the rest went out to the neighboring towns, accompanying less experienced boys from the College in the conducting of services. This proved very satisfactory in its results. On one occasion, however, one of our most serious-minded young theologues of some 28 years was arrested as a suspected revolutionist while sitting in a restaurant eating his Sunday dinner in the neighboring town of Xochimilco. He was carried before the Secretary of War, before being released from a confinement of 24 hours in the military jail.

We hear good reports of the graduates of former years all over the Republic and in other countries. The five young men of the class of 1911 presented very creditable addresses on graduation day. One of them sent us from Cuba has returned, has been ordained and is only waiting for a convenient season in which to return and carry off a Mexican Presbyterian wife. Another is working under the Zacatecas Presbytery, and three others within the bounds of the Tamaulipas Presbytery. The tuition of four of them was paid for from sources outside the Board's appropriations.

San Angel Normal School.—The school formerly located in Mexico City and known as the Mexico City Girls' School is now fully established in its new home, known as Posadas in the town of San Angel. Posadas is about a mile from Coyoacan. The school has been long enough in its new quarters to test their worth. The buildings are large and commodious and admirably adapted to the purpose to which they are devoted. The seven acres of ground enclosed by a high wall, with numerous fruit trees and a soil well adapted to raising of vegetables, make an ideal plant for a girls' boarding school. The principal, Miss Cathcart, reports a year of great blessing:

Seventy-five girls were enrolled. Five years ago there were 38. The servants, like the teachers, are not new, and their praises have appeared before in reports. No one ever had more faithful servants than the Girls' Normal School at San Angel. Old Teresa does the marketing and oversees the kitchen work. There were three girls in the kitchen and six in the dining-room every day. In this way each girl had a chance to be in the kitchen about one day in the month. Every one has some part of the work program each day. Very few tasks planned require more than half an hour and that early in the morning. The days in the kitchen and dining-room are the only hard ones.

As formerly, we carried three departments—elemental, grammar and normal. The first two are under the inspection of the government. When the inspector visited at the examinations he seemed exceedingly pleased. He did most of the questioning himself. In his report to the General Secretary he said he wanted to make such honorable and special mention of this school because the Protestant schools did not often reach the standard set by the government, and he was delighted and surprised to find our teachers and pupils more than complying with the requirements.

ZACATECAS AND AGUAS CALIENTES.

Rev. John T. Molloy, while located at the city of Aguas Calientes and pastor of the English church there, spent much time in itinerating in both the States of Aguas Calientes and Zacatecas. During the year, although revolutionists were busy in the territory over which he has supervision and though his friends were continually urging him to remain at home, he carried on his usual extensive itinerating work.

EVANGELISTIC.—The church work in the city of Aguas Calientes was much interrupted during the year on account of the Revolution. When peace was declared, the citizens of Aguas Calientes celebrated with a riot. Two attacks were made on the church. The blows on the door burst off the bolts and broke the panels, but pews piled against the door kept the crowd from forcing its way in. After the first attack the missionary and his wife agreed that there would most likely be another, but between the attacks they lay down in peace and slept. Before morning Mr. Molloy went out and fixed the door. A number of persons during the day commented on the strength of the door of the Protestant church.

Mr. Molloy writes enthusiastically of the new places where he hopes to open work—Calvillo, Venadero, El Sauz, La Presa, San Pedro, Jalpa, Juchipila, Letras, Rincon de Romos, Tepezala, Asientos, Villanueva and Huejucar—as follows:

The State of Zacatecas is a little world in itself. The city of Zacatecas, once the most important place in Central Mexico, is now reduced to near half its former population. The last census gives the inhabitants at 23,000. Naturally, our church has suffered for years from this decline of the city, but it is comforting to find in all parts of the country believers who first heard the Gospel in Zacatecas.

Only a few incidents of a year's doings can be recounted in this report. In one 250 miles' buggy trip I played hide and seek with the revolutionists. For instance, I had gone out of Ojocaliente when they came in and made a lively raid on the town, taking horses and money according to their sweet will. Another time, as I went to Villa de Cos by one road they had just gone out by another. I found our people had been terrorized in a shameful way. The soldiers had gone through the yard and house of Don Catarino Flores, shooting at random and demanding $500, when as a matter of fact the family could not have given $5.

Of Dona Ines Jauregui they demanded $300, and when she told them that she did not have it, they threatened to carry off her daughter, Mary. The poor mother was fortunately able to borrow the $300, and in that way saved her girl. Don Victor Diaz was arrested for some imaginary offense and trotted from place to place like a real criminal. Our people were so terrified that they doubted the prudence of our having public service; but we had the services, and heartily did the people join in them. Of course, the improper deeds of these revolutionists were not approved by their chief, Don Francisco I. Madero. At San Francisco de los Adames, I ran into a band of maderistas. I drove to the door of their headquarters and went to their chief and told him who I was and he gave me a letter asking all maderistas to respect my person and property.

My outfit when itinerating consists of a folding organ, Bible chromos, temperance charts, stereopticon with temperance and Bible views, and a light spring wagon in which to carry this outfit.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Aguas Calientes Station is well known, especially among the members of the former Cumberland Church, for its great Normal School, known as the "Colegio Morelos." This school is under the efficient supervision of Miss Mary F. Turner and Miss Kate Spencer. Miss Turner writes:

"Colegio Morelos" began its thirteenth year's work under my direction with seven women and three men teachers in the Spanish departments. There were only ten grades taught this year.

Besides these ten grades there were organized special classes in book-keeping, stenography, cutting and fitting, sight-singing, piano, drawing, gymnastics and English, all of which were continued till October 12, save the English class, which had to be suspended the last of August for lack of a teacher.

The day-school was well attended and the second week found every available seat taken, there being present 67 of the 87 pupils enrolled. Nine of our old pupils were forced to remain at home because of the Revolution. The absence on furlough of both Miss Spencer and Miss Turner necessitated several changes in the teaching staff. These changes were naturally demoralizing, but in spite of all this the school still exists, though with a smaller number of pupils than usual, 47 pupils having been enrolled this year, against 64 last year.

SAN LUIS POTOSI STATION.

The city of San Luis Potosi was a great place of refuge for the persecuted of both parties during the Revolution, and some of the families connected with the church suffered. When peace was declared it was not an uncommon sight to see in the evening service members of both parties. In one case there was present a man upon whose head a premium had been set by the government. The Gospel is a great leveler and gives humanity a common interest which is above any earthly existence. The Revolution interfered greatly with the work of the Station, but Rev. Newell J. Elliott, who is in charge, writes encouragingly of the situation.

We visited the congregation in San Luis Potosi in company with the pastor soon after our arrival. Thus we became acquainted with the people and tried to encourage them. When we consider what the congregation was a year or so ago and what it is to-day, we have much to rejoice over. It was simply a case of resurrection from the old ruins against great odds which are well known to all.

The Revolution interfered with the church services at times and a few times it was thought prudent not to have services when the city was threatened. The interest in the church has been growing and scarcely a service passes in which there is not some new person present or some one attending after a lapse of a couple of years. There have been received 12 persons on profession of faith and 6 children baptized. A Christian Endeavor Society was organized in July and now has 18 members.

A new feature of the work is a "visitor" or Bible woman, who began work July 1. This woman was the unanimous choice of the pastor and ourselves for this special work. The customs of the country will not permit much calling by the pastor and others, so it is hard to make much progress. The results have more than satisfied us that she is doing a fine work. She has been politely asked not to call again at certain homes. In a certain ward of the city at first she found the leaflets and the Gospels which she had given out later torn and thrown in the street. Now it is quite rare to see this, which only goes to prove that any such wild moves could not disturb her and only made her more anxious to tame them. The visitor goes as far as she can and then turns over the cases to the pastor. There is no omitting these calls. I have known some weeks when the visitor kept the pastor on the go almost the entire week, just visiting and talking with the people with whom she had arranged interviews. We like to call this, getting the belts adjusted to the wheels.

I have been able to interest several young men employed in the government offices in evangelical literature and the Bible, and we hope later on they may truly declare themselves. We hope later on, also, to be able to open another place of worship in the city if we can rent a suitable house. This will be hard to do, for the place is very fanatical. In talking with a Protestant the other day, she said that the Romanists of San Luis are more tolerant than they used to be and they do not fear any evil when living in the same home or flat with a Protestant. However, the old people are very fanatical and are devoted to the saints. Her mother believes that the little wooden images in the churches hear prayers and communicate the prayers to Christ. The daughter offered to make a test of the saints and said to her mother: "We will go to the church and take a sharp knife and cut off a finger of the saint, and if there is any sign of blood we will know then that he has the breath of life in him, and if he can perform miracles he will be able to supply the missing finger without any inconvenience." This was too much for the old mother and she refused to put her idol to any test so exacting.

At one of the services in Cardenas a man and his wife were present who had come in from the mountains many miles, believing they would find a Protestant service on a certain night. They inquired in the afternoon about a service, but several Romanists had told them there were no Protestants in the town. They were finally correctly advised and were present at the service. They are not members of any church, but they are surely Christians. Some of the old visions and incidents in the Bible are not hard to believe when we see the modern ones.

In Rayon we have a fine little church and the members keep up the Sunday-school and the C. E. Society. In fact, all in this congregation are very active in the work and are very united. We held a week's services and the people seemed much helped. The building is rather small and several of the Nicodemus variety stood outside in the shadow, but we didn't object just so they heard the Gospel. The people give very liberally, both of time and of their possessions. The past year they contributed in cash $37.54 besides the entertainment of those who visited them. During the past year they had the joy of seeing two converted through their work. One of their number gave a little tract to a man on a ranch while he was out in the country. Some weeks later, two people came into Rayon and sought the Protestant church. The faithful members of this church read and explained the Scriptures to them and they accepted Christ. The son of one of the members of this church attended Coyoacan College the past year and now, during the vacation, he visits the ranches and also carries with him on his burro a supply of Bibles to sell and tracts and gospels to distribute which we furnished him.

One of the members keeps her Bible open in the kitchen and will read aloud from it while she works and thus others who cannot read hear it also.

In the Huasteca district we were hindered first by the Revolution and then by the rain. Señor Villamar, a student, took this trip with me, but we struck an unusually bad time on account of the heavy rains which came out of schedule order. The rain fell day and night for almost a week, and in the mountain region it means that the rivers and streams become impassable. A severe attack of malaria put the student out of commission for a while, and it was with some difficulty that I got him back to San Luis. We held services in several of the towns in this region and there was a good interest. In Coscotlan the Romanists are making special efforts to get back their power, but they are not making much at it. Quite a number of girls from this place are attending school in "Colegio Morelos," Aguas Calientes, and one boy was at school in Coyoacan College last year. It is a wonderful thing when the boys and girls from these remote districts enter our schools. They break down prejudice and the students almost always return from our schools Christians or very friendly to the work. This always means a great opportunity to make a beginning in the community wherever any of these students may be found. The parents and neighbors in the towns from which the students come talk about the schools and thus the interest and enthusiasm spreads.

SALTILLO STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Saltillo field, under the care of the Rev. Charles Petran, reports through him as follows:

This field, which has for its centre the work in Saltillo, is our most northern work in the Republic of Mexico. One of the most exciting incidents of the year was in connection with one of the prisoners in the jail, who was our principal worker among the prisoners and most faithful at the services. The Diaz government ordered him shot for having taken part in the revolution at Viesca. As soon as the order was received every effort was made to influence the governor in his favor. The director of the prison even stated that he was his greatest help in keeping order in the prison. Mr. Pure made the condemned man a matter of prayer, holding special services in the church and even in the school. It seemed, however, that all was in vain. The minister of justice seemed to be determined to have the man shot, even sending a telegram asking why he had not been shot when a slight delay had been secured. He was put in the "Capilla de Muerte," but when Mr. Pure visited him there he still had faith in the answer to their prayers. At 11 o'clock Saturday night an order came from Diaz ordering the execution stopped and changing the death penalty to 20 years' imprisonment. It is needless to say that a great impression was made in the whole prison by what had transpired.

A large part of the prisoners attended our services the next day and the Gospel was preached to them with greater fervor than ever.

The jail service has become a feature of the Presbyterian work in the city not because we have wanted it all to ourselves, but because the others have dropped out. These were continued without interruption till the Maderistas took the town and then they were discontinued by the new governor. With the beginning of the new year the privilege has again been granted and the services are now being held.

Monterey.—The work in the Monterey church has been characterized this year by the activities of six young men, members of the church. They have entered whole-hearted into the work of evangelization. Every week they hold a service in one of the wards of the town, and every second week Sunday services at Mezquital, a place where the Mission maintained a school for many years.

Lerdo.—A young lady in Lerdo, noted for her intense Catholicism, who has studied to be a nun, thought that the priests were saints, but through some trying and most unpleasant experiences learned that they were just the contrary. The revelation was such a shock that she openly divulged and condemned their conduct. The priests tried to make her retract, but she was firm in her assertions. They in turn said that she was insane and did everything possible against her. It happened that she has a relative who had been a student in the Aguas Calientes school. They had had some sharp religious encounters, but the commendable conduct of our Protestant girl made an impression on her, and she could not forget it. She also had a friend who was a member of our congregation in Lerdo, and these influences brought her under the influence of the Gospel. In November she was received in the Lerdo church. After being a member of our congregation, the wife of a doctor took her into her employ for the express purpose of getting her to renounce her faith. The doctor's wife used all sorts of persuasion, but to no avail. She said that when she took a step it was always on firm ground and that she would not reconsider. She finally left her employment. She has two nieces whom she wishes to put in the Saltillo School.

Torreon.—To get the idea that Protestant work was growing popular in Mexico, you should have seen the audiences of more than 300 people that attended the evening services when the Presbytery of Zacatecas met in Torreon last January. But the ministers had hardly gotten to their homes when the revolutionary rumors began to disturb the ordinary march of events in Torreon, and the attendance began to fall off at the services, until the last month of the Revolution, when the church was closed for three weeks. During this time it naturally suffered in collections, but the pastor points with justifiable pride to the fact that in the three months immediately following the Revolution, that is June, July and August, when there was greater poverty than usual, the collections amounted to $410.38.

Gomez Lerdo Torreon.—In the church itself a total of 290 services have been held, ranging in average attendance of 44 at the volunteers' meeting to 180 at the Sunday night service.

Allende Field—Valle de Hidalgo.—The notable event of the year in Valle de Hidalgo was the completion and dedication of their chapel on July 2, with a series of special services, which were attended by people from the whole district. The members and friends of the congregation contributed 145 days of work and $380.10 (Mexican currency). As the young man who had charge of the building project said, at the dedication, the chapel was erected by their energies and the sweat of their brow. It is a monument to what a little ranch congregation can do when they think that they can. For thirty years they thought that they could not and the building stone laid around. Now they have a neat little chapel with plenty of ventilation.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Normal School at Saltillo completed another prosperous year under the efficient guidance of Miss Jennie Wheeler. In her report she states:

No superstition seems to be attached to the number 13 in Saltillo School, for thirteen young ladies were graduated again last year, and, like the preceding class, quickly obtained positions.

We have now graduated 150 girls from the Saltillo School. We have at present 76 graduates teaching, 49 married, 9 have died, 8 are at home, 7 have not done well, and one I have lost track of completely, as she went to the States with a sister.

It seems to me it is an important thing for teachers to keep in touch with those who go out as graduates from our school, and I have tried to do so by writing short personal letters as often as possible to them—the married ones as well as the teachers.

We enrolled 73 boarders last year, but only 10 day-pupils, as we did not reopen the primary department closed the year before and received no pupils below the sixth grade.

Fifty-five girls are members of our church, eight uniting this year. Complying with the request of Synod and Presbytery, I have revised the course of study and have submitted it to the Zacatecas Presbytery and the School Committee.

The Property Committee thus report extensive repairs made on the property of the Saltillo Normal School and the building of Jubilee Hall.

In the general repairs, about every part of the building received the attention of a hammer, a trowel or a paint brush. An addition was built to the second-story front dormitory which provides space for ten beds, and besides gives to the front of the building an architectural balance which it did not have before.

Jubilee Hall was completed. It contains one large dressing and trunk room and bath department on the ground floor. This room measures 20 by 48 and is furnished with twenty lavatories, eight closets, five bath tubs and five shower baths. The floor is of cement and the different departments are separated by appropriate partitions.

The second floor is divided into two large dormitories. Both dormitories are well lighted and ventilated.

The corridor of the patio has not been completed, as a little more pretentious plan has been evolved which it is hoped to carry out later on. The Jubilee gift of the women's societies has made it possible to fit up the Saltillo School property in a very commodious manner and to give it an individuality and attractiveness which it has not had before.

MICHOACAN AND TOLUCA.

These fields are under the care of the Rev. W. E. Vanderbilt. We quote from his report:

The uniting of the Michoacan and Toluca Districts in order to form one field was by no means due to affinity, for in nearly every respect they are opposites or at least markedly different.

TOLUCA.

Climate—Uniformly cold.
 Altitude—About 9,000 feet.
 Religious attitude—Very fanatical.
 Race—Largely Aztecs.

Members—All poor.

MICHOCAN.

Includes all three zones.
 From 2,000 to 9,000 feet.
 Very liberal.
 Aztecs, Tarascan and Oyomi, but largely the mixed peoples.
 All classes, several rich land owners

However, as it is necessary to pass through Toluca to reach the Michoacan work, the two were united, and it has been well, for it makes a well-balanced work, the discouragements of the one being set off by the encouragements in the other.

The Toluca church is distinguished for the specializing in Christian work by different members. One, who has a small business in Yankee notions, spends every available moment in personal tract distribution and in visiting the prisons; one, who is a newsdealer, gives his time to the propagation of temperance; two others spend every Sunday afternoon in visiting the adjoining villages; and three young ladies are specialists in the primary Sunday-school. Mr. Fergara, aided by his corps of helpers, has been able to visit many new places and has doubled the extension of the work during the year and nine months that he has been on the field.

In the Zitacuaro District many of the groups have suffered from various causes.

Zitacuaro Church.—There have been practically no changes in this church during the past year. The two schools have continued as during last year under the immediate direction of a local directorate representing all classes of Zitacuaro society. Little by little the distinctive Gospel features have been emphasized, until there can be no doubt in the mind of the public as to their character. Every parent must give his consent to the attendance of his child at a religious service in our chapel every Thursday afternoon. There have been four teachers in the Girls' School and five in the Boys'. The enrollment in the two schools is 229, and they are occupying a recognized place in the community.

GUERRERO.

No missionary is located in this State. The Evangelistic Committee of the Presbytery for the State of Guerrero during the year made a tour, visiting the various churches and groups scattered throughout the State. There are several men at work under the care of the Mission. The fields are white unto the harvest.

JALAPA AND THE GULF STATES.

Jalapa and the Gulf States were under the charge, for a portion of the year, of the Rev. Isaac Boyce. In the few months of his service, he, as usual, did much itinerating work. We give a few extracts from his long and valuable report:

I crossed to Progreso and visited in turn Progreso, Merida, Ticul, Akil, Muna and some of the small towns outlying from them. From Merida I went to Campeche, and from there continued to Laguna de Carmen, visiting some outside points, and continued the journey to Tabasco.

I returned from Tabasco by way of Frontera and Coatzacoalcas, remaining some five days in the latter city. From here I continued on to San Geronimo, Jalisco and Tuxtla Gutierrez, where I remained for ten days. I returned from Chiapas to Jalapa by way of Vera Cruz.

Our meeting of Presbytery opened on the evening after our arrival. It so happened that our chapel faces one of the Roman Catholic churches, and the priest arranged to hold an opposition service to drive out the Protestants. Mr. Lope, retiring moderator of Presbytery, preached the opening sermon. It soon developed into a contest of lung power between the priest and the preacher, and Lope won out.

This opening service assured us large audiences at all our services. On Tuesday a very earnest request was sent in by some of the most intelligent men in Laguna, asking that a candid comparison between the Protestant and the Roman Catholic beliefs be presented in some one of our services. Mr. Granados was appointed to preach the sermon, and it was the very best effort I have ever heard him make. He held his audience for an hour and a quarter, although the temperature was near the hundred mark.

As an outcome of the impression made by Mr. Alvarez, during the time he has been in Laguna, and of the impression made by the meeting of Presbytery, a few days after the adjournment of the meeting, a committee of prominent men waited on Mr. Alvarez and asked if it would be possible to secure a Protestant teacher to go to Laguna as inspector of the public schools. A male teacher was preferred, but in case none were available they would be willing to accept a lady-teacher. As all our teachers were already engaged and as the political situation was so acute, we were not able to furnish the teacher and lost what was certainly a most favorable opportunity to put an evangelical worker in a position of influence and trust.

MISSIONS IN PERSIA.

EAST PERSIA MISSION.

TEHERAN: capital of Persia, 70 miles south of the Caspian Sea; population 300,000; work begun in 1872. Missionaries—Rev. J. L. Potter, D.D., and Mrs. Potter, Rev. S. M. Jordan and Mrs. Jordan, Rev. Charles A. Douglas and Mrs. Douglas, Miss Cora C. Bartlett, Miss Mary J. Smith, M.D., Miss Annie W. Stocking, Miss Bessie Allen and Rev. E. K. DeWitt and Mrs. DeWitt.

HAMADAN: 200 miles southwest of Teheran; population 40,000; occupied in 1880. Missionaries—Rev. James W. Hawkes and Mrs. Hawkes, J. A. Funk, M.D., and Mrs. Funk, Rev. Geo. F. Zoeckler, Miss Annie Montgomery, Miss Ada C. Holmes, Dr. Mary Allen and Rev. Cody H. Allen and Mrs. Allen.

KAZVIN: 100 miles northwest of Teheran. Missionaries—E. T. Lawrence, M.D., and Mrs. Lawrence.

RESHT: 170 miles northwest of Teheran, near the Caspian Sea; occupied 1904. Missionaries—Rev. H. C. Schuler and Mrs. Schuler, Davidson Frame, M.D., and Rev. C. R. Murray and Mrs. Murray.

KERMANS SHAH: Rev. F. M. Stead and Mrs. Stead.

MESHED: occupied as a Mission Station 1911. Rev. L. F. Esselstyn, D.D., and Mrs. Esselstyn.

TRANSFERS: Rev. L. F. Esselstyn from Teheran to Meshed.

RESIGNATION: Miss Rosa Shoenhair.

FURLONGHS DURING THE YEAR: Miss Cora C. Bartlett.

The Mission received during the year the largest body of new missionaries that it has received for many years: Mr. and Mrs. De Witt, assigned to Teheran; Mr. and Mrs. Murray, assigned to Resht; Mr. and Mrs. Allen and Dr. Mary D. Allen, assigned to Hamadan, and Miss Phoebe Potter, returned, although not under missionary appointment, to be with her parents and to teach as she might be able in the Girls' School in Teheran. Miss Shoenhair, after returning home on furlough, resigned her connection with the Mission. At the end of the Mission year, Dr. Esselstyn was transferred from Teheran to Meshed, fulfilling the long-cherished idea of the Mission and the Board to occupy this most sacred city in Persia, which represents also the closest present approach to doing missionary work in Afghanistan from the western side,

TEHERAN STATION.

The general report of Teheran states:

There was no lack of obstacles—they sometimes loomed large and the load grew heavy—but there has been no backward step nor standing still. There was poverty more dire than usual, political unrest, severity of weather, but these things were not allowed by Providence to prevent the success of His work.

Great distress was caused in Teheran by the extraordinarily severe winter and the resulting scarcity and high cost of food and fuel. For the help of the poor, in addition to the Christmas offering, a subscription was circulated by the English congregation among themselves and the diplomatic corps and the sum of Krs. 9,670 realized, which made a total fund for this purpose of Krs. 12,368.65.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The good attendance at the Persian church service has continued, with an average for the Sunday-school of 137, and at the Persian preaching service of 141.

In addition to the members on the church roll, there are between 20 and 30 communicants (including converts from Islam) who for one reason or another have not united with the Evangelical (Armenian) church, and the time for the organization of a separate Persian-speaking church does not seem to have arrived as yet. Owing to the difference in the social customs of the Armenians and Moslems, the former object to the Moslems being received into their church, and looking at their girls who are present in the congregation unveiled.

The English service was held 35 Sundays from the beginning of October to the end of May, when the Legations and foreigners betake themselves to the villages at the foot of the mountains to escape the summer heat in the city. The average attendance has increased noticeably with the growth of the foreign community. The average has been the past season 47, but at the Christmas and Easter services the congregation numbered 135 and 100 respectively, a large increase from the early days when 40 to 50 was about the limit at these special services.

The Wednesday afternoon meeting at Dr. Esselstyn's house for Moslem inquirers has been continued with increasing interest, the attendance at times reaching a score or more. At this meeting some converted Moslems have, at times, openly argued for the truth of Christianity with the Moslems in attendance.

Itinerating Work.—Dr. Frame, of Resht and Bodvelling Mehran, made a long itinerating trip into the Province of Khorasan, of which Dr. Frame writes:

I availed myself of the opportunity to make numerous calls upon the officials and other acquaintances whom I met. As usual, in eight cases out of ten throughout the whole trip, I found the officials essentially irreligious. They were making a great show of effort—some of it sincere—to establish the constitutional government and open liberal institutions; but their own irreligion was a double hindrance, because on the one side the common people distrusted them as unbelievers and opposed their efforts, and second because they themselves do not have the motives for uprightness of character which are necessary if they are to lead others into truth and uprightness.

In proportion to population, the book sales in Kuchan were perhaps the largest we had except in Bandar-i-Jaz. The day before we left, an old Armenian called me into his office and, after asking about our success, he said, "You have sold about thirty New Testaments here. You have done enough for the present, and can go on your trip. I was in Resht thirty years ago when the colporteurs first came there, and you know what Resht is to-day. Those books started a fire which the mullahs could not quench, and it will be the same here in Kuchan. You have done your part."

From Kuchan we traveled to Meshed in merchant wagons, taking a little over three days to cover the 80 miles. Our drivers were Protestant Russians known as Molokans. Their religious scruples do not allow them to use liquor or tobacco, and they were the finest specimens of manhood we have met in a long time. Although we had no common language, it was a real pleasure to travel with them.

About seven o'clock in the morning of the fourth day we came in sight of Meshed, "the glory of the Shiia world." The city owes its importance to the fact that one of the martyred Imams of the Shiia sect of the Moslems is buried here, over whose tomb has been erected an immense and beautiful shrine, into which no unbeliever may enter. The glory consists chiefly if not solely in outward show, for the reverence paid to the dead saint and his tomb partakes closely of the nature of idolatry, as even some Persians will admit; while the city is filled with legalized prostitution under the form of temporary marriages.

Woman's Work.—Daily personal work was carried on by Mrs. Potter in the women's dispensary and hospital, and the Gospel story was thus told to a great multitude of poor sick folks, some of whom received it gladly. Frequently women who came to the dispensary have returned, though not needing medical advice, to listen to the Scripture talk; and it was good to see that any patient, returning for a time, seemed to be eager for the Bible hour.

In Mrs. Jordan's home the Wednesday afternoon meetings for Persian women and girls filled the reception room to overflowing with sometimes as many as 60 or 70, drawn there for a distinctively religious service. Occasionally some of the women converts from Islam took part in or even conducted the meeting. It was wonderful to hear the clear and intelligent testimony and to witness the boldness of these Persian young women in speaking of Christ to the large assembly. Quite a remarkable event, a milestone in the way of progress, was the leading of this women's meeting by Elizabeth, the Moslem girl baptized last year. Among the audience of nearly 65 were several ladies of high rank, strict Moslems, present for the first time, who knew her well. It was plain to see that they did not approve of the straight Christian talk she was giving, but she did not flinch. Her text was, "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, so must the Son of Man be lifted up."

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The Boys' School reports the most prosperous year in its history. The enrollment was 348, or 45 more than last year, of whom 191 were Mohammedans, 136 Armenians, 20 Jews and 1 Zoroastrian. Lack of room made it necessary to reject numbers who applied, so only the very best and most likely pupils were accepted, and a high grade of scholarship was thus maintained. The self-supporting boarding department proved even more successful than had been anticipated, and if adequate quarters could be provided, indications are, that next year the school could easily have 100 boarders.

Never have the Bible lessons been so well learned; never have the students been so interested in them. One-third or more of the attendants at the Sabbath services are boys from the school. All the teachers are either professing Christians or our own graduates, some of whom are Christians and all of whom are in hearty sympathy with our work. The Christian Workers' Class is largely composed of teachers and pupils from the school. While we wish the one objection urged against the school were true—"All the boys of the American School become Christians"—nevertheless the one thing above all others which the Persians appreciate and praise is the moral character for which our boys are noted. It is a tribute to the school, but a sad commentary on their home lives, to hear Moslem parents say, as they seek a place for their sons in the boarding department, "I want to get this boy away from the influence of the home and under your care; for however good the instruction in the school may be, it is counteracted by home influences."

On Commencement Day, 7 graduates and 1 special, 6 of them being Moslems and 2 Armenians, delivered orations that were well received by all of the influential audience that crowded the church, and some of which were subsequently printed in the Persian newspapers.

Iran Bethel Girls' School.—

Iran Bethel has had an unprecedentedly good year, and still holds its own as the only school in Teheran for the higher education of girls. The Persian department has grown in attendance to almost an equal size with the Armenian—134 Persian-speaking girls were enrolled and 136 Armenian—and it is these Persian girls also who furnish by far the greater part of the income from tuition. There have been during the year several instances of the spiritual influence of the school yielding welcome result. Four of the Armenian girls who were candidates for church membership, after a careful personal training, were received into the Evangelical Church. Some of the Moslem girls have given hopeful evidence of a change of heart. Three girls of high family are only deterred from an open confession of Christ by their parents' prohibition. One of these, a very sweet and transparently sincere Moslem girl, when accused by her companions of being a follower of Christ, replied, "I glory in the fact that I am a Christian." A few of the older Moslem girls have already been baptized and their testimony to Christ is very strong and open. Probably the Mission church never held a larger, more tightly squeezed-in audience than that which eagerly listened to the Girls' School commencement exercises on June 9. Admittance was only by invitation, and all were women, excepting a few special friends of the school or heads of families. The President and some of the Deputies of Parliament, the representative of the Regent, Minister of Education, many Persians of rank, leading Armenian merchants, and the families of the American and British Legations were among the 600 guests present. It was the largest graduating class the school had ever had; contained the first Persian girl, and the first "granddaughter," i. e., the first daughter of a former pupil to graduate. A difficult problem was presented by what custom should be regarded by the Senior class, veil or no veil, speech or no speech, for this was the first time that a Persian girl ever faced such an audience. But with becoming modesty and accomplished manner the five girls delivered their orations, four obtaining diplomas, and one who had been hindered in her course by illness, receiving a certificate. Of the graduates two were Armenian, one Hebrew-Armenian, another Armenian-Moslem, and the fourth a Moslem, whose father is a well-known, dignified sayyid; all of the five girls are now Christians.

MEDICAL WORK.—The Medical Department, notwithstanding the loss of Dr. Wishard and the absence of any successor, has been enabled by the untiring labors of Dr. Mary Smith, and the exceedingly generous and self-sacrificing co-operation of Dr. Joseph Scott, of the Indo-European Telegraph Department, to keep open its doors and minister to a steady stream of patients.

The total number of patients admitted to the men's wards was 61, and to the women's ward 51. Many more would have been glad to come in whom it was impossible to receive, as the admissions were limited to surgical and special cases, and to those who had come many miles confidently expecting to find the hospital ready to receive and care for them.

The two young native assistants, Mirza Mousa and Mirza Quavam, have conducted the men's dispensary, assisted at the operations and been of much faithful help in all the work.

Many of the patients came for operations on the eyes, since in this desert country many are afflicted with blindness, and their usual plea always moved the doctor's heart, "Just to see before their feet that they might not be dependent on any one to bring them bread and water or to lead them about." One of these was a little blind boy unusually innocent of heart and of such a cheerful, happy disposition that he became a great favorite with all the hospital people.

HAMADAN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—As Mrs. Stead writes in the account of the evangelistic work for women:

"The question may at one time have been, 'How can we get at these people?' but not now. The great question now is, 'How can we make use of this cordial welcome and this interest in our social position and manner of living to arouse an interest in and a longing for those greater blessings that God has given to us and which have not yet been shared with them?'"

In the St. Stephen's Church, whose only accessions were six girls from the Faith Hubbard School, some progress was made toward self-support by the adoption of the Duplex Envelope system, with weekly contributions and a personal canvass. In the Peniel Church, which gathers the Jews and the Moslems, as the St. Stephen's gathers the Armenians, although there are many Moslem attendants at St. Stephen's, the report states:

A number of young men in this church, who are prominent physicians, are doing a large amount of personal work among Jews and Moslems, and have the evangelization of this land seriously at heart. Church services have been well attended, even in cold weather; the room has usually been well filled, and as warmer weather has come on, the audiences have often overflowed the place of worship.

In this church, too, the Duplex Envelope System was introduced, but Mr. Stead says "the people are giving in pitiful disproportion to their ability." A Jewess, Tubah, was baptized, and admitted to the Lord's Table.

Of Lilahan, Mr. Stead writes:

The people have done absolutely nothing toward church support, and this year even refused to furnish fuel to heat the schoolroom, when a teacher was provided for them free of charge. The Sunday collections, gathered with great difficulty through a period of more than a year, and largely the result of the offerings of the pastor's own family, the people wished to take not long since and divide among themselves.

The pastor of Lilahan has now been transferred to Dolatabad, to take advantage of the special educational opportunity there.

Evangelistic Work for Women.—Mrs. Stead tells of the Friday meetings at Faith Hubbard School; of Miss Montgomery's meeting in Sheverine; also her visits in the homes of the Moslem girls, who come to Faith Hubbard School from the village. Special mention is made of the class known as Mrs. Hawkes' Bible class, which affords opportunities for evangelistic work, as the women are attracted by the music and drop in to see what it is about. Mrs. Stead has had as high as eleven come in at one time and stay for lesson, and Miss Montgomery has had three different sets of women, when she conducted the class. The "koorsie" was made an evangelistic agency in the dispensary when the women, sitting close together and being warm and comfortable, were in no hurry to leave. The Bible was always lying open on the "koorsie," and it was natural and easy to turn to it in the interval between treatments, and any of the women who could read, as naturally, took it up and busied themselves with it. The women of the higher classes in the Malayir district are like their husbands, very much more liberal than most other women, though this liberality does not centre around religious matters. Mrs. Stead tells of one woman who wrote her husband, who was not at home, that she would like to be a Christian, and this same woman on another occasion expressed herself in regard to the lesson Mrs. Stead was giving thus:

These are the things we want to know and ought to hear. I hope we shall have another opportunity of hearing more.

A very interesting work has started among the young Jewish women of Hamadan. Taking their cue from the Behais, they decided to have a meeting on Saturday afternoons to study and discuss the proofs of Christ as a Saviour.

Itinerating Trips.—Miss Montgomery made a tour in the villages in July, filled with interesting incidents.

At Barband, where caravans stop, the women have become used to seeing foreigners, and were not curious enough to come to see us, or hear our message; so after our rest, I went out by the riverside, sat down and prayed that if Our Father had any one in that village for whom He had given a message, to send them to me. Almost immediately a woman came and said, "There is a woman up on the hill who understands Persian; you must come and see her." Then the woman herself came, and took me to her home. Her very old husband was lying in the back of the room, weary after his morning's toil in the fields, and I had the feeling that he was the one to whom God wanted me to give the message. So I read him the story of the jailer who believed and was saved as soon as he heard of Christ Jesus, and prayed specially that the head of the household might find salvation and inheritance among them that are sanctified. Then I was taken to another room, where a company of women were gathered, and one waiting specially wanted to see if I could not help her, for her husband was going to divorce her because she had no children. I could only read to her the story of Hannah, and point her to Him who heard Hannah's prayer and gave her Samuel. Another was there who had been divorced, because when helping her husband with a load it fell on her foot, which was so crushed it had to be amputated, and that man did "not want a lame wife." There I heard the praises of Dr. and Mrs. Funk sung, and the doctor specially for his kindliness in sending to London for a foot to take the place of the lost one.

Mr. and Mrs. Stead made two trips to Dolatabad. Mr. Stead and Mr. Zoekler made an eventful and, as it proved, perilous trip in the winter to Lilihan.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Boys' School.—The Boys' School opened in September, with an enrollment of 95, the largest enrollment at the opening for some years. The prospect was very promising, but, says Mr. Zoekler, the missionary in charge:

Just as we were getting well into our work an outbreak of cholera in our city made it necessary to close the school for several weeks. When we opened up again the attendance had dropped very noticeably, falling to 70, and from this decline there was no recovery until after winter. The total number enrolled was 105, with a monthly average of 75. On May 5 a class of seven boys graduated. Out of the seven, two were Armenians, two Moslems, one Jew, one Persian Christian, and one Jewish Christian. Four of them are teaching, two have gone into business, and the remaining one plans to go to Beirut.

One cannot lose heart entirely when he realizes the tremendous effort some of the boys put forth to master the difficulties that confront them when they study from text-books in a foreign language. I have often wondered what the average American boy would do under similar circumstances; for example, placed in some out-of-the-way place in America with a few Russians conducting a school in which most of the instruction was in the Russian language, because text-books in the vernacular were not available. Looked at from this point of view, and taking into consideration the further fact that these boys have neither the heredity nor the environment of education and culture, one begins to be amazed at some of their attainments against such odds.

Owing to increased cost of living, and because of the lack of sufficient funds for carrying on the boarding department, it was deemed best to close that department until such a time when it could be opened on an entirely self-supporting basis.

Faith Hubbard School.—The whole number registered was 108 in Hamadan, and 24 in Sheverine. About 40 of these were boarders and about 20 were small boys. The death of a member of the Senior class, combined with a desire to increase the work of the class, led to the postponement of the graduation of the six girls until another year. Six of the Armenian girls, on confession of their faith in Jesus Christ, having been previously baptized, were received into membership of St. Stephen's Church.

Miss Holmes writes:

What the influence of these Christian girls might be on the Moslem girls in the school is suggested by a conversation with some Persian girls following the uniting of these six girls with the church. The Persian girls seriously asked, "Will those girls continue to tell lies?" Fearing that in this case, as in too many other cases, uniting with the church would fail to make an outward sign of change in this particular, and realizing that with them, as with us all, their lives are always open to more or less criticism, it seemed best to explain to these Moslem girls that this public confession was not an expression of perfection, but the expression of the desire on the part of the girls to do right, and that they, as friends, could make it harder or easier for them to accomplish their desire.

The Jewish Girls' School has been tried as by fire, and in spite of opposition and persecution, has stood its own. The school began this year with 20 in attendance.

The new School at Dolatabad was opened most auspiciously.

Early in January one of the land-owners from the Malayir district, accompanied by Dr. Nedjef Ghuli Khan, a physician from Dolatabad, came to Hamadan with a proposition for starting a school in that city. They deposited 825 toman in the bank to the credit of the Station, for stocking and starting the school, agreed to furnish a building for five years, and allow the collection of tuition to pay the running expenses of the school to the amount of one toman a month from the founders of the school and five krans a month from others; sanctioned the doubling of this tuition in two years' time if the income of the school does not equal the cost of maintenance; to turn the school completely over to the Station to be run in accord with the program of other Mission schools and not to interfere in its management. They only asked that after a year a missionary be located in Dolatabad. The proposition was accepted, a school was established with Rev. C. M. Petrosiantz as head teacher. When school closed for vacation, there were about 40 boys enrolled.

In connection with the opening of this school, we have obtained an entrance into the homes of many of the leading people of the place. The people are liberal Moslems and, as a rule, open-minded. They are extremely friendly and most of them seem sincerely grateful for what has already been done.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Funk writes:

Frequently in reports of the medical work in Hamadan we have had occasion to refer to the training of medical students and especially to the character and work of those who were trained under the direction of Dr. Holmes. We have been pleased to mention some of these who, after receiving their diplomas, have done good and faithful service in connection with the dispensaries and hospitals of our Mission, and to observe that they are making for themselves good names and reputations for skill in their practice. We have hoped that these young men would settle in places other than Hamadan and so become a nucleus from which might grow a work for the cause of Christ, but in this we have been partially disappointed, for thus far all but two or three have remained in Hamadan. The result has been a little different from what we have anticipated, but what we should have been prepared and hoping for. They have been so successful in the profession that not only have they largely superseded the old native practitioners, but are actually attracting to themselves the patients that would have come to us. The Lily Reid Holt Memorial Hospital for men, in consequence, has had comparatively few in-patients this year.

RESHT STATION.

Dr. Frame was alone in the Station during the year. He reports:

In Evangelistic Work, the keynote has been "individual work for individuals." No attempt was made to keep up regular preaching services, but in a conference held with some of the more interested Christians and inquirers before Mr. Schuler left it was determined to attempt to continue the Sunday-school and a Personal Workers' Class. Those who should have been interested in the latter proving indifferent, the class was thrown open to all who wished to take up a non-controversial study of the teaching of Jesus under the writer's leadership. In this form the class proved more successful. The usual attendance was about eight. Many attended irregularly, but there were four or five regular attendants who seemed truly seeking knowledge.

Of definite results in inquirers or converts there is little to be said. Some whom we thought interested and sincere have become cold and gone from us. Others have come forward in their stead. One who seems to have gotten the kernel of the matter has recently brought his brother to see us and both are asking for baptism. He is a tradesman who prides himself upon his independence. The only favor he ever asked was that he might be taught to read the Bible. When he brought his brother he gave up his own study hour that his brother, who can read, might be instructed in the Gospels. Unfortunately, like most Persians, these young men see the cost of embracing Christianity more clearly than they see the benefits. They have asked for baptism in all sincerity, I believe, but I doubt if they are prepared to confess Christ before Moslems. Concealing one's religion being allowed among the Persians, it is very hard for them to realize the need for open confession.

In the hospital we had seven beds during the winter. We gave a few patients free treatment and food, but most of the patients paid for their food or furnished it from the outside, while a number paid also for their room and our services. As a consequence, our beds were never full and sometimes we had no patients at all. We think, however, that we have made a proper start on a basis which will ultimately enable us to do the most good.

KAZVIN STATION.

Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence, on returning from furlough, reopened the dispensary and the evangelistic work connected with it. Dr. Lawrence writes:

Sunday meetings have been well attended, but the dispensary was the drawing card.

A great error rooted and grounded in the faith of the people is that Christ said, "After me Mohammed will come." Just the other day one of my patients, a bright young fellow, pointed out to me in the 14th chapter of John where Christ said that the prince of the world would come, and insisted that this referred undoubtedly to Mohammed.

There are many Mohammedans who would have us believe that Mohammed really stood for Christian ideals, saying that he was not a polygamist, and that he used the sword only as Moses used the rod. In my opinion, scarcely a corporal's guard could be raised in Kazvin to take up the sword to propagate the faith as commanded by their great leader.

Mrs. Lawrence reports:

On January 20 the meeting for Moslem boys was begun. They crowded around our door, insisting that I have a meeting for them as I did before going to America. About 50 came, more or less regularly.

Four full months they came regularly, and then one week they fell off from 50 to 30; the next week fewer still, and the last month only 10 or 12. The reason is that I have not given them picture cards as formerly. There may be a deeper cause and it would not be strange in this Moslem land if there was.

KERMANS SHAH STATION.

Mr. Stead writes:

Since the constitution of Kermanshah as a Station of the Mission, unrest, looting, murder and anarchy, for several years ever present symptoms of a chronic malady in this district, have been peculiarly prominent. Loors and Koords have been raiding villages even to the city suburbs; factions have been fighting in the streets and there has been no governor.

Unfavorable conditions, however, have not apparently interfered with the work of the church. Sunday services, morning and afternoon, have been well attended. A daily service, held in the latter part of the afternoon, has usually been attended by a few. Local evangelistic work among Jews and Moslems has been carried on. In April two women and three children, Jewish converts, were baptized. In this time also there has been one death. The group is small and every loss is keenly felt. Most of the Moslem converts of the region have been scattered. Now, however, the group is strengthened by three of the Sahnah converts, living in the city, who are faithful in attendance and interested.

There are now living in Sahnah 10 baptized adults and 4 children. Of these adults one has lapsed. This little group, however, is weak, poverty-stricken and leaderless. Only one man can read and that but indifferently. The people meet for services, but seldom when left alone, and have a constant battle to keep even slightly above the low level of their unspiritual environment.

The peculiar openness of the villages and the lack of fanaticism in many parts of the Kermanshah field calls for extended evangelistic itineration, both missionary and native.

The Women's Work in Kermanshah is full of incidents characteristic of Mohammedan social life. Mrs. Stead writes:

The mother, wife and sister of one of the young men baptized not long before we left for furlough called. The last time I had met them the mother and wife were most devoted Moslems, while the sister, then a bride of a few weeks, had left off most of her Moslem duties and approved of her brother's change of faith, though not knowing whether she wanted to follow him or not. Now all were in sorrow over the sister's divorce, with her two-year-old baby left in her husband's house and the wee new one to remain with her until time to wean it and then be given up to its father. They talked freely of Christianity, but were still not ready to come in, though they confessed that they had given up all Moslem worship and felt that there was no hope in it.

MEDICAL WORK.—Mrs. Stead reports:

The new house, which we have taken for a year and a half, proves to be in a very advantageous place for medical work, as it is almost in the centre of the city and close on the border of the bazaars. There has heretofore been a foreign physician in connection with both the English and Russian consulates, but this year the native hakims and one Indian surgeon have had things all their own way. While there was a male physician of any standing in the city, I refused to see any men patients, but during this visit I treated as many men as women because there was no one to whom to send them.

WEST PERSIA MISSION.

URUMIA: a fortified town, 480 miles north of west from Teheran, the capital. Station begun under the American Board, 1835; transferred to this Board in 1871. Missionaries—Rev. F. G. Coan, D.D., and Mrs. Coan, Rev. W. A. Shedd, D.D., and Mrs. Shedd, Rev. Robert M. Labaree and Mrs. Labaree, Rev. C. C. Sterrett and Mrs. Sterrett, Miss M. K. Van Duzee, Miss Mary E. Lewis, Miss E. D. Lamme, Harry P. Packard, M.D., and Mrs. Packard, Mrs. J. P. Cochran, Rev. Hugo A. Müller and Mrs. Müller, M.D., and Miss Lenore R. Schoebel.

TABRIZ: nearly 360 miles north of west from Teheran. Station begun 1873. Missionaries—Rev. S. G. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, William S. Vanneman, M.D., and Mrs. Vanneman, Rev. Charles R. Pittman and Mrs. Pittman, Rev. F. N. Jessup, Miss G. Y. Holliday, Miss Lillie B. Beaber, Mrs. L. C. Van Hook, Miss Helen Grove, and Edna E. Orcutt, M.D.

VAN: Mountain field: Rev. E. W. McDowell and Mrs. McDowell, and Rev. E. T. Allen and Mrs. Allen.

RESIGNATIONS: Rev. J. N. Wright, D.D., and Mrs. Wright.

FURLOUGHS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. W. A. Shedd and Mrs. Shedd; Miss Mary E. Lewis; W. S. Vanneman, M.D., and Mrs. Vanneman; Rev. F. N. Jessup.

The year has been a quiet one in Urumia, but stormy in Tabriz.

In Urumia the reasons for this very grateful respite from commotion are probably twofold. The first of these is the calm which has prevailed in the internal civil affairs of the province. Whatever may have been the case in the great political centres of the country, here in one of the provincial towns the "Mashruta" has been allowed to proceed on the even tenor of its ways without any plots and counterplots to disturb its peace. No one can claim for it any great efficiency; there are indeed many who would declare that the Adlia (the law court) is more unblushingly bribe-taking than any governor in the palmy days of the old regime, and that the executive department of the government is even less vigorous than of old; but efficient or inefficient, no one has been strong enough to oppose the constitutional authorities, and the new order has been accepted with true Oriental resignation. The second factor which has worked for our peace has been the change of policy on the part of the Turkish government, or perhaps it is the change of personalities along the border, the sending of a better class of local officials that has been responsible for the keeping of the Kurds in leash. Certainly the leopard has not changed his spots nor the Kurd his character, but something has happened to prevent his having a free hand. Whatever the cause, we are most thankful to report a year of comparative quiet.

The new governor of Tabriz, the Ijlal-ul-Mulk, like his predecessor, has been a warm friend of the Station and has placed his two boys in the Mission school.

In Tabriz the year began quietly, but after the return of the ex-Shah the general political unrest began which had occasioned troops sympathizing with the ex-Shah to seize the roads leading into Tabriz, leaving only the road to Russia open, with the result that conditions of destitution soon came to prevail in the city; and at the end of the Mission year came the great change in political conditions which has brought northern Persia under the direct influence and control of Russia. This has resulted in the cessation of the brigandage and highway robbery which have kept northwestern Persia in continual turmoil, and it is hoped that it will secure a much more hopeful condition for the prosecution of the missionary work.

The Mission schools had long been teaching Russian in the curricula. The whole work of the Mission wields, of course, an influence favorable to good and orderly government.

The new missionaries added to the Mission during the year have been Dr. Edna Orcutt for Tabriz, and Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Allen for the mountain work, returning to Persia after fourteen years' absence.

URUMIA STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—This has not been an encouraging year in the evangelistic work of the Station. Mr. Labaree writes:

The additions to the churches as gathered in the last General Knooshya were up to the average of recent years, but the life of the churches, with one or two exceptions, has not been at all what it should be. Demoralization and discouragement best describe the feeling of most of those who are responsible for the care of the work, and this feeling is shown even more by the native leaders than by the missionaries in charge. The exodus of the best young manhood and womanhood of the Syrian people proceeds with accelerated speed. The denominational divisions and the multiplication of sects with their attendant evils continue.

Our chief discouragement, however, is not from these outward difficulties, trying as they are, but from the inner conditions of the Syrian Evangelical Church itself. The coldness and worldliness which pervades it, the lack of any aggressive missionary spirit toward the members of their own people who are in darkness or toward the Moslems and other races about them and the spirit of clinging dependence that it shows to the missionaries and to the friends of the West after 76 years of missionary labor, and the general discouragement and demoralization which the difficult outward conditions have imposed upon the life and activities of the pastors and their people—all these and other faults in the Native Church force us to ask the question most seriously, "What is wrong with us or our policy or with the people for whom we are working?" Perhaps all three, the missionary, his policy and the character of the Syrian people are each partly responsible for the evils we deplore; but how to remedy these ills is a still more difficult problem.

No impatience, however, should blind us to the importance of this Syrian Evangelical Church in the great work of evangelizing all Persia. Great as its faults may be, it has already given not a few self-sacrificing sons to this cause; and we may hope that, under God's guidance, it may do even more than in the past. Certainly no other nationality in this part of the world has furnished more loyal laborers in Christ's vineyard than the Syrian, and at present there is no other source in sight for the necessary future workers than this Church. God grant that whatever we may do may strengthen and quicken the Church, not injure and weaken it. There is need of a genuine revival, not of the emotions, but of the spiritual apprehension and of the conscience, that our people may see and feel the burden of responsibility which is resting upon them, for the evangelization of the Moslems about them.

In this connection should be mentioned the graduation last June of four theological students. One of them has already been given to the Tabriz Station for work there; a second has been employed as a teacher in the College with the hope that he will better fit himself by further study for work among Moslems; and the other two, both from the mountain field, are temporarily employed here, until we hear from Messrs. McDowell and Allen regarding the needs of their field.

An effort to take an advance step in the development of independence of the Evangelical Church was made in a recent proposition to the Evangelistic Board by the Station. The latter offered to turn over to the Board all the funds it had for the support of preachers and the superannuated workers, and waive its right to veto actions of the Board regarding the settlement of pastors and their salaries. This would have thrown upon them the full responsibility for this part of the work. The proposition, we regret to say, was not accepted on the ground that the amount given for the objects mentioned was not sufficient for its needs.

Miss Van Duzee reports on the evangelistic work among the women:

It has made us very happy this year to see some who have been actively trying to lead others to the truth. One of these is a Persian lady, who has for some years, when possible, read the Bible to those who come to her house. But this winter she had a great desire to go to others and read with them in their homes. Her Testament is quite a large book, and as she could not always control the circumstances in the homes of her friends, she needed a small book which could be carried in her pocket, ready for use where circumstances were favorable. So she made a little book of folded paper and copied into it verses and incidents from the Testament which had interested her much, and which she hoped would be useful to others. This she could always have with her. When I found what she was doing, I gave her the separate gospels of Matthew, Mark, and Luke. One of these she kept for her own use, and the other two were soon in the hands of those who read them eagerly.

The number of calls made during the year has been 636. Callers received, 1,739. Total attendance at the regular lessons, 1,117.

Mrs. Labaree adds:

One of the Bible women has put it into her heart this year to reach each one of the about 400 Jewish homes of the city, to speak a word for Christ. We have been interested to see the first vigorous longing on the part of Jews to have their women read.

As to the general work of the women of the church, we can say this. There is not the burning zeal for souls we long to see, but the regular services, sewing societies, and special meetings are kept up and there is a steady though slow gain in the interest of the church women in those who as yet are without Christ. I confess, I am downhearted sometimes, for the advance in the desire to reach out for the Moslems is so slow.

A KURDISH SHEIKH (SEATED), THE CIVIL AND RELIGIOUS HEAD OF SOME 50,000 KURDS LIVING IN PERSIA NEAR THE SOUTHERN END OF LAKE URUMIA. HE HAS PROFESSED CHRISTIANITY AND IS VERY FRIENDLY TO CHRISTIAN WORKERS, WELCOMING THEM TO HIS TOWN AND AMONG HIS TRIBE.

But thank God, it is advance; and as I look back to the attitude of the church toward Moslems, not just last year, but 4 or 5 years ago, I can see a goodly forward step that makes me profoundly grateful.

I wish we had many more like Aunt Sannie, of Gulpashan, who, whenever she has a spare hour, hurries off to one of the Moslem villages near by and gives the Gospel message in no uncertain voice, but in so friendly a spirit that she is always persona grata.

We have seen several Moslem women whom we trust are Christ's trying to bring others to Him, not only by inducing them to come to Bible class, but by earnest words of their own.

Mrs. Sterrett, formerly of the American Board Mission in Turkey, has the Armenian language, which gives a good opening among the Armenian women. Among all classes of the non-Christian people, Moslems, Kurds and Jews, there are better opportunities than ever.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Urumia College.—Dr. Coan writes:

As compared with last year, the attendance has been smaller. 1909-10 the enrollment was 90, with 75 at the close. This year it was 66, with 59 at the close. Lack of funds shut out all but two mountain boys; an unusually large class graduated and a small class entered, while an increasing number of Syrian youth attended the Moslem school in the city; all of these causes combined in the decrease. Eight of the graduating class came back for advance work. The enrollment by classes was as follows: Medical, 10, two being expelled during the year; Theological, 7; Freshmen, 8; IV Academic, 11; III Academic, 5; II and I Academic, 25. Russian, taken by all but the Freshman class, was added to the course. The Freshman class took part of their work in the city, going in mornings and coming back at noon.

Fiske Seminary.—During Miss Lewis' absence, Miss Lamme reports for the Seminary:

Our idea was to decrease the number of boarders, but extra day pupils would not matter. We anticipated only a few more day pupils than before. But to our surprise nearly every girl found some place in the city to board. Many had near relatives who took them in and others in groups of twos and threes found good places to stay, but very few new girls came from the villages. In comparing this year's enrollment with that of the previous year we see there were only five girls less.

	1910.	1911.
Boarders.....	63	27
Day pupils.....	32	63
Total.....	95	90

During the year from 8 to 15 Jewish girls came daily. The closing day 30 were present. All of these had come sometime during the year. They had learned some motion songs, hymns and verses of Scripture, which they recited on that day.

The Seminary closed June 30. A class of 21 girls received diplomas. The exercises were held in the church before an audience of more than 1,000 people. One who graduated is still with us. She came about six years ago, a small girl. Since her coming her father, mother and two sisters have died. According to the custom of the country, she had not been informed about any of these deaths. There is no one left in her home for her to return to. After commencement she was told the sad tale and has borne the sorrow bravely. We are keeping her in the school still and hope we can find work for her to do this fall.

Persian Girls' School.—Miss Lamme reports:

School opened November 7 with 16 girls. We have the names of 80 who attended a month or more. School closed with 52 July 6. This year we received more tuition than ever before, about 29 tomans. We are continually receiving new pupils of the higher class. In the spring the governor's two little girls came to read in our school. The maid who brought them wanted us to be sure to bear in mind that they were not like other girls, that they were not only the daughters of the governor, but also descendants of the seyyids. She wanted them to have the highest seats in the room and that the other girls rise whenever they came into the room. But the girls themselves displayed quite a different spirit and were willing to conform to the rules of the school. It was not long before they won the love of teachers and pupils. 160 Moslem women witnessed the closing exercises. All classes were represented, the very highest and also many of the poor.

Village Schools.—

Decrease.....	3.70	2448.00	1,946.00	44-1st 64-2d 17-3d

These figures show that we had last year only 46 schools, or 9 less than the year previous, and a smaller number than for many years. This meant 144 less pupils, 99 of them boys and 45 of them girls.

The proportion of scholars to schools, however, was higher than last year. The Educational Board also spent less than last year. Again, while the amounts by the Board and village were less this year than last, a comparison will show that the villages gave proportionately more. That is, the villages gave for 1909-10 2,041 krans more than the Board, and last year they gave 2,543 krans more, or 54 tomans more. The quality of the work done has not been up to the standard. The reason is the departure to America of our best teachers, leaving the teaching mainly to girls. The teachers have also, according to the superintendent, not shown the enthusiasm of former years. The reasons for the falling off in schools are, first, lack of funds and, second, lack of suitable teachers. It can easily be seen that at the salary we can offer, the profession of teaching appeals to very few, as the work at best is only for six or seven months, and the highest salary is 10 tomans a month. We shall have to depend more and more on Fiske Seminary for teachers, and for that reason the grade should be raised so as to give us the best available.

With the large number of girls who remain unmarried, under the new conditions that prevail, this profession might appeal to quite a number as a means of living.

The Board, after a good deal of discussion, carried one measure through that was most wise. That was to eliminate the teaching of English from all but a few of the higher schools. The reasons were that few could teach English properly in the smaller schools, and the tendency was to neglect their own language, in which they are woefully deficient.

MEDICAL WORK.—Mrs. Cochran reports as matron of the hospital:

The work of this year began about the 1st of October with everything in good working order. We had a house full of patients, a cellar full of food, closets full of clean bedding, and necessary servants procured as fast as needed. A new medical class was also received with quarters in the hospital. We had a busy fall, running to our full capacity much of the time.

In the middle of the previous winter we had as low as ten patients once; this year we never had less than five or six wards full.

One of our patients is a little boy of ten or so, a little human wreck, who came to us after having spent the winter in a fireless ruin of a house, a destitute, friendless, nearly naked orphan. Little children had brought him straw to lie in for bed and covering and he had obtained food from some source enough to keep him from starvation. From cold and cruelty he has contracted a disease well-nigh incurable.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.—The general condition, as already indicated, has been rather more favorable than the last few years. Mr. Labaree writes:

The Legal Board, which is the civil head of our Protestant community in many matters which affect members of that body, has taken itself and its work seriously. For the most part I think it has maintained its high character and the respect with which it is regarded by the government and the community. A case in point was the recent reference to it of a bitter dispute over a buffalo cow between followers of the French and Russian Missions, which case had been made a test of strength between the two Missions themselves. Although the Legal Board was roundly abused by the defeated side for its decision, yet that party itself was afterward desirous of resubmitting the matter to our adjudication with what was supposed to be further light. I can only repeat the testimony of my predecessors on the Board, Dr. Cochran and Dr. Shedd, that the more I see of the Board the more I respect it for its painstaking effort to arrive at the truth and parcel out justice. It has been my effort to throw more responsibility upon the Board in all legal affairs.

MOUNTAIN WORK.—Mr. and Mrs. McDowell were on furlough during the year, just returning in time for the annual meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Allen returned to Persia with them, to share in the work in the mountains. Mr. Allen was connected with the industrial department of the educational work in Urumia from 1891 to 1897. Mrs. Allen was Miss Wallace, of Tabriz, and taught in the Girls' School there from 1894 to 1897. After 14 years' work at home, they return with a clear understanding of the difficult and perilous nature of the mountain work, to share it with Mr. and Mrs. McDowell. Their policy is to work in harmony with the Patriarch for the vivification of the Old Church in the mountain, carrying forward congregations connected with the Syrian Evangelical Church as effectively as can be where such congregations are established, and elsewhere working on a policy adopted by the first missionaries within the bounds of the Old Church. This policy has the cordial support of the Patriarch. In addition to this work the missionaries are anxious to reach the Kurds, and it is probable that Mr. McDowell will settle in the mountains, perhaps building at Asheetha. At present Mr. McDowell and Mr. Allen are working in the mountains alone, with their families in Urumia.

Mrs. Labaree writes of a visit made to the Patriarch at Kochanis:

In my five days in Kochanis, the seat of the Nestorian Patriarch, I had the opportunity to give a word of cheer to several Seminary graduates. I was already a friend of the Patriarch's influential sister and sister-in-law whom I like and respect, and was most interested to make the acquaintance of the Patriarch, himself, who is a young man and a growing man, but the complaints made by some against his institution of regular preaching services in the church of the patriarchal village show how carefully he must move in the matter of the reforms he and we desire to see in his ancient church.

The time is ripe for the advance on the Kurds—the coming of the liberal Sheikh Abul Qadir, signs of movement away from the marauding to the agricultural life, the demand for schools and the impress made by the Syrian Christians, all point toward this. If we can only prepare a translation of the Gospels in the Kirmanji Kurdish as the first reading book, and get it into circulation before Moslem books are ready for the purpose, it will mean a gain of many years in the evangelization of the Kurds.

TABRIZ STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The Tabriz Church is still without a pastor, though, after much correspondence with missionaries in Turkey and with friends in America, a call has been sent by the church and the Station to Baron Sarkis Monooghean, of Rodosta, Turkey, concerning whom we have good recommendations, and we hope he is the right man and will accept.

The preaching, both in Turkish and Armenian, during the past year has been done largely by missionaries.

At the last communion service, July 2, we had the joy of receiving into the church 5 new members, pupils in the Girls' School, 3 of whom are Armenians, 1 Armenian-Nestorian and 1 Moslem. The Moslem girl after a period of probation was baptized at the Girls' School in the presence of invited church members. This is the first baptism of a Moslem girl for some years in this Station.

During the year the new Bible Depot on the southwest corner of the church property was completed, but no suitable man was found until spring, when Robi Benyamin, of Urumia, was called and accepted the position. He arrived the latter part of May and began the work by taking Scriptures to the bazaar and to the Russian camp. In less than two months he has sold 262 volumes, receiving for them 44 tomans. 118 volumes in Russian were sold, 61 in Persian and the remainder in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Hebrew, English, French and German. Although nearly half the volumes sold were Russian at two-thirds the total receipts, yet the other sales were encouraging.

OUT-STATIONS.

Mr. Pittman reports:

Four evangelists from Urumia have spent a total of nine months touring in the Tabriz field. The regions visited include Marena, Mianduab and Sain Kalla. All those who have toured report the people to be particularly friendly and the time opportune for evangelistic effort.

The deceased Station force and the illness of Mr. Jessup prevented extensive touring by missionaries. Last fall Miss Holliday, accompanied by Baron Garapet, made a successful tour to Salmas and Kurdistan, visiting 32 villages, some of which had never been visited before.

Mrs. Pittman and I made a tour of 26 days to Maragha, visiting 5 villages on the way. Miss Grove, Mrs. Pittman and I made a tour of a month to Salmas, visiting 14 towns and villages in Salmas and Garadagh.

We are sorry to report the loss to our work in the death of Kasha Yohannan in Salmas, who passed away June 7 after having faithfully witnessed for Christ 35 years in the Salmas plain and surrounding districts. He was a man of irreproachable and lovable character and labored not as a hireling, but as a son in his Father's vineyard. His upright and consecrated life, a contrast to the lives of those about him, has been a strong testimony to the Gospel as the power of God unto salvation. A sceptic who claims that Christians are hypocrites confessed that in Kasha he found a true Christian. I consider it a great privilege to have been associated with him in the work of the Gospel.

Since beginning this report we have to record also the death of our only other Kasha—Kasha Moshe, of Maragha—August 10, after a service of 40 years in this and Urumia field, 32 years of which was spent in Maragha. Thus our two Kashas who have labored more than 30 years in this field passed away within ten weeks of each other. The name of Kasha Moshe is well known in many towns and villages, Persian and Kurdish, where the news of his death will be heard with sorrow.

In Maragha he helped the poor according to his ability and had the respect and confidence of all classes. During his last illness the chief Moslem ecclesiastic of the city sent to inquire after his condition and even suggested some home remedies for his recovery.

Miss Holliday was away from Tabriz more than seven months of the year attending the Lucknow Conference of missionaries to Mohammedans, and returned by way of the Persian Gulf and the East Persia Mission in order to report the Conference to as many workers as possible. Of her one tour in the Tabriz field during the year she writes:

We were in over 30 places, about half of which were Kurdish. At this time we visited seven and a Kurdish encampment by the road, where we had expected to stay over Sunday, but their reception of us was a little peculiar, so though we had heard the chief invited us some time before, we now sat two or three hours and moved on to another place. We afterwards heard they meant for us to stay, and perhaps we were too suspicious, but they were noted robbers. When Garabed was talking to them, one slyly whispered as he spoke of sin and the commandments, "Don't mention stealing in this place." We went to a village where we were kindly entertained by the Mullah, whose little girl took a great fancy to us. Her father said, "If Tabriz were only a little nearer she should come to your school." They were very sad over their harvest, which had hardly repaid them the seed sown. It had been eaten by great flocks of quails, mountain sheep and wild hogs, as well as the field mice, which were such a plague to all Salmas last year. It seemed as if to every square arshin or yard there were three or four holes of these little pests. It was not strange the Kurds felt driven to rob their wealthier neighbors of the plain below, but when they pleaded poverty as the excuse for breaking God's law, we could only tell them they had not the blessing of God, because they did what they knew was wrong. One could not but admire the modest and graceful dress of the Kurdish women of high rank and their comparative freedom from the galling bonds of Islam, the curtain and the veil, but here also the miserable system of polygamy blights family happiness. We saw some very genuine affection on the part of parents toward children. In one home where only a curtain separated us from the family, after the lights went out, we heard considerable kissing in the dark; we suspected the greater part of it went to the fat little toddling boy who was the family idol. In another home the girl was frankly confessed to be the father's favorite, as he said she was more to him than all his boys put together.

We went to Serai Malik, a mixed Moslem and Armenian village, where we had friends, mostly of the nominal Christians, and where we stayed at an Armenian house. It was Ramazan, and not convenient for Moslems to have us as they were using their guest rooms, otherwise it would have been much better to be with them. The Armenians received us with open arms; we had meetings every night for them, were able also to visit Moslems in the daytime, and some of them came to see us. They all told us thrilling tales of the war the year before.

We went next to the northern part of the plain, again among Kurdish villages. We had a good reception, as was indeed the case at most places. In our first suburb we had met with some opposition, but nothing serious. In one place the Mullah had such an evil face that we hastened to leave, for fear he should plot some mischief, and we were, as we knew, in a rather dangerous part. In fact, humanly speaking, we could not have ventured where we did had it not been for the presence of the small Turkish garrisons, who were keeping the country in order. We were a little anxious as to what they might say or do when they knew for what we came, but they treated us well and were glad to see us. The men from Constantinople felt themselves among savages and expressed themselves to that effect. They asked us questions about politics and discussed the Russo-English agreement about Persia, asking, "And what are we to have?" accompanying their question with the expressive gesture of the upturned palms which means "Nothing." We were so glad to make this entrance into these new places and establish a precedent by which we might be allowed to go there again when the boundaries are fixed and this region possibly allotted to Turkey.

It may be asked what was accomplished by this tour, or as was said the other day, "What results have you? How many conversions have you to show?" Such questions are hard to answer categorically, but we can say that we have seen that the people feel a sense of freedom to listen to our message that they had not before. They speak more boldly even before each other; the power of the religious authorities appears to have seriously suffered, if we cannot say it is entirely broken. In one village, just as we were leaving, a crowd gathered round the wagon and began to ask questions, half in fun, half in earnest. One said finally, "Then you want us all to give up Islam and become Christians?" "Yes, that is exactly what we do want." He answered thoughtfully, "Well, it is a great pity you cannot stay two or three days and tell us more about it." We wished so much we could have done so, but we were then fleeing from the Kurds and that same village was attacked by them that night. The people have a very different attitude to us from what they used to have; after all, we can only give the message as faithfully as lies in our power and leave results to God.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The Memorial School.—Dr. Wilson reports:

Education in Tabriz made considerable progress during last year. Persian schools enlarged in numbers and influence and somewhat in the ability of their teachers. The governor, Mukhbir-i-Doulah, gave them financial support. As we had been unable to engage good French and Persian teachers, our superiority was not so conspicuous as in former years. For the coming year we are prepared to make the eminence of the Memorial School unquestioned.

The enrollment was 241, of whom 141 were Armenians and 100 Moslems; of these 28 were boarders, 19 Armenians and 9 Persians. These Persian boarders came from Khoi, Marand, Maragha, Resht, as well as from Tabriz.

We had a successful summer session for primary Persian pupils. Religious instruction was faithfully given and without objection from the Moslems.

The year has been a trying one, with the longest and coldest winter within memory, with sickness among the boarders and in the home.

We are prepared now to carry out the programme outlined at the Mission meeting in Urumia two years ago. It was planned that the Memorial School should have a corps of first-class teachers and be ready to give Persians a high-grade Christian education. We have been able to gather the faculty and have begun to attract pupils not only from Tabriz, but from the surrounding cities.

As I judge the situation, we must provide a better education than the Persians can, or our opportunity to teach the Gospel will diminish and not increase.

Girls' School.—Miss Beaber reports:

We tried to combine the Persian and Armenian departments, but the difference of language and habits made it possible in comparatively few classes. We feel, however, that the small combination was beneficial to both races. It was good to see Armenian and Persian girls sit side by side in the class-room or walk arm in arm in the yard or join indiscriminately in the games.

We were happy to have some Persian pupils present all through the Ramazan, the Mohammedan month of fasting, and at its close more came in. At the close of the year we had a roll of 54 Persian girls besides 123 Armenian girls.

Through the gift of a warm friend of the school, together with the apportionment from the Kennedy fund, it has been possible to purchase four small properties lying back of the original school plot, which we will utilize for our increasing Boarding Department, and a further gift from the same kind friend has made it possible to add six new rooms to the school building and completely overhaul the building, making it suitable for school purposes.

At the close of the year we gave an exhibition by the Moslem girls at which over 100 of the friends and relatives of the Persian girls were present, a number of whom were Persian ladies of the highest rank in the city. The Moslem girls did very well, the programme containing recitations, dialogues and songs in five languages, Persian, Turkish, Armenian, French and English. The next day were held the Commencement exercises of the 32d school year, at which 5 graduates, 3 Armenians and 2 Nestorians, read their essays and a varied programme was given to a large mixed audience.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Vanneman's absence on furlough involved the closing of the medical work, Dr. Orcutt, the new medical missionary, only leaving in April and having, of course, to devote her first time to the learning of the language.

MANILA STATION.

Dr. and Mrs. Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and Miss Kalb have been on the field during the entire year engaged in the native work and Mr. and Miss Cooke in the American Church. Mr. and Mrs. Wright and Miss Bartholomew have been on furlough part of the year.

Dr. Rodgers has, as formerly, had charge of the Evangelistic work, and during Mr. Wright's absence has directed the seminary classes.

We have been fortunate in securing additional land adjoining the seminary property and an appropriation for the new building for the Ellinwood School for Girls. We are hopeful that additional appropriation will be made during the coming year which will allow for the construction of the building during 1912.

Miss Rodenburg was welcomed in June as a teacher in the Ellinwood School for Girls.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Tondo Church has again been under the efficient direction of the Rev. Monico Estrella. Twenty-one have professed their faith. The Sunday-school is flourishing and is better organized than ever before. The church raises the money for running expenses, but does not pay its pastor. It made a substantial contribution toward painting the building.

The congregation in Malate has been in charge of Mr. Campbell during Mr. Wright's absence. The congregations fill the room.

Pastor Estrella also cares for the Pasig congregation, an hour's trolley ride from Tondo. The congregation has taken a new lease of life and is working on the half built house of worship.

The two English-speaking congregations are in excellent condition.

Mr. Cooke is an efficient and energetic pastor of the American Church and has won the affection and confidence of his congregation. A dozen or more new members were welcomed at each quarterly Communion. The Sunday-school continues to make its lawn socials a feature of the American child life of the city. The Ladies' Aid pays for a weekly church calendar, and contributes regularly to the Ellinwood School for Girls and the hospitals at Iloilo. The benevolent offerings have increased. The former pastor, Dr. Rossiter, has offered to secure $6,000 for a social hall in memory of Mrs. Rossiter on land to be purchased by the church.

The Ellinwood congregation for the students of the Ellinwood schools attracts many other students and is a service which gives out much inspiration to the whole body of the city.

The Students' Christian Endeavor meeting has had a very successful year.

The Leper work has been under the direction of Dr. Rodgers and Sr. Gil Domingo.

Arrangements were made for the erection of a bamboo chapel for the use of the congregation at a cost of 50 pesos. When this was nearly completed the authorities informed us that they could allow no private ownership of property on the island and therefore reimbursed us our expense, and, finishing the chapel, ceded it to us for the use of our congregation during good behavior.

Funds for the conduct of this work to the extent of P500 yearly are supplied by the Mission to Lepers of Edinburgh. The government is carrying out with true earnestness its program of giving the people proper food and housing. Those who wish to live either in groups or in families are permitted to do so. The government furnishes the material and the occupants are to do the work of building or pay for its doing.

The evangelistic work has been carried on, as in former years, by the whole force and has been the special charge of Dr. Rodgers and the Filipino ministers and evangelists.

The field is entirely in the Tagalog country and includes the city of Manila and the Provinces of Rizal, Cavite and Batangas.

The Rev. Guillermo Zarco, in charge of Batangas Province, has done valiant service. Pastor Zarco has definitely opened work in the towns of Balayan and Lemery during the past year. The spirit of self-support is increasing in spite of the hard times that exist in many of the towns.

The Province of Cavite has shown good progress during the past year.

Materially the churches have been much occupied in building new chapels. The congregation of Kawit finished its chapel in February and we celebrated the fact by holding in it the Cavite provincial class.

The churches in Baco, Amadeo, Bailen and San Francisco de Malabon have begun the erection of large chapels.

New chapels of light materials have also been erected in a barrio of Alfonso and a barrio of Ternate.

EDUCATIONAL.—This is the fifth year of Ellinwood School for Girls. Twenty-seven girls enrolled for Bible training, 23 for the entire term.

Nine who studied in the Normal or other schools were admitted as boarders, but one of these soon entered the Bible classes. The total number of girls admitted was 35.

Miss Bartholomew's furlough left Miss Kalb alone till June, when Miss Rodenburg's arrival in June relieved the situation, as she was able to begin at once with a full program of classes in English, and also to take 11 of the girls in organ lessons, as well as to help with writing, bookkeeping and various other details. Mrs. Rodgers and Mrs. McLaughlin gave what help their other duties permitted before she came.

The girls taught as before in four out-of-door Sunday-schools in this part of the city and attended the open air evangelistic services on Friday and Saturday evenings. One of the older girls taught the woman's class in Tondo and two others taught in Malate Sunday-school.

We are especially glad for the large number of Visayan girls who studied with us this year and hope that the number will be increased from year to year. It was not easy for the Tagalog and Visayan girls to forget race hatred and remember that they were one in Christ, but they succeeded early in the term and their sweet Christian spirit was one of our greatest joys.

Ellinwood Bible Seminary.—The work of the Ellinwood Bible Seminary has been as before that of theological instruction for the months of regular Seminary work and the operation of a general students' dormitory throughout the entire year. There has also been maintained the Book Depository, which has distributed a considerable supply of books.

The Seminary work has, as in four previous years, been combined with the Seminary of the Methodist Mission and during this year the United Brethren have joined, so that the name Union Bible Seminary now represents the union of three denominations.

The matriculation was 46, of whom 13 were Presbyterians. We have in the graduating class four Presbyterian students, three of whom have taken the course in English and one in Spanish. The first and second year classes have been held in the Methodist building and the third year and Spanish classes at Ellinwood.

By the addition of a large porch we have been able to accommodate several more dormitory residents, bringing the number up to 60. We have been obliged to refuse accommodations to a large number of others who applied. The dormitory idea is spreading among the students so that it would seem as though almost the entire body preferred to live in properly managed dormitories, both for sanitary reasons and the much greater advantages of every sort with the added attractiveness of the social life. The Methodists, Episcopalians, Catholics and the Young Men's Christian Association are all engaged planning dormitories, the first two having already begun their buildings.

ILOILO STATION.

Iloilo Station is able to report another prosperous year.

Regular weekly services are now conducted in fully and partly organized congregations and in out-stations under the leadership of paid evangelists and pastors and voluntary local preachers. The Sunday-schools have made better progress this year than ever before in organization and equipment. Some of the congregations have taken up the proposed Home Mission work in a sympathetic and substantial way and distinct advance is being made in the matter of voluntary contributions to the Lord's work.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Iloilo Church, under Pastor Jose Moleta, has made good progress. The congregation provides the pastor's salary and takes care of all the evangelistic work in the vicinity of the city of Iloilo.

In the Leon district, which is under the care of Dr. Hall and in charge of Evangelist Pedro Recto, the large congregations of Leon and Tuba have been divided into several constituent congregations as the peaceful condition of the country has allowed the people to return to their former homes and organize churches there. The large congregation at Leon is making progress in self-support.

The three congregations of Iloilo district have suffered some from the transfer of their pastor, but another is now on the ground.

In the San Jose district, the southernmost in Antique Province, new chapels have been built this year in the villages of Mapatag and Igburi, the former an old, the latter a new congregation. Another new chapel is building at Malandug, a barrio of San Jose.

The centre district of Antique, with headquarters at Lawa-an, is in charge of Evangelist Clemente Casten, who has been studying this year in Ellinwood Bible Training School, Manila. In this district a new chapel has been built in the hill barrio of Marigni and a congregation is also being organized at Lawa-an.

The northern district of Antique, 125 miles from Iloilo, continues in charge of Rev. A. O. Reyes, who assists also in supervising the central district. Mr. Reyes has practically sole charge in this large northern district. His fidelity and efficiency are a great encouragement to the missionary as is also the faithfulness of the other paid workers. They all seem really to seek the things which are Jesus Christ's. Two hundred and six new members were brought into the Iloilo churches this year, bringing the total membership of the churches of the district to 2,971.

All the seven congregations of this district are making good progress.

The work for the English-speaking community of Iloilo, which numbers some 400 men and women, has continued in the joint charge of the Baptist and Presbyterian missionaries. The average attendance is about 25, and the offering amounts to about $3 a Sunday. In connection with this work, the local Y. M. C. A. rooms have also been kept up, the Board of Directors of the Association being composed of Baptist and Presbyterian missionaries and several laymen.

Volunteer workers distributed nearly 20,000 tracts and other religious literature to the people attending the fair held in Iloilo December 28 to January 1. This literature was furnished gratis by the Bible House of Los Angeles, which constantly makes generous and acceptable contributions of evangelical literature to missionaries in Spanish-speaking countries. The tracts were readily accepted by the people and apparently very few of them were destroyed or thrown away.

Rev. Paul Doltz covers a lot of territory when making his pastoral visits. He came from Tibiao to Iloilo 67 miles on a bicycle and 10 miles on foot, over a mountain trail, and then 35 miles on a motor-cycle from San Joaquin to Iloilo, making the 112 miles. He left Tibiao at 4 o'clock in the morning and reached Iloilo at 8 o'clock that evening.

Dormitory Work.—St. Stephen's Dormitory for students of the Iloilo provincial schools has continued in charge of Mr. Doltz.

Twenty-six boys have lived in the house up to the present time. Aside from the appropriation of P300, which pays three-fifths of the rent, all the expenses of the dormitory are paid by the boarders, who pay six dollars gold a month for board and bed. The missionary in charge conducts two Bible classes a week; acts as critic at the bi-weekly meeting of The Brotherhood of St. Stephen; directs the boys in a class in light gymnastics on Saturday mornings, and in a Brotherhood Glee Club. All the boys attend Sunday-school and worship at the chapel on Sundays. Their class has become the nucleus for several classes in English for students, both boys and girls, at which the average attendance is now about 75.

MEDICAL.—The Union Haines' Memorial Hospital has been crowded.

We have repeatedly had to find some patient who could be dismissed in order to make room for one who must be taken in. The urgent need at the beginning of the rainy season (which is always a busy season) led us to erect a temporary shed in which we have accommodations for 12 patients. This addition also provides room for a laboratory and a sleeping room for one of the helpers who formerly slept in the ward with the patients. The ward boys also can now sleep in a dry place without having to go below the building as formerly.

Through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dunwoody, of Minneapolis, a new concrete ward for women is almost completed. This will accommodate 21 patients, having 3 private rooms upstairs and 18 beds for poor patients below. This is the beginning of a permanent hospital, for while the present wooden structure will last many years the concrete once erected will last forever.

Miss Klein is matron and head nurse of the hospital and has been the only American nurse. We hope the Baptist Board will send out one soon, as the work is too much for one to manage.

We have, heretofore, had difficulty in getting Filipino girls to enter for training, but on sending out an appeal to the missionaries in other Stations, Mr. Jansen, of Cebu, was kind enough to hunt up 9 for us and this gives us 19 in all, sufficient for present needs. This is a great opportunity for the training of Filipino Christians, who, returning to their homes, will be called on to assist in time of sickness and at the same time help to spread the Gospel among the people. They can also do a great work in educating the people of their villages in the general care of children, habits of cleanliness, etc. We look forward to making the most of our opportunity in training Filipino Christian nurses.

DUMAGUETE STATION.

There has been a steady growth in all the three lines of work—evangelistic, medical and educational. The health of the Station, as a whole, has been good, and each one has been able to do his part in the different lines of work to which he has been called. Dr. and Mrs. Hibbard returned from furlough in May, and Mr. Smith in November. Mr. Dunlap, who had been aiding in the college, returned to Cebu after his furlough. The arrival of Mr. Holmes has greatly aided us. It is with heartfelt regret that we record the resignation of Mr. and Mrs. McIntire and their departure in October.

EVANGELISTIC.—This was under the charge of Mr. McIntire until his departure.

The Rev. Restituto Malahay, in Guijulngan, has done efficient work. This is probably the strongest church in the Islands, reporting 1,115 members. It carries on five Sunday-schools.

The students at Silliman Institute continue holding meetings in Dumaguete and in two of the surrounding towns. An average of 50 boys go out every Sunday to assist in these meetings. The churches are making an effort at self-support and each one has been doing a little in raising various sums for the needs of the work.

EDUCATIONAL.—Silliman Institute, Dr. Hibbard, Principal, is still too full for good work. The crowded condition of the classes and the lack of room cannot be entirely compensated for by extra work on the part of the teachers. The enrollment is 576. Of these, 251 are boarding pupils, 165 are paying students and 86 are working for their expenses.

The school is growing in power and influence; the students who have gone out from us for the most part are not graduates, and yet they have, as a whole, made a good record. There are more students applying for admission than ever before, and the class of applicants is of a more advanced standard. Nine of the students are used as instructors in the lower branches, as it is only by this means that we are able to care for the increased number of classes. Two Filipino professors are engaged who give their entire time to the work. Most important of all, the spiritual side of the school is becoming more powerful. Sixteen were baptized at the last communion and others will come in at the next.

The new laboratory has greatly increased the efficiency of the Biology and Chemistry Departments. The success of the school as a whole is due to the fact that all the teachers are willing and ready to pray and work.

In the Industrial Department, under Mr. Glunz, 86 interno students paid their tuition, either in whole or in part, during the year, by doing work of various kinds at the Institute, averaging 20 hours a week.

Of these, 9 taught classes, 6 were overseers, librarian, etc., 7 were janitors, 12 worked in the dining-room, 12 worked in the shop almost exclusively at woodworking, 4 at ironworking, 9 were engaged in the work of the press, and 15 worked in building operations of various kinds. There were 125 externos who worked half a day each week to pay for their tuition.

One hundred and seventy-five pieces of furniture were made during the past six months of the school year and about 300 small articles, such as frames, etc., of a total value of P2,000. In addition to this the shop was slightly enlarged and a small ice plant was installed, this being a gift to the hospital. About P3,000 worth of machinery and tools and a 150 peso concrete chimney were added to the shop equipment and paid for out of shop earnings.

A P3,000 laboratory, P1,000 worth of repairs and painting on the cottages, a P500 sewer system and P800 worth of additions to the hospital were also completed. The press has printed 625,000 pages valued at P1,350.

During the last school vacation 30 of the students went to Mindoro to work for the Mindoro Development Company, building houses for its workmen. The work of the students was so satisfactory to the company that after a few days they were left in charge of one of their own number as foreman. The pay received was about three times the regular pay at Dumaguete.

We are grateful for P5,000 from the Kennedy Fund for an addition to the workshop. This is being built by student labor, and will greatly facilitate the work of the Industrial Department.

MEDICAL.—Dr. H. W. Langheim, who has charge of the medical work, writes as follows:

The present plant, valued at about P10,000, consisting of the hospital building with its equipment and the ice plant, given by Mrs. G. R. Clark, the proposed isolation hospital, funds for which are in hand, are evidences of generosity on the part of many of our friends, as much of the amount was given as expression of appreciation for services and of interest in our work. Five hundred dollars was granted from the Kennedy Bequest this year. Looking about us to-day at the many changes that have taken place in the lives of the people among whom we live, we wonder what part the influence of our life has played in the improvement. Speaking definitely of the year 1911, we have to report that the number of treatments will exceed 10,000. There is a yearly increase in the number of treatments at the dispensary and in the number of in-patients at the hospital. The installation of the ice machine has proven a blessing in many cases of illness at the hospital and is a comfort to those friends outside who have been able to secure ice for their homes. The ice plant, aside from supplying ice to the hospital without cost, is proving to be a small source of revenue for the Station. A number of additions and alterations at the hospital, made under the supervision of Mr. Glunz, greatly increase the efficiency of the plant. A large amount of literature, testaments, tracts, etc., has been sold at the hospital and large amounts have been distributed through the patients and sent out to various preaching centres.

CEBU STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Illness greatly impeded evangelistic work this year. One evangelist was ill the whole year, two others four and five months respectively, and being alone in the Station, Mr. Jansen had all he could do looking after the different congregations. But we have gained a number of self-sustaining churches as a result, and two sets of these have called pastors. Of new work we have been able to enter two places: Barili, on the west coast, and Medellan, on the extreme north coast, in both of which a number of converts are awaiting baptism. Northern Mindanao has been visited, and literature has been supplied by the box to a number of urgent requests. Five teachers from Misamis, who attended the summer Normal at Cebu, before their return were baptized, and a goodly number more were studying their Bibles, with the evident desire to find the truth.

A long-promised visit to Oslob and Santander is one of the joyful memories of the past year. Our special meeting went with a swing, and all too soon came the time to say good-bye. These congregations appeared to be in a good, healthy condition both in a spiritual and temporal sense, and there seemed to be a strong bond of affection between pastor and people. Books were kept well, and showed that all their obligations had been met without difficulty.

Our young people are giving us a great deal of encouragement, and the future work of importance will evidently be among the younger generation. Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap's return to their Station, and the opening already affected among the high school students fill us with joy. Then we have through friends been able this year to send four promising young women to the Ellinwood Training School in Manila, an increased number of young men to Silliman, and lately ten young women to the Mission hospital in Iloilo for training as nurses.

EDUCATIONAL.—A school composed of about 80 mountain children has been gathered and taught by one of the Silliman students, but the Government Superintendent of Schools has been glad to take over this work and the teacher is being paid now from government funds.

Laguna has much reason for encouragement with the results of the year's work, considered as a whole.

We are gratified at the solid development shown by the churches in matters of organization; a certain sense of responsibility for the work as related to their own well-being; and also to the wider interests of the kingdom, thus indicating a state of self-consciousness as a community having a real entity, and being a real force to be reckoned with; and in material improvement as indicated in the erection of new chapels and the repairing of already existing ones. In regard to the element outside the churches, one influence that has operated to diminish interest is the cessation of the medical work. It makes us sensible of the fact that medical missions is a large factor in the creation of a friendly attitude toward the work in general and a sympathetic relation on the part of those whom it touches. Up to this year, while the dispensary was being conducted, the people came from all over the province and from other provinces near at hand. They realized how much this little institution meant to them and they appreciated it. While some still come for treatment which they can no longer get, gradually as it becomes better known over the province that the medical work is not done as heretofore, there is evident a waning of interest in our work in the community not directly attached to our churches. It has probably reduced the number of accessions this year.

EVANGELISTIC.—The chapel completed last year by the church in Pangil was dedicated in December with services that have come to be the established form in Laguna on such occasions; a procession through the streets of the town, carrying banners with texts of Scripture, accompanied by a band of music, with stops at intervals along the way for brief addresses by the evangelists and pastor, and finally, the dedicatory service in the chapel.

The usual annual workers' training class was held in Pagsanjan in January, attended by about 40 members of the various churches, and was helpful to all present. Those assisting the missionary were Dr. and Mrs. Rodgers, Pastor Zarco and Miss Kalb. Some little trouble was experienced by the congregation of San Pedro Tusan in their endeavor to hold services in the street of the town. Not having a chapel as yet and desiring to do propaganda work in various neighborhoods, they applied to the president of the town for permission. Understanding that permission was given, they proceeded with their services, but on one occasion the meeting was stopped by the police. Since then, however, they have been given protection by the Provincial Governor, who made it clear to the town authorities that they were not to be molested in their meetings.

The church in San Pablo has shown a most unusual activity, due in large part to the consecrated and efficient leadership of the evangelist established in this district in January, Sr. Guillermo Avilla, a graduate last year of Ellinwood Seminary, who will probably be ordained in January. Twenty-eight members have been received into this church as the result of faithful work, and 12 children baptized. A new chapel has also been erected at a cost of about P1,500.

An interesting and hopeful work has developed at the College of Agriculture, located at Los Baños. Mr. Doltz wrote Mr. Hamilton that two students, formerly members of his Sunday-school class in Iloilo, were studying at the Agricultural College, had started a class there among the students, and desired assistance particularly in the way of a teacher. Mr. Hamilton made a brief visit to the college a little later, on a hurried trip to Manila, met these two young men, learned something of what they were doing and some time afterward was informed by letter that they had announced him to conduct a service for the students the following Sunday. He went over and had a most delightful day with the boys. An odd fact is that the surnames of these two students are respectively Hierro and Oro—Iron and Gold. They have been chums and roommates for a number of years and are now living together at the college. They are the backbone of this work and seem to have the strength of iron and the purity of gold.

Mr. Hamilton writes: "Now here is a most promising opportunity, a door opened of God, a work spontaneous in its origin and capable of wonderful possibilities if utilized. I am expecting to send the boys some helpful books for their library and am hoping to arrange for speakers to come to the college once a month, give a lecture on Saturday evening to the student body and hold a religious service on Sunday. A remarkable thing about this work is that the two men who started it have not yet been baptized as Protestants or united with any church. The Bible has simply got a hold on their lives."

Besides the chapel in San Pablo, others are being erected at Siniloan, San Antonio, Calamba and Pagsanjan, the last costing about P2,000.

LEYTE STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—There does not seem to be much evangelistic spirit in the Leyte Christians and the Station depends upon paid evangelists for effective Christian work. This is to be regretted, and we long for more spirituality among our congregations. We have not reached self-support in any of our congregations. But we make this our goal. We would like to see our Maasin congregation unite with the Macrohon congregation to call a pastor of their own. Looking toward this end we are planning to ordain two elders in Maasin. We are employing four evangelists beside Rev. Francisco Ibalarosa, who was ordained about two years ago.

An evangelist has been stationed at Hindang, where the work has been progressing nicely, the members building a new chapel to take the place of the smaller one.

A new out-station has been established at Marayag, a barrio town on the Island of Panawan, south of Leyte, but belonging to the Leyte Province. It looks at present as though the whole barrio, or at least the majority of the people at this place, will become Protestants. When Mr. Rath was itinerating in the Heraldo Christiano in March, he was providentially led to this place. While at another barrio near by Marayag, and while just on the point of leaving because of the cold reception, there appeared a man from Marayag, who said that he had come over because he heard that there were some Protestants there. He had come in touch with the Gospel in Leyte and said that there were some people interested, that the people were building a church and that they did not know to whom they would give it. We immediately went to the launch and went over to the place. We held meetings and had good audiences. Six were baptized and received into the church. The new members elected a president and secretary of the congregation. A building committee was also selected to look after the rebuilding of the chapel. The prospects here are good. In Macrohon, the members are building a chapel.

One of the great helps of the evangelistic work is the work of Doctor and Mrs. Carter in their Bible classes, most of which are held in the home. The doctor has enrolled in his classes some of the leading Filipinos of the town and also a goodly number of the school-boys.

Mrs. Carter has a class of small children, which is very popular. It is a pleasing sight to see the little tots sitting around the small circle engaged in singing or listening to Mrs. Carter explain to them the lesson of the day.

A great deal of itinerating has been done this past year. Most of it was done by water transportation.

In March and April the launch "Heraldo Christiano" was put at the disposal of Mr. Rath, and with it he itinerated all around the Malitbog Bay and up the western coast as far as Palompon, also touching at a few of the smaller islands. All of the congregations have been visited. The Lord's Supper has been administered where the members were prepared to receive it and candidates for baptism were examined and admitted to the church.

In September Doctor and Mrs. Carter and Mr. Rath visited Tacloban. The doctor treated patients that came to him and held one Bible Class. Mr. Rath conducted open air meetings, using a stereopticon and also meeting in the house for the members of Tacloban. The Lord's Supper was administered.

MEDICAL.—During the greater part of the year, the Leyte dispensary has been closed as Dr. Carter was on furlough. This report covers only four months:

Dispensary expenses	$187.83
Receipts from patients	191.49
Total number of treatments in four months	2493

The basement of our rented home is still used as dispensary and hospital, but a generous gift of the New York Woman's Board will now provide a new hospital.

The medical work in this Island has been very successful in removing prejudice against evangelical Christianity and has won many personal friends for the missionaries.

ALBAY STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Mr. Brown laments that there has not been the advance of previous years, as only 130 have been received. Many home pastors would consider that highly encouraging.

The elements have seemed to be against us and two of our chapels have been blown down, though we think they will soon be repaired. There have been discouragements in some parts of our field, but on the whole, we feel as though God has been with us.

Conditions in Albay are not so good as in Sorsogon. There everything is seemingly ready for the opening of the work. Three buildings are contemplated. Many barrios have been opened to the preaching of the Word and the English-speaking Filipinos are wide awake and desirous of hearing. In Sorsogon and Gubat, we held meetings in English for pupils and teachers, and they were always well attended.

During the year, Mr. Brown spent 51 days in Sorsogon. Sabbath-schools have been organized and we have meetings regularly in Gubat, Matnog, Magallanes, Pollot, Tulatula and Sorsogon. All congregations have kept up their own expenses and bought Sabbath-school supplies to an extent.

Mr. Brown has been sending literature through the mail to people of the Province. He has a list of the prominent people and sends them literature and hopes to accomplish much good. He has organized it on the card system and thus knows just what each one receives.

Our Sabbath-school work is picking up to quite an extent, but in church attendance we find that it is hard to make the brethren realize that they ought to assist.

The problem of self-support is not solved by us by any means. Our congregations are small and the financial condition of each one is poor. They give their pennies and are glad to, but it takes a lot to do much toward self-support. We are urging this on them on every visit.

Great are the opportunities offered in Sorsogon and in Albay for dormitories, and this coming year we are going to try to get one established in Albay and if another man comes to us for Sorsogon, we hope to establish a dormitory there. We believe it is one of the best means of getting a permanent hold on the people.

English services have been well attended, sometimes running up to forty.

TAYABAS STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Since the departure of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles N. Magill on furlough in January, 1911, the native pastor connected with Laguna Station, the Rev. Roman G. Amoranto, and the Rev. Charles Hamilton, of Laguna, have made trips covering the entire field twice and that part of the field in the island of Luzon a third time. Mr. Hamilton writes as follows:

It was a pleasure to see the respect for, the confidence in, and the real regard for, the Tayabas missionaries manifested by the members in all the churches. Whatever the Magills have said to the people regarding method or policy seems to be accepted as the Gospel truth. I could not help noticing also in the churches as a class a spirit of hopeful optimism. No matter how few and weak in numbers they may have been, they expect nothing but ultimate success. Their faces are set toward the future, the day of greater things. To have inspired a people with this sort of a spirit is an achievement, I take it, of no small moment. I was well impressed with the strength exhibited by some of the churches, such as those at Louisiana, Mauban, Lukban, Sariyaya and Unisan.

A most remarkable activity has been manifest in the church at Sariyaya. The evangelistic zeal and faithfulness of the members have resulted in a goodly number of additions to the membership. They have been instant in their efforts to carry the message of salvation to their neighbors and friends who know it not. Throughout the year in two congregations, those of Sanghiren and Santa Cruz, quiet, but persistent effort has been put forth in preparation for the erection of new chapels. Money has been collected and materials have been purchased and a short time should see these congregations possessed of houses of worship.

It is regretted that owing to the multiplication of duties this year we were not able to arrange for a workers' training class in Tayabas, as has been done in former years when Mr. and Mrs. Magill were on the ground.

BOHOL STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Dr. Graham deeply felt the need of a few good Filipino evangelists.

About this we prayed daily; consequently it was with genuine desire in this direction that we received into our home during the school vacation eight selected English-speaking students and several Visayan workers, to study the Bible for two months. They gave nearly all their time to this study. Their spiritual development was apparent. One by one they awakened to the power of a new life, confessed before men their Saviour, and after baptism, publicly testified to the truth in the open air meetings.

The town market, which is held nightly, had by this time been moved to the front of our house, so that all that was necessary to have a few hundred listeners was to sit at our door and begin to sing a hymn, accompanied by the baby organ. The boy students would have short evangelistic talks ready, with plenty of songs between. These meetings are always preceded by an informal prayer meeting where we plead with God in private; but in the open air meeting we have no prayer except the benediction.

The result of this effort to secure Filipino evangelists has been the sending of six of the students to Silliman Institute to continue their Bible work there in conjunction with other studies. One of the others who studied with us has just been appointed colporteur of the British and Foreign Bible Society. Those who went to Silliman Institute are anxious to give their lives to the preaching of the Gospel.

Dr. and Mrs. Graham have maintained in their house a little dormitory for poor school-boys.

The island has been encompassed four times this year in itinerating trips made partly in the launch and partly on horse-back.

One congregation suffered severely from famine; no rain having fallen, it was necessary to sow their corn three times before the harvest, yet they have contributed 480 days' labor to building a new and substantial chapel. Another congregation has built a new chapel, contributing 120 days' labor.

The foundation has been laid for another chapel in Tagbilaran.

Forty-one adults have been baptized this year in comparison with 26 last year.

The service for Americans has been held almost every Sunday in the missionary's house and has been faithfully attended by American teachers and others. This little gathering has become very precious to us because of the resultant fellowship.

A good deal of persecution has been felt in a quiet way, although the stoning has ceased. One of the most trying forms of persecution has been the refusal of burial to Protestant dead. One poor man traveled through three municipalities begging for three feet of earth to bury his child. He carried the body around for 40 hours, while he was refused burial by two municipalities, till finally, 52 hours after the death of his child, he buried it on his own land against the law that he tried so hard to keep. Your missionaries have done their best to protest against such treatment both to the authorities and to the press. The result is that the Government has ordered a special investigation from Manila.

MEDICAL.—Except when Dr. Graham was out on itinerating trips, the dispensary has been open. On the itinerating trips many sick people were also treated, as the doctor takes along a large assortment of medicines and a few instruments, always finding many suffering ones in back-woods towns and barrios who otherwise have no expectations of relief.

The number of treatments in Tagbilaran has been 2,140, while the number of patients treated on the launch has been 320. Visits have been made to a number of neighboring towns in response to calls for aid.

From the dispensary the usual flow of literature has gone out, and many New Testaments and Bibles have been sold in the waiting-room to patients and their friends, while hundreds of impromptu conversations and discussions on the Gospel message have taken place while Mrs. Graham presided.

Mrs. Graham has published 50 Visayan Sunday-school lessons and several Visayan tracts, beside finishing the revision of the Visayan Pentateuch.

The launch has been of much service to the field and has given two months' service in Leyte, but could be more effective for the whole Mission if equipped with a modern engine.

CAMARINES STATION.

Upon recommendation of the Mission, the Board set apart the Province of Camarines as a separate Station with headquarters at Nueva Caceres.

EVANGELISTIC.—As Mr. MacDonald had not been on the field long enough to preach in the vernacular, the evangelistic work has gone slowly. A goodly number of the Filipinos understand some Spanish, but services in that language are not a success. Hence, Mr. MacDonald has confined most of his time to the study of Bicol in the hope of being able to preach in that tongue.

The people in all parts are asking that evangelists be sent to explain the Word of God, but there is no one to send, so we try to impress upon them the necessity of obtaining copies of the New Testament in Bicol and studying them for themselves. In several places our members and adherents have had to undergo persecution, but apparently it only serves to make them more staunch and loyal to their new faith.

In order to make our work here a success we must win the young people who are in the public schools. Establishing dormitories for these students has been one of the most effective ways of reaching them in other places and we had hoped that it would be as successful here. At the beginning of the present school year we tried to get a dormitory under way for the boys of the High School, but they did not seem to be able to understand it and so we had to let it go for the time being. However, we have not given up the plan and hope to do something along that line a little later on.

A Sunday evening service for the Americans has an average attendance of about a dozen. Very frequently a number of the English-speaking Filipinos attend also. The largest attendance at the English services was 28 and the smallest 3.

The number baptized during the year has been only ten, all but two from the congregation of Pambujan. There were ten others in the same congregation who expressed a desire to be baptized, but they were asked to wait till they had studied the Bible a little more. From indications on all sides, there is abundant opportunity to win many to the service of God in this Province, but the work must proceed slowly on account of the scarcity of laborers. The people are very poor and unable to do much for themselves in a financial way, but the causes of this poverty are sure to be removed gradually.

THE SIAM MISSION.

BANGKOK: capital of Siam; on the Menam River, 25 miles from its mouth; occupied as a Mission Station, 1840. Missionaries—Rev. J. B. Dunlap and Mrs. Dunlap, Rev. F. L. Synder and Mrs. Snyder, Miss Edna S. Cole, Rev. W. G. McClure and Mrs. McClure, Miss Annabel Galt, Miss M. C. McCord, C. C. Walker, M.D., and Mrs. Walker, Miss Bertha Blount, Mr. Edward M. Spilman, Mr. Clarence A. Steele and Mrs. Steele, and Miss Alice J. Ellinwood.

PETCHABURI: on the western side of the Gulf of Siam, 90 miles southwest of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station, 1861. Missionaries—E. B. McDaniel, M.D., and Mrs. McDaniel, Rev. J. A. Eakin and Mrs. Eakin, Rev. A. W. Cooper and Mrs. Cooper, Rev. Herbert W. Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, and Rev. R. W. Post and Mrs. Post.

PITSANULOKE: on the Menam River, 200 miles north of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station, 1898. Missionaries—Carl Shellman, M.D., and Mrs. Shellman, Rev. R. C. Jones and Mrs. Jones.

NAKAWN: on the eastern side of the Malay Peninsula, 320 miles south of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station, 1900. Missionaries—Rev. C. E. Eckels and Mrs. Eckels, W. J. Swart, M.D., and Mrs. Swart, Miss L. J. Cooper, and Rev. Egon Wachter, M.D., and Mrs. Wachter.

TAP TEANG: on the west coast of the Siamese peninsula, nearly opposite Nakawn Sri-Tamarat; occupied 1910. Missionaries—L. C. Bulkley, M.D., and Mrs. Bulkley, Rev. E. P. Dunlap and Mrs. Dunlap, and Miss Johanna H. Christensen.

RESIGNATIONS: Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Caldwell.

FURLOUGHS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. J. A. Eakin and Mrs. Eakin, Miss Margaret McCord, Rev. J. B. Dunlap and Mrs. Dunlap, Dr. C. C. Walker.

The year has been an eventful one in the history of Siam. It saw the close of the beneficent reign of King Chulalongkorn. His reign, which extended nearly forty-two years, was an era of such marked reforms and improvements as the gradual abolition of debt slavery, the establishment of post and telegraph systems, construction of railroads, administration of justice under modern conditions, and not a little toward the gradual suppression of gambling and the opium habit. With such active mind and purpose together with ripe experience in administering the affairs of the nation, Siam is the poorer by the passing of this great ruler. The whole country went into mourning for a year.

While the remains of the late king lay in state, the American community went in a body to pay respect, being received by the new king. Dr. Carrington spoke in behalf of the Americans, and His Majesty replied sympathetically, assuring us of his good will. Christians from all of our churches attended a memorial service held in the Boon Itt Memorial Institute. The teachers and pupils of the Bangkok Christian College and of the Harriet House Girls' School, in turn with other schools of Bangkok, went to lay a wreath at the foot of the Royal Urn.

The buildings erected for the cremation were of exquisite beauty and the ceremony was performed with stately oriental pomp. However, in accordance with the desire of the late king, the function was simpler than had been the custom with Siamese kings in the past, and the money saved was used for institutions for the benefit of the people. Memorial gifts were distributed to churches, temples, schools and hospitals, and all of our mission churches, schools and hospitals now have some useful furniture or apparatus given by the king in memory of his royal father.

The present King Maha Vajiravudh, crown prince for fifteen years, was educated in England. Those who know him believe he will build nobly on the foundations laid by his honored father.

BANGKOK STATION.

The personnel has had several changes during the year, caused by the transfer of Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Dunlap and the furloughs, arrivals or departures of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dunlap, Dr. C. C. Walker, Dr. and Mrs. W. G. McClure, and Miss M. C. McCord and the resignation of Mr. and Mrs. Conybeare and temporary assistance by Dr. and Mrs. E. Wachter and their daughters. The resignation, since the close of the year, of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Caldwell, on account of the ill-health of Mrs. Caldwell, is another serious loss. Dr. Walker's return to the field with a bride was a happy event.

EVANGELISTIC.—The church is passing through humiliation, for some members have fallen into grave errors of conduct. The church is in prayer that these may turn again and more truly follow Christ.

Regular services have been kept up at the Sumray Church under the Siamese pastor, Kru Yuan. One new member was received, a graduate of the Harriet M. House School.

The women of the church, as a company of King's Daughters, meet once a month for prayer.

The Siamese New Year was observed by an assembly of the Bangkok Christians at Sumray. At the Second Church, at the Harriet House School, 7 members have been received here during the year. The School maintains its Sunday-school and the Senior and Junior circles of King's Daughters meet regularly for prayer. Dr. McFarland's assistance has been much appreciated in this church.

At the Third Church 20 were received—14 by confession and 6 by letters. Several members of the church conduct a regular service in Chinese at the Bangkok Hospital, and half a dozen are engaged as colporteurs by the American Bible Society.

The Krit Sumpantwong church is near the Christian Boys' High School and the majority of the attendants are students. The Sunday-school is in connection with the High School. Afternoon English preaching services have been held.

The services at the little Ban Moh Chapel draw passers-by as they have always done since the work began several years ago. The regular preaching is stamping its mark on the surrounding community.

Boon Itt Memorial Institute.—The departure of Mr. and Mrs. Conybeare had a discouraging effect. But since May there has been a steady and substantial growth. There remains a great deal of very difficult work to develop this effort into an efficient evangelistic agency.

An evangelistic service is now being held every Sunday night. Systematic visiting in the neighborhood and among the members of the Institute and earnest work will eventually fill the big audience hall, but this will not be done suddenly. Like every new work undertaken by the Mission, the task of the B. I. M. has its discouragements, but there is every reason to expect great things by the continuation of earnest prayer and effort. A well-qualified man for the special work of this Institute has now been sent out, Mr. Clarence A. Steele, and while he is studying the language, Mr. J. B. Dunlap will superintend the work.

EDUCATIONAL.—Bangkok Christian College.—The institution, so long known as the Christian Boys' High School, will hereafter be known as Bangkok Christian College. It is not yet doing what is called college work in the United States, but it is the plan to develop it into a college. It is our leading educational institution in Siam and the one on which we must depend for the highest trained men. Moreover, it is equal in rank and superior in quality of work to the government and Roman Catholic institutions which are called colleges in Siam, and it has been under a popular disadvantage as compared with them, because it did not have the name which in Siam is given to such an institution. The graduating exercises this year were unusually interesting. Four men received their diplomas and an address was made by Phya Montri, one of the oldest of the alumni.

The attendance the past year was 160, which is less than in recent years.

There are several obvious reasons for this. First: the growing competition with the government schools accounts for much of it. Whereas we once had the field almost to ourselves, now many of the government schools are better equipped than ours. Although this cuts into our work, it is really a gratifying sign of the progress in the country that we expect, and an indirect result of missionary effort.

A special reason for the reduced attendance is the military conscription, forcing many of our larger boys either to go into the army or into some technical school of the government.

Plans must be adjusted to meet the changing conditions. The college has held its own thus far in the present school year, and it is hoped that the standard of self-support can be maintained.

The college is conforming to the Government Education Department's regulations, and has sent a number of pupils to the government examinations.

Sumray School.—The Sumray School has been housed in the old Mission dwelling back of the church, the old school house being dilapidated beyond recovery.

The attendance keeps up to about 80. And most of the members are regular attendants at the Sumray Sunday-school. This year the school sent up six new boys to the Christian College.

Harriet M. House School for Girls.—This has had a busy year. The 100 girls fill the building and applicants are turned away for want of room.

In January the highest government examination in Siamese was given to this graduating class. For one week the inspectors came every day and the pupils labored over twenty subjects. However, they reaped the reward of their labor, for the following month the report came that all of them had passed. In March the pupils of the Sixth Standard were taken to Wat Tepsirin for the highest government examination in English given by the common schools. All passed in this examination.

Two street Sunday-schools are conducted by missionaries and teachers. Miss Cole, assisted by one of the teachers, keeps up the Bible school and a woman's prayer meeting at the Conference Chapel, and Miss Blount, assisted by a teacher, keeps up the Bible school at the Ban Moh Chapel.

Four pupils and three teachers of the Wang Lang School have united with the church during the year.

MEDICAL.—The Bangkok Hospital.—The 40 beds in the hospital are full, and the number of out-patients is increasing daily.

In the absence of Dr. Walker on furlough, the hospital was ably conducted by Dr. C. C. Hansen and Mr. Snyder. It was no small task to undertake to finance the hospital for more than a year, but the hospital is once more self-supporting and the receipts for August were more than enough to meet all expenses. Evangelistic services are held regularly.

MISSION PRESS.—The Press, under the sole care of Mr. Spilman during the furlough of Mr. Dunlap, has had, as usual, a busy year, doing all the printing for the Mission's evangelistic and educational work, publishing books and commentaries prepared by the missionaries and by Dr. McFarland, Sunday-school lessons and helps, and in addition a good deal of printing for the government.

The Press printed in gold on silk two copies of the resolutions of the American Presbyterian Mission in Siam to His Majesty the King, concerning the death of his royal father. One of these copies was given to His Majesty the King, the other was sent to the Board Rooms in New York.

The Godown handled 1,347 cases, of which 450 were received after 6 P.M., requiring much night work. In addition to the 1,347 cases from abroad, there were many local purchases for missionaries in the provinces and in the Laos country.

The Kennedy bequest brought great happiness. Two additional residences and some greatly needed land have been added to the property plant.

PETCHABURI-RATBURI STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Post, in September transferred from Nakawn, have taken up the evangelistic work of the Petchaburee field, and in June Dr. and Mrs. Eakin departed for their furlough. At the beginning of the year Dr. McDaniel returned from furlough, and again took charge of the medical work. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart have, during their first year, been temporarily stationed at Rajaburi.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The Petchaburi field is the Province of Rajaburi and Nakon Chaisae with the district of Chumpon, Province Chiya. This field has a population of 737,981. These figures are recent and authoritative, and especial attention is called to the fact that this is 106,000 more than reported hitherto.

There are 548 on the "catechumen-adherent" roll. All of these have expressed a desire to become Christians, but the interest of some is but slight, while others are in earnest.

As there is no separate church organization at Rajaburi, the Christians there are enrolled at Petchaburi.

The four Sunday services and the Sunday-school have been maintained at Petchaburi during the year. Morning service has had an average attendance of about 55. The afternoon services at the Market Chapel and at Wat Pratat having averaged 18 and 20 respectively. At Rajaburi the usual evangelistic services have been maintained with little interruption.

A conference was held at Petchaburi last March for the benefit of the Siamese Christians. It was a representative meeting, for those attending were representatives of groups of Christians in the various villages where evangelistic work has been done. Seventy-five Siamese Christians attended this conference.

Mr. Cooper has a Christian Workers' Bible Class. Eight Siamese Christians are studying this course at Petchaburi and two others at Rajaburi. Mr. Post also meets weekly with the evangelists. The interest in these special courses seems to be well sustained and we regard this as an important and promising new feature of our work.

On the tour to Koh Lak, 100 miles to the south, Dr. Eakin and Mr. Post walked more than 200 miles, visited 18 groups, baptized 8 adults and 5 infants while 56 were added to the catechumen roll.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart accompanied Mr. Post on a week's tour up the Maklong River from Rajaburi, also Dr. and Mrs.

Eakin and Miss Lucy Dunlap on a short trip down the river; Mr. and Mrs. Stewart assisting with the music.

Mr. Post has made eight visits to Bangkaboon, where are special need and encouragement. Plans were made for a modest chapel, and the cost of materials was estimated at Ticals 130. An offering was made when Ticals 26 were given and subscriptions were noted of more money and work.

MEDICAL.—We are indebted to the First Church of Pittsburgh, for equipment of the new operating room and funds for a power boat for the use of their representative here. A small electric-lighting plant was also received: a memorial to an old schoolmate. An old-time friend furnished funds which partially paid for a water plant, intended principally for the hospital, but by this improvement the whole compound benefits.

We would not forget in this connection the more recent gifts presented by His Majesty the King as a memorial to his late revered father; the Petchaburee hospital receiving a high-grade American microscope and the one at Rajaburi a porcelain operating table and a small instrument case.

Extensive improvements have greatly helped the appearance and usefulness of the hospital building at Petchaburi. The wards and rooms are no longer littered with dried fish, bags of rice, tins of charcoal, cooking utensils, etc., as a room has been built containing lockers for every patient and here such articles are kept.

Notwithstanding a great deal of outside work, a larger number of patients have been cared for than ever before and there has been a fairly good demand for the dispensary medicines. The receipts, though above the average for Petchaburi, are chiefly derived from medical and surgical fees.

With the aid of Mr. Post and the evangelists, the spiritual side of the work has been carried on with some visible results, quite a number having declared their belief in the "Great Physician." Mrs. McDaniel carries no light burden as surgical nurse.

Though nominally in charge of the Rajaburi medical work, only occasional visits could be made. Kean Koo has been able to carry on a steadily growing work.

The following is a statistical report of the work for the past year:

	Petchaburi.	Rajaburi.
In-patients.....	129	50
Out-patients.....	36	169
Operations requiring general anesthetic.....	38	2
Minor operations.....	90 (about)	30
Visits.....	86	102
Vaccinations.....	—	14
Sales and prescriptions (none of these counted so-called "out-patients").....	1,650
Receipts, Ticals.....	3,512.77	4,678.94

Dr. Eakin completed his commentary on Acts, including a revised translation of the text. Mr. Cooper has revised the Siamese translation of II. Samuel complete, and has prepared brief comments in Siamese on the International Sunday-school Lessons throughout the year.

EDUCATIONAL.—An effort was made to add a boarding department to our Petchaburi school, but, after a few months' trial, this was closed again, there being no permanent pay boarders and no funds to provide for charity boarders.

The day-schools have been maintained both at Petchaburi and Rajaburi. During the first half of the year, a girls' school, with a Siamese woman teacher, was maintained at each place, separate from the boys. Since vacation, no woman teacher has been available, and it has not seemed feasible to support such separate schools at either place. However, most of the Rajaburi girl pupils and some of those at Petchaburi have continued to attend school and have been provided for in the same classes with the boys.

The average monthly enrollment at Rajaburi has been 45 boys and 19 girls and at Petchaburi 38 boys and 10 girls.

NAKAWN SRI-TAMARAT STATION.

The year has been marked by great activity in civic improvement.

Aside from the progress made in railway construction, we note the regrading and remetaling of existing roads, the laying out and clearing of many new ones, the completion and formal opening of the handsome bridge donated by the High Commissioner, H. R. H. Somdet Chow Fa Yugala, Prince of Lopburi. Plans have been adopted for dredging the Ta Wang Creek, and keeping it in bounds by a bund extending down from this bridge to the lower end of town. A second bridge, commenced under the direction of the Lieut.-Governor, H. H. Mom Chow Prasop Prasong, will complete the cart road laid out to connect the region of luxuriant durian and mangosteen gardens west of town with the markets and railway. Many substantial brick buildings are going up, chief among them being the new local government quarters in the heart of the walled city.

The arrival of Dr. Wachter and family, June 28, was most welcome. For over two years the resident adult missionaries had numbered only five.

EVANGELISTIC.—A helpful Conference of Christians was held in May. The attendance averaged 30, and the interest was excellent. The communion service on the closing Sabbath was solemn and touching, as eight names were added to the roll of those pledged to serve our Master.

Other special forms of work which have been undertaken during the year are an evening class of working men for Bible study by Mr. Eckels and a weekly mothers' meeting by Mrs. Eckels. Two new classes have been lately formed in the Sunday-school, one for girls and one for young women. Mrs. Wachter has the latter.

As the church building was small and decrepit with age, the congregation has been giving systematically in quarterly instalments for two years toward a new church, and the new building is now well under way.

Four tours have been made during the year. Three were by Mr. Eckels: an eight days' walking trip in January, 30 miles up the coast, to visit a company of Christians at Ban Ta Nien; a three weeks' steamer trip up the coast to Samui and Pangan Islands, and a twenty-six days' trip over the hills to the west and north.

The fourth tour was made in August by Doctors Swart and Wachter and two helpers. It occupied eight days. They went by boat to the southwest corner of the Province, being especially anxious to visit Ta Samet, where elephantiasis is prevalent. Twenty cases of it were investigated, and several were photographed. Books and medicines were sold, Christians and former patients invited, service held on the Sabbath and as opportunity offered. The stereopticon pictures drew audiences of from 50 to 500 on three evenings.

We rejoice to report a total of 19 members received into the Bethlehem Church, 18 adults and 7 children baptized, and such an advance all along the line as fills the Station with new faith and courage for the future.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Suksa Koomaree School for Girls is growing. The average daily attendance increased from 12 to 20, and the interest is correspondingly good. The enrollment since June 1 is 28.

Both schools have been affiliated with those of the Government Education Department. A few boys went up for the government examinations in March, and three received the Mool diploma. As they grow more familiar with the methods of conducting these examinations, they should improve upon this showing. Some of the present III. Pratome class hold government certificates in the Siamese work of that grade.

The appropriation for a new building for the Boys' School was gladly received. It came none too soon for the needs of the work.

The most noticeable gain this year in the Boys' School is in better deportment, quieter study and good feeling between the pupils. The new enthusiasm for military drill which is sweeping over the country sometimes extends the hour of calisthenics far past 4 o'clock. Then football begins and lasts until nearly dark.

The interest in the daily Bible lessons seems increasing, and the number of pupils attending church and Sunday-school is larger than ever before.

The Siamese teachers have been whole-hearted in their work and have carried more responsibility than usual. The pupil-teacher united with the church in May, and has a quiet influence for good among his associates.

The enrollment for the present term is 38, and the average daily attendance about 30.

MEDICAL.—This has been the most prosperous year in the history of the medical work. The number of visits to homes was 153; out-patients treated at the hospital, 3,736, and of in-patients 220, the latter being an increase over last year of about 20 per cent.

The fame of the Sri-Tamarat Memorial Hospital has spread throughout the Peninsula, and patients come several days' journey to receive aid. Many arrive in the gravest condition, having first tried all other known treatments. But by the blessing of the Great Healer upon the means employed, most of them return home cured. The death rate for the past four years has been but a trifle over 2 per cent.

Sixty-six minor and 84 major operations were performed. The number of important operations was larger than ever before, including extraction of 3 cataracts, 10 amputations, appendectomy, 8 stone cases, 3 abdominal tumors, one weighing over 27 pounds, and several cancer cases. One of these involved the resection of the upper jaw and another called for the removal of the entire lower jaw, with an adherent tumor 6 inches in diameter. All these operations were successfully performed, and all the patients except the last-mentioned, made a good recovery. Dr. Wachter's arrival in June was most timely, for many of these cases required two experienced surgeons as well as all the available trained helpers.

The income of over 9,000 ticals has met all expenses.

The evangelistic work of the hospital has been kept prominent, as usual. Though it draws nothing from the funds set aside for this purpose, its staff of Christian helpers are true evangelists, active and earnest in proclaiming the Gospel to a wide circle of hearers. Services are held daily in the Hospital Chapel fronting the street, and the in-patients have other opportunities to hear of Christ's life and teachings. About 3 per cent. of them publicly accept Christ during their stay, and of the rest few fail to carry home with them some knowledge of, and reverence for, the Great Physician of souls. Thus the seed is sown broadcast and the reapings sure.

PITSANULOKE STATION.

Rev. and Mrs. Jones and Dr. and Mrs. Shellman are still in charge of all the work, as Rev. and Mrs. Stewart who were assigned to Pitsanuloke are still at Rajaburi, because so far we have been unable to secure a new site on which to build a third dwelling.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Wednesday evening meeting has been for the most part in the form of a stereopticon service which is much appreciated and to which more outsiders come than to any other service. At all regular services, the students from the schools and the hospital patients are required to attend whenever possible.

A service at the market is held every Saturday afternoon where large crowds assemble to listen to the Gospel story explained by the use of the picture roll.

Three children were baptized during the year and two adults joined the Church.

One three weeks' tour by motor boat was made to Kampang Pet on the Maa Ping River, the western boundary of the Pitsanuloke field, by Mr. Jones, accompanied by one assistant for the evangelistic work and one for the medical work.

Several hundred tracts and portions of Scriptures were sold and the picture roll or stereopticon lantern was in use almost daily. This part of the field has not been visited since January, 1907, and from the present outlook there is not much prospect of extensive touring in that part of the field, as furloughs will cause our Station to be manned by only two families for at least two and a half years more.

Several short tours have been made either by boat, or railroad, or afoot across country, for there are no water ways. On one of these cross country tours lasting only six days, but in a place where we had never been before, we found two villages of over 2,000 inhabitants each, with large temples, and plenty of priests but not a single school in either place. Three smaller villages were in the same condition, while in two other places we found there were temples, but neither priests nor schools. As a class, the people were the most ignorant and superstitious of any that we have met in this part of Siam. Many would not even receive our medicines as a gift and our tracts we could not sell because only a few could read. There is still much pioneer touring to be done in this field.

EDUCATIONAL.—The boys' school has an enrollment of 62 and a very good average attendance compared with the enrollment. Mr. Jones is in charge of the school and is assisted by two Siamese teachers, both of whom are competent to teach English.

The grade of teaching is better than it has ever been before and the general tone of the students is better than formerly, considering that the boys represent the homes of rich and poor, high and low classes. More students are attending from the Army Department than ever before.

In connection with the boys' school a girls' department has been carried on by Mrs. Jones since the beginning of the present school year. This department has had an enrollment of 18 and an average attendance of 9. A Siamese lady teacher was secured and much interest is taken in the work, so we hope to establish a girls' school as a separate department next year.

MEDICAL.—From eight to sixteen hours a day had been required during every day of the year to care for the sick, and to listen to tales of woe, many of which were pathetic, many sad and others humorous.

Our work shows an increase in all directions both in the amount of work accomplished, the distance traveled and financial receipts in the work. 142 in-patients have been treated, while 210 others who lived with friends near by have come for daily treatments for varying lengths of time. 6,075 out-patients have been taken care of, and 554 visits have been made to the homes of the sick. Receipts for the year have been Ticals 6,629.50. Two features of the work this year have been the number of serious stab cases we have been able to care for successfully and the number of long-distance calls that we have had.

The daily morning service at the hospital has been carried on by Mrs. Shellman and the Siamese assistant.

We gratefully acknowledge the receipt of a glass instrument case and a large electric battery that was given to the hospital by the Siamese government in memory of His Majesty the late King of Siam.

TAP TEANG STATION.

There is much to encourage. Miss Bruner's marriage to Dr. Bulkley brought a welcome addition to the Station force and the close of the year saw the arrival of Miss Johanna Christensen as matron and head nurse of the hospital.

Although this Station is new, having been organized November 5, 1910, yet to some of us it is an old field. The Station, like Nakawn and Pitsanulok, is fruit of itinerating work, from years of sowing as well as the novelty of pioneering. Whilst Tap Teang may seem to be a far-away Station, it is really nearer to New York than any other Station in Siam. Work is being vigorously pushed in all divisions of the "Royal Southern Railway." When completed we shall be only a few hours from the ocean liners for New York via Naples and all other important European centres. This railway will also bring Bangkok several days nearer to London and New York, which, from a commercial standpoint, is an important fact. Then Penang may be reached from Bangkok, via Trang, in less than 48 hours. Passengers would save several days' sea travel by way of Singapore, and about one week's time. Since Tap Teang will be practically at the terminus of this Transpeninsular R. R., we justly feel our importance, and we are glad that we shall thus be brought much nearer to Nakawn, Petchaburi and Bangkok Stations.

EVANGELISTIC.—The field for evangelistic itinerating is extensive, covering the greater part of several provinces, and facilities are good.

Since coming here, building houses, etc., has consumed so much of our time, that our itinerating has been confined to the Trang Province, save one long tour to Panga Province. Numerous short tours have been made out into the villages and districts with some happy results. Several converts have been won and catechumen classes formed. The reception has always been friendly, and since the buildings are drawing near completion, we shall launch out into general itinerating.

Bazar Preaching.—The Station has rented a corner of the large market-house in which evangelistic services are held every third day.

We have thus preached to throngs throughout the year, as well as sold a large amount of Christian literature. People have attended these services from all directions, even from distant Provinces. Very many have thus heard the Gospel for the first time, and have purchased the Word of God and Christian books and carried them to distant homes. Two Siamese evangelists have given efficient help to one of our missionaries in all these services. Several persons have professed conversion in these meetings.

Since the opening of the Station more than 50 men and women here sought to join the little company of disciples of Jesus.

Twenty-two adults and four children were baptized. The remaining persons were enrolled in the class of catechumens. At least 15 of the number were won by the first Siamese Christians of this region, who for many years lived and testified for Jesus.

The Spirit of aggressive testimony for Christ seems to be taking hold of the Christians here, and we are hopeful that thus many shall be led to Jesus.

EDUCATIONAL.—No mission school has yet been started, but the High Commissioner of the Puket region has appointed Dr. Dunlap "Special Commissioner of Public Schools and Lecturer to all the Schools of Trang Province."

It is the business of your missionary, in this office to organize public schools, inspect existing schools, advise the teachers and school boards, assemble the people in all school districts, show them the importance of the education of their children, suggest means by which they may help support the schools and to lecture in the public schools on subjects of his own choice.

Thus far he has lectured to the schools on "the evils of intoxicants," "economy," "evidence of design in nature," "geography," "travel," etc. We have at present 36 public schools and about 1,400 pupils in the Trang Province; an inviting field for earnest efforts.

These schools are free, being supported by moderate taxation. They are organized and conducted along the lines suggested to the late King of Siam by our American Minister, Hon. Hamilton King.

Although this move in behalf of education is in its infancy, we have noticed much improvement in the school children. The writer recalls, even during recent tours, hearing children, on seeing his approach, shouting out: "There comes that savage foreigner; run away as fast as you can! If he catches you he will cut out your liver, fry it and eat it." Now these children, having been gathered into schools and well taught, when they see us coming on the highway, draw up in lines, greet us pleasantly and make a graceful bow. These schools are primary, doing little more than two grades, but they are creating desire for higher education. The government has not established a girls' school here. We, therefore, are asking your help that we may found a girls' school.

MEDICAL.—His Excellency Phya Rasada finished the hospital building and it was handed over to the missionaries according to promise.

Through the kindness of home friends, Dr. Bulkley has carried on the furnishing of the hospital well nigh to completion. With gratitude we make mention of a gift from the king of Siam to the hospital, similar to the gifts to all the hospitals in Siam and Laos. An electric battery and a neat glass case suitable for eye surgical instruments. This gift was made in memory of his royal father, the late king of Siam, who so often, during his long reign, expressed substantial interest in our medical mission work.

The hospital has ministered to many poor people. The religious interest is growing. Two preaching services have been held every Sabbath in the hospital chapel, as well as daily morning services, and much personal work has been done for the Master. There seems to be increased confidence in the ability of the doctor to help. The patients, both in and out, have come even in greater numbers than we had expected.

In-patients during year, 90 (surgical, 42; medical, 48); deaths, 10; operations, 30 (15 under chloroform). Financial (running expenses)—Receipts: Drug sales, 792.77; fees, board, etc., 316; R. R. foreign staff, 392; from U. S. (Board and donation), 1,026.50; donations on field, 150; total, 2,676.27. Expenses: Drugs and surgical supplies, 1,416.40; assistants, coolies, etc., 1,008.92; food, lights, etc., 250.95; total, 2,676.27.

THE LAOS MISSION.

CHIENG-MAI: on the Me Ping River, about a month and a half by Laos boat, or 600 miles north-northwest of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1867. Missionaries—Mrs. Daniel McGilvary, Rev. D. G. Collins and Mrs. Collins, J. W. McKean, M.D., and Mrs. McKean, Rev. Howard Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Rev. J. H. Freeman and Mrs. Freeman, Rev. William Harris, Jr., and Mrs. Harris, C. W. Mason, M.D., and Mrs. Mason, Miss E. M. Buck, Miss Lucy Starling, Miss Marie Collins, Rev. W. O. Yates and Mr. Henry P. Reid.

LAKAWN: on the Me Wang River, 60 miles southeast of Chieng-mai; occupied as a Mission Station 1885. Missionaries—Miss Elizabeth Carothers, Rev. C. R. Callender and Mrs. Callender, Rev. H. S. Vincent and Mrs. Vincent, Dr. E. C. Cort and Mrs. Cort and Miss Ruth E. Shewbridge.

PRE: on the Me Yom River, 60 miles south of east of Lakawn; occupied as a Mission Station 1893. Missionaries—Rev. Roderick M. Gillies and Mrs. Gillies and C. H. Crooks, M.D., and Mrs. Crooks.

NAN: on the Me Nan River, 90 miles north and east of Pre; occupied as a Mission Station 1894. Missionaries—Rev. S. C. Peoples, M.D., and Mrs. Peoples, Rev. Hugh Taylor, D.D., and Mrs. Taylor, Rev. M. B. Palmer and Mrs. Palmer and Miss E. Van Vranken.

CHIENG-RAI: on the Me Kok River, 110 miles east of north of Chieng-mai; occupied as a Mission Station 1897. Missionaries—Rev. W. A. Briggs, M.D., and Mrs. Briggs, Rev. Henry N. White and Mrs. White, Rev. W. C. Dodd and Mrs. Dodd, Rev. L. J. Beebe and Miss Daisy P. Campbell and Rev. Ray W. Bachtell.

TRANSFERS: Rev. Roderick M. Gillies and Mrs. Gillies and Dr. C. H. Crooks and Mrs. Crooks, from Lakawn to Pre; Miss E. Van Vranken, from Lakawn to Nan.

DEATHS: Rev. Dr. Daniel McGilvary and Rev. Dr. Jonathan Wilson.

RESIGNATIONS: Rev. D. W. M. MacClure and Mrs. MacClure.

FURLOUGHS DURING THE YEAR: Miss E. Carothers, Dr. Charles H. Crooks and Mrs. Crooks, Dr. J. W. McKean and Mrs. McKean, Rev. Hugh Taylor and Mrs. Taylor, Rev. W. C. Dodd and Mrs. Dodd, Rev. R. Gillies and Mrs. Gillies.

The year has been the best in the history of the Mission. The total number of accessions to our churches has been 625, one-half more than in any previous year. Every church, with one exception, within the bounds of the Mission reports accessions. Each one of the five Stations reports large ingatherings, which shows a deep interest in every part of our field. This large number not only includes many young people of the second and third generations of our Christian people, but a very large number of entirely new households. What better evidence of the Holy Spirit's presence with us! The prayers of God's people in behalf of our Laos have been and are being answered. An unusually large number of catechumens are reported from each Station. The outlook for the future is very encouraging.

The Laos people are reading as never before, and they are reading God's Word. Some of our native ministers and many of our elders and other helpers have done excellent work. Eight or ten new chapels have either been built and dedicated or are in process of erection. All the schools under the care of the Mission have had a good year. Nan, Chieng-rai and Lampoon report large attendance. Both pupils and teachers have done good work, some excellent. Prince Royal's College and the two schools in Nan have made vigorous efforts to fall in line with the government curriculum. The country church schools, largely supported and managed by the Christians themselves, have made fair progress.

Our hospitals have all been crowded, while our dispensaries and foreign medicines are becoming more and more popular with the people. These have been used of the Holy Spirit in leading many to the great Physician.

In addition to the one in Chieng-rai, street chapels have been opened in Chieng-mai and Lakawn, and thousands of tracts and leaflets have been distributed. The Word has been faithfully preached every Sabbath-day in all our city churches and country chapels, not to mention the many services held in Christian homes where as yet we have no chapel.

During the year the Mission has suffered the loss of both its founders, Rev. Daniel McGilvary, D.D., LL.D., and Rev. Jonathan Wilson, D.D. Classmates in Princeton Seminary, they came to Siam together in 1858 and worked side by side. They gave to Siam 53 years of efficient and epoch-making service. Their first ten years were given to work in Lower Siam. Hearing the call to regions beyond, they made a tour of investigation to the unknown Laos States in 1864. The Laos Mission was established in 1867. Dr. McGilvary was preëminently an evangelist. His familiarity with the whole field served him well in locating and establishing the Stations in strategic points. He likewise actively fostered educational and medical work. Dr. Wilson was likewise an evangelist, but in later years was prevented from active efforts by long years of feeble health. As translator and hymn writer he will always be remembered by the Laos Church. His 500 Laos hymns form a legacy worth a life-time of service. The increase in membership during the year in which these men were called up higher was greater than the total number received during the first twenty years of the Mission's existence.

The report of Dr. Dodd's long tour of some 1,700 miles overland from Chieng-rai to Canton, China, and of Mr. Freeman's tour of the previous year have made a deep impression on the Mission. With 3,000,000 of Laos within Siam and 9,000,000 or 10,000,000 to the north and east, the latter wholly unreached by the missionaries of any Board, the Laos missionaries are beginning to realize the vastness of their field. With this in mind, the Mission by a unanimous vote has asked the Board for funds and reinforcements sufficient to open a Station in Southern China at the earliest possible date. WE MUST REACH OUT.

CHIENG-MAI STATION.

Our missionary force has enjoyed fairly good health. Christians have fared much better than their neighbors in the prevailing epidemic of malarial fever, due to the foreign medicines, the care of the physicians and the protection of our heavenly Father.

Dr. McGilvary worked with his customary vigor of mind and body until within two weeks of his death, having done more touring than usual, mainly in the Sen Pong district, and had the satisfaction of receiving 35 persons into the church. A few weeks before his death a substantial chapel was dedicated and a flourishing day-school begun. He completed his autobiography, which is now being printed—a precious legacy to lovers of Missions.

Mrs. McGilvary has given an hour daily to the sewing class in the Girls' School.

Dr. Campbell's time has been given to evangelistic work and church oversight as in former years; as pastor of the First Church in Chieng-mai and the care of the churches of Muang Pao and Chieng Dao; while the greater part of his touring has been in the Pa Bong district. He has also had charge of the school for native helpers, while Mrs. Campbell has continued in charge of the Phraner Memorial Primary School.

Dr. McKean returned from furlough in January after a course in the London and Liverpool Schools of Tropical Medicine and a tour of some of the more important Leper Asylums in India. Health reasons have delayed Mrs. McKean's return to the field. In addition to hospital work and a busy outside practice, Dr. McKean also has had charge of the building of the Leper Asylum. Me Pu Kha Church has claimed many of his Sabbaths.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins, with their daughter Marie, returned from furlough in January. Mr. Collins at once resumed his work as manager of the Mission Press. He has also had charge of the Bethlehem and Nawng Fan Churches. Also the "godown" which attends to the transshipment of supplies for Chieng-rai Station. Mrs. Collins and Marie spent the month of June doing evangelistic work within the bounds of the two former churches and a week in the Me Pu Kha Church. Mrs. Collins has visited in 189 homes since her return from furlough.

Upon Mr. Harris' return from furlough he resumed his duties as principal of Prince Royal's College, the oversight of Me Dawk Deng and San Sai Churches, also Mission and Station treasurer. Mrs. Harris has had charge of the music in the College.

The beginning of the year found Dr. Mason in charge of the medical work of the Station and the Mission Press. In July he secured a room in the market and began Street Chapel work, and from that day the chapel has been open every day of the week, and the Word has been scattered through the province and many inquirers have been enrolled. Mrs. Mason has been a valuable assistant in the operating room, she has also had charge of lace making in the Girls' School.

Miss Buck, as principal of the Girls' School, has done efficient work. She and Miss Starling spent some time touring in the interest of the school; the large attendance this fall term bears witness as to her effort to built up the school. Miss Starling, in addition to teaching in the Girls' School and language study, has spent much time in out-village work.

Mr. Yates has continued his language study and assisted in the College. He has been in charge of Chang Kam Church.

The beginning of the year found Mr. and Mrs. Freeman in charge of Prince Royal's College. On Mr. Harris' return they were able to resume their work in Lampoon. Early in the year Mr. Freeman had several attacks of fever, which seriously interfered with his touring. He has prepared the Sunday-school lessons regularly. The medical work of Lampoon has required a considerable part of his time. The success of the local work, especially the school, has been due in a large part to Mrs. Freeman's untiring efforts.

EVANGELISTIC.—Chieng-mai Station has now under its care 12 organized churches, but there are in all about 40 out-stations where regular services are held. The most distant are three days' journey to the north and south of the city.

The accessions on confession of faith are as follows:

Chieng-mai First Church, 188; Muang Pao, 19; Chieng

Dao, 12; Bethlehem, 29; Nawng Fan, 6; Me Dawk Deng, 19; San Sai, 8; Me Pu Kha, 31; Chang Kam, 5; Lampoon, 11; Bethel, 6; Wang Moon, 6; total for Station, 330.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Mason was the only medical man in the Station at the beginning of the year, but Dr. McKean's return from furlough relieved the situation. The native assistants, Drs. Chanta and Muang Chai, with Ai La in the Vaccine Laboratory, have given their usual efficient services during the year.

The work in the hospital has been heavy, there being 179 names on the in-patient roster. Of course this figure does not fully represent the whole number that are actually under the physicians' care, as always one, usually three or four persons come with the patient as nurses, and often all receive treatment. There have been three patients in the Foreign Ward. The hospital and dispensary, as for many years, have been self-supporting.

LEPER ASYLUM.—This year has seen the beginning of permanent buildings for this unfortunate class. Two cottages, one for men and one for women, each capable of accommodating 16 persons, are nearing completion, and the foundation of two other buildings of same size are being laid. A crematory building also has been erected. There are now 32 lepers and 2 untainted children in the asylum. The religious outlook for the work is most encouraging, 18 adults having been received into the church.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Training Class for Christian Workers held a session of two weeks in Chieng-mai, with an enrollment of 79, representing 48 villages. Instruction was given in Matthew, Acts, Biblical geography and practical medicine. Owing to the lack of funds, only a two weeks' session was possible. Prince Royal's College has had a good year. The average attendance during the first term was 55. An educational campaign was organized in which all the teachers participated, and as a result there was the largest autumn attendance in the history of the college, the total enrollment being 130.

The religious life in the college has been good. Nearly all the boys are from Christian homes, nearly all of the larger boys already members of the church, 12 having united during the year.

Buildings.—The house for the American assistants, and the second dormitory are finished. The two dormitories will accommodate 80 boys and there are nearly enough boarders to fill them. Mr. Yates has had the oversight of the new buildings.

Girls' School.—Two terms of school have been held, the first with an attendance of 60, and the second with 90. Recently we have lost two of our teachers by marriage. This fall term we have had but one experienced teacher. But in spite of this handicap, some progress has been made. We have been training a number of pupil teachers who are also taking regular school work. Only eight pupils are from non-Christian homes. A large number of Christian girls are being trained as teachers and home makers and will certainly have a wide influence in the future.

Phraner Memorial School has held two sessions of five and four months' duration; the first with an attendance of 106 and the second of 92. At least 90 per cent. are from Christian homes.

Lampoon School.—Seventy-six have been enrolled. The present school building is crowded and the Mission is asking for $200 for an additional room and better equipment. The school so far has been self-supporting, but is becoming too large and useful to be dependent on private purse in case of a deficit.

Parochial Schools.—Fifteen have held sessions during the year of greater or less length, according to the means of the parish. In the present poverty of the people, the Mission believes these schools should have some permanent financial backing, especially as the new compulsory education law is forcing our Christian children into temple schools where no Christian school exists.

MISSION PRESS.—Mrs. Dodd's Illustrated Life of Christ has been completed. This will be a valuable book to our Christian people. An edition of Moody's sermons has been printed in Siamese. Mark has been reprinted, and three new leaflets and a new tract have been added to our Christian literature. The Christian paper in Laos has been issued monthly. During the year more than 10,000 copies of this valuable paper have gone out into every part of Laos where we have Christians. The Laos News, in English, with nearly 1,000 names on our list, goes into almost every part of the U. S. A.

Statistical table for the year:

Number pages printed:

Mission.....	1,196,000
Bible Society (Mark).....	216,000
All other parties.....	2,596,000
Total.....	4,008,000

The Press, as in former years, has been self-supporting.

LAKAWN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The field is too large to be covered thoroughly by three missionary families and one single woman. Dr. Cort has had more than he could possibly do in the medical work, Mr. Vincent has been obliged to be in the Station most of the time doing educational, industrial and building work, so that only Mr. Callender has been free to do evangelistic work.

Elder Noi Wong was ordained to the ministry. This makes two native ministers residing in Lakawn Province, but one is too old to be of much service. Two evangelists have been employed throughout the year and the two native ministers and three other evangelists a considerable part of the time. All the Christians have either been visited by the missionaries or by native helpers. In Muang Wang, where a few faithful Christians have been living, the Gospel has taken root more firmly. During the year eight have been received from that district.

Considerable attention has been given to street chapel work in the city. Rest houses and monasteries have been utilized as places for distributing literature and preaching the Gospel. A small street chapel costing about four dollars has been built. The native official of this part of the city and two head men of villages near by united with us, the missionaries furnishing the material and the officials the necessary labor. The little building is used at night as patrol quarters and during the day as a street chapel for the dissemination of the truth. This is a cheap way of doing evangelistic work, and hundreds from all over the Province are hearing of the Christ through the literature thus distributed.

City Church.—The church has been conducted on a co-pastor plan, Mr. Callender having charge when in the city and Mr. Vincent during the absence of the former. During the greater part of the year services have been held in the Girls' School building, the last few months in the Boys' School building, the church not having a building of its own. The attendance at the morning services and Sabbath-school have been good. Number received on confession of faith 87.

Muang Nyao Church was organized last year with an adult membership of 35 and 9 adults have been received this year. Thus the total number received in Lakawn Province during the year has been 87.

Che Hom district has been under the supervision of Mr. Vincent. The Christians are in comfortable circumstances and faithful in all their duties. A fine chapel is almost ready for dedication.

Since May 1 a Bible woman has been employed within and about the city, reporting to Mrs. Callender. She is supported by Miss L. P. Ryan, of Denver, Colorado.

MEDICAL.—Dr. E. C. Cort reports: The Van Santwood Hospital cared for 184 in-patients and a very large number of out-patients were treated in the daily dispensary clinics. Over 2,000 calls were made on patients in their own homes, several of these being long trips to out-villages. Of the cases cared for in the hospital many were surgical.

The hospital assistants have been faithful in teaching, and as a result 14 professed their faith in Christ and were baptized as a direct result of the medical work. The indirect results cannot be measured.

We now have three assistants who can read and fill simple prescriptions written in English. This means a great saving of time and strength of the physician in charge. These three young men have studied English with Mrs. Cort. She has also assisted in the daily chapel services throughout the year.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Kenneth MacKenzie School for Boys, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent in charge, has had two terms of school, the first term with an enrollment of 45 and the second with 90. In addition to class-room work, Mr. Vincent has directed the construction work on the new school building, inaugurated the leather-tanning and shoe-making industrial department. Thirteen boys are given employment outside of their school hours and they are doing some good work.

Lakawn Girls' School, with Mrs. Cort and Miss Marie Collins in charge, has had a good year. Forty-six pupils enrolled the first term and 68 the second. The work of the school has been carried on in Laos, Siamese and English.

The industrial work has been an especially successful feature of the work. Many of the girls can now cut out and make their own jackets, prettily embroidered—their own work. During the year over 200 rupees' worth of jackets, quilts, etc., made by the girls, have been sold.

During the year 13 of the girls united with the Church.

PRE STATION.

Mission work in Pre has been conducted from Lakawn, a distance of four days' travel. Only about two weeks of the missionaries' time was spent in Pre this year. Thirty-one have been added to the church on profession of faith.

Two terms of school have been held, with an enrollment of about 30 pupils.

The hearts of the Christians are made glad by the prospect of having Mr. Gillies and family with them. We are also hoping for a physician and a woman teacher soon to assist in the work of this needy Station.

NAN STATION.

The best year Nan has ever had! God has blessed the work abundantly and blessed those doing it. Miss Van Vranken was transferred from Lakawn to take charge of the Nan Girls' School, and has done excellent work both in the school and church. In March Dr. and Mrs. Taylor and daughters left us for their well-deserved furlough. Dr. Peoples had a serious illness, but is again carrying nearly his usual load of responsibility. Mr. McClusky, our uncommissioned missionary, although 76, is a vigorous man and a valued helper.

EVANGELISTIC.—Dr. Taylor made one long tour to the extreme north of the province and several shorter tours nearer the city. Dr. and Mrs. Peoples made several trips to Muang Chung, and several times Dr. Peoples has gone alone. He also made a two weeks' tour to a village where a fearful epidemic of "beri beri" was raging. Later all the villages along the river south of Nan were visited with encouraging results.

Mr. Palmer has made occasional trips to his out-villages. Several families have been received into the church, and others are ready to be baptized. Between the terms of school he has made a month's tour far north. Two evangelists, one teacher and six of the older school-boys accompanied him. They all assisted in teaching.

Nan City Church.—After Dr. Taylor's departure, Dr. Peoples took charge of the church for three months; then Mr. Palmer was leader for three months, when Dr. Peoples was able to assume charge again. Occasional use is made of the elders and the teachers in the Boys' School in the preaching services. A weekly prayer meeting for women is conducted by Mrs. Peoples. Senior and Junior Endeavor Societies are conducted in connection with the schools by Mr. and Mrs. Palmer. There have been 41 adults received and 52 children baptized, making the adult membership of the church 262.

The church supports a native assistant pastor, who visits, teaches an hour in the Boys' School, studies an hour, and spends the Sabbath in one or other of the out-villages where there are Christians, of which there are eight under the care of the church.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Boys' School enrollment for the first term was 72, for the second 81, 44 being boarders. Of the 73 pupils in daily attendance, all but 4 are Christians.

The school was classified last year according to the Siamese curriculum in the government schools, and this schedule has been closely followed. Sixteen of the older boys took the government examination last March, 6 receiving certificates of promotion. Mr. Palmer felt rather chagrined until he learned that only 10 out of 100 government school-boys were promoted.

Special drill in music has been given during the year, including Mrs. Palmer's classes in sight reading. At the commencement exercises the beautiful Christmas Cantata, "The Holy Child," was rendered by both schools, with Mrs. Palmer as director. The Dramatic Club of the Boys' School also gave an excellent presentation of "Pilgrim's Progress" to an appreciative audience, including the governor, general, commissioner and chief nobility of Nan.

The Girls' School enrollment the first term was 45, the second 32. Miss Van Vranken was pleased when the Commissioner of Education visited the school and suggested that the girls also prepare for government examinations, which they did.

An important department is the sewing class, where many useful articles are made. On the day of the Bazaar the governor and foreigners were loud in praise of their skill in making torchon lace.

All who are old enough have been received into the church, except two who are waiting for the next communion. The principal, native teacher and older pupils are all teachers in the Sunday-school.

MEDICAL.—The staff consists of Dr. Peoples, two native assistants and a nurse. These assist in both dispensary and hospital.

Dr. Peoples' experience with beri beri was one of great importance medically. While giving relief to those ill, he was able to make a study of the conditions attending the scourge and to deduce some facts which he hopes will be useful to the medical profession.

A number of important surgical cases were treated successfully. During the year there were 33 in-patients and 1,052 out-patients.

The close of the year brings satisfaction that so much has been accomplished. We are in great need of more workers: in places the fields are ripening for the harvest and there are no reapers; in other wide fields the seed has not yet been sown for lack of sowers. Every possible effort is being made to train workers in the schools, but at present actual workers are scarce outside of school and dispensary help.

CHIENG-RAI STATION.

The annual Mission meeting of 1910 appreciated the increasing needs of Chieng-rai Station, and appointed Rev. and Mrs. Donald MacCluer for the Boys' School and Miss Daisy Campbell for the Girls' School. Soon after their arrival Mr. MacCluer was stricken with fever. After a long illness, he was forced to return to America and, to our deep regret, to resign. In the absence of Dr. Dodd, Mr. Beebe, already in charge of a widely extending parish, has also been compelled to oversee the work of Kengtung Sub-station. New families are studying under Noy Kan in Kengtung, who reports the demand for Laos literature is greater than ever. Just as we were writing these words a letter from this good Laos elder arrived, imploring us to send him two men well loaded with Scripture portions—not tracts—as the people were clamoring for them.

In Muang Yawng the rank and file of the Christians are bravely holding fast, and there are some catechumens studying; but without any real leader, they are longing for the return of the missionary. Dr. and Mrs. Dodd are genuinely loved and trusted by the Tai people of Kengtung State.

Wiang Pa Kuk, being close to the boundary of Siam, has had more direct supervision. Ten adults there united with the church on confession.

Mr. Beebe spent four and a half months touring among the villages in his own parish. The members of his Nang Le Circuit meet regularly in ten out-stations. At Ban Pong Prabat they have increased their contributions and the spiritual growth is encouraging. In this circuit 42 members were received on confession of faith and 50 to the catechumen roll.

Illness compelled Mr. and Mrs. White to spend the best part of the touring season in Chieng-mai. They have made only two tours together, but with one exception, Mr. White has covered his entire parish several times. Twenty-eight have been added to the communion roll. One new chapel was built. At Ban Me Kawn brick is being burned for a new church building.

Chieng-rai City Circuit comprises also some neighboring villages under the care of Dr. and Mrs. Briggs. The church has gathered a harvest of 46 new members and 26 catechumens. During May and June bands of Christians visited the temples and non-Christian homes in the city and villages. They scattered Christian literature, reported cases of illness to the doctor and gave simple remedies for malaria, and reported the names of individuals specially interested. Two Bible women and the church evangelist followed this work up and God gave the increase.

Practically no non-Christian women can read. Buddhism gives them no chance to learn. When the women become catechumens, one of their first duties is to learn to read. Girls can go to school, but the women cannot leave their home duties. Nevertheless 58 women have met for study with considerable regularity in the homes of the missionary women. Among the women of the church, 54 can already read the Bible in the vernacular. It is an uplifting sight to see a circle of grandmothers on the floor bending over their books in earnest study.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Boys' Boarding School in the city has grown in numbers and has an enrollment of 112. Thirty-five boarders show that a good portion were from out-villages. From the Kennedy Fund we have received $4,000, to buy property and erect a school building. Most of the material for this building is now on hand.

The Girls' Boarding School during the first half of the year was in charge of Mrs. White; since then it has been under the care of Miss Campbell. The enrollment is 62. Twelve are boarders, using a small native house in the Mission compound, and classes are held in the missionary home. Besides the work of the Siamese and Laos teachers, the missionaries in charge have given instruction in English, sewing, singing, lace weaving and calisthenics.

We have no Girls' School plant whatever, no class-rooms, no dormitory, no equipment. We have the missionary in charge, the native teachers and girls to come to school in abundance, but NO SCHOOL BUILDING of any kind. Not until we have such building can we invite the better class of people to send their girls to us.

Out-village Schools.—For want of funds we have had to cut down the number of schools to seven with an attendance of 205. We ought to have a school in every Christian community. In one village 18 boys from non-Christian homes attend the Mission school in preference to the school in the Buddhist temple. What shall we say when by our neglect we compel Christian boys to attend Buddhist temples for their elementary education?

MEDICAL.—The Over Brook Hospital is now practically completed. It is a substantial brick building of two stories, with glass casement windows, and transoms screened as a protection from mosquitoes. It affords ample room for 44 patients, with separate wards for women and children. There is a large dispensary room centrally situated; a physician's office, operating room, etc. Funds remain sufficient to add considerable to the present equipment.

During the past year there have been 61 in-patients, 3 of whom, with 4 other adults in their families, have united with the church. The workmen on the building have been under instruction, and of these 14 adults have been received into full communion—a total of 21 adults directly connected with the Medical Department.

One day a man came into the dispensary and sat on the floor doubled up with pain. He had walked with a quack Chinese doctor for 60 miles carrying his basket of medicines, receiving as pay his food and treatment. He had not been free from excruciating pain for three years. He had no money, no property, no friends. When after many days the quack doctor and his patient arrived in Chieng-rai, the patient was told to go. He came to the Hospital. His trouble was stone in the bladder. He was operated upon successfully and is now able to earn his living. When in the Hospital he was often seen reading the Bible. He asked questions in abundance. He prayed almost hourly to his newly found Father God with the faith of a child but with the intelligence of a sturdy minded man. Surely such work is worth while.

Rev. Ray Bachtell, one of this years' recruits, has been appointed to Chiengrai.

SOUTH AND CENTRAL AMERICA.

CENTRAL BRAZIL MISSION.

VILLA NOVA FIELD, State of Bahia (P. O. address, Cidade do Bomfim, Bahia): founded 1900, 250 miles northwest of Bahia. Missionaries—Rev. Alexander Reese and Mrs. Reese.

ESTANCIA FIELD, State of Sergipe (P. O. address, Estancia, Sergipe): founded 1902, 180 miles north of Bahia. Missionaries—Rev. C. E. Bixler and Mrs. Bixler.

LENCOES FIELD, State of Bahia (P. O. address, Lencoes, Bahia): founded 1906 at a farm called Ponte Nova, 230 miles west of Bahia. Missionaries—Rev. W. A. Waddell, D.D., and Mrs. Waddell. Substation: Sao Joao de Paraguassu, State of Bahia. Missionary—Miss E. R. Williamson.

UPPER SAN FRANCISCO FIELDS, States of Bahia and Minas Geraes (P. O. address, Caetete, Bahia): founded 1909. Missionaries—Rev. H. J. McCall and Mrs. McCall, and Rev. F. F. Graham.

BAHIA CITY: founded 1871. Missionaries—Rev. H. C. Anderson and Mrs. Anderson, Treasurer and Secretary of the Mission.

PARISHES OF THE BRAZILIAN PRESBYTERY: Bahia City, Brazilian Pastor, Rev. Mattathias Gomes dos Santos; Cannavieras, State of Bahia, Rev. Estevam Reis de Araujo; Cachoeira, State of Bahia, Rev. Salomao Barbosa Ferraz, Presbyterian evangelist with residence; Cannabrava de Jacobina, State of Bahia, Rev. Manoel Antonia da Silva; Aracaju, State of Sergipe, supplied by ministerial candidate.

Up to almost the close of the year, there had been no sickness, resignations or furloughs, so that the work could be continued steadily. Now, however, Dr. Waddell has been prostrated by serious disease. His threatened continued illness is a serious matter, not only for the school, in which his presence is so greatly needed, especially during this coming year of extension, but also for the whole Mission, which owes much to the wisdom and experience of the senior missionary.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and Mr. Graham have completed their year devoted to language study and are now ready to proceed to their stations.

A move of importance has been that of Mr. McCall from Carinhanha to Caetete. This town is the geographical centre of the district and the natural base for evangelistic operations. Another forward move has been the ordination of two more Brazilians as pastors and the formation of one more Brazilian parish. The parish was formed from part of the Lencoes field and part of the Villa Nova field, thus leaving the missionaries more opportunity to travel in hitherto unvisited regions. The year has been one of steady increase, both in the evangelistic and school work. One hundred and twenty-seven have been received on profession of faith. This does not include professions in three Brazilian parishes from which until now no reports have been received. All missionaries speak of new places with people interested.

SCHOOLS.—The educational system is organized around a central Normal and High School at Ponte Nova, which offers a course adequate to the needs of business life and primary teaching and the preliminary preparation of ministers and professional men.

This school is situated on a large plantation, and by combining work and study—all farm work being done by the boys and all domestic work by the girls—the expenses are reduced to $70 a year for living, tuition and books. Each pupil works 28 hours a week and studies 34.

Teachers trained in this inexpensive manner can afford to teach for low salaries, and the Mission is able to offer adequate primary schools at low cost. In this connection some 26 day-schools have been opened in various localities under the care of teachers from Ponte Nova; all of these schools are supported by their patrons. Three parochial schools, which antedate the present system, are subsidized by the Mission, but now all congregations and groups seeking to arrange schools must meet all expenses. Adequately prepared teachers, ready to teach at low rates, can be sent anywhere that the people care to have a school. No aid is given to these schools save in the training of teachers and advice. This has given us this year at least 26 schools that cost the Mission nothing. In some places where believers are numerous or influential, they have had our teachers employed in the public schools, and even Romanist neighbors have made the same arrangement. The work is thus constantly expanding without increase of cost.

Dr. Waddell says:

I do not claim to have solved the educational problem, but I do claim that while the State has some 8 per cent. of its children in school, and some 8 per cent. more have obtained, or will obtain, the modicum of instruction that classes them "can read," the Presbyterian community, new and scattered as it is, has 40 per cent. in school, and 40 per cent. more are in a way to acquire a far more real acquaintance with letters. More than five-sixths of the expense in the whole school system is borne by the fathers, and as the work widens no increased expense accrues to the Board.

During the year 41 pupils, including 1 day-scholar, were in attendance at Ponte Nova. Of these 18 were boys and 23 girls. The percentage of unsatisfactory pupils and poor work was much less than heretofore. The Brazilian teachers were very satisfactory, and the return of Miss Penelope from the United States greatly strengthened the school. The coöperative features continued with excellent results—cooking, baking and sewing classes did well; the gift of two handsome sewing machines by the Singer Company helped much. The music department is getting rooted and the school will soon furnish music leaders and organists as well as teachers and preachers to the churches. Construction work this year done by the pupils has included dormitories for 17 boys, bakery, milk-room and extensive alterations in the kitchen wing; also a water tower has been erected and a gravity feed to the house installed. The foundation stone for a new and permanent school building was laid in September by Mrs. Waddell and the only one of the original pupils still in attendance; and it is hoped to erect half the building this year.

The San Felix School has continued this year with 20 pupils, 13 boys and 7 girls. The Aracaju School has also had 20 pupils. The Estancia School has had 15, 7 boys and 8 girls. The prospects for this coming year are much brighter, unless the location by the government of a Protestant teacher in one of the public schools draw off some of the believers' children.

PRESBYTERY AND MISSION.—As noted above, two more students having completed their studies were ordained to the ministry, and located in their parishes. The Rev. Salomao Ferraz was appointed Presbyterian evangelist, with headquarters in Cachoeira, the Mission supplying some aid. He has already visited three of the missionaries' fields with excellent results. The Presbytery, when meeting in Ponte Nova, in September, examined the three young men who are studying there and expressed themselves as satisfied with their progress. An evangelist of some considerable experience is to be ordained to the ministry in the coming year.

PARISHES.—The Aracaju congregation has been served this year by a ministerial student, Sr. Rodolpho Fernandes, and seems to be in a much more flourishing condition. The Lavandeiras Church is also under Sr. Rodolpho's care.

The Bahia Church has continued to make good progress, the C. E. Society especially doing good work. A small church has been built in a suburb called Matta Escura and is largely served by the Christian Endeavorers.

The Cannavieras parish has recently been placed under the care of the Rev. Estevam de Araujo, who is doing extensive itineration.

The Cannabrava de Jacobina parish is a new one, and is under the care of the Rev. Manoel Antonio da Silva, who has already met with considerable success. He has received 18 members since July.

VILLA NOVA DA RAINHA.

The work of this field during the year has been considerably hindered by the arrival of a member of the Independent Church and other denominational complications. However, the new movements seem to have died a natural death and our work is now free from denominational strife.

The work in the surrounding districts has gone on steadily and two new places have been opened up to the Gospel, while several others are only awaiting an opportunity on the part of the missionary to visit them. Seventeen were received on profession of faith during the year.

Mr. Reese writes:

It is a relief to turn to other parts of the field which give much promise of yielding many souls to Christ. Indeed, concerning all the field outside of Villa Nova, there is every reason for hope, encouragement and thanksgiving.

The gracious movement of Quixaba and Firtaleza, which resulted in a good ingathering two years ago, still continues, though there were no additions during the past year, but an active propaganda is constantly carried on by the leading families.

Two or three new places have been opened to the Gospel during the year. The work in one of them, S. Thome by name, began in an interesting way. A man in Villa Nova became interested in the Gospel through Mr. McCall's preaching, and though he has not yet professed his faith, he is soundly converted. He is a bricklayer by trade, and not finding work, went to S. Thome, where he has a small rubber plantation. Here he began to read the Scriptures on Sundays and Saints' days and many people came to see and finally to hear him reading the "big book," for they had never seen a Bible before. At this time he was joined by one of our members from Villa Nova and active work was done. Two are already desirous of professing their faith, whilst a former drunkard gives much promise of becoming a new creature in Christ Jesus.

Some thirty miles away in the same region, there is another group of interested people meeting regularly to read the Scriptures.

One of the things calculated to stimulate the work of the whole field has been the purchasing of a central preaching hall in Villa Nova, to which all the groups have agreed to contribute systematically. We found a hall suitably situated and so satisfactory that the believers decided to buy it instead of going on with the more expensive work of building a church. We believe that a scheme of systematic giving which is being introduced and adopted in the whole field will bring much blessing.

ESTANCIA.

The work in this field has gone on in a most satisfactory manner this year. In the city there has been considerable quickened interest, whilst the opening of the new church in Urubutinga marked an epoch in the history of the church in that district.

CENTRAL BRAZIL.—DR. WADDELL WITH FOUR MINISTERS (SEATED), TWO ELDERS (STANDING AT RIGHT), ONE LAY DELEGATE OF A CHURCH (STANDING), THREE PONTA NOVA STUDENT CANDIDATES (STANDING AT LEFT), IN ATTENDANCE AT PRESBYTERY, SEPTEMBER, 1911.

Mr. Bixler writes:

Considerable interest has manifested itself during the last months in Estancia. A young woman of some prominence in the Roman Church, because of her piety and religious zeal through the reading of the Bible, together with other influences, has found the truth and renounced Rome. The Papists have used all the means at their disposal to induce her to renounce the Gospel and return to the Roman Church, resorting to arguments, threats and petty persecutions, but her conversion seems to be genuine and she stands firm. Still others have recently begun to read the Bible and other Protestant literature and as a result have lost faith in their former beliefs and are strongly inclined to the Gospel.

In Riachao the work continues to increase.

At Urubutinga, near Lagarto, where over a year ago the believers planned to construct a church, the work was completed in November. The dedication service was a splendid opportunity for the believers from many different places to get to know each other. The services were well attended. The spiritual condition of the church is excellent. Many tithe the fruits of their labors, which fact made possible the dedication of the church with but little debt.

In Simao Dias, where for a long time the Gospel had been preached with little evident result, there have been three professions of faith during the year and a considerable number are interested and reading the Scriptures.

LENCOES.

This field reports 53 members received on profession of faith this year. In the middle of the year the field was divided, the parish of Canna Brava de Jacobina cutting off a large portion with 269 members. An interesting new work has been manifested in a place called Macahubas, where, with scarcely any outside help, 10 people have come to a knowledge of the truth through the reading of the Scripture and have now been received into the membership of the church.

A large conference of the believers of this field was held in Ponte Nova in September and was well attended.

Dr. Waddell writes:

Owing to the care of the school at Ponte Nova, the whole field (undivided) could have but one visit from me during the year. Fifty-three in all were received on profession, gathered by the efforts of the believers.

SAN JOAO DO PARAGUASSU.

Miss Williamson reports a year of steady work. She writes:

In March I consented to accept as pupils in English two young men who are, or consider themselves, atheists. They have a very bad influence over the young men in town. After the first three months I made an arrangement with them for an exchange of work, I to teach them English and they to translate anything I might need. They are translating, "Can I Believe in God the Father?" by Dr. Clark. The Portuguese is clear and simple, adapted to the understanding of the people.

Early in the year I took a little boy into the house. This brought me into relations with his parents, who live on a plantation belonging to the Machado family. It is a Christian family and they had begun evangelistic work among the people.

UPPER SAN FRANCISCO--CAETETE.

This large territory has been the scene of varied experiences for Mr. and Mrs. McCall during this year. The Roman Catholic Church has been extremely active, disseminating all manner of untruths against them and in one place an actual assault was made. A very happy move was the choice of Caetete as headquarters, where much interest is already being shown. The city is conveniently situated for itineration and much more healthful than Carinhanha as a permanent residence for the family.

Mr. McCall says:

I have never felt so hopeful for the work as I do to-day. There has been much to oppose; hard persecution in Santa Maria, where our preaching hall was practically destroyed, our lives threatened, some believers injured and the whole congregation scattered, I trust like the Jerusalem Christians, to go preaching everywhere. Then so-called "holy" missions by friars of different orders have been held all over this field, the main object of these being to raise the people against us and have us expelled by force. Publications imputing all kind of low motives to us in the most insulting language are spread broadcast.

This year has been brightened by visible results. An increase of nearly 50 per cent. in the membership and a number of inquirers equaling perhaps the whole present membership make us feel that God has great things in store for us. Twenty-four have been received on profession of faith.

SOUTHERN BRAZIL MISSION.

RIO DE JANEIRO: capital of the Republic; largest city in South America, on Bay of the same name; occupied as a Mission Station in 1860.

EAST RIO STATION, NOVO FRIBURGO: 60 miles east of Rio; occupied as a Mission Station in 1891.

CASTRO: about 480 miles a little south of west from Rio; opened as a Mission Station in 1895. Missionaries—Rev. G. L. Bickerstaph and Mrs. Bickerstaph.

SAO PAULO: 250 miles west-southwest of Rio; capital of the State of the same name; occupied as a Mission Station in 1863. Missionaries—H. M. Lane, M.D., Rev. Charles A. Carriel and Mrs. Carriel, Rev. M. P. B. Carvalhosa.

CURITYBA: about 445 miles southwest of Rio. Missionaries—Rev. R. F. Lenington and Mrs. Lenington, Miss Ella Kuhl, Miss Mary P. Dascomb, Miss Dorothy Palmer, Miss Anna C. Martin, Rev. H. P. Midkiff and Mrs. Midkiff.

FLORIANAPOLIS: capital of the State of Santa Catharina on an island off the coast. Missionaries—Rev. G. A. Landes and Mrs. Landes, and Rev. A. C. Salley and Mrs. Salley.

GUARAPUAVA: far interior town in Parana, about 200 miles west of Curityba. Missionaries—Rev. J. B. Kolb and Mrs. Kolb.

CAMPINAS: site of Theological Seminary, about 50 miles northwest of Sao Paulo. Missionaries—Rev. T. J. Porter, Ph.D., and Mrs. Porter.

RESIGNATION: Miss Effie R. Lenington.

FURLOUGHS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. J. B. Kolb and Mrs. Kolb.

The South Brazil Mission has now a larger staff of missionaries than ever before in its history. Mr. and Mrs. Carriel and Mr. and Mrs. Midkiff joined the Mission in the middle of the year, and at the close of it Miss Palmer and Miss Martin went out to the school in Curityba, from which Miss Lenington has resigned to take up work in one of the schools affiliated with Mackenzie College.

The problem of covering the fields of Parana and S. Catharina is most perplexing. The points where work is carried on are so separated that even with the new missionaries they can be reached seldom, and then only by neglecting the work at the resident stations. For example, last year Mr. Bickerstaph was away from Castro nearly eight months. To reach Chapeco, a medium-sized church which shows good promise, he has to travel three days by train, four by stage, and three more on horseback.

In the State of S. Catharina and in some localities in the State of Parana the extreme poverty of the people militates against progress toward self-support. The congregation at Jordao are still primitive farmers, using ax, hoe and oxen. Modern farming is encouraged by the missionaries and is beginning to be used, but there is little hope of self-support until the whole State reaches a higher state of living.

Most of our churches in the South Brazil Mission are composed of exceedingly poor people, and situated where there are almost no school facilities.

The following encouragements are worthy of mention:

1. The growth of a desire for self-support in the field of Florianopolis; and the increase of giving in the Presbyteries of Minas, where offerings have almost been trebled in last three years; and in Oeste de Sao Paulo Presbytery, which asked for aid in 1909, and now supports all its pastors; and in Pernambuco Presbytery, where the necessity of self-support has produced good results; and in Rio Presbytery, which is increasing its contributions, has given (about) more than 60:000$ this year, and is ready to support two more men from the Seminary.

2. The open door in Santa Catharina.

3. The splendid condition of the school in Curityba.

4. The remarkable growth of the Curityba Church.

CASTRO.

The congregation at Espigao Alto was organized into a church, July 2, by Messrs. Bickerstaph and Lenington, and has 30 communicants, a large number of adherents and some preparing to unite with the church. An efficient elder teaches the day-school, superintends the Sunday-school and conducts worship.

Chapeco.—The church is in good working order.

Two members have been expelled during the year and others may have to be suspended later. In March 10 came into the church on confession of faith and 10 children were baptized. The church is fortunate in the possession of two good elders, who look after the services and prepare catechumens. The larger part of the cases of discipline in this church have been for disregard of marriage laws. The recording clerk is not married to the woman with whom he lives, yet she wishes to join the church. The Catholic priests teach that the civil marriage is unnecessary, the church service being sufficient. To-day conditions are much improved over those of twelve years ago. Through missionary influence about twelve couples have been legally married. The church is remodeling an old house for a chapel which it has bought.

The work at Ponta Grossa has been encouraging, with fair congregations and laymen taking care of the Sunday-school and the Sunday afternoon service. The chief danger to the work has been from the incoming of other denominations in a field not large enough for more than one.

CURITYBA.

Of the general situation in the state of Parana, of which Curityba is the capital, Mr. Lenington writes:

The material growth of the state is marvelous. The inrush of foreign capital has brought with it a large number of able Americans; but although most of them are members of evangelical churches, they have given, with few exceptions, neither help nor sympathy to the cause of Missions. The spiritual condition of Parana is characterized by appalling religious indifference, anti-clericalism of the most virulent type, and immorality.

The educational system of Parana is permeated with atheism. One of the Normal students, a young lady, remarked in conversation: "I do not believe in any of this nonsense about God anyhow. Our history teacher says it is all a lie." One of the teachers of the Normal School published a book of poems, which created a furore in all Brazil. The whole book reeks with obscenity. The editor of a daily in Rio says of this book, "It has been a solace to me in the hours of depression and weakness." To such men as this author is entrusted the training of teachers and children in the state of Parana.

In the Curityba Church the people are at work with all their heart. The attendance has grown so that the church is nearly filled. A few weeks ago, when Bishop Kinsolving, of the Episcopal Church, preached, there were over 400 present. The Sunday-school has passed the 100 mark, the men's class having grown from 5 to 20. In Curityba 11 persons were received into the church on profession and 17 children baptized.

Eschola Americana.—

During this, the 19th year of the school, 368 pupils were matriculated, 225 girls and 143 boys. In the houses used as day-schools 36 persons have found homes. Many children from places in the interior have lived with families in Curityba and attended as day-pupils, but others did not come because they could not find places to stay. Nearly 400 children have sought entrance this year. We could have twice that number, says Miss Kuhl, if we had room for them. The material growth of Parana is wonderful. We cannot keep pace with it unless we have more buildings and more foreign teachers. Never before have so many Bible and hymn books been sold as during this year. The most popular lesson is the Bible lesson. When the American teachers left, the German teachers, three of whom were trained in the school, took a part of the English work, and a part of the remainder was done by six young Brazilian teachers, also trained in the school.

FLORIANOPOLIS STATION.

Of general conditions in Santa Catharina, of which Florianopolis is the capital, Mr. Landes says:

We can, I believe, preach in any locality of the State without violent and open opposition. Yet the Roman Church is more active, its schools far more numerous, its services and festivals more frequent than before we began work. Unfortunately, this activity is not due to any interest in the welfare of the youth of the country, but is rather to prevent the growth of Protestantism in the state.

There has been an average attendance of 70 at the preaching services in Florianopolis. Two members were suspended and two received, so that there has been no great gain numerically.

The first bank of the city was opened this year. Houses are being built, new streets opened, and the price of land is increasing. There is good reason to believe that an electric railroad will be built to Lages in a year or two.

At Jordao the poverty of the community is the greatest hindrance to the growth of the church. The primitive farming barely supports the simple necessities of the people, but they are trying to change agricultural methods.

At Lages the Catholic Church is strongly intrenched, maintaining a small boarding school for girls, a day-school of about 90 pupils and a small college housed in a magnificent building. The power of that Church is increasing, although in a recent controversy with the Masonic Lodge they were compelled to close the college. The sentiment of the city government and the more educated is against Roman Catholicism. The influential people would give a hearty welcome to a Protestant missionary and a school.

Coritibanos and Campos Novos are villages of 300 or 400 people each, but the municipalities (corresponding to counties in the United States) each have more than 5,000 inhabitants. In Coritibanos we were well received by influential men, to whom we had letters of introduction. But the Catholic opposition was evident in the attitude of the people. We were told that the resident priests ordered the burning of all Bibles. If the authorities, unsolicited by us, had not placed a policeman at the door of the hall, our service would have been broken up the third night. At Campos Novos we were treated kindly throughout the visit. There were no resident priests, and the atmosphere was entirely different from that at Coritibanos. The authorities gave the meeting active support.

CAMPINAS.

Dr. Porter has continued his work in the Theological Seminary at Campinas. The Seminary is creating a better spirit among the churches, as it has had students of other Churches. The prospects of the Seminary were never so bright. All the presbyteries are represented among its 10 students except the presbyteries of Do Sul and Sergipe. Five of the Seminary students are now ready for examination and license. Six should finish their course in July, 1912.

SAO PAULO.

Dr. Porter has carried on Mission work in two needy sections of the city, and Mr. Carriel spent a good part of his first year in the field in Sao Paulo. Snr. Carvalhosa is still faithfully carrying on his work as pastor of the Egreja Unida, which pays no part of the pastor's salary, but pays the premiums on his life insurance policy, the rent of their hall of worship and contributes to home missions something less than it was able to give three years ago. It has a lot for a new building, and is slowly increasing its building fund, which now amounts to about $800. The lot is valued at $7,000, and about $200 is now in sight in additional pledges. The church has 118 members, a faithful elder, who is a trust official of the government school of pharmacy, and in past years has helped to organize four other churches.

MACKENZIE COLLEGE.

Mackenzie College is under its own Independent Board of Trustees, but is looked to by our Missions for their higher educational work. There has been a great change in the educational situation in Brazil during the year, which has given the College an even greater opportunity than it had before. The government withdrew the privileges formerly accorded to recognized gymnasiums, or higher schools—privileges which Mackenzie College had never sought, holding its own against the inducements of these institutions by the superiority of its educational work. Now that the factitious advantages of the other institutions are gone, scores of their students are turning to Mackenzie, whose reputation for thoroughness and efficiency has always placed it ahead of other institutions. The chapel will hold only two-thirds of the College students, and there is urgent need for a number of new buildings, Dr. Lane reports:

You will see by the Dean's report that the total enrollment in the College was 215, while that of College and School together was 906, of both sexes and of no less than 11 nationalities, 475 being Brazilians, 163 Italians, 73 Portuguese, 53 Germans, 41 Americans, 39 English, 18 French and 44 of other nationalities. There were 574 full pay, 159 reduced rates and 173 free. There were 659 of the masculine sex and 247 of the feminine. During the recent administration no less than 14,381 pupils have passed through college and school, of whom 3,004 day-pupils and 668 boarders were free.

This year 8 men graduated from the C. E. Course, 40 completed the "maturity" course; 26 finished the Higher Commercial Course, and 80 completed the Preparatory Course in the American School and received certificates to enter Mackenzie. Mackenzie will therefore receive from our own school double the number that it will lose.

While there might be a small class of classical students, we cannot reopen the classical course for the present for lack of room. We shall be able to take on a small class in Industrial or Applied Chemistry by using the laboratory out of regular school hours. The Agricultural course, for which there is a pressing demand, is unavoidably put off until we have more room.

We need urgently more room. This point has already been touched upon. We have traditions behind us and duties before us that we cannot ignore. We need a more permanent teaching force, men and women who join the work from conviction and not for the novelty of the thing and who can resist offers of higher salary and easier work. This is needed in order to permit a closer and more permanent organization. There should be a definite plan of future development, having in view the need of keeping pace, in some degree, with the enormous growth of the city and state. According to official returns, 4,000 new buildings have been erected and are in course of construction during 1911. The Department of Public Works grants, on an average, 20 building permits a day. Millions of foreign money are here for investment. We must in some measure keep pace with the demands and meet the opportunities that grow out of these conditions. The great religious orders are very active in the matter of education. The Benedictines are spending $150,000 to $200,000 on their new church and school buildings. If we cannot devise some method of raising money in the United States, may we not fall back upon our own resources, diminish the free list and dispose of some of this valuable but, for the present, unused land?

CHILI MISSION.*

SANTIAGO: capital of Chili; connected by rail with Valparaiso, which is 90 miles west, on coast, at the foot of the Andes Mountains. Missionaries—Rev. W. H. Lester, Jr., D.D., and Mrs. Lester, Rev. W. E. Browning, Ph.D., and Mrs. Browning, Rev. J. F. Garvin and Mrs. Garvin, Rev. James H. McLean and Mrs. McLean, Rev. Robert E. Elmore and Mrs. Elmore, Rev. F. Diez and Mrs. Diez; four American teachers in the English Institute and eight other teachers; one out-station.

VALPARAISO: the principal port of Chili, on the coast, 90 miles east of Santiago. Missionaries—Rev. C. M. Spining and Mrs. Spining, Miss F. E. Smith, Miss Martha A. Beatty, five other teachers in the school. One out-station, Viña del Mar.

COPIAPO: capital of the Province of Atacama, about 440 miles north of Santiago. Missionaries—Rev. J. S. Smith and Mrs. Smith. One native preacher, three out-stations and many other groups. Out-stations: Tocopilla, Taltal, Chanaral.

CONCEPCION: in Province of Concepción, 500 kilometers southwest of Santiago. Missionaries—Rev. W. B. Boomer and Mrs. Boomer. One native preacher. Out-stations: Chillan, Talca, Traignen and three other out-stations.

WITHDRAWAL: Miss Marcella D. Jarvis.

FURLONGHS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. Jesse S. Smith and Mrs. Smith.

THE NORTH FIELD OF THE CHILI MISSION.

The extent of this field is from the port of Valparaiso on the south, to the port of Tocopilla on the north. In this district there are four centres from which the work is carried on.

TOCOPILLA.—This is the most promising work in all the north. The reason is not far to seek. It lies in the consecration of the pastor of the Tocopilla Church and the co-operation of a faithful group of members who have the missionary spirit in them. The church paid the passage of those who made the first visit to Gatico, where a good work is begun. From the port, visits have also been made to certain of the mines that are working near by. The mine "Deseada" (The Desired) is the place where the visits have been made for the longest period. Once a week some one goes from Tocopilla to hold the service in the mine. Recently, two young men have allied themselves with the church, confessing that they heard the first word of the Gospel at these services. The Tocopilla Church also carries on a work in the Pampa. Don Rinaldo Olivares, in association with Don Enrique Krauss, has guided this work. There is no corner of all the Pampa where these men have not gone and carried with them the message of Jesus. This has been possible because the field has been better manned and there was one to attend to the port, while the other could be in the Pampa. It is hoped that before long work can be opened in Antofagasta, which is connected with Tocopilla by rail.

* Although this list of stations remains the same, the work of the Stations has been divided, as the report will show.

TALTAL.—This seems to be the most needy of the points in the north field, though in part this need has been satisfied during the past two months. This place has grown up in a few years, and is now a large town. In the interior there are many more Oficinas than in Tocopilla, though some are not working, and others will soon be starting. The work had been attended up to recently by but one man. He was forced by the needs of the work to be in the port most all his time, hence that part in the Pampa had to suffer. The pastor is Don Pedro Flores. During the month of August, it was possible to obtain the services of a good tried man for the work in the Pampa in Taltal. Don Secundino Diaz had been for many years a member of the Tocopilla Church and had shown his value in the help to the work there. For the past two or three years, he has had the title of Evangelist given him by the Presbytery. He has been many years in the Pampa and knows the ways of the people, having worked for all the time among them. He has entered the work with much enthusiasm and has shown that he will prove a valuable worker for this Pampa district. He has the oversight of the work at Santa Luisa, but has confined most of his efforts in getting some start in the Oficinas of the German Company. There are more people in them and already there seems to be a beginning. In the "Chile" there is a group who are asking for a room where they may have their meetings, and when Diaz is there, they have good attendance from others who are beginning to be interested. Most of the ground in the Pampa is untouched as yet. The hope is that by putting most of his time in the Pampa, Diaz may be able to get into many new places where we, at present, have nothing, or, at most, a very small showing. For almost a year the Taltal Church was self-supporting, as it paid all the salary of the pastor, Sr. Flores.

COPIAPO.—The work in this place has just been able to hold its own in the attendance on the services. The financial part has suffered some, as there are not among the members of the church many men who have work in the place. Many of the most enterprising have left to look for better things in other places where the financial outlook is brighter. Nevertheless, there has been a remarkable holding out in the attendance, especially of the Sunday-school. The average has been about 65 for the most part of the winter. Work was done among the soldiers of the regiment stationed at Copiapo, and sometimes there was an attendance of 30 at the evening service on Sunday. Don Olivero Maufras, the pastor, has made regular visits to the valley, weekly ones being made to Punta del Cobre. To the Puquios and Inca district, some visits have been made, and Chanaral has been reached, most of the time by the interior and once by way of Caldera. In this last-mentioned place, the chapel was finished during the year. There are now four families, as Don Antonio Noel, of Copiapo, has moved to the port with his family. There is a fairly good-sized piece of land behind the chapel in Caldera, where, with but little expense, a small house could be built.

SANTIAGO STATION.

The population of Santiago is fast approaching the half million mark, the city limits are extending in all directions, the artisans are endeavoring to provide themselves with dwellings, and consequently there is a general boom in real estate and the prices of property have risen until they seem fabulous. Our two properties are situated so as to minister to the needs of two of the most rapidly growing sections. The city still continues to be a Roman Catholic stronghold. Vested interests remain, and the arrogance of office is obtrusive at all points of contact. Religious indifference becomes more general on the part of certain classes, notably the wage earners and the professional men.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Ave Matta Church.—The enterprises conducted from this centre are manifold. Twenty-eight members were received during the year. In the opinion of the pastor and elders, the spiritual condition of the church is much improved. The present membership is 130.

Finances: This church has fulfilled all its obligations, including the payment of $37.25 per month on the mortgage, and $90 a month toward the pastor's salary. They have raised for general purposes, $2,805.20, besides about 800 pesos for special objects.

In its Evangelistic Committee, the Ave Matta Church realizes, to some extent, the ideal cherished by most foreign missionaries. It meets every Monday night, receives Bible instruction for an hour, afterwards spends another hour in forming plans for the work of the week in the chapels and in the open air.

A sub-committee of this body has undertaken to solicit signatures to a petition for liberty of worship in the Republic.

Chapels: At several other points in the city, chapels have been maintained, with Sunday-school and preaching service. In spite of persecution and bribery by the priests, the attendance and interest have been good.

Avenida Brazil.—There has been a noticeable improvement in this church since our last report. The attendance at Sunday-school has risen to an average of 115, the highest during the year having been 143.

A Workers' Training Class has been conducted every Tuesday evening by the missionary in charge.

Finances: The church has been faithful in fulfilling its promises to the Union Evangelical. Their total receipts for the fiscal year have been $6,927.43, the largest in their history.

Comity: The past year has recorded signal triumphs for the common cause of evangelical Christianity in Chili. The visit of Rev. Herbert Harris, as representative of the International Sunday-school Association, has served as the occasion of a closer organic union in the efforts for the instruction of the young. The various churches are represented on the joint committee, which will arrange for sectional conferences and general conventions. Union evangelistic services have been conducted in a number of churches; the Week of Prayer was observed as a union enterprise; a gathering of all the churches was held in Parque Cousino, on New Year's Day. The parade of all the Sunday-school pupils of the various churches (about 700 strong) has aroused unprecedented enthusiasm for the maintenance of our essential unity.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Instituto Ingles.—The total number of students matriculated in the year reaches 302. Of this number, 140 registered as boarders, 62 as half-boarders (to take breakfast and luncheon in the school), and 100 as day-students. The quality of the boys matriculated has been higher than in any other year. About 60 boys were refused admission to the Boarding Department, at the beginning of the year for lack of room, and, in addition, a notice was published in the papers of the city, stating that no more students could be received.

Of the religious life of the school the report says:

The usual religious work of the school has been carried on as in former years. We have had the morning chapel service, in which a great part of the New Testament and the Book of Psalms has been studied in course. In this service we always sing from the Gospel!

SANTA INEZ CHAPEL AND CONGREGATION. THE SMALL BUILDING COST $60 GOLD. THEY ARE TO BE PROVIDED WITH A MORE ADEQUATE BUILDING FROM THE "KENNEDY FUND."

Hymns, in English. In the Sunday-school we have followed a course of studies in the Old Testament, a continuation of that of last year, in which we have been able to study the lives and work of a number of the principal characters up to the time of Christ. The course for next year, it is to be supposed, will be in the New Testament. There have been some six classes in the Sunday-school and the attendance has been obligatory for all boarders in the house. The attendance has been about 75. Each class has also had the usual Bible study, three hours a week in the upper courses, and two in the lower. Dr. Lester has had one hour a week with the higher classes in ethics, using the little book "Duty," and the other two hours have been given up to a more strict historical study. The Y. M. C. A., under the direction of Mr. Elmore, has been well attended. Mr. Elmore has also had charge of the evening service, at which he has spoken in English to the boys who happened to be here on Sunday—probably about 40 to 50. The work of the classes in Sacred History has been divided among the American teachers, each class officer, in general, taking the work of his own course. It would be much better if all this work could be done in Spanish, but this is impossible, since our men do not speak the language of the country, except in rare instances. However, all report considerable interest in the work done, and there have been a number of cases of boys who have been especially interested and particularly helped.

The results of the work done are not visible in most cases. While the general life of our boys seems to be much above that of boys in other schools, we have not been able to bring them up to the point where they will not lie, no matter what the provocation. In the past year there have been several flagrant cases of lying by boys who ought to have done better in the stress of the temptation, and it seems to be almost impossible to bring them to a point where they can be relied upon to tell the truth under any and all circumstances. They are not to blame, however, in a sense, since they hear lying at home, and, in many cases, are taught that it is not wrong to lie, but wrong to be caught. This is but one of the fruits of the centuries of Jesuitical teaching, and we cannot expect to rid the boys of this sin except by long years of patient teaching and example.

Financially, although there has been a larger attendance and a little more income, the year has been a hard one because of necessary building and repairs. I believe, however, that this should be the last of the hard financial years. It should be comparatively easy to carry on the school in the future. The land is all paid for, the gymnasium and baths complete, and there should not be such large travel bills in any one year for some time to come. We have also increased the price to be paid by boarders for the next year to such an extent as to make the income of the school about $6,000 more than in the present year. Consequently, there should be a considerable surplus in the school's earnings in 1912, most of which, I hope, the school may be allowed to spend on other needed improvements, such as paint, which is sadly needed in many places; the replacing of much school material that is old and worn after years of service, and in the securing of new equipment that is very much needed. If the school is to maintain its present reputation we must keep up with the progress made by other similar schools, and even go beyond them, if possible.

SANTIAGO STATION : SOUTH.

TALCA.—The work in Talca, under the direction of Ramon Oliveres and his wife, has made real progress. The general attendance was good, and the congregation showed a willingness to co-operate in a measure according to their ability.

The usual Sabbath and week-night services are maintained, also a Christian Endeavor Society and Women's League. The church reports 10 received on examination, making a present total of 46, as against 37 reported last December. The Sunday-school has a membership of about 85, and their offerings have totaled 340 pesos; church offerings, 461 pesos, and those of the Christian Endeavor, 135, making a grand total of 936 pesos.

CURICO.—The work in Curicó is carried on from Talca, which is somewhat difficult. The room we have been able to rent has been too small to accommodate the congregations. The congregation has borne all the expenses save the railway fares for Señor Oliveres.

The Sunday-school reports an average of 30, with an approximate income of 150 pesos.

SAN FERNANDO.—The work at this centre has been greatly interfered with by the "Pentecostales," whose fantastic practices seem to attract the Chilian Christian. Nevertheless, a small congregation of 20 or 30 has been maintained and will prove a nucleus for future work.

RANCAGUA.—This church was organized in February, 1911, under the leadership of Juan Enrique Reyes, an ordained worker. It began with 15 members. They have the usual services on Sunday, of prayer meeting, Sunday-school and evening worship, and three evening services during the week, two in the church and one from house to house. There is also a Women's League. A small school has been carried on with good results.

VALPARAISO STATION.

The year has been somewhat discouraging, owing to the physical breakdown of two of the workers, the absence on furlough of Miss Beatty, and the evil influence of the "Tongues Movement," which has brought all evangelical work into disrepute.

EVANGELISTIC.—In the Central Church there is a decrease in attendance, but, on the other hand, the church is self-supporting. At the beginning of the year they increased the quota to the pastor's salary from 200 to 220 pesos, and when, later, the salary was raised to 250 pesos, they voted to make the necessary effort to remain self-supporting, and have fulfilled their financial obligations.

The total number received into the church was 26.

The church contributed for congregational expenses	3,165.10 pesos
The Sunday-school contributed	1,409.00 "
The church collection for the Poor Fund	597.00 "
The church collection for special objects	190.00 "

The Sunday-schools.—Besides the Central School there are five others, all of which have been successfully maintained throughout the year. The average attendance in the Central School has been about 230 and the enrollment a little over 300, and in two of the others, viz., Las Palmas and Villa Seca, about 35 or 40.

CONCEPCION STATION.

The territory occupied by this Station remains the same as last year. The points where work has been carried on are the same, viz.: Concepcion, Chillan, Traiguén, Parral, Los Sauces and Penco.

PARRAL.—This city of over 10,000 inhabitants has a little church and chapel. The work has just about held its own. The little group have shown faithfulness in attendance on the services. They contribute regularly to a building fund for enlarging and improving their chapel.

CHILLAN.—Mr. Herrera reports as follows:

Since December, 1910, the meetings have been regularly attended; new hearers have not been lacking, some standing at the door. On Sundays we have a prayer meeting at 9.15 A. M. and Sunday-school at 10, and before the meeting has closed there will be 25 present. The Sunday-school is always fairly well attended. On Tuesday nights a probationers' class is held, which has already given fruit.

On the roll of the church there appear the names of 30 members. Four adults have been baptized and five infants. There is an average attendance of 50 in the Sunday-school.

A fine lot, in an excellent situation, has been selected for a reasonable price, and arrangements made to buy it.

TRAIGUEN AND LOS SAUCES.—In Traiguén, owing to the visit of Mr. J. Leiten, the attendance increased; a Christian Endeavor Society was formed, or revived; a Women's League was formed, and for a number of months a room was rented, some distance from the chapel, and evangelistic meetings were carried on with large attendance, which kept up for a considerable time. The most encouraging feature of the year is the entrance of one of the young deacons into the ranks of the Mission's workers—C. Villa—now under Mr. Spining's direction, in Valparaiso. The great need here is a resident pastor. The opposition to the Mission has disappeared; the spirit of complaint is not now in evidence as a year and a half ago. There is a fine field for an active and faithful man in the town and neighborhood, and the church is ready for such leadership.

LOS SAUCES.—Mr. Zuniga, in his report, gives a graphic picture of conditions in Los Sauces. He says of this place:

It is enslaved as much by its vices as by men. On Mondays there is a veritable orgy there, saloons and bad houses at every step, and drunkards giving each other blows right and left. The other master of that unfortunate place is a former mayor, at present a representative in Congress of the Province. This man practically exercises absolute power there. The people have no individual rights as free citizens. The word of that tyrant is law, which must be obeyed by right or by might. The person who dares oppose his orders and does not submit to his caprices must leave town as soon as possible, if he does not wish to suffer. He hates the evangelicals. He is the owner of almost all the soil in the town and the fields that surround it, so that to go contrary to him is equivalent to paying a higher rent, or be dispossessed of his house, losing in this way the building, which almost always belongs to the lessee (as the owner makes only a ground lease), and the lessee must per force build; and finally if he is poor he must go to the bar where he is cruelly whipped. Until I came to know the town of Los Sauces, I never knew that in Chili such atrocities could take place.

CONCEPCION.—Besides the regular work of preaching and teaching, which has been carried on on similar lines to that of the year previous, there have been the building operation of the new missionary house and church edifice to look after, and finally to occupy and get into running order. With the opening of the new church the last Sunday of August, there has been a marked improvement in attendance, and signs of a spiritual awakening among some of the members of the church. A general request was sent by mail to the workers in various parts of Chili for prayer in connection with the opening of the new church. Mr. Martinez and Mr. McLean were present for a good part of the week for special evangelistic services which immediately followed the dedication service. The new church building is beautiful and well adapted to the work and strategically located. The attendance this first week was large and encouraging. At the dedication about 40 attended, more than a quarter part standing through the long service, which was attended by members of four other evangelical congregations, the acting Intendant of the Province and Mayor of the city. One or another of these officials expressed pleasure in the building and also in the Chilean preacher, Mr. Martinez. All the Protestant ministers, foreign and native, in evangelistic and educational work, besides the two visiting brethren, took part in the week's services, and the fellowship and unity manifested were very grateful. A good many young men came in, and a considerable number of persons remained for personal conversation. A comparison of the attendance for the two months of September and October, leaving out of account the special meetings, as compared with a period of six or seven months previous, is encouraging. For the Sunday evening service, the average attendance these two months was 77, or 43 per cent. more than the previous period. At Sunday-school it was 72, or 29 per cent. increase, and on Wednesday nights it was 56, or 40 per cent. higher.

COLOMBIA MISSION.

BOGOTA: on the San Francisco River, the capital of the country; situated on a plateau about 8,800 feet above the sea level and 4 degrees north of the equator; climate cool; occupied as a Mission Station in 1856. Missionaries—Rev. T. H. Candor and Mrs. Candor, Mr. J. H. Cruickshank and Mrs. Cruickshank and Rev. Alex. M. Allan and Mrs. Allan.

BARRANQUILLA (Bar-ran-keel-ya): capital of the Department Del Atlantico, on the Magdalena River; 17 miles by rail from the sea, 500 miles north of Bogota; about 12 degrees north latitude; climate hot, as the thermal equator passes through; occupied as a Mission Station in 1888. Missionaries—Rev. W. S. Lee and Mrs. Lee, Miss Jessie Scott and Miss L. W. Quinby, Miss Martha B. Hunter, and Rev. Rolland J. Blue and Mrs. Blue.

CARACAS, VENEZUELA: capital of the country; situated at an elevation of 3,500 feet above the sea level; about 10 degrees north latitude; 23 miles by rail from the sea; climate like late spring; population 75,000; occupied tentatively 1897. Missionaries—Rev. T. S. Pond and Mrs. Pond.

MEDELLIN: situated on table-land, at an elevation of 5,000 feet, between the two great rivers Magdalena and Cauca, a week's journey northwest of Bogota, reopened as a Station 1911. Missionaries—Mr. C. E. Warren and Mrs. Warren, Rev. T. E. Barber and Miss E. I. Towle.

BUCARAMANGA: capital of the Provincia de Soto; about 200 miles northeast of Bogota; mean temperature, 73° Frt.; population about 20,000; occupied as a Mission Station in 1912. Missionaries—Rev. Charles S. Williams and Mrs. Williams.

TRANSFERS: Rev. and Mrs. Alex. M. Allan, from Barranquilla to Bogota, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Warren, from Barranquilla to Medellin; Rev. T. E. Barber, from Bogota to Medellin; Miss E. I. Towle, from Bogota to Medellin; Rev. and Mrs. C. S. Williams, from Bogota to Bucaramanga.

FURLONGHS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. W. S. Lee and Mrs. Lee, Rev. T. H. Candor and Mrs. Candor.

BOGOTA STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Candor were absent on furlough part of the year. Mr. Cruickshank not having had time to acquire free use of the language, Mr. and Mrs. Allan were temporarily transferred from Barranquilla.

EVANGELISTIC.—All the members of the Station took part in this. Mr. Williams made some interesting trips.

In Honda he was invited to speak in the town theatre, which is in reality a bull ring. He held two conferences there, each of an hour and a quarter, and 300 men attended. No women attended, as it is not considered the thing for a woman to go there for anything more edifying than a bull fight. A lasting enthusiasm was the result of these two meetings.

The women of the Station did house-to-house visiting and conducted classes for women. Mr. and Mrs. Allan's arrival, September 27, brought needed help in the evangelistic work, Mr. Allan taking charge of the Sunday evening service and two Bible classes, besides visiting in homes of the people. Mr. Cruickshank writes:

At present the chapel is far too small for the crowds that come on Monday evenings to hear or take part in the free conferences on religious and vital secular subjects. Last Monday we had more than 700 men and women in the building to discuss the question of the better treatment of the women. We believe that God will in His own way and time richly bless this work. It has gained us many friends already.

EDUCATIONAL.—Girls' School.—Miss Towle writes:

Some of the girls have developed into real helpers in the school. One girl united with the church at the last communion and two others are almost ready. For more than half of the year Mrs. Candor and then Mrs. Williams held a conference class once a week, in which a good deal of interest was shown.

The Tuesday Bible School has been held throughout the year and for most of the time the young ladies' class has been taught by others than our teachers.

Two new school-rooms were opened this year, one of which has given excellent satisfaction. The kindergarten, opened with the purpose of reaching foreign children, has had an attendance of from 8 to 13 all the year and has nearly paid double its expenses. The poor school-room that was opened about the same time has not had much of an attendance but has made easy communication with the outside world.

Boys' School.—

The number of boys enrolled, 126 besides the night classes, was double that of the previous year and the attendance has been about double. There are three new features this year:

(1) The presence of older young men and the return of most of the boys of the former year necessitated opening classes in most of the High School subjects, and so brought the school up to a higher standard educationally.

(2) A poor-school was opened which has proved very successful. It has had a good enrollment and a nice class of boys. They have been faithful in attendance upon church and Sunday-school.

(3) The third innovation was the opening of the Boarding Department to poor boys who came long distances by the giving of five-cent midday meals and two-cent afternoon lunches, although some of the boys were not even able to pay that small amount.

Two young men have received instruction with a view to the ministry. Some of the others have been able to attend part of the classes, expecting to attempt evangelistic work. One missionary writes: "We have been rather discouraged at times that more boys could not be induced to attend regularly the Church services. The usual attendance of boys from the College is not more than 18 to 24. The best we can do for them when they persistently resist all urging to attend the services is to provide a good course in Bible study, which is obligatory for all who enroll in any department." In the other departments instruction is daily given in Bible, catechism, and doctrine fitted to the age and understanding of the pupils.

BARRANQUILLA STATION.

There has been an unusual number of missionaries at the Station during parts of the year. Mr. and Mrs. Lee were absent on furlough for four months, but Mr. and Mrs. Warren, who later went to Medellin, and Mr. and Mrs. Allan, who after Mr. Lee's return went to Bogota, spent a good part of the year in Barranquilla. Miss Hunter, Miss Scott and Miss Quinby were on the field throughout the year.

EVANGELISTIC.—This was in charge of Mr. Allan during Mr. Lee's absence. The church services have been well attended and the Sunday-school has been particularly encouraging, the adult classes being the largest of all. The Week of Prayer was observed with special meetings.

The offerings on the first Sabbath of each month continued to be for the Church Building Fund, which at the close of the year amounted to $490.89, $73.23 having been raised during the year.

For a part of the year, the Sunday afternoon cottage meeting continued its good work; during Mrs. Lee's furlough being under Miss Quinby's supervision. Some of the men from the training class conducted the meeting. In September this meeting was discontinued for the present, Sr. Redondo's C. E. Society of men and boys taking its place, and meeting in different places on Sunday afternoons. Wednesday night services were well attended, crowds standing about the door.

No new members were received into the church this year. There have been some sad cases of yielding to the fierce temptations that are on each hand. More and more do the missionaries feel the wisdom of long-continued preparation on the part of inquirers, both in the Bible study and the showing forth of a consistent life. Inquirers' class of men and boys was resumed upon Mr. Lee's return. Different groups have been taught by Miss Hunter, Miss Scott and Miss Quinby. Four groups in session at the end of the year. For eight months Senorita Anita Duncan was employed as Bible woman, forming Bible classes in two or three homes and making many visits to homes unentered before.

During six months Miss Scott lived in an Indian village, about 21 miles away, making the first attempt of a woman missionary to live outside the city. The interest throughout the village was encouraging. A Sunday-school was carried on with an attendance varying from 10 to 20 women and girls inside the room and often as many men and boys outside. Daily visits were made in homes when prayer and a chapter from the Bible was read and explained making the greater part of the visit.

EDUCATIONAL.—The work in the Boys' School was in charge of Mr. Warren during Mr. Lee's furlough. 120 were registered, of whom 16 were boarders and 2 "breakfast pupils." The usual closing exercises of the year were omitted, due to the lack of room because of the new building in process of construction and to the fact that the government forbade anything but oral examinations for the closing exercises of their own schools, so it seemed only courteous to comply with their recommendation. This was recommended because of the threatened war between Colombia and Peru. However, in the afternoon of the closing day we laid the corner-stone of the new building with simple but appropriate exercises. Mr. Lee superintended the building of the new schoolhouse, and he reports that the building will be ready for use at the beginning of the new school year, January 8. The missionaries, teachers and pupils of the Boys' School wish to express their gratitude to the Board and to the women of New York who directed a part of their Jubilee Fund to be used for this new building.

The group of children now forming the Girls' School represent Jewish, German, American, Italian and Colombian parentage. Among the latter are the fair faces of children of Spanish descent, the well-featured Indian type and those in whose veins runs the blood of the white, the red and the black races. Three faiths are present: the Jewish, the Roman Catholic and the Protestant. Twenty-one children, practically one-third of the number, are from families connected with our own congregation; seven of these are members of the church. Twenty-six children in all are enrolled as members of the Sunday-school.

Daily Bible lessons were taught in both schools in all grades and an earnest effort made to lead young lives to see Jesus as Saviour and Friend. It was not given to the Station to see results of work in open confession of Christ; the year brought with it, however, heart-searching and confession of sin and failure and closed with a number under religious instruction.

CARACAS STATION.

There have been two deaths in the little company of believers and there have been the usual difficulties of indifference and skepticism, poverty and disease, and the chief difficulty of spiritual torpor.

But the very difficulties of this hard field form so much the greater stimulus to effort and prayer, while the interest and joy of service grow upon us. More money, in spite of the deep and deepening poverty, has been contributed by the people and with abundant gladness. More visiting of families and more sales of the Scriptures have been effected than ever before. And, of course, more opposition has thereby been aroused, especially in the interior, where "an independent" American missionary has been stoned, he making only a hair-breadth escape with his life. His work has been systematically hindered "officially" ever since. The palpable success of the Gospel work has been too great for the politicians and prelates and they have recently had recourse to the expedient of trying to include the three or four distinct Missions under the "Law of Patronage" by the State—a law which was enacted in 1824, to regulate the relations of the Roman Church to the State. The titles and terms used in this law are wholly inapplicable to the distinct mission centres in Venezuela, which are not "Missions" in the sense contemplated by the law, since this applies only to Roman Catholic Missions in the indigenous tribes. In pleasant contrast to any and all decrees, permission to build our chapel has been granted since the publishing of them.

EVANGELISTIC.—

An interesting experiment of printing on the new "writer-press" tracts, booklets, originals and reprints has resulted in the issuance of 40,680 pages. Many have been given away at the door of the chapel and have not been torn and thrown away as once they were. Many have been placed in the houses and hands of those whom the members of the C. E. Society and members of the church have visited. Six new members of the church received after due probation and baptism on confession of faith, and two families of eight persons have also been brought in during the year.

A class in Bible study is held daily with few interruptions during the year. Our youngest member gave most gratifying evidence of his progress as public speaker in the midweek service. Our hope is to carry him on as far as time and funds permit. He is a bright illustration of the advantage of being born in an evangelical family and educated in an evangelical school. Besides the very generous gift of the writer-press by our indefatigable co-worker and friend, the year has been made for us memorable and glad above all the years we have spent in Venezuela, for the Woman's Board of Philadelphia has given this Station the munificent sum of $8,000. Our joy had begun in good earnest over the rapidly accumulated sum of $4,500, received from different generous givers in the United States, including $1,890 of the Kennedy bequest. We are looking forward to the dedication of the house to God considerably before the end of the new year, 1912.

The public services are well attended; new families are interested, and, in general, the work of colporteurs and of C. E. Society has advanced materially in efficiency. We note better "team-work" in church and society. This is seen in the visits at their own expense to the near villages, distributing good literature and holding cottage meetings. By this means a whole family has recently been gained.

INDUSTRIAL WORK.—

The industrial feature of the work has been successful, considering the limited capital available. Mrs. Pond has employed over 40 women and girls at lace-making and embroidery; has paid in wages and materials $1,000, with a profit of 8 to 10 per cent., which has gone into the Building Fund when not used to supply new materials for new work. Meantime the women have had this means of living—almost the only means of leading an honest and respectable life. Most competent, faithful friends at home have aided greatly to place the women's work in a fair market. The aid and comfort brought to these needy ones by these simple means have been most grateful to our eyes and hearts, and promised yet happier and lasting results, by the grace of God.

MEDELLIN STATION.

We are glad to report the reopening of this Station, which had been closed since the departure of the Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Touzeau several years ago. Here Mr. and Mrs. Touzeau did loving and faithful work for many years and laid foundations which still abide. The work which they left, however, was naturally small, as the Station never had more than one missionary family. The Rev. T. E. Barber arrived in Medellin from Bogota, August 9, and writes that it took nearly eight days to make the journey of about 400 miles, and, while rather tiresome, was one of much interest, both from the standpoint of scenery and the great need of the people. There is no Protestant work of any kind in this region.

Mr. Rave, the head of one of the faithful families, met Mr. Barber on his arrival and at once invited him to attend their Wednesday evening service, which, in their way, they had continued to hold, as well as all the other services Mr. Touzeau had started. Mr. Barber adds that it was exceedingly touching to hear them tell how earnestly they had prayed to God to again send missionaries to them, and, as the elder of the former church added, "He has heard us."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Warren arrived in Medellin October 10. On their arrival two houses were rented, one in the centre of the city for services and one a little further out for a home.

The Sunday religious services immediately took on new life with these capable missionaries in charge. A Sunday-school teachers' class was started; members of the congregation who had drifted away were hunted up; books, tracts and Bibles were distributed. From two to five new people come in at each meeting.

EDUCATIONAL.—Plans were made for reopening the school February 5. It was well advertised, not only by a prospectus, but by a decree of excommunication by the Archbishop for all those sending their children to the school.

With two families now on the ground and with the new hope which animates all the members of the Colombia Mission, we hope to be able another year to make a good report of progress.

BUCARAMANGA STATION.

This is the first time that this Station appears as one of the Stations of our Colombia Mission. It was formally opened by the arrival of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles S. Williams at about the close of the year, so that there is really no report proper. We desire, however, to ask the interest of the Church in this new Station as well as in the reopening of Medellin, these two events being conspicuous ones in the history of the Colombia Mission. Bucaramanga is an important city of 20,000 inhabitants, capital of a Province, and is about 200 miles northeast of Bogota. No other missionaries of any denomination are at work there. It is a fine strategic base. We make the following extracts from Mrs. Williams' letter describing their arrival.

We arrived at Bucaramanga, January 6, after a hard journey overland. The long hours on horseback are not so hard as the lack of proper food and the scarcity of decent inns. Two nights we were obliged to sleep out on the hillside, and one night, while still in the chill region, slept on the floor of an Indian hut. Of course we left the door open (it was the only means of ventilation), so the dogs disturbed us most of the night. One night we arose at 2.30 to cross the famed "sube," where one descends four or five thousand feet into an oven of a valley, and climbs up on the other side of the gorge to a barren plain. We made the descent, dangerous as it was, by moon-light, so we would not be caught on the ascent in the heat of midday. The crossing took us about six hours. But we lived happily through it all, and were not much the worse for the trip except for blistered faces. And it was a great experience to cross those mighty chains of mountains and study the various methods of road building over the peaks. We were in sight of snow-clad mountains nearly every day.

You will be more interested in what we find here than in the trip. There is one family here who were members of the Bogota Church. We have been unable to secure a house these two weeks and are in a Colombian hotel, where bread and milk form a large part of our menu, being unable to keep well under the doses of grease in the food offered us. But we hope to get a house which will serve us for all purposes.

There has been no chance of services these two weeks, except a private prayer service with those who were members in Bogota, for opposition is strong and we cannot get a room for a service, and will not be able to do so until we get into a house. A young man who had heard Mr. Williams preach in Bogota recognized him, and the third day it was announced in the papers that he was here to represent the Protestant faith. This is making it harder to get a house. We expected to explain to the owners of any house we entered, but we did not wish to antagonize the whole town before we had a chance to make any friends. The city is larger than we had supposed. Living, too, is much higher than in Bogota, aside from rents. Milk is 12 cents a bottle. Flour comes from the United States. Even the water has to be brought in kegs on burro-back, and enough for a tub-bath costs 15 cents! Naturally, there is little bathing done, and even the clothes seem not to have known water ever, and the floors and walls certainly never have. The city is very unsanitary, and it is easy to see why yellow fever has existed here for over a year, why a dozen or more doctors all claim they are overworked, why so many funerals take place every day. There is no sewer, of course, and, what is worse, there are no carts that go about the street collecting garbage as in Bogota. Result: all garbage is thrown into the patio, in the centre of the house, and left to rot in the hot sun. But there is no such poverty here as exists in the capital city. The very poor here seem to have at least something to eat and a few rags of clothing. As yet we have not found the terrible contrasts between wealth and starving poverty as were daily sights there.

There are many people of large promise in the city and adjacent region, and Mr. and Mrs. Williams confidently expect to find friends among them.

MISSIONS IN SYRIA.

BEIRUT: on the Mediterranean. The Syrian port for European merchandise; occupied in 1823. Missionaries—Rev. F. W. March and Mrs. March, Rev. Franklin E. Hoskins, D.D., and Mrs. Hoskins, Mr. E. G. Freyer and Mrs. Freyer, Mrs. C. V. A. Van Dyck, Miss Emma Thomson, Miss Mary Pierson Eddy, M.D., Miss Rachel E. Tolles, Miss Ottora M. Horne, Rev. O. J. Hardin and Mrs. Hardin.

LEBANON: occupied (Abeih, 10 miles south of Beirut) in 1843 and (Zahleh, about 20 miles southeast of Beirut) 1872. Missionaries—Rev. William Jessup, Mrs. William Bird, Rev. Paul Erdman and Mrs. Erdman, Rev. W. A. Freidinger.

TRIPOLI: on the seacoast, 50 miles north of Beirut; occupied 1848. Missionaries—Rev. William S. Nelson, D.D., and Mrs. Nelson, Ira Harris, M.D., and Mrs. Harris, Miss Harriet La Grange, Miss Bernice Hunting, Rev. James H. Nicol and Mrs. Nicol, Dr. A. Elsie Harris, Miss Dora Eddy, Rev. Wm. G. Grunslade.

SIDON: on the seacoast, 30 miles south of Beirut; occupied 1851. Missionaries—Rev. Samuel Jessup, D.D., Miss Charlotte H. Brown, Rev. Stuart D. Jessup and Mrs. Jessup, Rev. George C. Doolittle and Mrs. Doolittle.

TRANSFERS: Rev. O. J. Hardin and Mrs. Hardin, from Lebanon to Beirut.

DEATH: Mrs. William Jessup.

RESIGNATION: Miss M. Louise Law.

FURLONGHS DURING THE YEAR: Rev. O. J. Hardin and Mrs. Hardin, Rev. F. W. March and Mrs. March, Miss Harriet La Grange, Miss Ottora M. Horne, Mr. E. G. Freyer and Mrs. Freyer, Dr. Mary P. Eddy.

BEIRUT STATION.

The year has been, for Beirut Station and community, filled with many changes.

Mr. Freyer sailed on furlough to the United States.

Dr. Mary P. Eddy left for Germany, where she remained until September, when she sailed for the United States.

Mr. March and his family sailed for the United States on their fourth furlough.

While not connected formally with this Station, we note also the departure of Mrs. Bird on July 17.

Miss Horne has returned from her first furlough.

The Mission has been reinforced by the arrival of Rev. W. A. Freidinger.

Dr. Samuel Jessup came from Sidon to give some special help to Beirut Station.

During the year the city was visited by several forms of malignant disease. Sporadic cases of plague appeared from time to time. An outbreak of cerebral spinal meningitis occurred in the barracks close to our church. Suspected cases of cholera were reported, and small-pox broke out which delayed the opening of the primary schools.

Following out one of the main suggestions of the great gathering at Edinburgh, a conference of educational workers in Syria and Palestine was called in the month of May. Thirteen of the societies working in the land responded with delegates, and other societies—even though unable to send—approved heartily of the gathering. The delegates assembled in Beirut on Wednesday, May 3, and spent three days in discussing various educational problems with possible lines of coöperation. Before the close of the meeting a series of important resolutions was prepared and adopted. The carrying out of these resolutions was submitted to a Continuation Committee of seven members representing the seven largest missionary organizations in Syria and Palestine. This Continuation Committee was charged specially with the organization of an Educational Association for Syria and Palestine, which is to meet in the spring of 1912.

EVANGELISTIC.—Beirut Church.—The statistics of the Beirut congregation are an index to the changing conditions and the variety of denominations contributing to its existence. Of the 300 living members on the roll, there are not more than 150 resident in the city, 20 or 25 dwell in the villages near by and at least 130 are absent from the country. The average congregation on Sunday morning is about 400, except in the hot summer months, when the schools are not in session, when it dwindles down to perhaps less than 100. The number of additions to the church have been 16, 5 of whom were young men and 11 young women; 1 was an American, 2 were from Catholic families, 2 from Greek Orthodox homes, and the remaining 6 from Protestant families.

Sunday-school Work.—The work of the Sunday-school, with an average attendance of 170 in 15 classes, and the Christian Endeavor Society has been carried on for many years by friends and members of the Mission without the slightest help of any kind from the church as a church.

Christian Soldiers.—How the new régime makes a new duty is told in the following:

One of the most delightful features of our Mission work during the past year has been what we have been allowed to do for the Christian soldiers in the barracks near by. Every Sunday morning during the winter and all through the summer months, from 30 to 50 of these young men, who include petty officers and members of the band, have gathered in our Sunday-school building for a religious service conducted in the Armenian and Turkish languages. Several of their number are well-educated young men who speak and pray with evangelical spirit and fervor. Their meeting lasts from one to two and a half hours, and it has been a great pleasure to invite Turkish-speaking friends to address, or others to speak through the aid of an interpreter.

It is for us and for other Christians in the empire a very strange sight to meet evangelical Christians and Christians of other denominations in the official military dress. It is stranger still to hear evangelical Christian hymns sung inside the Turkish barracks. So far as we could learn, no restraint of any kind beyond that of ordinary military discipline had been placed upon them in the matter of religious services. We cherish the hope that this is one of God's unexpected ways of introducing the leaven of the Gospel into an army whose existence was once supposed to be sacred to the cause represented by the Koran and the green flag of Mohammed.

Moslem Inquirers.—Another striking feature of the year's work has been the extraordinarily large number of Moslem inquirers who have found their way into our homes or religious services. It is a patent fact that more Bibles than ever are being sold to individual Moslem readers who, at the same time, show hearty interest in all the forms of literature that we are accustomed to circulate.

There are several very striking stories concerning these Moslem inquirers. One of them, a learned sheikh, came to us in the month of February and openly attended our church services while still wearing his Moslem scholarly turban. Some weeks later he was baptized in Cairo in the presence of more than 200 men, where he made a splendid profession of his faith in Christ. He is at present making good use of his literary talents in connection with the work of the Nile Mission Press.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—American School for Girls.—As an indication of the work being done with even the present inadequate equipment, attention may be called to the graduates of the past five years, 32 in number, all of whom have completed the entire course in Arabic and English.

The enrollment for last year, 1910-1911, was 131: 52 boarders and 79 day-scholars, classified as follows: Protestants, 28; nominal Christian sects, 77; Jews, 14; Moslems, 10; Druses, 2. Of the 28 Protestants 14 were church members. All the Protestants in the four higher classes were among this number, four making public profession of their faith during the year.

The religious interest was sustained throughout the year. The King's Daughters, of whom there were 21, found in their weekly meetings and in their daily devotional Bible study much that was a help in Christian life and an inspiration to Christian service.

LITERARY WORK.—The literary work of the Station has been carried on under increasing difficulties. Editing the Neshra was cared for by Mr. March from January to the end of June, and since then the responsibility has been distributed between several of the Mission outside Beirut, which is anything but a satisfactory plan. Mr. March also proceeded with the printing of the Commentary on Isaiah, and shortly before his departure the thirtieth form was put to press, completing the Commentary to the end of Chapter 47.

First Font Reference Bible. The promise made concerning the completion of the New Testament of the new First Font Reference Bible was fulfilled at the close of 1910, and not many weeks later the 399 plates were ready for the printing machine. Between January and June 15, 243 pages or plates of the Old Testament were completed, reaching Deuteronomy 20 : 4. The record for the year will be 296 pages out of a total 1,050 for the whole Old Testament. When this largest of all the Bibles is complete, the American Bible Society will possess eight complete Bibles in plates.

BEIRUT PRESS.—The work of the Press during the year 1911 has suffered necessarily from the absence of Mr. Freyer, who sailed for his regular furlough on March 9. The distribution of the Bible and Christian literature has been kept up to the usual high-water mark, but in doing so there has been found no time to study the larger problems connected with the production, output and wider distribution of our publications.

It is interesting, however, to note that the calls for Arabic literature from every country of the civilized world are increasing yearly, as is shown plainly by the great increase of packages sent by mail and parcel post. Japan, China, India, Persia, Arabia, the Sudan, Morocco, South America, and a dozen cities in the United States, not omitting London and Europe, are represented in these orders by mail. Several public libraries in the larger cities of the United States have found it advisable to procure and provide reading matter for the Arabic-speaking communities of these cities and we have been called upon for publications of our own and from other presses in the city of Beirut.

MEDICAL WORK.—Sanatorium.—The work of the Sanatorium for tuberculosis patients was cared for by Dr.

Mary Eddy at Maamaltain through the first few months of the year. After her departure for the United States the responsibility for it the remaining eight months fell to the care of Mrs. Hoskins.

Seventy patients have been received during the year representing all stages of the disease, but fully half of them hopeless. At least six of the less advanced have been benefited to such an extent that they return to their homes practically cured. As many more have been taught to care for themselves so as to be no longer a menace to those among whom they dwell. Some eight or ten returned to their homes to die. Twenty-four have passed away inside the Sanatorium.

ARABIC CONGREGATION AT BEIRUT.—The Arabic congregation of Beirut, which dates in its organized form since 1848, but which existed from the coming of the earliest missionaries, is now a living demonstration of the selective power of the Gospel which works irrespective of all linguistic, ecclesiastical and national lines. On fine Sundays it fills the large church building from the pulpit to the entrance door and, according to the old custom, the men sit on the right-hand side of the church and the women and girls on the left.

LEBANON STATION.

Lebanon Station has sustained a great loss by the sudden death of Mrs. William Jessup in 'Abeih, Mount Lebanon, August 18, leaving an infant daughter, Marie Josephine, in the desolated home.

Rev. and Mrs. O. J. Hardin have resigned, not from the Mission, but from the headship of Suk ul Ghurb Boys' Boarding School, over which Mr. Hardin has presided with great efficiency for 23 years.

Rev. W. A. Freidinger, who has been appointed as a regular missionary, has arrived. After completing a year of efficient service as assistant to Mr. Hardin in Suk School, he returned to America in the summer, was there ordained to the ministry, appointed by the Board, and returned to Suk ul Ghurb, bringing with him his sister, who has taken up her work with enthusiasm as teacher in the Boarding School. Mr. Freidinger is studying Arabic and helping Dr. William Jessup in the oversight of the School.

During the year Lebanon Station has carried on work in 34 out-stations, with the help of some 94 Syrian workers, of whom 14 were teachers in the two Boarding Schools of Suk and Shweir. Of the remaining 80, 9 were ordained preachers, 6 were licentiates, 2 were in charge of free reading rooms, 11 were preacher-teachers, and of the remaining 54 teachers 20 were women. There were 41 day-schools in operation—in five out-stations there being two schools, one for boys and one for girls. The total enrollment of these schools was 2,410, of which 612 were girls. Of this total 182 were Protestant, 745 were Druses and Moslems, the remainder being from the various nominal Christian sects. The banner school in attendance was Kub Elias, just south of Zahleh, with an enrollment of 250 pupils, of whom 53 were girls. In this school alone there were 100 Moslems. In the two schools in Baaklin there were 139 Druse boys and girls. The monthly fees of pupils in these 41 schools amounted to 38,961 piasters, or about $1,301. The banner school in fees was also Kub Elias, with a payment of almost 5,000 piasters, or $178. The combined boys' and girls' schools in Shweir paid over 3,000 piasters, and in Deir el Komr over 2,200 piasters, and the boys' school in 'Abeih equaled this last payment.

EDUCATIONAL.—The two boarding schools in Suk ul Ghurb and Shweir had a successful year, with 140 boarders in the former and 50 in the latter. The fees paid in these two schools amounted to 266,051 piasters, which, with the day-school fees, make a total for education in Lebanon Station schools of 305,012 piasters, or $10,893.

Our large and flourishing school in Kub Elias, with its 250 pupils crowded into three insufficient rooms, called loudly for enlarged and better quarters, and, encouraged by the zeal of the head teacher, the people themselves began to discuss the matter of doing something to better the conditions. Finally the leading men of all sects, Greek, Catholic, Maronite and Moslem, agreed to give us a good-sized piece of the "mesh'a," or public land, absolutely free, except for the expense of deeding it, and a number volunteered to help toward a building, some with money and others with beams for the roof, etc. This indicates the spirit of the people.

In Sughbin, at the time of the annual school examination in the spring, the Maronite priest, a young man, was present and took great interest. The preacher invited him to dine with him and the missionary, and the evening meal was spent together also in the assistant teacher's house. In the evening a service was held in the preacher's home for the baptism of his infant daughter, and the Maronite priest remained and joined in the singing. He afterwards said, "Baptism is one, and after all the only essential thing is the baptizing in the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Ghost, according to the Lord's command." Recently this priest made a long call at the Manse.

In the course of the year nearly 100 Second Font Reference Bibles (Arabic) were given as prizes for perfect recitations of the catechism in our different schools. In one large school alone 26 prizes were given to two classes examined at different times in the year. In Jeditha there were four Moslem boys who received prizes, and at the examination there were two Moslem men present, one of them the local "khutib," or religious leader, a young man and very friendly, having two of his own children in our school. It appeared that he himself as a boy had studied in our school in Kub Elias. In the Baaklin girls' school seven of the eight girls who took prizes were Druses, and splendid recitations they gave. In the Zahleh Sunday-school in July 40 unvoweled Bibles were given as first prizes for good attendance, and 23 New Testaments as second prizes.

EVANGELISTIC.—There were some 36 regular preaching places where services were held, with an average attendance of 2,007. The nine organized churches of Lebanon Presbytery reported, at the annual meeting held in Zahleh in July, a membership of 795, of whom 204 are absent in foreign lands. There were 45 additions to church membership on profession of faith, a gratifying increase over the number 30 a year ago, though it is only a little above the average increase for some seven years past.

The nine organized churches reported to Presbytery receipts amounting to 26,300 piasters, or about $940, and expended in self-support 23,300 piasters. Zahleh Church leads with receipts of over 7,000 piasters, paying half its pastor's salary, as was promised upon his ordination one year ago.

The meetings of the Week of Prayer in Zahleh were unusually well attended, considerable interest being shown, and 13 young men and women united with the church on the Communion Sabbath which followed.

WORK AMONG WOMEN.—Mrs. Erdman reports as follows of the work among the women in Zahleh:

In spite of the difficulties of road and weather, the meetings for women were well attended all through the winter and spring. Heretofore the Zahleh Women's Endeavor Society has met in the church after the Sunday morning service, but the hour being inconvenient for many, it was thought best to try a change. As a result the meetings this year were held on Thursday afternoons in the homes of different members of the church. Each time the women of the neighborhood were invited, and in this way many were reached who otherwise have few or no opportunities of hearing the simple Gospel read and explained and of listening to informal prayer. The meetings were generally led by the church members, with an average attendance of from 10 to 15—Evangelicals, Greeks, Catholics, Maronites, and occasionally a Moslem.

The free reading rooms in Zahleh, 'Abeih and Baalbec have had a successful year and have been well patronized.

The kindergarten building in Zahleh has been completed recently by putting in the tiled floors and plastering the walls, but it has not been opened for kindergarten work with the new school year because of Mrs. Jessup's death and other difficulties.

TRIPOLI STATION.

In the Mission circle in Tripoli, the year was one of unusual change and activity and will be remembered in the annals of the Station. From July, 1910, to September, 1911, Miss La Grange was absent on furlough. Miss Dora Eddy, whose arrival was noted in last year's report, found her own place of activity in the life of the Station and the Girls' School. For two months in the winter Mr. W. S. Nelson was absent from the field, in pursuance of the Mission appointment, in attendance upon the Conference at Lucknow. The appointment of Rev. W. G. Greenslade and his assignment to Tripoli Station was a distinct encouragement to us in our work.

The Station has also been busy with its building operations for the boys' school and for the residence at Homs. As soon as the Board's decision about a missionary residence in Homs was known, the Station arranged with the management of the Homs Boarding School to buy an acre and a half at the south end of their property, and set to work on the building. The efficient activity of Mr. Hanna Khabbaz made rapid work possible, and in two months and a half after the laying of the first foundation stone, the walls were ready for the roof and much of the first-floor carpentering and plastering was already done. Five months of work had the building in such shape it could have been used, and in less than six months it was finished and occupied. The Mission now owns a very convenient and commodious residence in Homs, with a fine well on the premises and ample space for anything that may be needed in the future development of the work.

But it is not in building matters alone that the year 1911 will be remembered as a year of new things in Tripoli Station. On June 1 the first regular train passed between Tripoli and Homs, carrying among its passengers two members of the Tripoli Station, who went to Homs and back in far greater comfort than they had ever enjoyed before on this trip, and made the round trip in one day. The significance of this, both commercially and in the conduct of mission work, is already beginning to be felt in Tripoli.

Early in July Mr. and Mrs. Nelson took possession of their rented house in Homs, opening a new centre of direct missionary influence. This ought to mean much in the advance movement so earnestly desired in Syria and all Asia. Homs is predominantly a Mohammedan centre, and in the city and the great outlying territory the missionary resident in Homs ought to exert an ever-widening influence among the Mohammedan peoples.

In another no less important line, the Mission decision for Miss Hunting has been carried out. During the whole school year, in Miss La Grange's absence, Miss Hunting continued in charge of the Girls' School, but made her plans to go out into evangelistic work, and as soon as Miss La Grange returned, she set out for her new headquarters at Minvara. A house was rented for her there as a centre for work for the present, with the thought of gradually reaching out to other districts. Her work will lay a new emphasis upon that needy and important class of the population, the women and children. The following incident from the report shows the low condition of the women, especially among the Nusairiyeh people.

A Christian peasant had employed a bright young Nusairi as ploughman and his mother as house servant. After a time the young man went to America and the mother continued with her Christian employer. Hearing that a man from a neighboring village had returned from America, she went to find whether he brought news of her son. The man said at once, "Yes, I knew your son well, and it was my lot to do for him the last service one man can do for another. I prepared his body for burial and helped to bury him at such and such a place in Brazil." The story was an absolute falsehood, as was shown by letters soon received from the son, but the word came too late. The poor woman went into a frenzy of grief at the word, and wandered out into the open country, going aimlessly back and forth, beating her breast and tearing her hair. Her employer heard of her condition and went to bring her home. Her relatives, however, summoned a famous sheikh to examine her. He said that he found no sign of a demon possession and so could do nothing. Another was summoned who succeeded in locating an evil spirit and proceeded to exorcise it. The poor woman was bound hand and foot, and kept without food, being severely beaten if she made the least movement. Her Christian employer went to see her and she besought him, by the love of Christ, to take her to his wife for care and food. He made what protest he could, but the friends only took this as added confirmation of the correctness of their diagnosis, and continued the treatment with added severity until life was extinct, as they said this type of spirit would only leave with the spirit of the person. In vain she had besought mercy in the name of Christ. When will it be possible to get the light into these dark places?

GROUP OF SYRIAN SCHOOL CHILDREN.

The ordinary work of the Station was continued along the regular lines without much of striking incident.

The reports of the churches to Presbytery failed to show the larger accessions for which all had been praying. The total number of new members was only 41, but a larger accession is hoped for next year. The year has been free from any serious opposition or persecution. The missionaries of the Station were not able to do so much touring as usual, because of the absence of Mr. Nelson at the Lucknow Conference during the winter, which threw all the local work, as well as the Boys' School, on Mr. Nicol, and also because of the absorption of both in building and business connected with it.

EDUCATIONAL.—The two boarding schools in Tripoli had a prosperous year. The Boys' School was full, having 71 boarders and 76 day-pupils. It was an expensive year, and but for the help of a few small presents, would have closed with a slight financial deficit; but by the aid of friends this was avoided, so that the record of a clean balance sheet remains unbroken. The educational efficiency of the school is distinctly advancing, and it was a significant fact which was worked out of the result of the year's work showing the comparison between the boarders and the day-pupils. In the regular classes, 80 per cent. of the boarders passed, while of the day-pupils only 35 per cent. passed. Seven graduated in July. One of these is teaching at Mahardeh, under Presbytery appointment, three entered college, two are teaching in local schools under Syrian management, and one is still undecided as to his future. One of the graduates, a Moslem boy who has been in the school for six years, wished to teach.

The religious life of the school centred as before in a formal way about the Young Men's Christian Association, which, with 20 active members, continued its weekly meetings with good interest.

Notwithstanding the exceptionally heavy budget of the year for instruction and the high cost of living, the receipts from pupils more than covered the cost of household and teaching. The entire cost of the school, including rent, was a little less than £1,000 sterling.

The Syrian Protestant Institution in Homs, while not under Mission control, is such a conspicuous feature of the evangelical work in north Syria that it merits mention in the report of our work. The work of the school was seriously interrupted in the winter because of a case of typhoid fever just before the Christmas recess. This created a panic among the pupils and the closing of the school. Before the school was resumed, the heavy snows cut off communication with the villages, and so the boys could not return and school work was suspended for nearly three months, but in spite of these facts the year has been one of progress and promise.

MEDICAL.—The medical work of the Station was conducted along the customary lines. The daily clinics at the Mina Dispensary were conducted by Dr. Harris and Dr. Elsie Harris with the constant assistance of Miss La Rue, the trained nurse. The daily prayer service was led by Mr. Shukri Fakhuri, for so many years in this position, while the waiting women were ministered to by Miss Katrine Shidyak, the Bible woman.

Dr. Elsie Harris' special work in the city has been advancing in the same lines as before. She is called for and visited by an increasing number of Moslem women, and has been called upon to assist at the advent of a large number and variety of new inhabitants. This brings her into close contact with an enlarging circle of families and gives numerous opportunities of intercourse and influence on many lives.

WOMAN'S WORK.—Mrs. Nelson continued her regular meeting for women at her home and others with less regularity in other parts of the city. Miss Hunting did similar work so far as her obligations in the school would permit, and all the ladies did much in the line of house-to-house visitation, Mrs. Nicol taking her share in this city work since her home had been in the city.

Tripoli Girls' School.—At the Girls' School it was a year of quiet, steady work. Miss La Grange was absent and Miss Eddy was new to the surroundings, but the corps of teachers was excellent and a spirit of loyalty and fidelity pervaded the institution, so that Miss Hunting had a pleasant experience and a good year for her last in the school before going out into her outside work. The number of boarding pupils was 59, less than it has been in some years, but perhaps as many as can be handled to the best advantage in the premises. There were also 126 day-pupils.

In the local Tripoli work, advantage was taken of the increased desire for news among the people, and the book store was rearranged so as to adapt it better to use as a reading room. Several tables were provided and a number of books and periodicals secured. There were no sufficient funds to provide a salaried secretary, and so members of the Tripoli Church volunteered for the service and the room was kept open day and evening through the winter and spring months.

The attendance was recorded, and during seven months 2,759 persons came in and stayed a greater or less time to read books and papers. About one-third of the attendance was from Moslems and many opportunities were given for personal conversation.

The Tripoli Church Society continued its useful activity, maintaining a school for girls in the Mina, and contributing 4,000 piasters to the Boys' School, besides giving the major portion of the funds for the Home Mission Committee as well as paying half the salary of their own pastor.

SIDON STATION.

The missionaries of the Station were Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Ford, Dr. Saml. Jessup, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Doolittle, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Jessup, Misses C. H. Brown and M. L. Law.

Changes during the year have been important.

Dr. Ford, after 30 years of active membership in the Mission, at his own urgent request has become an honorary member of the Mission at his own charges in order to be free to do long-planned and much-needed literary work for this country.

The resignation of Miss M. L. Law, after 18 years of faithful, active and efficient work, on account of ill health, is deeply regretted by us all. The coming of Miss Anna H. Jessup in October to the Seminary and of Mr. Byerley to the Institute, is the cause of great gratification.

This year's opportunities among Moslems and Christians have been greater than we, with the force of workers at hand, have been able rightly to improve. The Moslems in wayside khans or in towns like Nebateeyeh or Berja, and others, are glad to get and read the Gospel. A Moslem sheik remarked, after reading aloud to other Moslems from the Testament at the fountain of his own town Habboosh, that "under the old régime we could not do this and we rejoice in this new freedom that we have."

EDUCATIONAL.—At Judeideh the schools are in a most prosperous condition. In the Girls' School 10 pupils recited perfectly the Shorter Catechism and won the prize of a Bible. They found that on the visit of the Greek Patriarch there, that he said he enjoyed the visit to Protestants more than all the other visits. Under the leadership of Mr. Doolittle, a delegation of six of our teachers attended the educational conference, September 20, at Jebail.

All the schools are prosperous and are gradually creeping up to self-support. Churches, too, are taking a more independent stand and give us hope of future independence.

Sidon Seminary.—The Seminary for Girls in Sidon had 20 girls from Lebanon Station and 40 from Sidon Station as boarders, beside the day-scholars, a total of 132. One girl is being educated by a Protestant, once a pupil in the Gerard Institute and now in the University of Pennsylvania. She eventually is to be his bride.

The general tone of the school was good. All the teachers and 12 pupils were church members. During the year 6 girls also united with the church, making 18 girls who have joined the church. Aside from the usual religious instruction and the regular church services and Sunday-school, the girls had their daily Bible lessons in Arabic or in English, their own meeting on Sundays, the little class meetings once a week where the teachers have precious opportunities for influencing the members of their Bible classes for all that is right and holy.

The Missionary Society to which all belong raised 2,000 piasters ($71.50), which was divided between Home and Foreign Missions, the Home Missions being for a village school for girls.

Gerard Institute.—The year 1910-11 will in the future be one of the landmark years in the history of Gerard Institute, for the third step was taken toward moving from our cramped city quarters to the roomy crest on the farm where the new Ramapo Hall stands.

In the higher classes of the Institute and in the boarding department as a whole there were fewer students than for several years, due to the effort to enforce the payment of higher fees.

EVANGELISTIC.—The new opportunity in Syria is well described in the following:

The movement in Jezzín, a Maronite stronghold of Southern Lebanon, was a great surprise. The bigotry and fanaticism of the place has been notorious. We had not faith to believe that a large number of these people would become Protestants at one time. A few had been longing for such an opportunity and gladly welcomed an occasion for the important step. Last spring a formidable petition came to us representing 150 souls, asking to be recognized as Protestants. Their zeal and thirst for religious instruction has been most refreshing. It seemed like people coming out of heathenism.

A movement was started in B'Caseen, a large Maronite town near Jezzín. The people had come to see the missionary during the summer. A petition was prepared and sent to the missionaries similar to the one from Jezzín. Unfortunately, the authorities at Jezzín have arrested and imprisoned, without trial or charge, the man who circulated the petition.

Another movement was started at Nebateeyeh, where the people are anxiously waiting for us to send a religious leader which they care more for than for a school teacher. Some of them have learned in the United States of America what Protestantism and religious liberty are.

Another interesting incident was when a missionary was returning the call of a Metwali Moslem sheikh in his town of Joon. He called his son—a pupil in the school—and his wife, her face uncovered, into the parlor (in that town the women do not veil themselves), then in a serious, solemn manner he said, "I dedicate this my son to you Americans to take him and train him up in your way and your religion, and I call God to witness my sincerity."

The growth of the churches was in a measure gratifying, and the numbers added on confession of faith were 45 and by baptism 65. Total pecuniary contributions 420,038 piasters (about $1,500), on the whole a manifest step upward by the people. The greatest need felt and prayed earnestly for is a spiritual awakening in the churches—of pastors, preachers and people. The following is taken from the table of statistics accompanying this report:

We have 13 organized churches and 18 unorganized groups of believers. There are 27 elementary schools, 2 boarding schools, 32 male teachers, 15 female teachers, 4 pastors and 6 licensed preachers. The contributions for church and congregational purposes, 18,017 piasters, were 50 per cent. more than the previous year.

4,518 piasters for Home and Foreign Missions, 17,750 piasters for buildings and repairs, and 179,913 piasters for education, making a total of 420,038 piasters, or $1,501.36.

THE FUTURE.—For some years past the conditions of the country have seemed to call for special emphasis on the distinctly educational lines of work, with the development of institutional activity. Since the establishment of constitutional government three years ago, many of the old restrictions and limitations on our work have been removed, and it seems right that the balance of emphasis should be changed accordingly and greater attention be given hereafter to the more direct work of evangelization. The transfer of a missionary family to Homs and the assignment of a lady missionary definitely to evangelistic work are both in this line. By making a larger use of our Syrian fellow-workers, it is proposed to reach out, in systematic visitation, to all the villages in our large territory, so that all may be visited if possible, either by a Syrian or an American evangelist. It is not enough for our itineration to keep the regular, organized out-stations in smooth running order. There are hundreds of other centres of population for which we are also responsible, and now that it is possible to move about freely in all directions, this must be done, and it cannot be accomplished except by systematic, organized work.

The new residence in Homs should have a decided significance in connection with the impetus given among all Missions to direct work for Moslems. In Homs we have the largest city in our whole Mission field outside of Beirut. The Moslem population is fully three-fourths of the total 65,000 inhabitants, and the religious bigotry is intense, though the people are for the most part simple and not unfriendly. Outside of the city we are in constant touch with the great wandering tribes of the Arabs and to the north are many and large Moslem villages.

Rev. J. H. Laughlin reports for this work as follows:

The year has furnished five events worthy of mention:

1. The gain of a new Mission. It is located in Marysville, a town of four or five thousand in the Sacramento Valley. The Mission was organized thirty years ago by the Congregational missionary, Rev. W. C. Pond, D.D., whose purpose was to make it part of the Presbyterian Church of the town, there being none of his own communion there. So it has been, all through these years, a Congregational Mission, although largely supported by the members of the Presbyterian Church, and always superintended and taught by a Presbyterian woman.

The roll of the membership at the time of transfer contained the names of 21 baptized Christians. One has since been added on confession of faith. A night-school is conducted with an average attendance of 12, and a Sabbath evening religious service whose average is eight. A Chinese preacher conducts services on the Lord's Day.

Another Station, that of Santa Barbara, while cared for by the Chinese themselves, belongs to the Board, and the Board may well be proud of it, for the membership is made up of some excellent, highly esteemed men, of whom the business men of the city speak only good words. Even the teacher's salary has for years been raised by these Chinese people. Recently, however, when the entire property had to be overhauled, the Board granted them some most welcome assistance.

2. A change of Chinese pastors. Rev. Ng Chun Sam, having completed his three years' term of service, felt obliged, on account of the illness of his wife, to return to China. His going was a matter of universal regret. Eloquent, gentle, cheerful, he had won all hearts. His service had been marked by a high degree of ability and fidelity. Rev. Fong Lew Chun was then called from the Independent Church of Canton. He came promptly, received a cordial welcome, and has begun his ministry among us with favorable auguries for usefulness and success.

3. Preparation for the employment of a Chinese preacher in the southern part of the State. The need has long been felt, especially by Mr. Stewart and his Chinese congregation in Los Angeles. That people, with some help from outside, have raised $75 for the transportation, and a salary of $45 a month for the new minister; and the invitation has already been dispatched to China. The Santa Barbara Christians express their readiness to pay for an occasional visit from him to their Mission, and he will find still larger scope in hunting up some of the groups in other towns who have long been hungering for such a message as he will bring.

4. Keen participation in China's great revolution. Here is where the main preparation for that rebellion was hatched. Just across the street from the Board's office is the headquarters of the Young China Association, an organization of years, whose object has all along been the overthrow of the Manchu Dynasty. Its printing office is a few doors farther away. Its head, Sun Yat Sen, was called to the high, responsible, hazardous office of the first President of the Chinese Republic. The world knows how he unselfishly relinquished his high office. The ambition for a republic was born, of course, in America. As a Church, we have carefully avoided forming any alliance with this movement, yet quite a number of our members, as individuals, have long since joined it, and now that the revolution is actually accomplished it will be hard to find a Chinese Christian who is not in full sympathy with it, and praying and giving for its success. "Where the Spirit of God is there is liberty"; "The entrance of Thy word giveth light"; and it may be that the future historian will discover that among the by-products of Chinese Missions in America may be counted the great political transformation of China.

5. The uniting of the workers among Orientals on the Pacific Coast in one organization. It is called The American Workers among Orientals on the Pacific Coast. It is composed of missionaries, superintendents of Missions and secretaries representing all the denominations who are enlisted in behalf of the spiritual welfare of our Asiatic population. The aim of the organization is, union or coöperation wherever possible, so as to check waste, promote economy, and accomplish the great task, which is too mighty to be achieved except by the united effort of all.

San Francisco remains, as hitherto, the centre of our operations. The church here has had a good year. Without anything extraordinary in spiritual growth or in the turning of multitudes to the Saviour, the tokens of God's favor all the way along have been abundant.

Our active list numbers 137; reserve list, those who have removed to other parts of the world, 144.

The money contributions of the year amount to $2,797.

OAKLAND AND ALAMEDA.

Under the care of the Rev. I. M. Condit:

Oakland.—The most hopeful feature of our Oakland Mission is its work among the children. Out of an audience at our Sabbath morning service of between 30 and 40, more than one-half are children, largely of Christian parents, with some also from heathen homes. This is a wonderful contrast with what our Mission was before the earthquake, when a Chinese woman or child never darkened our chapel door. Our Christians who were many of them married men had their families in China.

Our Sabbath evening service is of quite a different character. It is composed almost entirely of men, who are most of them domestics in American families and cannot be present at the morning service. They are substantial Christian men who have most of them stood by their faith for years and are witnessing a good profession. But the Chinese have become comparatively scarce. The evening school, which was formerly full of men quite fresh from China, is now made up mostly of boys, who, through various pleas, have been brought in from their native land.

THIS JAPANESE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH AT WATSONVILLE, COSTING $2,500, THE GIFT OF THE FIFTY COMMUNICANT MEMBERS, WAS DEDICATED TO THE SERVICE OF GOD, AUGUST 13, 1911.

Our Sunday-school, which is held in the First Church for the sake of teachers, is a flourishing and enthusiastic school and numbers as high as 50 or 60 in attendance. The monthly missionary society continues its interest. The Condit Church in Sun Neng, China, the district from which so many of our Chinese have come, has grown too small to hold the large number who attend. A new lot near by has been purchased and our mission along with others are turning their thoughts toward the building of a new church and leaving the old one to be converted into school-rooms for boys and girls.

Alameda reports four additions to the church, one by letter and three by baptism and five uniting with the C. E. Society. During the year one member returned from China and tells of "holding meetings in his home and inviting the people of his village to gather in the evening and hear about the Gospel. At first few came, but after a short time the room could not hold the people. After a service of song this faithful Christian would tell his friends about the Christ whom he had decided to follow, and wanted to tell the good news to his neighbors and friends. The man's family are now Christians and others want to know more about Christ." Another member who returned from China went east to engage in business. "He reached Erie, Pa., on Saturday night and the following morning found him in Sunday-school in a strange city."

The local expenses in these two Missions are met by the Chinese themselves, beside what they are giving for the Gospel in China and to aid their people in this their time of great distress.

CHINESE CHURCH AND MISSION. LOS ANGELES.

Under care of Rev. J. H. Stewart.*

Church services, including the weekly prayer meetings and Sunday-school, have been kept up without interruption.

The Sunday-school has an enrollment of 50 and an average attendance of about 30. Connected with the Sunday-school is a Bible class for women and also one for men.

There are two schools for men—an evening-school and a day-school. The average attendance of the evening-school has been about 17 and for the day-school about 6.

The contributions have gone through the Women's Presbyterial Society, and are as follows:

Freedmen.....	$6.00
Home Missions.....	4.00
Foreign Missions.....	28.00

A special gift of $450 was made to the Christian College at Canton, China.

CHINESE MISSION IN PORTLAND, OREGON.

The Mission has been strengthened in its working force during the past year by Mr. Ng Man Bo, a Chinese Christian man from Canton, China, who is proving very efficient and seems to have won the esteem and love of the Christians as he has of those who have not yet been identified with the Mission in any way. He is always invited to be present as a guest whenever the Chinese Chamber of Commerce meets, and is always invited to address them.

* As the report went to press word was received that the Rev. J. H. Stewart, who for so many years has labored among the Chinese in Los Angeles, has passed to his rest in glory. He was a faithful, devoted servant of the Lord, honored and respected by his fellow-workers and much beloved by the Chinese.

Mr. Ng has gathered together a class of 30 children who are studying Chinese. There are a large number ready for baptism and will be received soon, but Mr. Ng is very conservative, for which we are very glad, and since these young men have asked for baptism it has not been possible to arrange for a communion service. We have no one connected with the Mission who can hold such a service. Mr. Ng is simply a layman. Aside from the class of children, we have a class of 12 women who are studying at the same time. Most of them are not Christians.

THE WOMAN'S OCCIDENTAL BOARD.

The Chinese Mission Home.—

There have been between 60 and 70 inmates of the Home during the greater part of the year. Two young girls were rescued in the month of January, 1912.

The usual number of marriages have taken place in the Home, but one of special interest was that of a young girl whose mother, 30 years ago, went out from this Home a bride. In San Diego her children were born and reared, and when this daughter was ready to become a bride the mother asked that it might be from the Home so dear to her. The favor was willingly granted by the managers of the Home.

Through the generosity of Mr. Coleman, the Mission now has a well-educated and accomplished matron in Miss Teen Fook Wu, one of its wards, who has completed a six years' course of study in an eastern college. Her return last September seems in the nature of a special Providence, as it has made it possible for Miss Cameron to take her year's vacation at this time.

Two of the girls of the Mission graduated from the Grammar School at the Christmas season, Qui Mui and Foon Seen, and both will begin on March 1 teaching in the Home School, thus bringing to pass a long-cherished desire of the Occidental Board to have trained native teachers in this school.

By the special permit of President Taft, the Occidental Board has become guardian of two young girls who were brought over as slaves and bought by Highbinders before their arrival. They were detained in the Mission Home while awaiting the action of court as to whether they should be deported, and during the few months became so much interested in the school and life in the Home that they plead to be allowed to remain as students.

Evangelistic and Outside Schools.—The Occidental School, San Francisco, has greatly increased in numbers during the past year, and like a lighthouse it stands, sending its rays of light into many a dark heathen home through the little ones that come flocking every day to learn its lessons and sing the hymns and memorize its Scripture texts.

The Condit School, Oakland, shows growth both in interest and in numbers, KOREANS.

Organized groups of Christians are located in Los Angeles, Claremont, Upland and Riverside, besides fifty or more scattered ones in other towns. Quite a number of Presbyterians reside at Redlands, but because of the presence there of a returned missionary of the Methodist faith, and because, too, the Methodists have a good church building, it has been deemed wise to turn the Korean work over to the Methodists.¹ On the other hand, some 150 Christians and 250 non-Christians in the central part of the State have recently been discovered to be without religious oversight whatsoever; the Methodists being without funds, so the prospect looms large that we Presbyterians will have to assume the responsibility for them.

The groups in the South have this year enjoyed unusual privileges in the way of visits and preaching. Besides the regular tours of the evangelist, most, if not all, the Stations have been visited by returned missionaries who were able to preach to these Koreans in their own tongue.

The achievement of the year that bulks largest is the erection of a new Mission building in Claremont. It was especially needed because of the very considerable number of students preparing to enter Pomona College, which is situated in that beautiful town. The cost of the building was $2,200, of which the Koreans gave about $1,700.

Another advance was at Los Angeles, where the Korean brethren raised more than $50 to establish what they call an Educational Department, making it possible for young Koreans from all parts of the State to make their home in the Mission while attending the public schools of Los Angeles.

The Koreans in Yucatan, after years of great distress in that land, have experienced a soul-piercing disappointment in the failure of their plan for immigration into the Hawaiian Islands. After raising $10,000 for transportation and sending the first batch of men ahead, they were informed that the United States Government would not allow their entrance. Three hundred of them, however, have bettered their condition by removal to a more prosperous part of Yucatan.

Number of Christians: 1909, 377; 1910, 483; 1911, 560.

Total contributions to the Lord's work: 1909, $720.75; 1910, $1,112.10; 1911, $1,446.15. These sums have been expended chiefly in building and maintaining the Mission homes and in defraying the traveling expenses of their evangelist.

JAPANESE IN CALIFORNIA.Dr. E. A. Sturge:

Twenty-five years ago, when Dr. and Mrs. Sturge arrived in San Francisco, they found a small Japanese church of about 30 members, which had been organized the year before, and which held its meetings in a dilapidated hall over a saloon on Golden Gate Avenue. These missionaries from Siam were requested to take charge of this little flock. How well they did it the record of the quarter of a century bears ample witness. The one little congregation has grown into four organized churches, four other missions with a combined membership of over 500, and several scattered groups of Christians who receive regular instruction from the visiting evangelists. Still greater results of the work are to be found upon the other side of the Pacific, where more than half of those converted in California are now residing. A score of the brightest young men from our California Missions have been ordained to the Christian ministry. A half-dozen others are being prepared for the same noble calling. Though the chief purpose in establishing these Missions has been to give the Gospel to the Japanese who find their way to the United States, they have assisted in no small measure in bringing about a better understanding and a kinder feeling between America and her nearest neighbor on the west. The hostile attitude of labor organizations toward the Orientals on the Pacific Coast and the establishment of many Buddhist missions by the Japanese themselves have tended to make the work of the evangelist more difficult. Fifty-five adults received baptism in our California Japanese Missions during the past year. This is only ten less than the number reported for 1910.

Though not any of our California Missions are as yet self-supporting, the statistical report shows that they have contributed during the past year $7,422 to the work, which is a larger sum than they received from the Board. The work could easily be made self-supporting in San Francisco and Los Angeles if suitable buildings could be provided, making rental unnecessary. The San Francisco Station reports 14 adult baptisms; Watsonville comes second with 12; Los Angeles follows with 10; Salinas, 8; Stockton, 5; Visalia, 3; Hanford, 2; Wintersburg, 1. The last three mentioned places are rural districts, where the Japanese own very little land and are consequently less settled, which will account for the poor showing they make for the year just ended. August 13, the new Japanese Church at Watsonville, the gift of 50 consecrated Japanese Christians, was dedicated to the service of Jehovah. The members are now raising several hundred dollars additional to house their growing kindergarten.

Changing conditions call for new methods in Mission work. Day and evening-schools are not as necessary as formerly, because of the educational classes and kindergartens conducted by the Japanese in our larger cities. Institutional churches that will meet the social as well as the spiritual needs of the homeless Japanese strangers seem to be called for and may be tried in the future.

We believe it to be our duty to open a Mission for the Japanese in and around Sacramento. There are more than 11,000 of these people in the Sacramento Valley and only two very weak Missions, attended by less than 50 persons each Sunday. There is a large Buddhist Mission for the Japanese and over 70 Japanese children are attending the public schools of Sacramento, but there is no Christian school for them in that city. The Sacramento Japanese are more neglected than those in any other part of California.

CHINESE WORK IN NEW YORK.

Rev. Huie Kin reports:

The work among the Chinese in New York City has been carried on along the same lines as in former years, except that the First Chinese Church was organized a year ago with 37 charter members. Since that time six more members have been added. Three of these were admitted on confession of their faith and were baptized. This makes the total membership 43.

Fifteen of our men are in universities and other institutions of learning. Six of our former members are actively engaged in Christian work as leaders in Chinese Sunday-schools of our denomination. The enrollment in the Sunday-school last year was 112 and the average attendance was 64.

The contributions for various purposes amounted to $1,510.

Educational classes are held four evenings in the week and afford individual instruction for the ambitious. They are taught English subjects and given higher social and religious ideals.

The reading room, which is open to all, is supplied with good English and Chinese books and newspapers.

The dormitory and four small rooms with the other privileges of the building make it an ideal place for living quarters and Christian fellowship.

Boy Scouts, under the direction of Mr. Ralph Chant, one of our elders, has a class in First Aid to the Injured and a class in Military Drill.

The social life is constantly improving. The equipment is such games as bowling, checkers, ping-pong and crokinole.

During the year many students passing through New York have enjoyed the privileges of this Christian Church and building—men who are destined to become the leaders in the affairs of our new China.

* Incomplete report

† The apparent decrease from 1910 is due to a reclassification by which those baptized, but not received as communicant members of the church until further instructed, are grouped as catechumens.

‡ The Missions of the Board in Japan carry on all their work in co-operation with the Church of Christ in Japan and in the interest of that Church; and in Brazil with and for the National Presbyterian Church of Brazil. All converts resulting from the work of the Missions are related to these Churches. Instead of any separate Mission statistics accordingly, one-half of the statistics of these Churches are presented. For four years the full figures from Japan have been used, hence the apparent decrease this year.

§ This total would be increased by 12,520 if Japan's and India's figures were on the same basis as in 1911.

REPORT OF THE TREASURER

OF THE

BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE U. S. A.

The two questions most commonly asked at the close of a fiscal year are, "Did your receipts equal your expenditures?" and "How did your figures for this year compare with those of last?" People want to know whether the obligations incurred from year to year are being met and they are interested in learning how fast the work is growing.

The total receipts and credits for the year amounted to.....	$2,877,844	96
The total appropriations and charges aggregated.....	2,782,768	64
Surplus for the year.....	$95,076	32

For the fourth successive year the Board of Foreign Missions has a surplus on the year's account, though this is the first in nine years that it has been enabled to free itself from a lingering deficit. This remainder-deficit of $38,654.74 is now entirely made up out of the year's surplus, and the balance, namely, $56,421.58, is by special action of the Board to be credited to the Educational Endowment Fund. This showing is the more gratifying inasmuch as the appropriations for the year reached the unprecedented total of $2,750,613.98. However, certain portions of this aggregated appropriation were quite exceptional, and the year will stand unique until the special gifts which made it so are duplicated. The larger portion of the Property and Building Fund, set aside out of the Kennedy bequest, passed through the appropriation account this year, and the special funds raised in the Women's Jubilee increased the appropriations by more than $200,000. An analysis of the appropriations is given below.

Appropriations made April 1, 1911, for the current year.	$1,461,771 02
Added appropriations for new missionaries and emergencies to March 31, 1912.	65,631 26
Special appropriations, covered by special gifts to March 31, 1912.	391,553 93
Appropriations for Property and Buildings out of Kennedy Bequest.	831,657 77
Total appropriations 1911-12.	$2,750,613 98

By eliminating the special funds, a comparison can be made with the appropriations of 1910-11 as follows:

	1910-11	1911-12
Original appropriations (made April 1 each year).	$1,284,120 56	$1,461,771 02
For emergencies and new missionaries.	154,000 00	65,631 26
Special appropriations (exclusive of Jubilee Funds).	170,000 00	194,003 55
	$1,608,120 56	$1,713,605 83

The year 1911-12 began with an increased appropriation of about $178,000, but there were $90,000 less of added appropriations during the year, so that the net increase in what may be termed the normal appropriations was approximately $90,000.

With regard to the second question, the total receipts from the "regular sources," which exclude income from securities and property, gains in exchange and similar items, show advances under every head, excepting in the receipts from churches.

We venture to print below a schedule of comparisons such as is presented to the Board month by month during the year.

Only the totals for the year are given, and are compared with corresponding totals for 1910-11.

STATEMENT OF TOTAL RECEIPTS, APRIL 1, 1911, TO MARCH 31, 1912, COMPARED WITH 1910-11.

	Churches.	Women's Boards.	Sabbath Schools.	Y. P. Societies.	Legacies.	Miscellaneous.	Total.
1911-12	$684,447.45	$596,488.39	$76,410.34	$40,451.60	$175,371.37	$276,017.64	$1,849,186.79
1910-11	693,555.33	378,718.64	70,617.52	39,253.46	159,507.38	228,308.71	1,569,961.04
Increase		217,769.75	5,792.82	1,198.14	15,863.99	47,708.93	279,225.75
Decrease	9,107.88

The receipts from churches show a decrease of some $9,100, but it is highly probable that some contributions which normally would have passed through church treasuries and increased their total, were this year given to the Women's Jubilee Fund. This, however, in no way detracts from the magnificent results shown by the Women's Boards, which increased their special gifts for the year $198,000, including the Jubilee funds, and their "regular" contributions some $19,000. It is interesting and significant that, counting their Jubilee Funds in the contributions for the year, the Women's Boards have come within $100,000 of giving as much as the churches have given altogether.

All the other regular sources of income show increases for the year, the total net increase from all these sources amounting to $279,225.75.

An increase each year is essential even for healthy maintenance, as the cost of the same work will increase from year to year, and an advance is absolutely required if we are worthily to meet the obligation upon us.

On this matter of a constant advance in the work, and its dependence upon gifts of money by the home Church, Prof. David S. Cairns writes as follows in the International Review of Missions:

"It is perfectly true that the progress of the world mission depends on something far beyond finance, that finance is only one factor in the progress of the Christian propaganda. But it is the most obvious factor, and one of real and sometimes determining moment. Who can measure the possibilities of Christian education to-day in China? It is not simply the mass influence that is involved in throwing the net wider and wider, it is the increased opportunity of reaching the exceptionally gifted mind which can influence its fellows. Keshub Chunder Sen in India and Sun Yat-sen in China are instances of this principle. It is impossible to measure the losses and evils that an arrest of the educational propaganda might cause. Yet this would be practically inevitable with any crippling of finance."

The three main Funds established by the Board out of the Kennedy bequest have been augmented by additional payments during the year on account of the Board's interest in the estate to the extent of $120,000 for each. They now stand as follows:

Property and Building Fund.....	$920,000 06
Evangelistic Expansion Fund.....	741,428 57
Educational Endowment Fund.....	792,528 57

The last-named includes in this total the $50,000 gift of Mr. Joseph N. Field. The net surplus for the year of $56,421.58 will now be added to it, bringing the total to $848,950.15.

It is a lasting satisfaction that this addition of some $56,000 can be made to the Educational Endowment Fund. This fund is designed to serve the purposes of education, especially higher education, in the foreign field, and the faster it can be built up, the more quickly and effectively will the Church be enabled to supply competent native teachers and pastors to the waiting nations. No other problem has more urgently pressed for attention during recent years than this one of developing an educated native ministry, and the Board in 1911 established this Educational Fund, using some $600,000 of the Kennedy bequest as a nucleus.

It is the hope of the Board that the Fund will grow rapidly toward the $5,000,000 mark, which it set originally for the combined Educational Equipment and Endowment Fund. A special pamphlet describing this Fund and its purposes in detail may be had upon request.

The investment securities owned by the Board have increased $161,916.13. These cover $8,508.08 in new Funds established for specific purposes, and $9,657.66 of additional Permanent Endowment Funds. Special Gift Agreements have increased $34,569.78, the total now in force aggregating $274,072.34.

The officers of the Board will always be glad to enter into correspondence with friends with respect to Endowment Funds for any special work on the field, or in the matter of Special Gift Agreements under which a fixed rate is paid annually to donors, during a designated period.

The Treasurer would call especial attention to the carefully prepared Schedules in the following pages: The Balance Sheet will be found as Schedule 1.

Schedule 2 shows Receipts and Disbursements by items.

Schedule 3 gives an itemized list of appropriations for the various fields.

Schedule 4 gives these appropriations by classes. These classes define the different kinds of work prosecuted on the field.

Schedule 5 is an itemized analysis of disbursements by the New York office, including those for Administration.

Schedules 6 and 7 show the Investment Securities held by the Board.

Schedule 8 gives the results of the operation of the Presbyterian Building.

Schedules 9 and 10 show the Endowment Funds held by the Board.

Schedule 11 shows the gifts made toward the erection of the Presbyterian Building, on which the Board is still paying an annual rate of 4 per cent.

Receipts and Disbursements for the work for the past fifteen years are to be found in Schedules 12 and 13.

Schedule 14 is made up of Receipts and Disbursements in the form requested by the Committee of the Assembly.

Certain comparisons of contributions from Church organizations will be found in Schedules 15, 16 and 17.

Schedule 18 shows what proportion of the contributions came in during the four respective quarters of the year.

Following these lists will be found totals of contributions to the work of the Board from the various church sources arranged by Synods and Presbyteries. Miscellaneous Gifts, including legacies received, are listed separately.

The audit of the Board's accounts for the year has been made by the firm of Patterson, Teele & Dennis, of New York, and a copy of their certificate will be found on a succeeding page.

Treasurer.

30 BROAD ST., NEW YORK, April 24, 1912.

WM. E. STIGER, ESQ., Chairman Finance Committee,
Board of Foreign Missions, New York.

SIR :—

We have examined the accounts and vouchers of the Treasurer of your Board for the year ending March 31, 1912.

The cash and securities have been verified, either by actual count or evidence of deposit, and found in accord with the book records.

We have verified the total receipts for the year, as shown by the Counterfoil Receipt books, and have ascertained that all of the moneys shown therein have been properly accounted for.

The statements of disbursements by Field Treasurers for the fiscal year just closed have not been received in New York at this date, consequently the surplus shown by the Balance Sheet is subject to change, according as the expenditures have been more or less than the appropriations for the past year.

We have verified the Balance Sheet herewith with the books and accounts, and, subject to the statement concerning the Field Treasurers' Reports for the fiscal year, the Balance Sheet, in our opinion, presents the correct financial condition of the Board.

Respectfully submitted,

PATTERSON, TEELE & DENNIS,
